Lieutenant Shirk's Report. UNITED STATES GUNDAT LEXINGTON, } PITTSBURG. Tenn., April 8, 1862. } SIN: On the morning of the 5th instant, while lying at "Crump's Landing," I hoad severe cannonading in the direction of Pitteburg. I got under way, and stood up the river to communicate with Lieutenant Command-ing Gwin, of the Tyler. Upon my reaching this place, I found that an attack had been made upon our army by the rebels in force. I returned to Crump's Lunding, to support the division under command of General Law. Wallace, when I found that his division had proceeded to join the main force, back of Pitteburg Landing. I then steemed back to this place, and no instructions reaching the gunboats from the commanding general on abore, we wereforced to femain inactive hearers of the desperate fight until the leit wing of our forces, having b-en forced back and completely turned, and the rebeis getting so near the river that the missiles from their batteries fell

HIS RECEPTION AT INDEPENDENCE HALL. The committee of Councils proceeded to the Continental Hotel shortly before ten o'clock yesterday, and at that hour the Parson and the committee proceeded in car-rieges to Independence Hall.

Hote: shi filly before ten o'clock yesterday, and at that hour the Parson and the committee proceeded in car-rieges to Independence Hall. At the Clustinut-street front of the hall, a stand had been erected draped with several flags, among which was the flag raised last March upon the hall by President Lincoln. A large conceurse had also gathered in anti-cipation of the proceedings. Arriving at the Hall, the distinguished guest was es-corted within the sacred edifice. Hare Mr. Charles 8. Trago made a brief speech of welcome the city's guest, and he had been delegated to welcome the city's guest, and he was happy to perform that office, knowing what the latter had written and suffered in the cause of his coun-try. We were happy to welcome him to this loyal city, and this sucred Hall was a fitting place for such a cera-mony. From this place emanated that immortal docu-ment, for the principles of which Mr Browolow has fought and suffered so much. This Hall has never been descrated by treason, nor even by the utterance of trea-sonable opinions, he believed. The spoaker then re-predict his earnors descurance of welcome, and alded a hope that, when the rebellion was crushed, Mr. Brown-low would return to his home to continue his distin-guished advocacy of the immortal principles of the De-claration. Mr. Brownlow replied that he would make his re-Brones at the stand in front of the Hall. The crupany then repaired to the stand, in front of the edifice, Mr. Brownlow being greeted with great cherring on his appearance. Mr. Trego then introduced Mr. Brownlow to the au-dience, which by this time had grown to be very large.

ADDRESS OF PARSON BROWNLOW. ADDRESS OF FARSON BROWNLOW. In reply, the Percon said that he regretted that on this beautiful morning, and is front of this temple of liberty, he could not do justice to the kind and unmerited wel-come he had received, as well as to himself. He felt it necessary to make some explanation in justice to himself. On account of the bronchist affliction from which he had previously suffered his voice was saily affected, and he was unable to speak on some occasions a great length of time as distinctly and locally as he desired. The time once was when he thought he spoke longer and made himself heard by more people than any other man in the country. But these days had long since passed away and were now unbered among the days before the flood. This much he filt was due the audience by way of ex-planation in case he should not be distinctly heard. He had delivered temperance apsoches and short Me-thodist aermons, with that view, party, but he had never planation in case he should not be distinctly heard. He had delivered temperance speeches and short Me-thedist sermons, with that vnew, partir, but he had never entirely recovered the use of his voice until he opened his batteries, in Cincinnati, fifteen days ago, on this in-finitely infernal rebellion, and then his voice came back again. [Appleuse.] He spoke at (Pike's Opera," in Cincinnati, for an hour and a half, with a force that would have enabled him to to heard heif a mile off. He attributed the recovery of his voice to the goodness of God and the justice of the Union cause. On his passage East he spoke too much, but, at all events, he could re-turn thanks for his noble reception. The speaker did not think he murited may thanks for oppesing the rebellion. He had simply done his duty, He had contended for the Union, and the Stars and Stripes, instead of that dish-rag, the Stars and Bars, which foats over the bogue Southern Confederacy. Every American citizen should stand up and do the same as he, and he should have have hisself if he had done less. But, while he honored the loyaity of the paopie of Phila-delphia, he thought it was easy to be loyai here, and south it was different, for a Union man was in great puril of subing and this to a man was in great puril of unling hem without a foothold if an emained

PROCEEDINGS IN INDEPENDENCE HALL. Upon the conclusion of his address Mr. Brownlow was escorted into Independence Hall, where he received the congratulations of his numerous friends. He was quite jaded, and great care was necessary to prevent the crowd from roubling him. A few would be admitted, and the duors then closed, in order that there should be no haste or disorder. He left the city during the afternoon for Bordentown. He may then go to Washington, as Senator Wilson spent some time with him yesterdars, and gave him an invita-tion from the President to visit the White House. Many East Teopressee refugees called, among them came a lady to inquire about her son. On being informed that he was a Secessionist, and had joined the robel army, her loyal heart sank within her-she fainted A Desirable FARM, containing 95 Acres of supe-rior land, six miles from Market-street Bridg., in Mont-gomery.connty. THE CATHEDRAL OF ST. PETER AND

THE CATHEDRAL OF ST. PETER AND ST. PAUL.—The architect of the Cathedral, at Logan Equare, has submitted to Bishop Wood a report of the operations upon the building size A pril. 1861. The re-port states that the unfinished work on the exterior and interior of the main dome has been completed. Much has been given to the plastering of the domes and the elaborately-ornamented ceiling cornice of the in-terior. This portion of the work has been excented with all the skill and care which it was possible to bestow on it, and with the best materials which could be procured. Every ornament is in full relief, and the work has been colored in distemper to represent Gaen stone, thus pro-ducing a more pleasing and harmonicus effect. Workmen are now segaged in plastering the penden-tives and lower part of the drain of the main dome, and will, next month, commence the work on the balance of the entablature, piers, pilasters, and arches. As this work is not of such an elaborate and device unant large force of workmen is employed, the whole interior plaster-ing can be completed during the month of August next. Nothing has as yet been done towards the service of the art angements, the vestibules, and organ loft.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS CONNECTED WITH THE M. E. CHURCH.—From an elaborate statement publiched by the Sunday-School Union of the Micholist Episcopal Church, we learn the following Sunday. school statistics, ending with the year 1861. Number of officers and teachers, 149,705; number of scholars, 826,239; volumes in Ubrary, 2,472,869 There are, in the total number of schools, 18,630 Bible classes, and 108,677; infant scholars. The expenses are set down at $139,578.

OBSERVANCE OF GOOD FRIDAY .- Yes-UBSERVANCE OF GOOD FRIDAY.--- Y es-terday Good Friday was obsetved with much solemnity by the Catholic churches of the city. Many churches of other denominations were also open. The season of Lent closed at noon yesterday. The churches will, until Sun-day, he decked with mourning, and the services partake of a solemn and gloomy character, contrasting strongly with what they will be upon Easter Sunday, when the robes of the clergymen will be brilliant and gaudy, and the accompariments indicative of rejoicing.
