CITY ITEMS.

ANOTHER MEETING IN BEHALF OF THE SOL DIERS.—To-morrow evening, the Seventeenth meeting in behalf of the soldiers, held in this city, under the direction of the Young Men's Christian Association, will take glace in the Rev. Dr. McDowell's Church, Eleventh street, above Spring Garden, at which addresses are to be delivered by the Rev. B. Griffiths, Secretary of the Partisi Publication Society; the Rev. James M. Crowell; Rev. J. A. Brown, chaplain of the Thomas A. Scott Re-giment, Pennsylvania Volunteers; and Col. E. M. Gregory, of the Ninety-first Regiment Pennsylvania Younteers. These meetings have been increasing from week to week, in numbers and interest, and we would again urgs upon our readers the importance of sustaining the great and good work in behalf of which they are held. Let there be a large attendance of the friends of the solutions. iers and of the country they have gone forth to defend LIFE COMPARED TO THE SEASONS. -The fol-Towing lines are from the pen of Wm. F. Schmoele, a lad of fourteen years, and were composed for, and delivered of, the recent anniversary of the Sunday Schools con-accted with the First Baptist Church, corner of Broad and Arch streets. Master S. is a sol of Dr. Henry Schmoele, of this city. His attempt at writing verses, for one of his years, is not without merit:

Behold! the Spring as she passes along.
The fresh woods echoing her blithesome song;
The grass springs up as she passes b;
And the wild bud greats here with gladsome cry.
The brooks break forth from their icy chains,
And swell the song with their murmuring strains
The frog makes the marshes resound with song,
And Nature awakes as she passes along.

The summer sun shines down from on high. To the great delight of the butterfly; The lily unfolds its snow-white flower. And the woodbine decks the garden bower; The grain is shaken by the gentle breezo, And birds warble briskly smong the trees; While fish sport lively in the limpid stream, And flocks and herds in the meadows are seen. The scene is changed—the sky is blue,
The woods are painted with every hue,
Waterfowl sport on the cool clear lake,
And feathered songsters the silence break;
But the frest sets in, and the le eves fall fast

Old Winter has come, with a heaving sigh; Dark clouds gather over the leaden sky; The earth is clad in a robe of white, And the bare trees tremble at the cheerless sight. The north wind sweeps over mountain and plain. And chants its mourned dirge in vain; The streams are locked in log chains, And Nature sleeps while Boreas reigns.

Life, like the seasons, comes and goes,
Checkered throughout with joys and woes;
Childhood and Youth, like merry Spring,
Are the golden hours of our carthly being.
When the mind is free, and the heart is light.
Hope gilds the future, before our sight;
This then, in this joyous spring of life,
That we gird ourselves for the coming strife. But Youth, like spring-time, soon is gone, His step is firm, and his eye is bright,
And his arm repices in its might;
All former ille to this point tends,
And now to age he slowly bends.

The glory of his prime is past;
His sutumn hour has come at last;
The hours of childhood could not stay,
And Youth's bright season passed away.
The pride of manhood, too, had gon,
And age is hastening quickly on;
His mind reflects on days gone by,
And forward looks with thoughtful eye.

The summers come, the summers fly, And man grows old as they pass him by; The strength of his former life has gone, And with feeble stop he totters on. The snows of winter have silvered his hair, And his wrinkled brow tells that age is there; Till with placel look and tearless eye, He lays him down on his couch, to die. As seed that in the Spring is sown, And by the Summer sun is grown, Determines the supply of grain,

When Fall and Winter come again:
So, what we learn in life's bright spring,
Marks out the course of our after being;
And habits formed, like accorns grow,
And shape our character here below. Earth is the school of Heaven, where we Prepare to spend eternity. The Sabbath school guides the feet of youth, In the path of light, in the way of truth: It above us the power of Christ to save, And points to a Heaven beyond the grave; Where, when this earthy life is o'er, We'll dwell with God forevermore.

ARRUAL MEETING OF THE MERCHANTS' Tund Society, of this city, will be held at the Board of Trade rooms, No. 503 Chestnut street, on Tuesday after noon next, at four o'clock, when the annual report will The enterpitted and the annual election of officers held. CLARK'S CELEBRATED COOK STOVE .- We have already referred to the patent cook stove, invented and made by Mr. J. S. Clark, No. 1008 Market street, as most admirable article. The stove is known as Clurk'.

Air-tight Gas-burning Cook Stove and was first in seed to the public about eighteen months ago, sing which the demand for it has been unprecedented. His list of names—many of which are of our best-known citizens ing tribute undeserved, inamuch as the stove is unques-tionably a greater economiser in fuel than any other in use, the extent of its fuel-consuming power, when kept in constant operation, not exceeding the rate of one ion of coal in six months, in doing the cooking for a large family. The cost of the store is, therefore, fully saved in fuel in a single year's use. The store, we may state also, operates in the most satisfactory manner, whether for baking, boiling, rossting, or general cooking pur ably durable, and neat in appearance, and is, upon the whole, one of the genuine "improvements of the age," embodying practicability and common sense. To per cons wishing to purchase stoves, whether in this city or clowhere, we would say, by all means examine the one here referred to of Mr. Clark's invention; and those who are now using a different article will act wisely in subting for it one of these KEROSENE OIL LAMPS .- The finest assort-25 North Eighth street, corner of Flibert. These gennen not only make the nestest and bost styles of lamps, but they keep on hand at all times the pur quality of the oil itself, which is the kind alone t ought to be used, both from considerations of light and

A Popular Establishment.—There are few stores in Philadelphia, in which her enterprise is more practically vindicated than in the famous old establish ment of Measrs. E. G. Whitman & Co., Second stree helow Chestnut, the widely-known and justly-celebrate Confectioners of this city. At all seasons of the year, and during six days in the wook, their store is thronged th customers. The reason is—their goods are the rest and richest made, their prices are exceedingly derate, and everybody is waited upon with politener McCLELLAN IMMORTALIZED .- Whether the opportunity for Gen. McClellan to earn the reputat he possesses ever turns up or not, his name has been summertalized by Mr. J. A. Eshleman, by putenting the Median Ties and Scarfe," which he is Loyal States.

PURE OLD LIQUORS FOR MEDICINAL PUR-SES.—For the accommodation of his numerous patron in the general public, Mr. C. H. Mattson, dealer in time past, kept constantly on hand a stock of pur old liquors, such as can be warranted genuine bejond suspicion. His brandles, also Port and Madeira wines, are frequently recommended directly by our first physi-cians for medicinal purposes.

SECOND UNITARIAN SOCIETY. - The Rev. Frederic Frothingham preaches again before this Society to-morrow, in Washington Hall, Spring Garden, above Eighth street. Mr. Frothingham has taken a high posttion in the Unitarian Church, and should attract a large

NAVAL.

THE NUMBER OF WORDS IN THE ENGLISH ELHOVAGE.—Out of the 50,000 words in the English congue, it has been found that an English peasant only mass 500. An ordinaria educated man is supposed 20. use 3,000 or 4,000, while a great orator reaches 30,000. The Old Testament contains 5,032 different words, and the works of Shakspeare about 15,000; those of Milibe about 8,000. The words most used are proba-By those which refer to the excellence of the garments, for moldiors and civilians, imade at the Brown Stone Chesting Haff of Bockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 608 Chestinat street, above Slath.

DRUMS OF THE KIND KNOWN AS Conun.-Why is Stokes' Illustrated Almanac, for 1862, like a well-Ans. Because it is made attractive by its fine cuts. Why are the wood engravings in Stokes' Illustrationance like the ships-of-war at present on our Southe

Ass. Because they are block-aids to his business.
Stokes Illustrated Almanac, for 1862, contains nume rous Meatrations printed in oil colors, making it a beautiful and valuable Almanac. It can be had, on application, at Stokes. "One Price." Clothing Store, maker the "Continental."

Two GREAT INSTRUCTIONS .- We notice that Two GREAT INSTRUCTIONS.—We notice that Maraca's Express Company, whose office was destroyed by fire a short time since, have secured new and commoditions quarters next door to the palabial Clothing Emportum of Graville Stokes, No. 500 Chestnut street, 20th of these establishments are noted for enterprise and manage, and should be located near each other. The Maraca Company, is calebrated for the caveful delivery of a spicing placed in the obarge-while Stokes Clothing Monaca to equally popular for the fine and tastionable manages at which they are sold.
