(Continued from first page.) Further Particulars of the Battle at Mun-A correspondent of the Louisville Democrat, writing from Munfordsville, under date of Decem-You have, ere this, been informed of the battle at Green river yesterday afternoon, between the rebels and a portion of Colonel Willich's command, under Lieutenant Colonel Von Trombeia. The rebels, ber 18, says: Lieutenant Colonel Von Trombeia. The rebels, according to the admitted statement of a flag of truce, which came in to day to bury their dend, say that they had fifteen hundred cavalry, a full regiment of infantry, and a battery of four pieces of Our forces, under Lieutenant Colonel Von Trom-beia, numbered about five hundred; yet, notwith-standing this great preponderance in favor of the rebels, they were completely whipped, and retired

During the engagement, a charge was made by the rebels upon a portion of three companies in Colonel Willich's command, which was severe. In this charge the fighting was severe, and during its continuance we lost two orderly sergeants and one lieutenant. Here the loss was greatest; it was a heavy charge, made with the usual allotment of Sauthers chiralter of the several terms. Southern chivalry, of six or eight to one, and yet the chivalry were beaten off. Let three times three and a tiger be given for the bold and gallant little band that so nobly defended and ultimately main-tained their position on the well-contested field. A ringing hurrah should go up from one State to an-other, that here, on the south bank of Green river, a little band of the gallant Thirty-second Indiana volunteers, under their noble leader Von Trombeia, numbering only five hundred. numbering only five hundred, and they hastily sum moned together, not dreaming of a charge, made good their position, and won the field against an attacking force of at least two thousand, supported by a battery of artillery. The President's house once more assumes the appearance of comfort and comparative beauty. Two coats of pure white paint on the outside renew its right to be designated the "White House." The interior, during the last six months, has been thoroughly cleansed, and almost entirely reornamented. Very little new furniture has been intro-A Skirmish near Fortress Monroe. duced, as much of the old is yet substantial, having been procured in the time of Monroe, and is not only valuable on that account, but is really very handsoma from its antique style. Much of this old furniture, however, has been revarnished, and the chairs have been cushioned and covered with rich FORTRESS MONROE, Dec. 22, via Baltimore, Dec. 23.—There has been no flag of truce to-day. A skirmish took place to-day, at New Market bridge. Four companies of Federal troops went out from Newport News at nine o'clock this morning, and were attacked by a force of rebel cavalry crimson satin brocatel, tufted and laid in folds on the backs, rendering a modern appearance.
Upon entering the great East Room, two promiand infantry. Colonel Max Weber's regiment was ordered out to reinforce them, and went to their nent things strike the eye—the paper on the walls and the carpet on the floor. The first is a Parisian aid. Colonel Wardrop's regiment also went to Hampton bridge. and the carpet on the noor. The first is a farman style of heavy velvet cloth paper, of crimson, garnet, and gold. It gives a massive appearance to the room, and is quite rich. In the daytime it seems rather dark; but when the soft light of the great chandeliers illuminates the room it develops Sergeant Rehr, of Company I, Twentieth Regiment, and two or three others, were wounded.

The fight is all over by this time, but no particuseems rather dark; but when the soft light of the great chandeliers illuminates the room it develops its full richness, and harmonizes to a shade. The carpet is an ingenious piece of work, not because of its rich quality or exquisite design, but because of its rich quality or exquisite design, but because of the fact that it is in one piece, and covers a floor measuring one hundred feet long and forty-eight feet wide. There is nothing flashy or extravagant about its appearance. The admiration of the beholder is not suddenly excited by a view of the whole surface, so ingeniously and beautifully are the various figures and colors harmonized. It is like a constellation of stars, where the beauty of one star is lost in the combined grandeur of the whole. It is a very heavy Axminster, with three medallions gracefully arranged into one grand medallion.

St. Louis, Dec. 23 .- General Hallock has issued an order, in which he says that any one caught in the act of burning bridges, destroying railroads or telegraphs, will be immediately shot, and any one accused of this crime will be examined by a military commission, and, if found guilty,

When injuries are done to railroads and telegraph lines, the commanding officer nearest the post will immediately impress into service, for repairing the damages, the slaves of all Secessionists in the vicinity, and if necessary the Secessionists themselves, and their property; and any pretended Union man having information of the intended attempt to deart. The carpet, in its mechanical construction, as well as in its artistic design, is a wonder. It was made in Glasgow, Scotland, upon the only loom in the world capable of weaving one so large. Mr. W. H. Carryl went to Europe, and, after examining various patterns in different cities, including Paris and London, proceeded to Glasgow, and designed this. His mission was a success. The firm of which this gentleman is a member (William H. Hereafter, the towns and counties in which such destruction of public property takes place, will be made to pay the expenses of all repairs, unless it be shown that the people of such towns or counties could not have prevented it on account of the superior force of the enemy.

From the Upper Potomac. FREDERICK, Md., December 23.—The finding of the court martial in the case of John Lanahan for shooting Major Lewis, of the Forty-sixth Pennsylvania Regiment, sentencing him to be hung, has been approved by General McClellan. The execution has been ordered to take place to-day between one and three o'clock this afternoon, on the Hagerstown road, two miles from this city, in the presence of the whole division. Lanahan appears calm and cheerful.

All is quiet on the Upper Potomac this morning.

soon be relieved. The fact that the South intended war long before we supposed it possible, and not only rified Northern arsenals, but procured large supplies of arms from Europe, left us to open the campaign at great disadvantage. This disadvantage has both delayed action and exposed our troops to murderous fire before their inferior arms became effective. But this inequality will soon equate. Mr. George L. Schuyler, the Government argent, has completed his mission. He has obtained from the Government arsenals in Austria and Saxony over one hundred thousand rifles, equal to any in the world. The knowledge that our Government needed arms has sharpened the cupidity and wits of all who deal in them The armorers of Europe are at work now, night and day, in patching up old muskets and in counterfeiting new ones, in the hope of palming them upon our Government. Europe abounds with inferior, discarded muskets, while new and reliable arms, in hand, are only obtained from Government arsenals, and that, of course, with great difficulty.

The Tug-moat Fleer.—The Spitfire leads the van of the last batch of the tug-boat fleet built at this place. The loars going to-day are the four last built, and are improvements on the first four in several particulars, being larger, more roomy, with greater power, and larger propeller.

We understand that these tugs are to be converted from mere tenders to the gunboats into what we think will be the most efficient and useful portion of the armed Mississippi flotilla.

They are to be armed with twelve-pound Parrott gups, one forward and one aft, mounted on pivots. guns, one forward and one aft. mounted on pivots, and being small and susceptible of being handled with great rapidity, they, if the guns are properly served, will be able to do quite as good service as their larger consorts.

In fact, we are satisfied that the arming of these tugs will add largely to the strength of Commodore Foote's immense inland steam flottla. In this cornection it is our pleasant privilege to say that in the construction and finish of these tugs, both the ship builders and the machinists have ndded another gem to their crown of excellence. — Missouri Republican.

The President's Levee. BRILLIANT APPEARANCE OF THE GUESTS—THE FOREIGN MINISTERS PRESENT AND ABSENT— REJUVENATION OF THE WHITE HOUSE, ETC. We copy the following graphic description of the White House as it is, and a Presidential reception there, from a letter published in the New Yark Hovald of the 18th instant:

The President gave his first levee of the season to-night. The White House was thronged with a brilliant company of citizens, and civil and mittary officers of the Government, The President, although not wearing that ruddy glow that he had where he first came to Washington from the West, looks quite healthy, and was as placent and civil White House as it is, and a Presidential relooks quite healthy, and was as pleasant and social as though he had but a single fight on his hands, without another in prospect, as many suppose. Deputy Marshal Phillips did the introductory to the President. Mrs. Lincoln never seemed in finer spirits. She delphia,) had the entire order for furnishing the Executive mansion, and they have completed the decorations in a manner to elicit the heartiest commendations from the President and his lady.

The most attractive features among the ornamental, in the East Room, are the curtains and drapery at the eight windows. The inner curtains are of the richest white needle-wrought lace, made in Switzerland. Over these, and suspended from massive gold-gilt cornices, are French crimson bro-catels, trimmed with heavy gold fringe and tassel-work The embrace, or curtain pin, at the side of each window, is of solid brass, and covered in goldconversational room. It has been newly papered, carpeted, and curtained, and greatly improved. Next is the blue, or President's reception room. This is the only room, when Mr. Buchanan left the house, that was very well furnished. A new carpet has been placed upon the floor; otherwise the room is in the same condition it was when Mr. Lincoln took possession.

Next we come to the Red room. This is properly Mrs. Lincoln's reception room. Everything in it is new except the splendid old painting of Washington. The fine pictures of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert, and other members of the royal family, presented to the President of the United family, presented to the President of the United States for the Presidential mansion by the Prince of Wales, and hung upon the wall of this room, are missing. I learn that they were removed to Whentland with Mr. Buchanan. Nevertheless, under the general direction of Mrs. Lincoln (to whose excellent good taste we are chiefly indebted for the beautifying of the President's house,) this room does not need those pictures. It is a model of elegance and modesty combined. The most perfect harmony prevails throughout. The sofas, chairs, &c., are covered with rich erimson brocade satin.

The repugnance of most patients to COD-LIVER OIL, and the inability of many to take it at all, has induced various forms of disguise for its administration that are familiar to the Medical Profession. Some of them answer in special cases, but more often the vekicle mentralizes the usual effect of the Oil, proving quite as unpalatable and of less therapeutic value. The repulsance, nausea, &c., to invalids, induced by disgust of the Oil, is entirely obviated by the use of our OAPSULES. COD-LIVER OIL CAPSULES have been much used lately in Europe, the experience there of the good results from their use in both bospital and private practice, aside from the naturally suggested advantages, are sufficient to warrant our claiming the virtues we do for them, feeling assured their use will result in benefit and deserved favor.
