THE CITY.

[FOR ADDITIONAL CITY NEWS, SEE FOURTH PAGE.] LAUNCH OF THE U. S. STEAMER JU-NIATA.-Y(sterday afternoon, the navy pard was thronged with electators to witness the launch of the U. S. steamer Juniata. Long before the hour announced for the launch to take place, almost every available standing-place in the neighborhood of the ship-house had its accupant. The wharves along the yard were filled with singious specificity, Ant the steamer Powhatan, which was moored at the end of the wharf, had her decks crowdwas moored at the end of the wharf, had her decks crowded with ladies and gentlemen At 3 o'clock work was laid saide, and at last the mauls of the carpenters are heard keecking away the blocks and stays, followed with a rule of the people to catch a glimpee at the vessel, but they were doomed to disappointment, as ahe does not glide off. At length the hammering commenced anew, and finally the noble vessel moved off into the water, greeted by shouts from the thousands gathered around. As ahe touched the water, the daughter of Capt. Turner, who has command of the yard, br-ke a bottle of wine over the larboard proy and the vessel was christened. Doard prow and the vessel was christened.

She floated gracefully out-into the river, and for a time it was feared that she would be carri d by the wind against the new wharf of the Camden and Amboy rail road, but in a moment a puffing little steaming attached a hawser to her, and in a few minutes she was brought pafely up alongside the Powhatan The Launch was one of the most successful, and was attended with no accident of any kind. The vessel is nigreal for a grave of of the most succissful, and was attended with no accident of any kind. LECTURE BY THE KEY. A. A. WILLITS LECTURE BY THE KEV. A. A. WILLITS

The Spring Gerden Institute, at the corner of Broad and Spring Gerden streets, was filled lead evening with a large and respectable audience to listen to a lecture by the Rev. A. A. Willits, formerly of this city. The subject selected by the speaker was announced as "The Secret." The nevel title of the subject, and the popularity of the lecturer, guaranteed a large audience.
In opening the speaker referred, in his usual pleasing smanner, to the curiosity of mankind, and said that it was not strange that his audience should come to listen to the secret he had to communicate. His secret was not of that kind that made meu's hair stand upon their heads like that of Hamlet, whose secret was too terrible to disclose. Nor was his secret like the lover's, or the Governmeant, or the feligraph. close. Nor was his secret like the lover's, or the Government, or the telegraph.

But there were matters that should be proclaimed for the public good. He referred in an amusing style to the delivering of his secret, and said he would tell it, but not just then. He compared himself to a certain lecturer who absorbed the attention of his audience in what he had to say, and then promised to tell the rest on the next evening; burthough the speaker would seek to gain attention, yet he would tell his secret before his audience retired. He continued in this atrain, and made some palpable hits upon the habits of people of New York, (of which place he is now a resident,) which cre ted considerable merriment. The lecture was both amusing and fastenetive, and the accret helped seemed to have sucrable merriment. The lecture was both amusing and instructive, and the secret solved seemed to be the way to procure and retain happiness.

A lecture was also delivered by William W. Maurice, last evening, at the Temperance Hall, corner of Twelfth and Filbert streets. The hall was filled wite ladies and numerous representatives of the different temperance of the different temperance. Societies. The "Pulpit and the Stage" was the subject

Tea Meeting and Anniversary of the Bedford-Street Mission.
The celebration of the ninth anniversary of the Redford-street Mission, or, more properly, of the Young Men's Central Home Mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Philadelphia, by the friends of that noble en-terprise, at Sansom-street Hall, last evening, was one of the most delightful social entertainments of the kind that we have ever attended. To the usual anniversary exercises was added a handsome supper, the expense of which, we presume, was more than met by the contributions number, extending the whole length of the hall, were set with taste, and supplied with a tempting variety of delicacies and substantials. The number of guests was limited to the comfortable capacity of the tables, about five hundred. The stage was decorated with American

At a few minutes after seven o'clock, Mr. D. H. Loudenslager, who acted as a sort of chief marshal on the ecasion, directed the managers to the ante-rosm, and invited the guests to take their seats at the tables. An opening prayer was then offered by the Rev. Goldsmith D. Carrow, after which a verse of a hymn was sung, and the whole company proceeded to discuss the good things with a gusto. When about forty minutes had been consumed in this way, another verse of a hymn The chair was then fermally taken by J. B. Steelman. Esq., an active member and officer of the institution, and the annual report was read by Mr. W. H. Thaw. NINTH ANNEAU REPORT From the report as read, we learn that the receipts for the past year were less by some thirteen hundred dollars, than these of the previous year. Among the special phases of evil detailed, the fearful inroads of intemperance in the vicinity of their operations, Bedford and Baker streets, were alluded to It appears that within a circuit of two squares from the Mission House, one hundred and thirty dram-shops are in active operation, and these are estimated to have an average of twenty customers each-many of whom are besotted drunkards—making twent y-six hundred men, women, and children, as the immediate victims. Greateffort has been made during the past year to arrest this tide of rum, and, as a partial result, it was stated that sixtytwo men and women had signed the pledge of total abstinence from intoxicating drinks. Since the organization of the Mission it has succeeded in rescuing two hundred and twenty-five children from these blighting associations, and providing for them good homes. The operations of the House of Industry, established in a tenement opposite the Mission House although not immediately connected with this institu tion, is considered as an outgrowth from it, and was favorably noticed in the report. It is now under the care and management of a number of philanthropic ladies prominent among whom is a much esteemed member of the Society of Friends. The day schools connected with the institution were represented as in a flourishing condition, numbering now about three hundred and fifty children, under the control of efficient teachers. There were abundant materials in the report for speech-making texts, and as such were freely used by the sneakers. PROMISCUOUS EXPRCISES, SINGING, RESOLUTIONS, SPEECHES, ETC. After the reading of the report, a hymn was sung by the excellent choir of the Green-street Methodist Episcopal Church An earnest address was then delivered by the Rev. C. Cooke, in the course of which he offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Board of Managers of the Bedfordstreet Mission, and those who sympathize with them, have abundant cause to congratulate themselves upon the success of their labors among the outcast poor; and that, as the fleeting shadows of another year fall upon the field which they have planted and watered, they acknowledge, with profound gratitude, the blessing of God, to whom alone is due the increase that has gladdened their hearts. The above resolution was seconded and spoken upon, by the Rev. J. W. Jackson, of this city, and was subs After the choir had again sung, an address was made

WHITE OAK TIMBER.—OWING TO the large appropriation (ten millions of collars) made by Congress for the construction of war vessels, and also the great demand for almost every other apocies of water crafts, such as Schooners, Brigs, Steam Barges, tugs, &c., will tend to put the price of WHITE OAK TIMBER at a figure consideraby higher than ever known before. All of this class of timoer will be fursished from the States of Ponneylvania and Delaware, as the Ohio timber cannot possibly reach the market before the first of September, which will be too late for the Bailders of Vessels, they being obliged to have their vessels ready for the machinery at as early a day as possible. "Now will be the time for timber men to prepare, run to market, and delipose of a quality of timber befetofore little calletter," and should our people continue to permit the British Government to go into our forests, and may own and carry away, to their ports, OUR BEST OAK, to be used by them in building men-of-war on improved plans, this species of timber will, in a very short space of time, run entirely ont, "and, in lian of this indulgence eiven our cousins across the water," we may be virited by them some morning, when least expected, with a feet of those very grim visaged fellows, carrylog some 40 gune sech, demanding of us an apology for some fancied offence, or an untangling of ideas to suit the fancy of Lord Lyons or some other representative of Johnny Bull; and, should we fail to make remaneration as demanded, they may invite us to try the timbers of their crafts, to see whether an American Ball can penetrate the American Oak as effectually as an "English Ball."

ADDRESS OF THE PORT ROYAL RELIEF COMMITTEE.—The Pormanent Committee, appointed by the public meeting held at National Hall, in this city, on the 3d inst., to consider the condition of the freed blacks within the lines of the Union forces in South Caroline, and elsewhere, have entered upon their duties, and now desire to say a few words to the public on the subject entrusted to them.

The necessities of tness people, and their claims upon our sympathy, are set forth by Gen. Sherman, the officer in command at Port Royal, in the following language:

"The helpless condition of the blacks inhabiting the vast area in the occupation of the forces in this command, calls for immediate action on the part of a highly favored and philanthropic people. The benevolent of the land are most earnestly appealed to for assistance in relieving their immediate wants. There never was a nobler or more fitting opportunity for the exercise of that practical benevolence for which the Northorn people have ever been distinguished." benevolence for which the Northern people have ever been distinguished."

Edward L. Pierce, the Government agent, resident at Port Royal, in his report to the Secretary of the Treasury, dated February 3d, remarks as follows: "There are some material wants of this territory, requiring immediate attention. * * * * On Port Royal Island, and that part of Ladies' near to it, destinution has commenced, and will, unless provision be made, become very great. * * * * On searcely say (plantation) within this district is there enough (corn) to last beyond April whereas it is needed till August. On others it will last only two or three weeks, and on some it is entirely exhausted."

It outlet also to be stated that many of the blacks are will last only two or three weeks, and on some it is entirely exhausted."

It ought also to be stated that many of the blacks are destitute of decent clothing; that having been siways dependent upon their white masters for direction and organization in their labor, they require some tutelage to train them to habits of self-support, as well as to elevate their noral and social condition to a degree commonsumate with their newly acquired liberties.

It may be further added that there exists an immediate and pressing necessity for the protection of these uncoplisticated people from the evils of contact with depraved whites. Painful facts have come to our knowledge showing that the demand for safeguards against dangers from this source is absolutely imperative.

To accomplish these various ends we propose—

First. To supply the destitute among the blacks with clothing to the extent required by necessity and decency. Second. To send food sufficient to prevent suffering, until the Government can restore the supplies of grain and cattle taken off the plantations by the army on its first arrival, or otherwise provide for their sustenance until crops can be raised.

Third. To furnish them with seed and implements, and organize their labor with a view to growing crops for their future support.

Fourth. To teach them the household duties and radiorganize their labor with a view to growing crops for their future support.

Fourth. To teach them the household duties and rudimentary arts of civilized life, and finally to instruct them in the elements of an English education and the simple truths of the Bible, divested, as much as possible, of all sectarian bias.

These are purposes which need no argument to commend them. To the unrequited toil of these poor men and women we are indebted for many of our personal comforts and luxunies. Not to avail ourselves of this opportunity of discharging, in some measure, the obligation would argue great insensibility, if not dereliction to obvious duty.

New York and Boston (with which cities we are in harmonious co-operation) have acted with creditable promptness in this matter, and it behooves us to see that Philadelphis shall not suffer by comparison. Our citizens have ever been noted for their lively interest in all well-considered siforts for the benefit of humanity; and this fact lears us to anticipate with confidence a generous response te the present appeal.

NEW AND IMPROVED STYLE.

The subscribers, who were among the first to import this fashionable article from Paris, have, the past year, with their long experience in book-making, made many improvements in the Paris style, still retaining the best features found in the French-make. The Album will be found of peculiar strength and beauty, dispensing entirely with the broken-back, so objectionable in the old plan. These books are now used exclusively wherever known, and a glance at them will show to the most careless observer their great superiority over all others. They have already published ONE HUNDRED SIZES AND STYLES, at from 50 cents to $50.

HARRIS ON INSECTS. HARRIS ON INSECTS.

A TREATISE ON SOME OF THE INSECTS INJURIOUS TO VEGETATION. By THADDRUS WILLIAM HARRIS. A new edition, enlarged and improved, with Additions from the Author's Manuscripts, and Original Notes, and Illustrated by Engravings drawn from Nature, under the supervision of Prof Louis Agassiz.
Edited by Charles L. Flint, Secretary of the Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture. Svo. pp. 651.

Bight ated engravings contain illustrations of ninetyfive specimens, colored from nature, and look hundred and seventy-eight specimens are illustrated by fine wood fire specimens, colored from nature, and two hundred and screnty-cight specimens are illustrated by fine wood engravings, executed in the best style of the act. The drawings for all these were made under the supervision of Prof. Louis Agassiz, who has compared them with the original specimens before engraving. By this means it is believed that very great scientific securacy has been secured in illustrations.

The work is issued in an ectave volume, beautifully printed on tinted paper, handsomely bound, and is one of the most important and valuable works of the kind ever issued from the press. The edition is small, and no other, equal in every respect, can ever be produced.
