The Battle of Roanoke Island. ACTS OF DARING AND BRAVERY. Washington, Feb. 15.—The Star of this eye-WARHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The Star of this eve-hing learns, from a gentleman who came direct from Rosnoke Island, that Col. Russell, of the Tenth Connecticut Regiment, fell dead from his horse at the head of his regiment while marching against the enemy. Strange as it may appear, not ascratch was found upon his body when examined, and his death must have come from the wind of a canon hall or from excitement. death must have come from the wind of a cannon ball or from excitement.

Lieutement Colonel De Monteil, who volunteered in the assault upon the rebel battery, received his death-wound while heading the advance, and while in the act of shouting, "Come on, boys! we'll show them how to fight!"

In the course of the action a shell burst on the United States gunboat Hetzel, and set her magazine on fire. Lieutemant Franklin, her executive officer, ordered the men to the magazine to exofficer, ordered the men to the magazine to ex-tinguish the fire; but seeing that they hesitated, he, took the hose in his own hands, and sprang down and extinguished the flames before they reached the powder.

A similar occurrence took place on board the Ceres from the bursting of a gun, when Acting Master Diarmaid sprang into the magazine, and extinguished the fire. A shell entered the coal bunks of another of our teamers, setting them on fire. The flames were unbdued after much difficulty, with but little damage to the vessel. Affairs at Fortress Monroe. Affairs at Fortress Monroe.

FORTRESS MONROE, Feb. 15.—The propeller Jersey Blue arrived from Annapolis this morning, with about 250 troops, belonging to various regiments, who were sick, and loft behind when the Burnside expedition started. The Jersey Blue will proceed to join the expedition as soon as the weather moderates. The Richmond Enquirer says that four hundred priseners of war are expected to leave Richmond for Newport Nows in a day or two, in exchange for an equal number of rebels, released by the United Sixtes Government, and who reached Norfolk on Tuesday. Richard H. Kimbell, of New York, whose story, called "St. Leger," made no small sensation in the Knickerbocker, some years ago, lately published a serial in the same magazine, entitled "Under-Currents of Wall-street; a Romance of Business," which has just been reproduced, by G. P. Putnam, in a handsome 12mo volume. It is the story of a business-man's life from the panic of 1837 to that of 1857-8, and reads amazingly like a true record. Received from George W. Childs, 628 Chestnut

"A Treatise on Gunshot Wounds," by T. Longemore, deputy Inspector-general of Hospitals, just published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., is a small volume which army and navy surgeons may advantageously study, in companionship with the larger works by Guthrie, and Macleod, on military surgery, lately issued by the same publishers. We repeat our suggestion, that the portability of such books would be increased by their being put up in flexible covers. A batch of novels-and of good novels, too-pub lished by Dick & Fitzgerald, New York, and re-ceived from T. B. Peterson, W. P. Hazard, and T. B. Pugh, all of Chestnut street. They comprise "Castle Wafer," by Mrs. Henry Wood, author of "East Lynn;" Samuel Lover's "Treasure Trove, or Accounts of Irish Heirs," (in which, by the way, with some of the Jacobite heroes of 1745 Marshal Saxe figures largely,) and "The Warden," by Anthony Trollope. Attached to "Castle Wafer" are two other stories, one of which, "Henry Arkell," excited no limited admiration when it first appeared, a few years ago, in a London maga-zine. Wheever has read "Dr. Thorne" and "Framley Parsonage," two of Mr. Trollope's best novels, will be charmed with "The Warden," in which several of the characters are reproduced. Got up, in convenient size, clear type, good paper. and low price, exactly like the neat reprints of standard English and American books by Bernard Tauchnitz, of Leipzig, "The Warden" commence what is to be called the Hand and Pocket Library, and is of convenient and handy size.

English Pictorials and Periodicals. From W. B. Zieber, South Third street, we have the Illustrated London News and Punch, both of February 1st. Among the numerous engravings in the former is a full-page sketch, by F. Vizitelly, of the New Year's Reception at the White House. Punch is as anti-American as usual. From S. C. Upham, Chestnut street, we have HInstrated London News and Illustrated London News of the World, both of February 1. The latter has a fine portrait of the late Lady Canning—as she looked twenty years ago. The new periodicals, the Cornhill Magazine and Temple Bar, respectively edited by Thackeray and Sala, have also reached us from Mr. Upham. In the former, one of which the hero is brought back to London, and figures, more suo, at a dinner given by Pendennis. The Roundabout Paper for February is upon American matters-chiefly on the surrender of Mason and Slidell, which, being whelly unexpected, at once surprised and pleased the writer. Richard Doyle gives a capital sketch, with pen and pencil, of Belgravia Out of Doors, and we are the satisfaction of stating that—terrible mistake of a man of talent!—Mr. Trollope's wearisome "Struggles of Brown, Jones, and Robinson," are coming to a close. The firm has failed, and there will soon be an end of it. The remaining contents of the Cornkill do not merit especial notice.

In Temple Bar, Mr. Sala continues his new and peculiar story, "The Strange Adventures of Captain Dangerous." Among the personages intro-duced are Charles II., and the execution of his father. A further instalment of "Aurora Floyd" reads well, with romance and mystery strangely mingled in it, and there is some respectable poetry. On the whole, Temple Bar for February is more readable than the Cornhill Magazine.

In twenty-three years, said Mr. Benton, five thousand supplies have attended the school, and the graduates number twenty-five hundred. Of these a large proportion are now in the Federal army or navy. Mr. Benton suggested reform in the studies of the school, and in its reamoval from the baneful effects of politics. So far as its studies were concerned, he protested against the great

The list and range of studies for the High School, said e, are larger and higher than was designed. A person eventy years of age could not in twenty years master as studies of its roster. Scarcely a book is completed fore the term ends. Astronomy is taught without ointing a single star; surveying without a single field by. Lessons are heard with little or no collateral exhantion, and the hearer and reciter act but little better arts than automaton and parrot.

Mr. Benton disapproved of the appellation of the "Peole's College," and said that the object of the publichool system was not to give a collegiate culture to males females, but to provide a thorough English education, lain-acquired intelligence, and an educational impulse he indefinite half-classic, half-vernacular teaching ergelofore received has given many graduates a contempt se of architecture, little better than a brick-kilt coef for windowe—or a cotton factory—remodelled removed to a location admitting ample space for ex

B. Lilly, a member of the Iriah Dragoons, died very midenly about ten o'clock on Saturday ovening, at house to 22 Coombes' alley. The Coroner was sent for to cake an investigation as to the cause of death. It is The Cooper-shop Volunteer Refreshment Committee, composed, as it is, of men of influence, have had under consideration for some time the establishing a $30dlet's Home, for the benefit of all wounded, maimed, or sick soldiers, after the last head of the hydra of rebellion a shall have been crushed out There will necessarily be some wounded and sick men after the civilwar has ceased, and a higher and holler object could not at present occupy the attention of our people, than to provide some place for them, where they may always find a comfortable home. The object appeals at once directly to the lumns heart, and should meet the encouragement of all loyal men. We learn that one wealthy patriotic gentleman of Philadelphia has signified his entire willingness to hold himself good for the principly sum of $40,0000 wards building the proposed home. His name is with the committee, and it will be publicly used when considered necessary. The Cooper-shop Volunteer Refreshment Comcomposed, as it is, of men of influence, have had mittee, and it will be publicly used when considered necessary.

The charter for the Soldier's Home has already been granted, in the names of some of the leading merchants of Philadelphia, and before long the good work will be commenced in a style of energy that will insure its early completion. No debt will be contructed for the institution. Everything will be done on cash principles, and we know that the project is bound to succeed. The site for the new building will be on some high ground within the city limits, some rocky land that can be purchased at the cheapest rate.

WILLIAM NICHOLLS was heard, on Saturday, on a writ of habeas corpus, issued by Judge Allison, asking for his discharge, or a reduction of bail, on the charge of misdemeanor, in violating the act of Assembly, providing that men shall not be sent from the State of Pennsylvania to de military service in companies raised in other States. The suit was instituted bufors Mayor Henry by a Bit. Stockheim, father of a boy filteen years of age, who had been elisted by Nicholls at his rendezvous, North Front street, for the Home Guard of Chestertown, Kent County, State of Maryland F. Garroll Brewster, counsel for the defendant, contended, in the first place, that 25,000 bail for a mere misdemeanor was very excessive. That the law itself was unconstitutional, because a man has a right to go out of the State of Pennsylvania whonever it suits him. That the handill or placard, as published by his client, called for men for enlistment. On all these points Mr. Brewster dwelt at considerable length. William B. Mann, the D strict Attorney, answered in full the points taken by Mr. Brewster. In a portion of his remarks, he said that he considered it an outrage to entice boys away from school and home and send them to any camp. The great national army don't want boys—they want men, bearded men, who are physically able to stand all the hardships of military life. Judge Allison said he thought it high time there should be a stop put to the enlisting of persons under age. The court has been occupied too much of late in hearing such cases. In regard to the bail, he thought perhaps it might be excessive. He reduced it to $3,000, which was at once entered. Mr. Mann said he would be ready to try the case on Wednesday. It is the first one in the State under the new law, and its proceedings will be watched with more than ordinary interest. WILLIAM NICHOLLS was heard, on Saturday,

DEATH OF AN EDITOR .- Mr. Samuel C. At-DEATH OF AN EDITOR.—Mr. Samuel C. Atkinson, well known in this city, died a week or two since. Mr. Atkinson was one of the original proprietors of the Saturday Evening Post, having published that paper, in conjunction with Mr. Charles Alexander, during the early days of its career. Mr. Alexander having disposed of his interest in the Post, Mr. Atkinson conducted it aloue for a number of years, publishing it in conjunction with a monthly periodical called the Casket, in which the choicest matter that appeared in the Post was reproduced. Mr. Atkinson subsequently disposed of his interest in bottling Post and the Casket, and the latter became merged in the Gentleman's Magazine, which was edited and published by Mr. Wm. E. Burton. After relinquishing his interest in the periodicals asmed, Mr. Atkinson published a temperance paper in conjunction with the crastic Mr. Lewis C. Levin, and, for some time, he conducted a newspaper at Burlington, N. J. The deceased was about seventy years of age at the time of his death.

THE DANGER OF ESTABLISHING A PRECEDBRY.—If there is any efficacy in precedents, we may campose ourselves to the endurance of the vilosi description of Saturdays in the future, as we have been forced to endure them in the past. Saturday last was probably the thritieth or fortieth of a consecutive series on which it has stormed in a dismalway. It is about time that the nuisance was put a stop to. It works badly; our soldiers in camp have not been dry for weoks, and it does not mend the matter to premise that we might have sleighing on these snowy Saturdays if the passenger railways would only hang up their peaters! Something must really be done to mitigate the mood of Pluvius, or our market people will be ruined, and our culverts be choked to death. A noble mission awaits the incoming Commissioner of Highways; meanwhile, for the credit of our loyalty, let us have a bright aunny day next Saturday; let us consign our precedents to the tomb of the Capulets, and a grateful sense of self-rightcousness will reward us. THE DANGER OF ESTABLISHING A PRECE-Sword to Major General Banks .- An ap-

SWORD TO MAJOR GENERAL BANKS.—An appropriate tribute of regard and respect from Pennsylvania soldiers to a Massachusetts major general, has just been finished in this city, in the shape of a magnificent sword, to be presented to Major General N. P. Banks. The sword is of splendid workmanship, and reflects great credit upon the manufacturers. The hitt is of solid sllver; the scabbard is of silver, plated with gold, and handsomely wrought, and the following inscription is engraved: "Presented to Major General N. P. Banks by Col. J. K. Murphy, Major M. Scott, and Capt. L. C. Kinsler, of the Twenty-ninth Regiment Pounsylvania Volunteers." The hitt also contains the initials "N. P. B. "A second scabbard, for field use, accompanies the sword. It is steel, bronzed. The sword blade is what is known in the trade as "Solingnen," (from Germany,) and of fine temper and quality. The case enclosing the sword also contains a major general's yellow sash, together with the belt for the sword. The whole affair is creditable to the skill of Phila telphia mechanics. The presentation will take place at Frederick during the coming week."

ANNIVERSARY OF THE "LAST MAN BRO-THERHOOD."—The anniversary of this weird conclave took place on Saturday evening at the Hibbert House. The occasion was one of joyous festivity, and everything passed off in the most agreeable style. The table was set in the usual manner for the original thirty-three; but two having died within the past two years, their vacent places were supplied with splendi I bouquets. The offi-cers for the ensuing year are William B. Eckert, presi-dent; Honry G. Fisher, vice president; Thomas J. Bisley was committed by Alderman Beitler, on Friday, to answer the charge of forging the name of Cavin Belden, president of the Salem Banking Company, to a draft, upon which $60 was obtained, at the banking house of Work, McCouch, & Co., on Third street. The money was obtained on the 5th instant, since which time the bogus character of the draft was ascertained.

Fire on Saturday Night.—A few minutes before twelve o'clock on Saturday night, a fire broke out in the extensive carriage factory of Mr. John G. The loss is estimated at $300.

PHILADELPHIA. February 15, 1862. mand-notes will not more than meet the present indebtedness of the Government, and that the future financiering of the Administration will have to depend on the remaining portions of the legislation by Congress, for which operators are now waiting. The following table of prices at the beginning of the year, and on the three Saturdays in February, will show better than words the movement of the market:

There is a general backwardness among large manufacturers and others in making contracts for this year's business. The "sleep of death," which seemed to chacterize our army for a long time, had completely paralized all kinds of business not directly connected with anny and navy supplies; but this state of affairs is rapidly giving way under the influences of the recent brilliant victscies schleved by our armies, and a much botter feeling how nevalls in business circles; and, if followed up by swift and heavy blows on the enemy, we may anticipate a fair business for the prosent year. The passage of the Treesury note bill, with the legal-tender clause imbraced in it, will be worth millions to the people in facilitating business operations and exchanges.

RICHARD III is commonly reported to have been a hunchback, but it is very doubtful whether this is strictly true. Rous, the chronicler of the Warwick family, says: "He came in the world with teeth and long hair down to his shoulders. He was of short stature having a short face, with his right shoulder a little higher than the left." Had Richard lived in these times, he might easily have covered his deformity by clothing himself in an elegant and fashionable suit of clothes from the palatial store of Granville Stokes, No. 609 Chestnut street, where the most superior garments are being sol i at
