Periodicals of the Month.

The eighth number, completing the fourth vo lume of the National Quarterly Review, edited by Edward I. Sears, its proprietor, has reached us through Mr. J. McFarlan, agent for its sale in this State. It contains several articles of great merit and interest, foremost among which we would place a learned and chivalrous " Vindication of the Celts," a biographical notice of Dr. Arnold, of Rugby, and a powerful protest against the too prevalent mistake, in this country, of over-educating females. Except when intended for school-teachers, it is waste of time and fatigue of brain to teach the dead languages and the abstract sciences to female pupils. Years are wasted in cramming them with all the isms, and then, especially when matriage comes speedily after maturity, young ladies forget all their üšeless knowledge with commendable rapidity. There is an appreciate notice of Wieland, the great German poet, with a true estimate of the worldliness of Goethe. Among the practical papers are those on National Defences and Improvements and New Uses of Coal-gas. The Reviewer is wrong, however, in declaring that gas costs very little more in the American, than in the English metropolis. On the contrary, the price in Washington is more than thrice what it is in London. He also understates the price of gas in Philadelphia-it is $2 25 and not $2.13 per 1,000 cubic feet, and ought to be 75 cents lower. There is a good article here showing that the Union is not a league, but a permanent Government. Every editor has some one hobby : Mr. Sears' the belief that George P. Morris, " the uppaid laureate of his country," is a song-writer of such surpassing superiority that only Burns, Moore, and Beranger can be compared with him. Nine pages, in the present number, are devoted to this glorification. We thought that Campbell and Lover, Scott and Longfellow, and a few others, had written good songs, but are now taught other-

Blackwood's Magazine, received from W. B. Zieber, opens with further chapters of the Chronicles of Carlingford, a well-written tale. Bulwer continues his Essays, entitled "Caxtoniana;" Hill Burton gossips about Club Books, and Alison's Life of Lord Castlereagh supplies material for a laudatory account of Ireland's most hated foe, in former years. The concluding sixteen pages of this number contain numerous specimens, wholly lyrical, by a new Scottish poet, named David Wingste,given without a syllable of introduction or criticism. Correctly, too, for Lanarkshire David is a poet, aid not a mere sing-song rhymester. He-has been a collier since his ninth year, but, for a' that, he is a poet, made by nature. In "The Deein' Fisher," and "That Glosmin' Langsyne," he remind us of the tenderness of Motherwell, while in his numerous pieces he resembles Alexander Rodgers, a Scottish poet not much known here, author of that fine, saucy song," Behave Yoursel' before

From T. B. Peterson & Brothers, we have the Atlantic Monthly for April, which we noticed yesterday, also Mrs. S. C. Hall's new novel, "Can Wrong be Right," published by T. O. H. P. Burn-ham, Boston, and Ned Buntline's new story, published by T. A. Brady, N. Y., entitled "Morgan ; or The Knight of the Black Flag."

Mr. J. McFarlan, who announces the first volume of Washington Irving's Life and Correspondence as nearly ready, sends us Mr. Richard B. Kimball's romance of "St. Leger," a beautiful new edition got up with G. P. Putnam's proverbial taste—a good book, and curious now as the first performance of the author of that business-romance, "Under-currents of Wall-street," lately published. For each district three appointments are made, out of which the Mayor selections until July, as, in the opinion of the City solicitor, the present supervisors hold over a year, having been appointed last July.

Upon the calling of the name of A. Atwood, a charge of mal-administration was presented, signed "Thomas Steward." Rev. P. (combe meyed that the charge be not enter-tained, upon the grounds that the appelications relate to matters in the administration of the P E. in the Quarter-ly Conference, and not to official acts of Mr. Atwood as pastor of the Union Church. Rev. A. Atwood made a statement showing that he had acted in the case as provided for in the discipline of the Church. The statement being somewhat personal, Mr. Atwood was called to order, and the motion not to enter-tain was carried.

SOLDIERS' AID OF ST. MARK'S THE ANNUAL MISSIONARY SERMON. are the Editor's Table; the Ante Norse Discoverer At the appointed hour, the church was well filled with tadies and the members of the Conference. The services were commenced, at three o'clock, by singing, which was followed by a prayer from the Rov A. W. McClaskey. At the conclusion of the prayer, another hymn was sung, after which, the Rov. William W. Taylor, who was ap-pointed at the last Conference to preach the annual mis-sionary sermon, arose and as nounced his text from liabakkuk iii, part of sccond verse; "O Lord, revive the work " liabakuk ili, part of scond verse: "O Lord, revive thy work." / In opening his address, he referred to the fluctuating and perilous affairs of the country, which had been brought nearly to degradation by the hand of treason. He alluded to the days of Habakuk as having been days of trouble that would compare with those of the present day, and mourned the existence of each results in our once happy country. He referred to the perildi-ous conduct of England in the commoncement of the war, and denounced that country as a next of traitors who were aiming at the vitals of the United States. Brave men were found overy where throughout the land doing battle for freedom and their country. The coun-try must be saved—yea, even if it be over the graves of those who are despoiling it for its lustre-traitors; thay can be called by no other or more fitting name. Money had been spent; ships were put thorn the sees at a great expense: a large aimy, covering many miles of country —and all for freedom. The discourse of the speaker was of approbation. open market a lot of $150,000 changed hands on Satur-day at 97. It is not generally understood perhaps that the buyer pass the accrued interest up to the date of purchane. The Boaid of Brokers have adopted this rule, the same as with the 720 notes. A large influx of these certificates is looked for the coming week. About $10,000,600 will be issued to St. Louis, and wall street must ultimately make a mark at for them. Mouse is active at 6% of per cent on first-class se-curities. No material absorment in the domand can be expected while the new Government certificates are coming on the market. Gold is rather firmer, 101% cash and on sollers option. The wackly bank statement again abows an indereas in specie and circulation, and a decrease in hoans and de-posits. The specie reserve nominally is over thirty-two millions. M. E. CONFERENCE-DISCUSSION ON M. E. CONFERENCE—DISCUSSION ON THE STATE OF THE COUNTRY.-We would remind our cleirial friends of the Conforence, who are honoring us with their presence in this city, that they are to day about to consider and yote upon one of the most im-portant questions that will come before them. They are in a great measure the mobilders of public opinion, and they must beware lost the substitute for the reports of the Committee on the State of the Conforence, as a tract the conservative members of the Conforence, as to mislead them from the direct question, which is em-braced manfully and honestly in the majority report. The vote will double at be taken on each resolution segae-rately, so that the true sense of the Conference may be had upon the details of the subject.

_Miss Annette Ince closes a two-weeks engagement at Wood's Theatre, Cincinnati, on Saturday evening. ---Mr. J. B. Roberts opened at the National Theatre, Cincinnati, on Monday evening, the 24th inst. -Miss Charlotte Thompson opened at the Louis-ville Theatre on the 17th inst. She makes her appearance at the Walnut street Theatre, in this city, on the 7th of April.

-Manager Henderson, of the Pittsburg Theatre, commenced another dramatic season in Wheeling last week, Mr. Neafie appearing as the star. The business appears to have been reasonably satisfactory. -Miss Menken closed her engagement at St. Louis on Saturday night.

-Miss Julia Daly ended a very successful season at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, on Saturday night. Christy's Minstrels are in the latter city.

-Kate Fisher opened at the St. Louis Theatre on Monday night. She will be followed at that estab-lishment by Couldock, Maggie Mitchell, John Wilkes Booth, and Julia Daly, which takes the season to May 17th. -Gottschalk, assisted by M'lle Charlotte Patti, Mr. Simpson, and Sig. Marini, was announced to appear at the new opera house, Buffalo, on the 24th and 25th instant.

--Miss Lucille Western opened at the Holliday-street, Baltimore, for four weeks, on last evening. At the termination of that engagement she plays four weeks at Washington, and on the 5th of June she sails for California. From California Miss Western proceeds to Australia, and thence to England.

-General Tom Thumb is giving his levees a Smith's and Ditson's Hall, Cincinnati.

-Wallack still presents the old comedies at his theatre, in New York. -Miss Dora Shaw has been for some weeks translating, from the French, a play in three acts, en-titled "Camma"—the one in which Ristori came near causing the Parisians to run crazy with admiration. It will be completed in a few weeks at furthest. Miss shaw will impersonate the principal character.—Cincinnuti Commercial.

-J. Wilkes Booth, the tragedian, has been playing to crowded houses at Provost's Theatre, New York, during last weck. He continues through this week.

Indian Summer.

AS BEVEALED THROUGH GIGNOUX'S PICTURE.

BY BARRY GRAY.

This is the Indian Summer-Nature's thanksgiving time, This is the louinab bunnor—Nuture's thanksgiving time, Which glides, with misty eyes and silent tread, Butween the frosts of antinum and the winter's snows: For now the seasons, in their yearly journeying, pause, As if to praise Minn who commands their course. The painter truthfully has read the text Which Michter Earth has stamped upon her bosom, And, with skilful hand, transferred it to his canvas.

The trees are stained with colors of all hues: The maple blazes in the morning sun, the stalwart oak Flamma crimson dashes midst its leaves of green, The beech flares yellow, and the graceful ein Purples and flashes in its royal robes. The ach slakes out its scarlet berries to the breeze, And the wild grape turns its fosted clus ers to the sun. And the wild grape turns its foosted clus ers to the sun. The screprenera alone retain their summer garb: The velvet moss, which cling to those old trunks, Have changed their sober graps to rainbow dyca, And the stern rocks, of late to bare and cold, Grown warm and wrapped themselves in lichens gay. A silvery mist infects the atmosphere, Hangs o'er the shadowy take, creeps up the stately hills, And, changing to purple as it winds adown the vale, Hovers a moment on the horizon's bounds, And then pales into nothingness.

The mountain sides Are flecked with gleams of light, and spots of shade: Hare, goden cunshine spreads in millow rays, and thore Stretching across its heary breast, deep shadows lurk. Arrey, goiden cunshing spreads in millow rays, and t Siretching across its hoary breast, deep shadows luft A siteram, with many sturn, now lost to sight, And then, sain revealed, withis through the vale, Shimm ring in the early morning sun. A few white clouds float in the blue expanse, Their forms revealed in the class lake beneath, Which bears upon its breast a bark-canno; Cautionaly guided by a sinewy arm. High in the heavens three eagles prondly poise, Keeping their mountain exrice still in view, Athough their flight has borne them far away. Upon the cliff which beetles o'er the pool, Two Indians, peering from the brink, appear, Clad in the gaudy dress their nature cruyes: Robes of bright blue and scarlet, but which blend In happy union with the landscape round. Near by a wigwam stands—s fre within Sende out a ruddy glow—and from its roof, Cone-shaped, a spiral wreath of smoke asconds. Not far away, though deeper in the woods, Another hut, with red-men grouped about, Attracts the ere, and wakens endenose it ongints Attracts the eye, and wakens saddened thoughts Of that brave race who once were masters here, But now, like autumn's leaves, are dying out.

the Government.
The meeting was called to order by Rev. Anthony Atwood taking the chair.
The meiority retulutions, as published in The Press, were then read by Rev. William U. Robinson.
Rev. E. Reed objected to the swearing of allegiance, as he thought that it was unnecessary. He hoped that it would be stricken out. He was a Union man; his father was an old Revolutionary patriot. He did not object to thought in this case it was unnecessary.
Bev. Mr. Ayres hoped it would not be stricken from the report.

Bev. Mr. Ayres hoped it would not be stricken from the report. Nor. Mr. Ruth said he had voted for Mr. Lincoln, but he did not think it necessary to have the United States marshal come to the church. He was willing to swear, how ver, before the Mayor or the marshal if his loyalty was doubted. He thought twas irreverent. Mr. Fanery thought that the resolutions were good enough as they were, and he wanted to have the privi-lege of swearing allegiance to the old ship Union. Rev. James Neil made a few remarks in support of the resolutions.

Rev. James Neil made a few remarks in support of the resolutions. Rev. Mr. McLoughlin was opposed to the resolution. He could not see why this Conference should swear al-legiance. He could see how necessary it was for the Conference at St. Louis, but he could not see why it was requisite for the Philad+ johia Conference. It was coercing men to do what they did not want to do. The Rev. Mr. Thomas said he was in favor of the reso-lutions as reported by the committie. On motion of the Rev. Mr. Carrol, the meeting ad-journed. The subject will be easind discussed to dow

The subject will be again discussed to-day. MEETING OF THE BOARD OF GUAR-DIANS.—The regular stated meeting of the Board of Guardians of the Poor was held yesterday afternoon, President Maris in the chair. The house census was reported as follows:

No. 261 Scuth SECOND Street, in connection with their extensive Cabinet now manufacturing a superior article of G OF PURE COD-LIVER OIL. The reprignance of most patients to COD-LIVER OIL, and the inability of many to take it at all, has in-duced various forms for disguise for its administration that are familiar to the Medical Profession. Some of them answer in special cance, but more eiten the volticle neutralises the usual effect of the Oil, proving quite as unpalatable and of lees therapeutic value. The reprig-nance, namese, &c., to invalide, induced by disgust of the Oil, is entirely obviated by the use of our CAPSULIES OOD-LIVER OIL CAPSULIES have been much field lately in Europe, the experience there of the grading-saide from their use in both hospital and private grading-saide from the naturally suggested advantages, are suf-ficient to warrant our claiming the virtues we do for them, feeling assured their use will result in benefit and deserved favor.
