The brokers are free bayers at 2*a* $\frac{3}{2}$  per cent, which was the ruling rate the close of last week, there was considerable taken on speculation, but it is doubtful if a forther advance can be estabilised, as it is more than probable that we are on the eve of some important successes to our arms. There is also an impression in some quarters that the passage of a bill making treasury notes legal tender would at once so narrow the uses of gold as to reduce the premium to a more nominal rate. This, however, would dopend greatly upon whether the credit of the Government is sufficiently fortified by liberal taxtion.
