PHILADELPHIA, March 31, 1862.

Professors Bolles and Addays, 1220 Walmt street.

GENTS: The remarkable cure which I have derived from your method of applying ELEOTRICITY, sampells me to thus acknowledge the great obligations I am under to you for sustching me, as it were, from an immediate death. About two years ago, while a resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, I was visited with an attack of paralysis of the lower extremities, which rendered me almost earliefly unable to stand upon my limbs. I employed some of the most celebrated physicians to be found in that section, but received no appayent bonefit, and after a lapse of about eighteen months was taken with a spasm, which one of my physicians pronounced a fit of appliexy. Two weeks clapsed from that time before I became the least conscious of anything that had frainpired, nor could I concentrate my mind or converse upon any subject without becoming very visionary and excited, until I placed myself under your valuable treatment.

While in Ohio, and after my friends, my family, and ideas, instead of acquiring a knowledge of letters as the elements of words.

In the proper use of this method, a competent knowledge of the art of reading can be obtained by children or adults in a very few days, or weeks a most; and the advantage of it is specially obvious for adults, who have neither time nor patience to endure the tedious and seemingly useless process of alphabetical and monosyllable instruction which is usually adopted.

"THE BRILLE BEADER" is published in a cheap form, for general use, at 16 cents. The TABLETS, which are of use in teaching large classes, may be had in sheets for 4 cents each, or on eards for 17 cents each.
