ladies of Philagephia to the sames, comments and use of sick solilers.

14 bed comforts, 5 bed quilts, 9 flannel bed gowns, 18
Canton flannel bed gowns, 24 calico wrappers linad with Canton flannel and wadded, 44 pairs knit woollen socks, 12 pairs carpet slippers, 14 pairs Canton flannel drawers, 4 pillous, 6 pairs pillow cases, 14 sheets, 10 dozen pocket handkerchiefs, 2 dozon towels, 6 pounds cocoa, 12 pounds farins, 12 pounds corn starch, 5 pounds barley, 6 soft cushions, 6 hottles wine, 5 doz jars and cans of fruit, jetties and wickles. As Darby is mostly settled by Quakers whose opposition to war is well known, this handsome gift speaks well for their proverbial care for the sufferings of those "who suffer with them." "who suffer with them."

Denors of socks.—Miss S. Ganet, 4 pairs; Miss H. Ash, 2 pairs, Miss M. Powell, 3 pairs; Mrs. Govett, 1 pair; Miss H. Oakford, 2 pairs; the Misses Lloyd, 6 pairs; Mrs. P. Lloyd, 3 pairs; Mrs. J. D. A DISGRACEFUL SCENE.—A party of small hops, whose ages range from eleven to seventeen years, assembled in a lot at Seventh and Mifflin streets on Sunday afternoon, and indulged in a riot, during which pisols, shot-gams, and knives were freely used. One youth received a severe cut upon the temple, from which the blood fto red pretty freely. He was taken to a neighboring drug store, and had his wound dressed. Another lad was cut in the back with a knife. Nobody was shot, owing to the timely interference of the First-ward police. About eleven of the participants in the fight were arrested and held to bail by Alderman Lentz, SHOCKING ACCIDENT .- Matthew Robinson, an old resident of the district of Northern Liberties, was run over recently by a train of cars which was being run into a coal yard on Front street, below Laurel. He was dragged into the yard, and precipitated into the soal pit beneath the track. He was picked up almost immediately, but life was extinct.

Fire in Montgomery County.—On last Saturday afternoon a barn on the line of the Reading Tailroad, a short distance helow Norristown, was totally destroyed by fire. A large quantity of threshed grain and two horses perished in the flames. Accident .- Yesterday afternoon a man, named Daniel O'Connell, fell down the hatchway at Mr. Van Brant's ice-house, on Front street, above Race, and broke his neck. He fell a distance of about twenty feet. The deceased was aged about 35 years, and leaves a wife and four children.

The War and the Slave.

[For The Press.] The Press, of November 4, contains an article recommending an export duty on cotton to pay the expenses of the war; but as there can be no cotton with free blacks, the system of labor at the South must not be interfered with by the course of the war, especially as there is evidence that there is a sufficient number of loyal Southerners to keep the present slave force at their work.

But whilst the President is conservative in regard to the property of loyal citizens, there is a party at work trying to Abolitionize both the Government and the conservative North, and to black republicanize the Republicans, under the pretence that the war between the Federalists and Confede. rates must "necessarily" result in the so-called freedom of the blacks. Particolored Abolition meetings have been cunningly discontinued, lest they should attract the attention of an indignant public-the Abolitionists and their abettors contenting themselves with tressonable sermons and anti-Constitution attacks in their journals; and their power in New England and New York may be judged from the fact that, whilst constructive anti-Union editors are imprisoned and their journuls suspended, the Government has not felt strong enough to molest papers like the Independent, por writers who have publicly proclaimed their comity Secessionists. Tremont was rebuked for his anti-slavery proclamation, and justly, since he had no right to discriminate between property confiscated; nor should a Virginian Secessionist have been permitted to manumit his contrabands after their escape, unless, indeed, he were allowed to spike an escaped batdery of rided cannon.

When freed, the Southern blacks make their way to the border free States, where they seldom work in the fields, or anywhere else, and this is so universally the fact that means have been taken to abate the evil. Indiana and Illinois will not give them admission, and Pennsylvania has disfranchised them, declaring that they are not citizens. Massachusetts doubtless thinks this barbarous; but Massachusetts has very few blacks, and these are not increasing.

With their experience of the value of a black population, the people of Pennsylvania will hardly consent, under any contingency, to a manumissio which would thrust upon them the greater part of the 490,000 blacks of Virginia alone! No, the South are responsible for this population, and as they enjoy (?) its benefits, they should submit to its disadvantages, and be required to keep it within the bounds of Dixie. America is the white man's country, as shown by the significant action of the people in the Kansas questions. Any one may ascertain this by asking the "bone and sinew" of all parties; for with them the Kansas question was not "Free or Slave?" but "White or Black?" Some years ago an Abolition hall was destroyed in Philadelphia, and at the period that the State was most excited on the subject of the present war, a party of blacks was expelled from Marietta, their church burned, and an Abolitionist (real or supposed) threatened with hanging for opposing such summary proceedings. This is, of course, all wrong, because the native blacks of a place should be protected, but it shows the feelings of the mass of the white population. We have seen the intensity of the sentinent "America for Americans," but a stronger and somewhat kindred sentiment will exhibit itself with events—namely, "America for White Men!"

The cause is obvious. The blacks are not men in the sense that the whites are men. They start with twelve cubic inches less of brain than the white average; they were in contact with the white civilization of the Egyptians when our European ancestors were savages clothed in skins; they have not improved in three thousand years; they have not improved in three thousand years; they have never made a sincle discovery to aid civilization; never made a single discovery to aid civilization; and when left to themselves they relapse toward barbarism. In fact, were the entire white race ex-terminated in the Southern States, the blacks would oe very much worse off in twenty years than they are now; there would be no crops; and the build-ings would go to destruction, because the blacks would be too worthless to renew a decayed roof. These facts, though suppressed by the mock phi-fanthropists of Boston, are becoming known to the people of the border free States, who have a right to be consulted on a question of such importance. people of the border tree States, who have a right to be consulted on a question of such importance to their interests. In California, the Chiness have been disfranchised, but probably without exciting the indignation of a single Bostonian.

We do not offer a single excuse for the folly and wickedness of Secession. This communication is strictly Northern, and intended to aid in protecting the North from the colored nuisance of the South, and from any future attempt to make Pennsylvania and from any future attempt to make Pennsylvania a common sewer for the dregs of their sombre in stitution.

SMINTHEUS.

McClellan and Beauregard in Mexico.

Doing guard duty on one of these clear frosty nights is what I call a "big thing." Standing before a huge fire, whose glimmering rays shoot into the dense pine forest which surrounds you, as if they, too, had partaken of the spirit of vigilance, and were searching for some hidden foe, one's mind naturally is affected, and every shadow and tree has an association which awakens the soldier to a full appreciation of his sentined duties. But such a night as hast night—dark, dreary, wet, and disagreeable in the extreme—has an entirely different effect, and we clustered around the fire, piled high with Scensh rails, which at times seemed to exert its best light and most genial rays to spread humor and life among those who stood smoking around it. Then, as if exasperated at the failure, it would splutter and crack, contending furiously with every drop of rain, and hiss out a strong reproof at the element which was making the sentinels so uncom-McClellan and Beauregard in Mexico. drop of rain, and hiss out a strong reproof at the element which was making the sentinels so uncomfortable. But the guard must be vigilantly maintained through the night, and we dare not sleep; for you must know, Mr. Editor, that sleep courts the soldier's eyelids as sweetly under the dropping rain as it does in his tent, if, perchance, he has a gum blanket for a bed, and his knapsack for a pillow.

I Dropped a same had the

I proposed a song, but the only music that could be raised was made; by a little corporal, who doled out in a most melancholy style,

"Somedays must be dark and dreary."

This seemed to be the only song that the corporal knew, and the enly one of that kind which we wanted to hear. Under these auspices, I proposed a story, and the sergeant of the guard, an old Mexican soldier, "up and told" the following story, which I quote, as nearly as I can recollect, in his own words:

plied in the affirmative, thanking the captain for his confidence. Our company was, at that time, detached from its regiment, and was doing special duty at General Saott's headquarters. In the discharge of that duty, I had made a point of being specially attentive, and had thereby gained the confidence of our captain, and once or twice was commended by old "Fuss and Feathers" himself. I brushed up my old clothes, and brightened my shoes and brass plates in the neatest unanner Possibrushed up my old clothes, and brightened my shoes and brass plates in the neatest manner possi-ble that evening, and presented myself to the Ad-jutant General for instructions. I found that the council about to meet for the consideration of Gen.

ties, the whole plan developed, so that all seemed to understand. But presently a plan was discovered, something was wrong, and I saw by the perplexed look of those around the table that a very serious mietake had been made, but from what cause, my knowledge of military affairs did not enable me to judge. A dispute arose between some colonel and the engineer-in-chief, in regard to the position and strength of some battery, and the topography of the surrounding country. The colonel said that frequent reconnoissance of the ground, from the fact of his being encamped sear the place in question, led him, even in direct epposition to the chart of the engineer, to protest against its truthfulness, and he would urge upon the general to make himself sure of the condition of affairs before he fully completed his plan. But this would not do; it was necessary that very important and vigorous movements should take place upon that very section of the defence, and without a correct knowledge of the place no action could be carried on with safety or certainty. It seemed, in fact, to be a main point, at which positive success would have to fall to the American forces. Finally, the colonel said that there was a young lieutenant in his regiment who had a correct chart of the defences, and the map of the demesne thereto adjaties, the whole plan developed, so that all seemed fine regiment who had a correct enartor the defences, and the map of the demeans thereto adjacent. The engineer-in-chief successingly said, "Very wet!, sir, you had better send for your authority, and let us see this great map." The general nodded his approval, and the colonel gave me the name and address of the lieutenant. The encampment and address of the lieutenant. The encampment was not very far away, and I mounted my horse and rode off in haste to the regimental headquarters, and found the very man I was in search of in the colonel's tent, with draughting paper on a table before him, and sketches of the city and its surroundings scattered everywhere. I handed him the note, which he read and hastily tore up, asking me if I could wait until he could borrow a horse. I told him I could, but had not long to wait, for he came hack in a few moments, and carefully wrapping up back in a few moments, and carefully wrapping up his surveys, he placed them in a long tin case, and, mounting, prepared to follow me. On the way he conversed with so much earnestness, and in such a onversed with so inuce earnestness, and in such a mild, interesting manner, that I felt encouraged to talk and chat, contrary to my usual practice when on horseback. He informed me that he was a graduate of West Point, and that he had there fallen so much in love with the science of geometry that so much in love with the science of geometry that he had made it an almost constant study, and that now he found it very interesting, in the interval of duty, to make sketches and surveys of the city.

When we arrived at the general's quartersagain, the licutenant was introduced, and, at his colonel's request, produced his charts. The party were astonished at their finish and fine execution, and when, after examination, they were found to be perfectly correct, General Scott came forward, and grasping the young licutenant by the hand, personally complimented him on his skill, and thanked him for his efficiency. The chief on sheer, somegrashing the young inductional by the nata, personally complimented him on his skill, and thanked him for his efficiency. The chief engineer, somewhat chagrined at this display of learning on the part of his young rival, sneeringly said: "General, perhaps this young man has some plan by which this part of the defences may be attacked." Upon inquiry, it was found that he had a plan, which was produced with some degree of reluctance and laid before the assembly. It was read and criticised, and corrected, and finally, to make a long story short, adopted with some amendments by the councit. This displeased the engineer, who seemed to think that the lieutenant, though but a very few years his junior, had no right to display so much knowledge of a science which did not belong to his branch of the service.

"I need not tell you," continued the corporal,

"I need not tell you," continued the corporal,
"that, in the taking of Mexico a few days after, the plan offered by this lieutenant was of signal service, and that he was breveted soon afterwards." wice, and that he was breveted soon afterwards."

Here the story ended, and the sergeant relapsed into his "pipe and silence." We all looked for a while into the fire, when one of the sentinels asked him what the name of this young licutenant was. He slowly puffed the smoke from his mouth, and answered: "I believe it was George-George B. McCLEL.

"And who was that engineer?"
"I believe his name was George, too—George T. BEAUREGARD And we all smoked and looked into the fire, until the sentinel called out—brushed up my old clothes, and brightened my shoes and brass plates in the neatest manner possible that evening, and presented myself to the Adjutant General for instructions. I found that the council about to meet for the consideration of Gen. Scott's plans for taking the city, was to be composed of all the colonels in the division, and that my duty would be to go citands, and attend to bringing charts, paper, or whatever might be required.

Well, the council met, and I was at my post. It was the finest body of military men I had ever seen together, and when they assembled around that table, and the old general stood towering high above the rest, I could not help but admire him more than ever. After the customary salutation and organifation, they sat down in regard to rank, beginning with General Wool, and succeeding each other in Seats, as seniority of rank gave them privilege. It was no time for delay, and the General spoke rapidly and with earnestness, occasionally referring to some one on the right or left for information or corroboration. Thus carefully and explicitly were the movements and marches, the sallies, and sor-

CITY ITEMS.

"Lo, THE POOR INDIAN!"-Mr. John Beeon, the indefatigable Indian missionary, advertises in nation Concerts," to be given at National Hall, Market street, above Twelfth, on the five remaining evenings of this week. The entertainment given there last evening—a fair specimen of the succeeding ones—was of a highly interesting and entertaining character, and was largely attended by people interested in the humane object in behalf of which these concerts are given. The admission is but twenty-five cents, and in no way can a quarter be spent in a better cause, or with more present enjoyment. These concerts, consisting, as they do, of songs and recitations, we confess, have greatly exceeded our expecta-LAROQUA, the Indian songstress, sang excodingly well to a very enthusiastic audience, last evening, at National Hall. By request, a number of pieces will be repeated this evening. MR. A. L. VANSANT'S FINE CONFECTIONERS RUTABLISHMENT has been removed from Tenth and oor below Ninth, under the Continental Hotel. Mr. portant peculiarities: His drying-rooms are heated by the introduction of hot air, avoiding entirely the ingress of dust, and he uses only the purest loaf sugars in manufacturing. His beautiful new store, stocked with the choicest confections and fruits, is attracting much at LIDIES' FANCY FURS .- Messrs. Chas. Oakford & Son, under the Continental Hotel, are now offering a superb variety of Ladies' Furs at unusually low orices; also, Children's Hats, fine Ladies' Shoes. Gents Furnishing Goods, and Military Articles, all of their own manufacture or importation. It is difficult which mos to commend—the elegance and style of Oakfords' goods, or the moderate prices at which they sell.

Lyons, it is understood, has addressed a note to Mr. blishment is now selling off at cost, and below cost, to cognition in his letter of the superior elegance and durability of the garments for soldiers and civilians made at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth. We can survive the slight, and appreciate a good thing without the aid of John Bull's plenipotentiary. GOOD PROVERBS .- He is a worthless fellow who lives only for himself. who nace only for himself.

Orders have been received to fit the Light Vessel Relief, at Woods Hole, immediately for service at "Martin's Industry," off the entrance of Port Royal, SC. The light vessel formerly stationed there was removed some months since, and after the recent battle at Port Royal the Secessionists at Beaufort, where she was lyiog, burned her. The Relief will be ready for sea on Monday, and will be towed to her station by a Government stemmer.

SPECIAL NOTICES. SPECIAL ATTENTION IS CALLED to the unprecedented inducements offered to those about purchasing Pianos and Melodeons. Large temporary reductions being made to me by the manufac-turers in consequence of reduced wages, rent of manufactory, and all that goes to make up the cost of production, the full benefit is proffered to buyers, and a call must satisfy all that now is the time.
