The stock sold down to 61, and closes with reliers at that Catholic people of this country, said he, have plenty of money, and they have built this spiendid house. Their devotion to the Church knows no flagging. The speaker who had poured from their houses in the North to swell the army of the Union. He alluded to the vastressurces of the American Catholics. There were enough grouped at the corners of the streets to crowd several such The speaker paid a terse, trenchant compliment to the Emerald Isle that was applauded loudly on the men's side of the house. He pointed to the faces upturned, and said that none could distinguish the nativity of each man present. They were of all climes and modes of mind, citizens of a common country, and fused by the fire of reliion into one devotion to one God. Catholicism, said he, teaches loyalty, for no people love their temporal sovereign so well as the Catholic people love their prioses. Indeed, said he, we cannot build churches enough to accommodate our growing membership. commonwe our growing memoerang.

The splendid edifice just opened would be a monument through all lime, to be admited by people of all faiths.
Worship would be celebrated to the Most High within its Worship would be celebrated to the Most High within its walls, and it would be known through ages as a testimonial of Catholic geneosity and Catholic ambittion. "Union," said the speaker, is taught by the word of God, and is particularly an element of the Catholic distrine. No disloyalty and Secresion exists where there is a strong Catholic element.

The speaker closed by predicting that the church would soon be finished, and pledged one credit of the Catholic people to the furtherance of the work.

He closed amidst great appliance, mingled with laugheter, at certain willficking in which he indulged.

Father McGrane, of St John's Church, then delivered an address. He quoted from the vespor service, "This day the Lord has made us; let us all rejoice and be glad." Bow appropriate same here, are these words to the total of the wek will considerably exceed three million dollars.

The City of Baltimore, for Liverpool to day, takes on $416,000 in specie; the Bararia, for Southampton, $250,000, making a total of $680,000.

A remonstrance is circulating among the bolders of Milwankee and Prairie Du Chien stock against the farm mortrage law just passed by the Legislature of Wisconsin. This law requires the railroads of the State to pay off all the old farm mertgages by the appropriation of twelve per cent. of the gross receible annually. The Prairie Du Chien road's preportion would be somewhere a vout $90,000 annually. This measure is of a piece of the former legislation of this notorious state Legislature. At the same time, we see in the Milwankee papers the following call, looking to the enforcement under the new law of the farm-mortgage claims: ylad." In victory of stancover earth, and hell, was being celebrated on Easter Sunday by all good Catholics. War for the moment had stilled, and all Christians were united in proclaiming their gratifude and praise. The address of this speaker was chiefly of a religious character, dwelling particularly upon the sacred remembrances of the day. He alluded only incidentally to the building, and hoped that it would serve the purpose of strengthenand hoped that it would serve the purpose of strengthening the Church. There should be no narrow mindenness when the glory of God was concerned. Within a year the temple in which they worshipped would be completely finished and opened with grand Tz Denns. Before that time, he hoped, peace would be restored, the Union revived, and the Constitution again be asserted. [Applause.] He wished to see the North and South remaied; but not until the Government had vindicated itself by the rimaph of its arms. He pointed to the dome surmounting the high sites, and called upon the people by their contributions to forward the work. The Irial Catholics were free in America, and equal with the people of any denomination. Of old they were obliged to elebrate Mass tealthly and leside ditches, in remow place. Wherever the American fing waved, however, tury were free to worship where and how they chose, and from dared to molest them. [Loud applause.] He closed with a hope for reunion and victory.

The Rev. Jeremiah F. Shanahan rector of the Preparatory Seminary, made a speech of some length, followed by Rev. Dr. O'Hara, Vicar-ideneral of the Diocese, who dwelt upon the architectural excellence of the Cathelal, and stated that in boldness of cesign and beauty of execution it was not surpassed by any religious edifics in the world. It was cruciform, emileman of its religious symbol and its dome stretched toward heaven, like the great dome of the sky. When conservate it would honor alike the Church, Catholic liberality, and one city. ## By order of Committee.

The peaker announced that the Bishop would pronounce the pontifical blessing, granting at the same time a plenary indulgence, as the Supreme Pontifi at Rome was probably doing at the same hour. He explained the meaning of a plenary indulgence, which was not a forgiveness for sin uncommitted, nor a liberty to commit sin, as had been stated.

The Catholic Church, however, did profess to have supreme control of the keys of heaven and hell, and, there-The Uatholic Church, however, did profess to have supreme control of the keys of heaven and hell, and, therefore, of the freedom and custody of sculls. He read from the altar the pontifical letter, giving the requeste authority to the Bishon, and prescribing the mode of administering the benediction. THE PONTIFICAL BLESSING. At a signal a great bell, placed at the main entrance, struck, and all the people immediately knelt. The Bishop then read the pontifical blessing from a scroll, held by the hands of two priests. He were his mitre, and held in his left hand a gilded crozier, looking over the heads of the kneeling priests upon the great concourse of bowed beads. Exchange is still close, but the bankers allow premiums in orly a few cases. As matters run it matters but little whether they keep large balances to their credit in the East or retain their funds in their own yautts, so that the closeness is not a matter of any moment. The Boston Traveller says: The plentiful and constantly increasing abundance of paper currency, both local and general, has not yet caused any material improvement in business or stocks, which shows that the margins for the coming rise in market values have not thus far been encrosched upon, but are still in the future for the benefit of those who may have been fortunate enough to purchase at low prices what the weak, timid, and needy holders are discussed or compelled to sell: besides, it is said, in the street currency is on a par with our own, by the standard of freaming notes, are at 1% 62 primiting—a demand cannot exist here at higher rates, and, with an ample supply of coin, much greater than the wants of business require, we do not see any reason for the higher quotations.
