Some ten or fifteen days since, 'Squire' Garmon Isarned that hia family were all down sick with the measles, and determined to visit them, cost what it might. So he obtained a furlough from his gallant colonel, under a protest that he (Garmon) would never return to his regiment. The first or second night after his arrival at home the secosh, his old neight after his arrival at home the secosh, his old neight after his arrival at home the secosh, his old neight after his arrival at home the secosh, his old neight after his arrival at home the secosh, his old neight or send relatives, twenty-eight strong, armed cogra pic, visited his house and rapped at his door. The 'Gouire halled them, no answer. He sprang out of bed, gathered his irons, and lighted a condle, when he discoversed three men in his dining-room, and fired at them. They all scampered out of the house, one failing dead at the door. The captain then ordered him to come out, which he refused to do, and in torn invited them to come in and ex-obage builts there.

hange bullets there. This they determined to do, and immediately opened fire on his house through the doors and windows, the Squire returning the fire as fast as he could. This was kept up, the Squire thinks, about an hour, when his assailants left, leaving three doad conid. Intriverse to be the contrast and the second set of the second set. The 'Squire then lighted the contrast when he sees assiltants left, leaving three dead in the yard, and carrying off five mortally wound-ed—since dead. The 'Squire then lighted the house, and the slok family came out from their hiding pisces. Not a whole pane of glass remained in seven windews. Three balls had ontered the posts and rails of his daughter's bed, she being too unwell to get up. Twenty-five balls were found in his wife's bedick, and the furniture of his honse was literally riddled.

The squire's personal casualties were as follows: One ball severed a finger; another bled him in the temple; a third crossed his breast, severing his shirt-bosom; a fourth passed through his hat; and a fifth urbuttoned his shirtslevo. The squire thinks they must have fired some 200 rounds at him; but, none the worse for wear, he is resulty to repeat the operation whenever they are. The coel and deliberate manner in which the squire dealls the rencontre to his fireds, saide from his reputation for veracity, gives the highest assurance of its entire truthfulnes.

The Fight at Prestonburg.

HOW COL. GARFIELD GOT EXCITED AND FOUGHT IN SHIRT SLEEVES.

now col. GARFIELD GOT EXCITED AND FOUGHT IN BHIRT SLEPES. The Cleveland Heraid says: Captain Willard, of Company F, Forty-second Regiment, arrived here has night on his way home to Ravena. He was not in the Prestonburg fight, being detained by sickness a few miles back of Paintville, but ob-tained may incidents of the battle from those who were in it. Prestonburg is about twelve miles beyond Paint-ville "After the cavalry skirmish at the latter place, Colonel Garfield gushed on with the advance of his brigade for Prestonburg. Before reaching that place he found the enemy posted on and behind a range of hills. The Federal forces for ming the advance was less than seven hundred, but Colonel Garfield at once prepared to make an attack. A body of the enemy was posted on a com-manding hill, and it became necessary to dislodge them. The 14th Kentucky volunteered for the service, as they knew the nature of the ground. Said Col. Garfield, "Go in, boys; give them — Hail Columbia".

The hill was cleared, and soon the reserve of

The hill was cleared, and soon the reserve of the brigade came in at a double quick. As soon as he saw them Col. Garfield pulled off his coat, and fung it up in the air, where it lodged in a tree, out of reach. The men threw up their caps with a wild shout, and rushed at the enemy, Col. Garfield, it his shirt sleaves, leading the way. As the Federal troops reached the top of the hill, a rebel officer shouted, in surprise, "Why, how many of you are there?" "Tronty-five thousand men, d-you," yelled a Kontucky Union officer, rushing at the rebel. In an instant the rebels broke and ran in utter confusion. Soveral instances of personal daring and coolness are related. A member of Capt. Bushnell's com-pany, in the Forty-second, was about to bite a cart-ridge when a musket ball struck the cartridge from his fingers. Coolly facing the direction from which the shot came, he took out another cartridge and explaimed, "You can't do that again, old follow."

fellow." Ospiain Willard says that the two men killed on our side were Kontuckians. The loss of the enemy is not known. In addition to the twenty-seven bodies found on the field, a number of human bones were found in several of the houses burned by the rebels in their rotreat from Prestonburg. A robol officer reported, at a house where he called during his flight, that they had killed 600 Federals, and lost 260 of their own men. It is not unlikely that the killed, wounded, and desertions took place that num number, as numerous descriions took plac ous to the battle.

The Munfordville correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, under date of Jan. 15, says : You know I am not making a habit of puffing generals, especially when they do nothing bayond their regular duty; but I cannot forbear giving credit to Gen. The Go-verment is doing all that the circumstaneose render possible, but the demand is pressing, and tho ut-most activity on the part of all loyal men and wo-men is required. Warm garments of every kind for hospital use, and for the convelsesent, are nocedd. Warm, unbleached cotton chirts, flannel and canton-flannel undershirts and drawers, anit daily de-mand. The unavoidable compution of such things is very great. For example, for a hospital of 500 bed, there should be a permanenthospital wardrobe of Lo00 khirts, 1,000 undershirts, and the same num-ber of drawers. These are all marked, and the nurses for the use of the convelsecent seasing the hospi-tals, any garments they scually need. The num-ber is needed, for they are perishable and casily lost in camp life, and we permit no convalescent to leave without a change. With economy in the public expenditure, and with a considerate retrenchment in our local taxa-tion, which should be the study of those in authori-ty, your committee feel sure that the wealth and the loyalty of the people will prove amply sufficient to carry them triumphantly through this straggle, without inaugurating untried and much less ex-pleded theories for manufacturing a fictitious pub-lin credit.

pleded theories for manufacturing a flotitious pub-lic credit. Your committee cannot forbear at this time ex-pressing their fullest conviction of the sincere de-sires of both committees of Congress to legislate solely for the real good of the country. And they would especially record the impression they have received in their various interviews with the Secre-tary of the Treasury of his lofty integrity and singleness of purpose. It may not also be out of place, in closing this re-port, to refer to a most interesting and memorable interview which your committee, before leaving Washington, enjoyed with the President of the United States.

His frank explanation of the constitutional and conservative policy of the Government; his plato-ment of the difficulties of his position between the extremes of political sontianent throughout the country; his unfiltedhing determination to maintain the majesty of Law and the integrity of the Union, not only won the hearts and the sympathies, but commended themeclaves most emphatically to the judgment of your committee, and they left him with the full assurance that the interests and the heart of the nation are safe in his vigilant and faithful guardianship. The discouraging effect of the contemplation of the fortifying efforts at present made at this point by our soldiers, is somewhat relieved by the appa-rent fact that the work now constructing will not be of a very extensive character, and will be finished in a few days. Whether this completion will be the signal for the advance, romains to be seen. Some of the military about here, that are chafing under the inactivity, derive some consola-tion from the hope, that the giving out of the sinews of war will soon complet the managers at Washington to do something towards the conquest of the seeded States.
