THE FIFTEENTH WARD HOMIGUE.—Cono-NER'S MOURST.—Vestrica in the number of the investigation into the circumstances of the resumption of the investigation into the circumstances of the murder of John Conley, in the Fifteenth word. Corener Conrad, and bis jury and witnesses, were punctual in attendance, but they were met at the station-house by a telegraphic despatch, from District Atorney Mann, stating that he could not be present at the time sponted, and asking that the investigation should be postponed until the atternoon, to afford him an opportunity to take part in it. The delay ask.d for was granited by the coronier. The bloody affair still continues to be wrapped in com-plet mystery. The absence of a reasonable motive for the crime, except such as is founded on mere hypothesis, perplexes the officers who have the matter in charge, and their dioris to ferret out the perpetrators have not thus far beeh crowned with a satisfactory result. The bloody affair still continues to be wrapped in the act, one of whom has been discharged, as he is believed to be entirely innocent. The other man, John Molloy, is still in custody, and as yet nothing of a definitio clar-neter has been found to fix the hornble charge oupon him. Molley was also a boatmun, and was supposed by still to be on friendly terms with the prisoner. The fol-lowing evidence was effected at the inquest restordary, which was commenced alout 2 o'dock: Themas Futz, a lad, sworn.—He was in a twern at Twenty-founth and Spring Garden streets, on Monday night; the deceared and Molley, the prisoner, were there, crinking at the bar; Molley, stad, with an eath, en could, were streets, sw the disturbance at twenty-fourth and Bidole streets, sw the decased fall, and one of the parties run, but could recognize no one. On the ist of May, 1861, the Governor of this Commonwealth approved of an act passed at the previous resson of the Legislature, entitled "An act to regulate appeals from the judgment of aldermen in the city of Philadelphin." The inst section of the act reads thus : "That in all cases in which judgment shall have been rendered for plaintift, by any ulderman in the city of Philadelphin, no appeal shall be allowed unless the de-fendant shall make oath or affin mation, to be filed in the cause, that the same is not intended for delay merely." The case in question was substantially this: James T. Sutton recovered, before Alderman, Hugh Clark, a judgment against Goorge Clark. The dofend-ant illed with the alderman an affidavit, in compliance with the act above recited, but the alderman, although noting the filing in his transcript of the defendant's ap-peal, neglected to send the affidavit itself to be filed in court. Mr. McAllister, for the plaintiff, thereupon took a rule ypon the defendant "to above cause willy the ap-peal should not be stricken off," for was of the affidavit. Mr. Selfers, for the defendant, showed cause, and con-tended, First, That the act did not intend that the affi-davit should be fully in the papeal; that it was suffi-cler the affidavit was made before the appeal, and that it was immaterial wheller filed with the alferman or the court; that the law simply required that it be filed to the form and a prevent the adderman or the court.

That fluctuations occur in schools may be shown by further examination. The Northwest and Mt. Vernon enjoy excel-lent reputations, yet the former has been receding from its zenith which it reached under Vints, with its thrty-twe admissions and no rejections, to the scill respectable number of sixteen, and frequent rejections under Louderback; whilst the Mt. Ver-non, when taught by the last mentioned geniteman, sent four boys in 1857, one of whom was rejected with a general average of 64.4. Jane Callalano, on the night of the murder, saw two men quarrelling at Twenty-fourth and Biddle streets, where the deed was committed ; she heard Conley say, "what if I did say so !" and saw him full, but could not tell what became of the other man, or how he was ten what became of the other man, or how he was dressed. Mary Conley, daughter of the deceased, was sworn and corroborated the exidence given by her mother. Officer John Naulty, of the Ninth district, sworn.—He found a bill in the pocket of the decuased to a Weish debtor; from information received, the officer wont up to Bichmond to flud certain witnesses; he found a man named O'Rourke, who said that Colley had shown him this bill, which he said he had got in a house of ill-funne at Reliferate: the decase of interdated to show this this the said
