North, and thereby promoting the interests of the Government and the efficiency of the expedition. As no object åd. tion is made to accounts of what has actually happened, I will endeavor to "post" you on our progress, but no our prospects, commencing with the first day. THURSDAY .- After the usual number of preparations. postponements, signals, orders, and delays attendant on an expedition of such magnitude, it was announced on Thursday morning, the 27th ult., that the advance arly ine21-2m fleet would certainly sail in the afternoon Similar raports having been current for several days, the anuncement was but little heeded, until about 3 P. M., when we observed the flag-ship " firing up," running up her hoats, and otherwise preparing for sea. About 4 o'clock she weighed anchor, got under way, (the first time for nearly three months.) and steamed slowly down the channel towards the bar, followed by the noble of Susquehanna, the Flag. (formerly the Phineas Sprague,) and the Florida. Owing to the high wind and sea, they did not cross the bar until morning. Several of the new and invaluable sister gunboats remained to increase their supplies of ammunition from an ordnance store reasel newly arrived from New York. This they CALEBS accomplished, with the assistance of the Mercury, by 9 P. M., and at daylight on FRIDAY morning they went to sea, by the south channel, joining the fleet near the light ship on Martin's Industry, a dangerous shoal off Post Royal entrance. At 9 A. M. the line of sailing was formed, and the Wabash, Flag Officer Dupont, Captain Davis, and Commander Bogers, with the Susquehanna, Captain Gardner; Flag, Stevens; Seneca, Lieut. Commanding Ammen; Pembina, Bankhead; Huron, Downes; Isaac Smith, Nicholton, and Penguin, ...., in her wake, led off in a southwesterly direction along the coast. When coming arpetings. out of Port B yal we met the huge ferry-boat man ofthe attenwar John P. Jackson, Lieut. Commanding Renshaw, from New York, bound to Key West, going in. The nh7-3m Florida, Commander Goldsborough, was sent to overhaul her and obtain the mails and latest news, if any, from the North. She was absent several hours, but with what success her chase was rewarded we have not yet In the meantime the fleet continued moving anistiv and No. 47. majestically over the placid sea, parallel with and about six X or eight miles distant from the land, until we reached the Savannsh bar. Here, also, the army steamor McClellan, Captain Gray, came up with the Maine Battalion, unde IX, Street. Major John G. Reynolds, aboard. This fine body of coldiers (three hundred and fifty in number), after their perilons adventure on the steamer Governor, in November last, were brought to Port Royal by the frigate Sabine, and landed at Bay Point. Since then they have been subjected to the most constant and fatiguing drills REET. and rigid discipline, the results of which are very appaent in their noble demeanor and precise movements. They are a credit to the Government, and are indis ersable ornaments to the navy. Leaving Types in the distance, we were soon abreast of Warsaw Sound, and about nine leagues from Port Royal. Here the flagship IS: signalled the fleet "to anchor in the third order teaming." and sent a steamer in with despatches. In an hour or two she returned, followed by the Alabama, TS. Ellen, Lieutenant Budd ; and still later in the day by the transports Empire City, with General Wright and staff DERS, Pennsylvania, Colonel Guss' fine regiment, from Chester and Delaware counties; the Marion, Star of the South, and Belvidere, with troops; and the George's Creek. These numerous addi-TS, tions increased our sailing fleet to twenty-reven sail, all YD. of which got underway about 9.30 P. M., and stood to the southward. It was a fine, clear, starlight night, and the scene that then and there presented itself was one long to be remembered. SATURDAY.—At day-dawn this morning the fleet wa<sup>6</sup> DS. mewhat scattered, but before "seven bells " every vessel was in her proper position, flag-ship leading and transports astern, steaming quietly along at a "seven-knot gait," until 8 A. M., when all hove to, off St. Simot's Sound. The steamers Ottawa and Seneca were then sent in to reconnoitre, and ascertain the condition of affairs in the vicinity of Brunswick. - At 9 o'clock, the United States steamer Bienville, Commander Steed-man, came up with a prize-schooner in tow; the Alecky Captain Hone, from Nassau, N. P., that nest of Secession abelters, and the headquarters of the British Navy in the South Atlantic. This trim little craft was formerly the Savannah pilot boat Charleston. Her cargo consists of iron, steel, coffee, (217 bags,) dry goods, small wares, and cigars, and though small, is quite valuable. While the Virginia was engaged with the Con-gress with her bow gun, she poured broadside after broadside into the shore batteries of the enemy at Newport News. One discharge from the bow gun of the Virginia, says one of the prisoners, capsized two of the guns of the Congress, killing sixteen of her crew and taking off the head of a Lieut. Smith, and literally tore the ship to pieces. While the engagement was going on between the two frigates and the Virginia the enemy's steam frigate Minnesota put out from Old Point to their assustance. She laid well over towards Newport News, but not entirely out of the range of our batteries on Sewell's Point, which opened on her, with what effect we are unable to say, but she ro-plied to them without any damage whatever. The Minnesota got aground when within a mile or two of Newport News Point. There she stuck, unable to get off, while the Confederate steamers Patrick Henry and Jamestown peppered her with their batteries, while the Virginia was attending to the shore batteries at Newport News. The frigate St. Lanvence then came up to the assistance of the Minnesota, and she also got The frigate St. Lawrence then came up to the assistance of the Minnesota, and she also got aground, and a steem frigate, supposed to be the Koanoke, put off from Old Point with the same in-tention, it is supposed, but, seeing the sad havoo which the Virginia was playing with the Federal vessels she put back to Old Point. The Minnesota and St. Lawrence, we learn, are hard aground and in the power of the Virginia, at high tide, as the latter vessel was at Sewell's Point, after the engagement, where she remained on Saturday night, ready to commence on them on Sunday morning. She is between them and all as-gistance from Old Point. The frigate Congress was set fire to, on Saturday hight, by a boat's crew from some of our vessels. The first gun fired in the engagement is said to have been fired by the Confederate gunboat Beau-fort at the frigate Congress. All of our steamers and gunboats are said to have been managed with the utmost skill and doxtority, rondoring great assistance to the Varginia in this magnificent and successful engagement. We are without means of getting at the loss of the enemy in killed and wounded, though it is believed to have been very great. Our total loss in killed and twelve wounded, inost of them slightly. The others of the Virginia are represented as having-acted with the utmost coarage and bravery during the contest. It is related of Captain Bacha-nan, that during the thickest of the fight he re-imined on the dock of the Virginia, and that he discharged musket after musket at the energy as they were handed up to him. It was while thus exposed that he received the wound of which men-tion is made above.

FLAG OFFICER : In consequence of the wound of Flag officer Buchanan, it becomes my duty to re-Flag-officer Buchanan, it becomes my duty to re-port that the Virginua left the yard this morning at 11 o'clock A. M., steamed down the river past our battories, and over to Newport News, where we engaged the frigates Cumberland and Congress, and the batteries ashore, and also two largo stoam frigates, supposed to be the Minnesota and Roanoke, and a sailing frigate, and several small steamers, armed with heavy riled gues. We sunk the Cumberland, drove the Congress ashore, where she hauled down her colors and hoisted the white flag; but she fired upon us with the white flag flying, wound had the dupon us with the white flag fiying, wound-ing Lieut. This, with approaching night, we think, saved them from destruction. Our loss is two the under Sowell's Point, with the thick masses of smoke floating lazily above them, fring now and then a shot; while the Virginia, looking grim and mysterious as before, steamed in pursuit of a won-derful-looking thing that was justly compared to a prodigious "cheese box on a plank," said "cheese box" being of a Plutonian blackness. At first we could see the great puffs of white smoke ietting ont, now from the Virginia now saved them from destruction. Our loss is two killed and eight wounded. Two of our guns have the muzzles shot off; the prow was twisted, and ar-mor somewhat damaged; the anchor and all flag-staffs shot away; and smoke-stack and steam-pipe were riddled. The bearing of officers and men was all that could be wished, and, in fact, it could not have been otherwise after the poble and daring At first we could see the great puffs of white smoke jetting out, now from the Virginia, now from the Minnesota, and at long intervals from the black "cheese box." But these white wreaths of smoke blow off to seaward without a sound reaching us, for the wind had now risen, and the wafm calm of éarly morning was succeeded by a piercung northeaster. Away we went across Graney Island flats, and presently we could hear the guns, louder and louder. But the atrange-looking bat-tery, with its black, revolving cupola, field before the Virginia. It was, as somebody said, "like fighting a ghost." Now she ran down towards Old Point, now back towards Newport News, now ap-proached to fire, and then ran away to load, but evidently fighting shy, and afraid of being put " in chancery." as the puglists call it, by her powerful pursuer. The projectiles from her great piece of ordnance, a ten-inch solid shot gun, came daneing across the water with a series of short, sharp pops, which made a music more exciting than melodious. Now she overshot the Virginia, and the spray all that could be wished, and, in fact, it could not have been otherwise, after the noble and daring conduct of the flag-officer, whose wound is deeply regretted by all on board, who would kindly have sacrificed themselves in order to save him. Rebel Opinions of the Battle—A Tribute to Lieut. Morris. [From the Norfolk Ley Book, March 10.]

The 8th and 9th days of the present month have been rendered illustrious in the annals of this war been rendered illustrious in the annals of this war of all warfare by the conspicuous gallantry of Southern seamen; displayed on Southern waters. The events which we have to chronicie need no aid of the rhetorician's art. They stand out in their simple grandeur above all ornamont, and rise to a dignity which discards all pompous phrases. We shall attempt writing current calomo, to give a caudid narrative of the facts, which we observed, and an impartial statement of those derived from other cources. Before addressing ourself to this task, we pause to remark that if we treat the two task, we pause to remark that if we treat the two combats as two great pictures, into which we have not space to introduce all the details; that if, in-

And, strange to say, these long, painful hours, measuring time by our emotions, are candensed by the unsym-pathetic hands of our watches into fifteen minutes! At twelve o'dlock noon she way becaming down for Samell's while the attanked being hattery hore Another report we hear says that but iwo porsons were killed on board the Virginia. Andrew J. Her company was mustered on the grating and returned our cheers. We ran in closer, and there was her commander, Catesby Ap R. The Commodore halled the ship, heard the reply, complimented the quiet, thought-ful looking man who had managed and fought her from the time Flag Officer Buchanan was wonnded up to that moment, and then, with cordially-spoken enlogies upon the gallant men on board, we shot ahead. BLOCK ADE. BLOCK ADE. The final despatch in the papers relative to the Ameri-can blockade is from Earl Russell to Lord Lyons, dated February 16th. It says: "Information shows that, notwithstauding a sufficient blockading force off Charles-ton and Wilmington, various ships have eluded the blockade; the Government are of opinion that if suffi-cient subjes are stationed at ports to prevent access or to create evident danger to vessels leaving or entering, and provided such ships have successfully escaped will not of itself prevent the blockade from being effective. The adequecy of the force being always a matter of fact and evidence, a neutral State ought to exercise the greatest caurion with reference to a disregard of a de facto blockade, and ought not to disregard of a de facto blockade, and ought not to disregard it except when it entertains the conviction shared by other men-trals that the power of the blockade is abused by the States being either unable to histing on the so." That gentleman him-self corrects this error, and informs us that when the Congress struck to the Virginia, he was sent on board by Flag Officer Buchman to hoist the Confederate flag, and after removing the wounded and prisoners to fire the ship. It was in the dis-charge of this duty that the Beaufort and Rulesch ware freed upon and there the lines of two vinced were fired upon, and there the lives of two valuable were fired upon, and there the lives of two valuable officers and several men were sacrificed by the per-fidy of the enemy. Here also and about this time Flag Officer Buchanan received a sovere wound, after which, and in all subsequent operations of the Varginia, she was fought and commanded by her first lieutenant, Catesby Ap R. FRANCE. The French Senate continued to discuss the address to the Emperor. The Roman question was debated. The report of the Committee of the Corps Legislatif, relative to the donation to Count Montauban is emphatic against it, but it is said that a letter from the Emperor to Count Morny on the subject renders it probable that the Corps Legislatif will abandon the project. The Bourse declined on the 29th to 70f 40c. ITALY.

King Victor Enmanuel had been slightly indisposed, which made a music more exciting than melodious. Now she overshot the Virginia, and the spray few more than thirty feet high. Now she shot to this side, now to that. Now she steamed close up, and hit her fairly. In one of these encounters, we thought her iron castle had been shot away, but when the smoke cleared away, there it was, and the long, plank-like hull in shore again, driving along like the "Flying Dutchman." Meanwhile, the Virginia crept up towards the Minnesota-crept up and paused in that mysterious silence which fell upon her at all times-a silence awully impressive to us aboard the tug. Was she aground? One thought yes. Another could make out that she was moving. A third discovered that it was our forging ahead which imparted to her the appa-rent motion we had a moment before congratulated AUSTRIA. It is asserted that Austria and Prussia have agreed on ho terms of a settlement in relation to Electoral Hasse. GREECE.

our forging ahead which imparted to her the appa-rept motion we had a moment before congratulated ourselves upon. The minutes seemed like hours as we stood watching the nohle ship, against which the combined batteries of the Mannesota and Ericsson were now directed. The shot fell like hail, the shell flow like rain drops, and slowly, steadily she returned the fire. There lay the Mannesota with two tugs alongside. Here, there, and everywhere, was the black "cheese box." There lay the Vir-ginia. evidently aground, but still firing with the same deliberate regularity as before. Presently, a great white column of sucks shot up above the Mannesota, higher and higher, fuller and fuller in its volume, and beyond doubt carried death all along her decks, for the red tug's boiler had been exploded by a shot, and that great whitefoloud ca-nopy was the ateam thus liberated—more terrible than the giant who grew out of the vapor unsealed by the fisherman in the fable. And now the Vir-ginia moves again. There can be no error this PARIS, Feb. 28.—Prince Napoleon, in the Senate, da-marded that the French troops should ovacuate Rome.
