Pending the arrival of the Europa, there was a feeling of great snapons in England, but the funda were but temporarily depressed. Some journals argue that a defi-snite answer was not to be expected by the Europa, and think the cause of peace loses nothing by delay. Others construe the delay unfavorably. The Journan Poat thinks it diminishes the hope of peace, and that the Washington Government will propose a compromise, but which will not for a moment be entertained. The Times asks why the decision should be delayed if favorable for peace, and asys that the immediate surron-der of Mason and Sildell would have been a greater blow worth millions to the Federal Exchaquer. The Daily Avus sees nothing but peace. All the iornals publish the semi-official accounts from the American papers. The cotton market was un-settled and breadstuffs heavy. The stock market is quiet but very firm. The leading speculatives are, in the main, higher, but the Govern-ment list is heavy and lower. There is an advance of $\frac{1}{2}$ of $\frac{1}{2}$ oper cont. in some of the Western stocks, but at the close the improvement is scurcely sustained. Governments are weak, especially the fives of 1811 and '4. Our quotations show a decline of $\frac{1}{2}$ of $\frac{1}{2}$ yer cont. In theso, but the sizes of 1881 are no that matchildy lower.
