Alfred Taylor, on Tuesday evening last, at Con-Association, was one of the most interesting factor-board entertainments of the season. On Tuesday eve-| The control of the board entertainments of the season. On Tuesday evening of next week, January 7th, the second will be given by him under the same auspices. His subject for that evening will be, "Up and Down Palestine." These lectures are magnificently illustrated by a large number of superb exy-bydrophotic views, which have the merit of conveying a life-like and vivid impression of the interesting places described that will never be forgotten. We bespeak for the Young Men's Christian Association a crowded house on Tuesday evening. DITINS ESCRIVED. 1860. 1861.

TABLEY ACT—BEASERSING GOODS IN BOND.—The Children (A. A. Low) brought to the attention of the Chamber the tariff of December 25-, which he considered, in some of fix features, a departure from the general principles which have governed the legislation of this country. At no previous time in our history has a tariff bill been passed so saddenly and unexpectedly, or one embrscing two features so objectionable—tix; in its action (according to the intripromation given by Becretary Chase) on goods on shipboard, which have here-tofore been element, and on goods in bond. He was not quite sure that the act would be made to revoke the exemption siven to goods on beard ship; but that goods in bond, which had been assessed already, should be reassessed at higher rate, was an injustice which he following:

This lecture will conclude the course. modefrance of the Obsauler they would pass an expla-natory act modifying it.

Mr. Phelps thought the construction put upon the bill by Secretary Chase a forced. one. To plain merchants, and (as be was informed) according to numerous legal authorities, goods are "imported" when the merchant presents his, manifest at the Custom House; therefore, the section declaring that from and after the passage of the act, "in lieu of duties heretofore imposed by law, there shall be levied, collected, and paid on articles "im-ported for to foreign countries" the duties amed, did not fairly apply to goods to bond. No merchant, on reading the bill, as it was published some days ago, would think of putting such a construction upon it. Otherwise they such a smalled themselves of the time intervening the publication of the bill and its going into operation, to have paid the duties heretofore assessed, and entered their goods. But goods in bond were already "import-New Goods at Oakfords', under the Con-THENTAL.—The extraordinary demand for the beautiful cools manufactured, imported, and sold by Messrs. harles Oakford & Sons, nuder the Continental Hotel, during the bolidays, in their several departments, has induced them to make a number of additions to their stock; so that their shelves and counters and cases to-day present as tempting an array of goods for gentlemen he height of the business season. Mr. Stores stated that he was informed by members of the committee who prepared and reported the bill; that there was no insention to apply it to goods in bond. By the interpretation given to it, the Government might rach articles in the hands of the consumer.

Mr. Ophyke was satisfied Congress had not such an intintion in passing the bill; but as the language stood, it warranted the interpretation given by Socretary Chase. It's read the ritire clause, to show that it required the increased dules to, be paid here after on all merchandiss imported, whether imported before or subsequent to the Bassage of the act. The Assistant Serpitery told him (Mr. Ophika) that Mr. Chase would review his decision. Und subtedly, if he considered his fastery told him (Mr. Updika) that Mr. Chase would review his decision.
