being are officer of this court, would willingly defy its authority, or treat it with contempt; and the swern statement, submitted to-day for the consideration of the court, proves that we did not take an incorrect view of the matter. He has evidently acted under a mistaken opinion of duty. He alleges that the returns not having, is some way, the formal certificate of the prothonoutry, he felt called upon, under his onth of office, not to count a return. Now, the whole difficulty in this case has arisen from a mistake upon the part of the return judges themselves, including all those who refused to count the wote; and, in disposing of this motion, I think I can satisfactorily show it, even to their own comprehension.

The alternative writ of mandamus here issued recited the yarious acts of Assembly regulatins the military law. THE NAVY YARD-LAUNCH OF THE MIAMI. The event at the navy yard on Saturday was the launch of the Migmi.

At 11 o'clock the crowd of visitors began to accumulate, though the brisk norther that was blowing would have been byt to send many home, were it not that the large ship-house protected them. As it was, the immense "front door" being necessarily open, there was much complaint of cold. The north, or rather northeast wint, however, was useful in hurrying up the tide.

At twenty-five minutes past one, the last plank having here cut, the noble vessel slid gracefully into her appropriate element, amid the cheers of the immense multitude which had congregated. As the bow struck the water she was christened by Miss Turner, the daughter of the commandant of the yard. This young miss was neatly and appropriately attired, and performed the duty assigned her with a half-like grace of manner. The sleek of the vessel was black with people, as were the surrounding docks. The steamer proceeded about midway into the stream, but was soon brought to a stand by her anchor.

The launch was very successful, and as the vessel glided into the water cheer upon there went up from the assembled multitude, as also from the men on the receiving ship lying in the stream, the crew of which had manned the rigging. The cheering was answered by the persons on board the Miami, (numbering some eight hundred ladies and gentlemen.) The vossel was afterwards hauled alongside the sectional dock, where the passengers discinnically in the stream that the passengers discinnically in the warm is 220 feet long 32 fast hour and 17 fast. the various acts of Assembly regulating the military law. In that writ of mandamus it was alleged that certain In that writ of mandamus it was alleged that certain returns, which are enumerated by name, had been duly delivered to the Return Judges, under the hand and seal of the prothomotary. All these gentlemen, including Mr. Simpson, instead of alleging that they, upon their face, were not company returns—instead, in their answer, declaring that they had privileges which could not be violated, or that they acted in a judicial capacity, which I do not believe, they came into this court and by answer filed, in point of law, admitted the truth of every fact stared in the writ. Instead of denying the facts, they admitted them all, saying "we have not refused to count the votes."

In point of law, and upon my record they admitted that have not refused to count the votes."

In point of law, and upon my record they admitted that every paper before them, and specified in the writ wirregularly before them, and with that admission staring them in the face, how was it possible to do otherwise than to command them to count?

Mr. Simpson has evidently labored under this mistake, and I am willing to believe that in a moment of excitement he made the return which he did to this court. It was undoubtedly in contempt of the court, but to-day he declares he is willing to ablie the decision of the court, and in admitted he swears that to the authority of the court he did not intend to be in contempt, and he has fully purged himself of any contempt by signing the return before the court.

The motion for an attachment is discharged. alongside the sectional dock, where the passengers disminiated, no action twherever having happened.

The Miami is 220 feet long, 33 feet bonn, and 12 fast hold. It is about 550 tons burden. It is built like our ferry boats, with a rudder at each end. The two ends correspond so exactly that the same moulds were used for both. It is not yet known what the armament of the vessel will be, though preparations are being made for two large pivot guns aft, which will have a very will sweep. Even the stanchions supporting the deck rail will be moveable, so that in time of action the perpendicular sweep from the deck upward will be unembarrassed. The ship will be handed into Reed-street wharf for the purpose of receiving her machinery.

The arrival of shell from the various foundries of the State still continues.

The machinery of the Miami has been constructed by Messrs. Metrick and Sons, and is now ready to go on board. It consists of one inclined engine, forty-four inches in diameter and seven feet stroke of piston, driving padde-wheels on the overhung principle, twonty-two feet in diameter, nine feet wide. The boilers are two in number, having a large amount of surface, and a "hlow-er" is provided to increase the draught. The engine has a Sewall's surface condenser. Everything connected therewith is of the most massive and substantial description, the object being to obtain steamers which will be always reliable, and require but little repairing. The contract for this work was only given out towards the latter end of August, and although an entirely new set of patterns had to be made, it is now all ready, and will be completed on board within thirty days from this time.

"The great feature of the march through Philadelphia was the dinner prepared for the regiment at the refreshment saloons. When we reached that point, the regiment was divided, the right wing marching down to the saloon at the foot of Washington street, while the left wing passed into Otsego street, and was entertained at the Cooper Shop, proper; the field and staff, and band, accompanying the right wing. About two hundred and fifty men were seated at the tables at one time, and were generously served—good coffee, roast beef, bread and butter, sweet potatoes, cold-shaugh, and many other little delicacies to be found on a well-served table. Both officers and men were waited upon with great politeness by the ladies and gentlemen conducting this patriotic establishment. They marched through the city to the foot of Washington street, where they were handsomely entertained by the Refreshment Committee. They subse rained by the Refreshment Committee They subsequently proceeded southward by the Battimore railroad. They did not get off from the depot until half-past six o'clock. The regiment presented a very soldierly appear ance. The men were well uniformed, and a large proportion of them were supplied with overcoats. But few of the companies were furnished with muskets. They will receive their arms on their arrival at Washington. They carried with them the handsome flag presented by Gov. Curlin on Tuesday last. The men of the Ninety-seventh are generally farmers and mechanics, who belong to West Chester and its neighborhood. They are linedy-looking men, who look like service.

The flow of men and munitions of war from the North Tracts for the Soldiers.—Vesterday afternoon a tract meeting, under the auspices of the Philadelphia Conference Tract Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was held at National Hall. The attendance was fair, and the meeting was presided over by Bishop Scott. The proceedings were opened with singing and prayer by the Rev. G. D. Carrow, pastor of the Whartonstreet Methodist Episcopal Church.
Rev. John F. Chaplain, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, was introduced and made a short address. He alluded to the urgest necessity of distribeting tracts and other reading matter among the soldiers to the banks of the Potomac continues to try the enpacity of the railread route. He thought we should not wait for an order or until a demand was made on us for tracts, but we Late on Saturday evening the Sixty-ninth Regiment of New York, Colonel Joseph C. Pinckney, passed through the city for Washington. The regiment numbers 800 men, equipped in the regulation dress, and armed with and not wait until we were asked to do so. Tracts were no bunden to the soldier and can be easily carried, and are the very best gifts we can select. They cheer the heart of the soldier at all times, whether on duty or lying in camp, and the goed that may thus be accomplished cunnot be realized.

Rev. L. C. Maflack, chapjain of the Eighth Regiment Himois Gavalry, was next introduced. He had come to this city for the express purpose of securing suttable reading matter for the soldiers who had been placed in his charge. He had already succeeded in procuring some, and he was auxious to get back to the camp—his home—in order that he might at once distribute them. He thought that soldiers were not mere munitions of war, and should be properly cared for spiritually as well as bodily. He knew many who were high in command, and who regarded this tract distribution as a humbug and a misance. All these men want of the soldier is to study tactics and all that relates to their duties. In one regiment, he knew where they had not had any public worship for over five months. Such men as these could never fight their country's battles. There is no man who proves himself a better soldier than he who serves fod. When the spoaken had left Hilinois, where he had resided for a number of years, to go forth with his regiment, he had a su all number of books and tracts placed in his hands for the soldiers, about 1,200 in number He saw he had not one book or tract for each man, and he appointed a librarian in each company, and gave to him a few books, with instructions to see that every man read them. His small stock of books thus wont the rounds of the whole regiment, and, when all had read them, they were completely worn out from use. On last Sabbath, he told the men he was coming to Philadelphia for the purpose of securing for them tracts, &c. This samouncement was received with joy, and he knew his appearance among them would be haited with dolight. He could not see why camp life should be damicralizing, if all Christian men would ARRIVAL OF CALIFORNIA REGULARS.—At eleven o'clock on Saturday morning, a portion of the Third artiller, and Sixch infantry, United States army, arrived in this city from New York, en route for Washington. THE EFFICIENCY OF THE RIVER AND HARBOR POLICE.—The value of the River and Harbor Police has long since been appreciated by our merchants and others whose places of business are on Delaware avenue. The whose places of distincts are on Delaware avenue. The emount of plunder annually taken from our wharves be-fore the organization of this body was really astonishing. Before their existence our river front was visited nightly by as dangerons and daring a race of water thieves, or, as called by the police, "wharf rais," as was ever known. They carried off boxes, barrels, and stores from the wharves cometimes in broad daylight, in boats and carts, with or without countyance on the part of the great with or without connivance on the part of the crew or aptain. CONVICTION OF AN ADROIT FORGER AND SWINDLER.—A jury in the Quarter Sessions convicted George Cremer, alias John Hart, alias John H. Hart, alias Henry Donnell, alias Beaumais, of a charge of Swindler.—A jury in the Quarter Sessions convicted George Cremer, alias John Hart, alias John H. Hart, alias Henry Donnell, alias Beaumais, of a charge of forgery. The pulsoner was formerly in business at the Island of Barbadoes, and there became thoroughly acquainted with banking in all its details, and his operations in this city show him to be one of the most dangerous men in the country. His plan of endeavoring to swindle by means of forged bills of exchange, was a most ingenious one. He would write letters in a French or German style of handwriting, addressed to parties in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Portland, Me., enclosing the first and second of bills of exchange, and directing the party that the third would reach their post office, addressed to a certain party, and requesting them to take it out and negotiate the enclosed bill. This letter, containing the third of the bill of exchange, would be marked "ship letter," and bear every appearance of being a letter of that description. Yet when all these letters, addressed to different cities, and purporting to come from St. Thomas and other places, were compared together in court, they proved to have been written by the same party, and this party was proven to be the defendant, by a comparison with papers found in his possession at the time of his arrest. In order to get his letter marked "ship," he would go to the postmaster and inform him that it had been received by ship, but that the captain ascertaining that it was against the laws of the United States to convey letters except through the post office, he therefore proposed to mail it regularly. It was then marked "ship letter," and postmarked. An extensive banking house in New Vork came near being swindled, and the accused would have succeeded in obtaining several thousand dollars had it not been for the efforts of Messrs. Franklin, Taggart, and George H. Smith, of the detective police force of this city. These officers traced the whole scheme, and succeeded in getting the testimony to convi with or without connivance on the part of the crew or captain. They gittled silently alongside of vessels in the flusk of the evening, or at night, to receive bars full of poffee, or tea or sugar—anything fraudulently dropped porrebard or lowered to them. They entered vessels and purioined all they could lay their hands upon. They been and casks of spirits, wine, moiasses, &c., depleting the contents into vessels of their own in boats below, insomuch that when the stevedores or laborers came to remove the said casks they found their work mexpectedly lightened. They cut vessels adrift and then pillaged them. They stole chains, cordage, timber, iron, lead, copper, boats, stores, goods of all kinds—nothing being foo bot, and very little too heavy for them.

To war against, and if possible extirpate this horde of imphibious rascality, the harbor police was instituted in last February. It consists of ten men and one lieutenant, Benj, Edgar—all of whom are old scaunen—and were selected with care from among about one hundred applicants. They have two fleet sailing boats, 22 feet in length, each of which is manned by five men, including a coxwam. The coxwams are William Grimes and Benjamin Meyers, who were selected from among he picked ten as the ones best qualified for the posts. The station house of the river police is at Noble-street wharf. The men are divided into two squads of five men seach. The first squad go out at 6 o'clock in the evening, and return to the station at midnight, when the other party take their boat and row up and down the river front. They gererally go up the river about two miles above Richanond, and as far down as the Point House. During the atternoon one squad patrols along the Delaware avenue. The river police not only prevent crime and apprehend criminals, but also recover a wast amount of property adrift or afloat. They save sires by rescuing recepte who have fallen into the water by accident, or whe endeavor to commit suicide, and re-DEATH OF EX-JUDGE SUTHERLAND.—Mr. Joel B. Sutherland, a well-known citizen of Philadelphia, died at his residence, in West Fine street, on Friday night, in the screenieth year of his age. The deceased was brought up to the medical profession, but many years ago he dropped the practice of medicine to enter into an active political life. He was a prominent member of the Jackson party in the old district of Southwark, and he represented the First district in Congress from 1827 to 1837. He was a member of the State Legislature at the time Pesident Jackson velocal the bill to recharter the Bank of the United States, and Dr. Sutherland incurred the indignation of his party, at that time, by voting for the recharter of the bank as a State institution. The deceased was at one period an associate judge in the Court of Common Pleas, and he also held the position of resident physician at the Lazaretto He took part in the war of 1812; and, of late years, be has been active in his efforts to obtain a substantial recognition from the Federal Government of the services rendered by the soldiers who fought in what he termed "the second war of independence." DEATH OF EX-JUDGE SUTHERLAND. - Mr. over drowned bodies and hand them over to the cor The operations of this useful branch of our police force fire somewhat returnled, owing to their not being pro-wided with all that is requisite. The boats are not full wided with all that is requisite. The boats are not fully equipped, numerous ropes, hooks, etc., being wanted. The building of a boat house has been entirely neglected. The station house is very inconvenient, having no cells, and prisoners sometimes have to be taken a great distance. Until recently there were no beds in the station, those who were not on duty being compelled to use the hard benches when sleeping. The force of men is also matirely too small; it, at least, should be double. Although the establishment of a river police has been a great public benefit, yet the matter of still further projecting the interests of our business community by a repreganisation of this valuable body is deserving of early attention. ENORMOUS EXPORT OF BREADSTUFFS.—The exportation of grain to the Old World, from this and other Eastern ports, continues to be enormous, and so long as the cry of craving millions comes across the Atlantic this outgoing stream of relief must flow on. We have under our control the reliable granary of the world, and to us the nations, in the hour of their extremity, must pay tribute. They may need our cotton, but they mays have our grain.

On this subject the Commercial List says: "The foreign demand for our breadstuffs is so enormous that doubts are beginning to be entertained in regard to our ability to furnish sufficient transport between the West and the seaboard. There remains barely a month of canal mayigation, and the great lines of railway are already taxed to their full capacity. The latest advices from the Western centres for the shipment of grain show a decline in prices, in consequence of a diminution of the facilities for transit." Military Appointments.—We understand that Gov. Curtin has appointed the following officers for the first regiment in the Mountain Brigade, now in Gamp Crossman: Wm. G. Murray, Colonel; T. C. An Astronomical Discovery .- An import-AN ASTRONOMICAL DISCOVERY.—An important astronomical discovery has just been announced, and Is attraceling the attention of our city astronomers. It beens to be established that there is at least one ring of meteoric formations surrounding the sun, which has a regular revolution, and that the annual meteoric display in August of each year is occasioned by the earth passing through this ring, the contact of its formations with our atmosphere rendering the combustion of the meteors wished. According to Professor Nowton, the inclination of the ring to the celiptic has been measured, and so far fixed as to render the currence cannot belong to the same known annual recurrence cannot belong to the same tors in this city.

The new bridge just completed is rather handsomely adorned at each end. An occasional window or skyaxed as to render at corrum that the meteors of order-known annual recurrence cannot belong to the same ring. Whether other rings exist or not remains to be shown, but this for the present may be regarded as as-certained, that a meteoric ring, with an inclination of Trum 84 to 96 degrees to the ecliptic, and with a periodic sime of 281 days, actually forms an important part of the solar system; that the world passes through this ring nanually in August, and is several days in passing from side to side, so that its thickness is five to ten millions of Nevertheless, it is a very creditable structure, and has every appearance of permanence and durability. The occasion was one of interest, and the attendance quite large—the greater portion of the malience consisting of females. The annual report of the Board of Managers was read by Mir. James Mi. The document gave a clear and gratifying exhibit of the success which had crowned the exertions of the organization in distributing copies of its publications, especially among the volunteers. After the greading of the report, which was adopted, an able report was preached by the Rev. G. D. Cummins, D. D., of Baldimore. His address was pertinent to the occasion, and we regret that we have not space to give a sketch of it. Its zealous and cloquent character was evidenced by the profound attention with which it was listened to throughout. The stoamer Aleck Scott went down the river today with a flag of truce, carrying General Grant and staff. It was stopped seven miles above Co-lumbus by the steamer Parter, broing on board Generals Polk, Pillow, Cheatham and McCowan. The Scott carried ninety-nine prisoners taken in the recent battle. Those held by the enemy were sent up last night. Less than a dozen remain in their possession. Colonel Dougherty is yet at Columbus, doing well. He will be exchanged when Major McClerkin, of the Seventh Iowa, is also Major McClerkin, or the Service Solving better, and it is thought may recover.

The meeting between the flag of truce party was very friendly, but as an exchange of newspapers had been forbidden more of theirs were to be had.

The efficers stated they expected an attack soon, and should they not receive it, would oblige us to act on the defensive. They also stated that the Union party in Tennessee were growing bolder in their opposition; burning bridges to prevent the transportation of Confederate troops. They said the Lincolnites would be attended to, and every one in Tennessee hung. Tennessee hung.
