The families of these children of adversity, although residing at the South, have been glad, it seems, to avail them-selves of the superior advantages which these univalled institutions afford, and they remain within their walls, to this day, the recipients of their many and unspeaka-ble benefits. But, owing to the rebellion, they have not been visited by their relatives and friends during more than half a year. In not a few instances they have lan-guished for weeks upon beds of sickness, and have died, and been conveyed to their last resting place, dependent for every comfort of life, and a decent burial, on stran-gers, whilst their unnatural and ungrateful relatives at home have been foment ing selfition and rebellion ! On account of the blockade of the mails, the officers of these charitable institutions have also failed to receive from their Southern "patrons" any remittances since then, and the singular anomaly is presented, that whilst they of the South are "breathing threatening and slaughter" against us of the North, we are actually hav-ing in charge bundreds of their afflucted ones, feeding, nursing, and edu-ating them, without any assurance that we shall ever be paid for our trouble and expense in any other currency than bulles almed at our destruction ! Could any fact serve more forcibly than this to demon-strate that Secession is both an egregious folly and a stu-pendous crime ? Before seeking, at the cannon's mouth, to establish a separate share Conferency, the people of the South ought to have thought of building asylums for their insane and idiotic, their blind and mute. That would be a wark on which the blessing of the Go of love could with propriety he invoked. Alas! thou fallen and misguided South ! Witt thou not learnt vision until t o examine out made public exhibitions of their producency, they had disciplinary or campaigning caumps, and even created caups whilst they were marching and en-treaching themselves for a single night.
