persons, located in one thousand different towns, would share this work with us, by investing from five to fifty dollars in the latest and best publications, we would furnish them the works at the lowest rate, and their investstrengthened and supported instead of weakoned and embarrassed. No one need lose a dollar, simply the use of it for a time. Will not at least one hundred commence, by an inquestion, 'How shall the world be supplied with Spiritual and Progressive works ?' We are sure the plan will work." Not the least doubt of it ! A more simple method of putting from $5,000 to $50,000 into the moneytill of Andrew Jackson Davis & Co. could not be devised. As for security-is there not the promise that "no one need lose a dollar, simply the use of it for a time." Mr. Davis' disin. terested proposition proves that, when the Almighty dollar is to be sacked, Spiritualism comes down from cloudland, and sharply looks Besides dealing in such books as the above, Mr. Davis edits and publishes a weekly journal, called, "The Herald of Progress .- Deveted to the Discovery and Application of Truth-Independent, Progressive, Reformstory," and from the office of that paper has just been issued "The Progressive Annual for 1862 : comprising an Almanae, a Spiritual Register, and a General Calendar of Reform " It comes before the public when nearly half the year has elapsed, but the idea of its publication did not occur, it appears, " until the current year was several wocks under way." The avowed object of this Annual, we are told on the preface, "is neither to build up a sect, nor to herald the op rations of a clique. It is designed to impart information concorning principal persons and important movements in the different departments of thought and reform : at once affording proof of the world's progress, and suggesting, by a broad and Catholic spirit, the real unity of all Progressive Movements-the true fraternity of The Annual opens with a Platform of Progress, one plank of which is that "the Old and New Testaments, in common with other spiritual books, are our friends and teachers, but not our guides or masters." It is not the mere repudiation of Holy Writ which is offensive here, but the overweening vanity and audacious self-exa tation of Spiritualists writers in putting their own productions on an equality with the Word of God. In their creed, Davis' "Great Harmonia," Straus' " Life of Jusus," and Tom Paine's theological works, being "other Spiritual books," stand in the same category with the Bible. We might single out other passages for comment, but shall copy only one-viz : " Resolved, That 'evil,' so-called, is not a transgression of any law, either physical or moral; but that evil (and sin) arise from internal conditions and from external circumstances, over which individuals have no absolute, but only partial, control; therefore, that the harmonial philosophy teaches universal charity toward both the agents and the victims of crime, and points to the progressive improvement and harmonization of those conditions and these circumstances which mould and influence the human character, prior as well as subsequent to the event of birth." The monthly calendar, in this Progressive Annual, is well executed. Each month's record is backed with reflections intended to convey moral teaching. Here is one bit of HOPE FOR ALL -During sessions of clairvoyan hope for ALL --During sessions of charveyant peregrinations in quest of treasures in the hearts of the people, we have many times put forth spirit-feelers, stretching outward over the world's moun-taits and valleys, and have, on such excursions, dis-severid more than one mine of human worth--old men, with young feelings--young men, with half-cruched hopes and no aspirations-- and young wocrushed hopes and no aspirations—and young wo-men, and women no longer young, oppressed by un-favorable surroundings, or struggling against ex-ternal barriert—yet, over all, there shine the boly stars of high heaven, the how of promise bends across the lowlands and the mountains, and a better world blooms effulgently not far from each human soul. Nothing is lost. There is hope for all. Here, a few pages farther on, is a morsel of

by contrast, amid a vast quantity of impiety and nonsense, like a jewel on a dunghill : INDIAN SUMMER SONG. BY MARY F. DAVIS. Slowly the shadows creep Over the valley deep, Sofuly the sunbeams play over the glen, Richly the forests glow, Gently the waters flow, Low breathe the winds o'er the dwellings of men. Wondering, worshipful, Where dwalls the Beautiful, Glady I watder with Nature and thee, Hearing the song she sings, Loving the smiles she flings Over the mountain and over the sea. While richest hues are spread Underneath, overhead-Ruby and emerald, jusper and gold— And down the mountain aide Rivers of radiance glide, Like the transfigured—the mountain of old— With Nature and with thee, Licercing of stream and tree, Joyous I winder in woodlands afar, While o'er my spirit floats Music of angel notes, Music of realms beyond sunlight and star. We beg to suggest, however, that Mrs. Davis evidently has not read her Bible as carefully as the "other Spiritual books." If she had, she would have remembered, when witting the penultimate verse of the above, that it was not the mountain that was transfigured. The words in Matthew (chap. xvii., v. 2) relate how Jesus brought Peter, James, and John up into a high mountain apart, "and was transfigured before them." The locality is believed to have been Mount Tabor, in Gulilee, and it was He, not the mountain, New Publications. Harper & Brothers have just issued several new books, which are on sale at J. B. Lippincott's, North Fourth street, and at T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Chestnutstreet. We can make but mere mention of war correspondence. In a handsome octavo volume, with maps and numerous engraved views of places, Captain Riebard F. Burton, the well known Oriantal and African traveller, gives an account of his visit to, residence in, and experience of, the capital of Utah. His book, entitled " The City of the Saints, and Across the Rocky Mountains to Cali-Trollope, or a good cynical tale by Thackeray or Sula. It is full of interest, after the render fairly gets into the story, for the commendatement is diffuse and dreadfully old maid-ish. known as Union people. This they have agreed to, and the war is now being conducted in Florida on the most a civil" terms. Only this morning, three rebel staff officers, in full gray uniforms, with their ladies on their arms, came down to an old saw-mill, directly opposite, and within two hundred and fifty yards of our anchor age, sat down, and remained more than an hour, surveying us with their opera glasses, waving their delicate cambrics, and occasionally sending a ---- to the Yankee officers. It was a little the coolest military manœuvre I ever saw, and exhibited more confidence in our hono than I should cure to place in theirs. Yesterday, differ cht parties did the same thing, and were near enjoying a closer view of the Hessian gunboats. Our captain, notiging their effrontery, ordered one of the cutters to be manned and armed, and was about sending an officer to cut them off, when a young Georgian liontenant "came alongside in a small boat, with three soldier oarsmen, under a flag of truce. He bore some unsealed letters, and at first declined coming on board, but a heavy squal coming up he changed his mind and remained several hours, part of which time was profitably employed in ex-hibiting and describing "our pet lambs and babies," as the jolly tars have dubbed the huge black engines of desuperior. I think he concluded, from the size of their woral organs, that when they spoke in carnest, there would soon be "nuf ced." Although this little episode interfered with our "bagging" the colonel, we may get a third chance at him, though the excessive leniency shown prisoners of war in the North rather discourage We cannot ascertain the precise number of troops in and about this place, but presume there are not more than twelve or fifteen hundred. The Fourth Florida Volunteers, Colonel Maxwell, and a Mississippi regiment are said to be here, under command of Brigadiar General Trapier. They are encamped in the suburbs, only a few companies being allowed in the city, through fear of hombardment. Several days ago, as we were passing their barracks, on our way to Magnolla and Piccolata, it was with great difficulty the officers restrained their men from firing on us. Luckily for them that they did not, as our caltains are not the men to be trifted with. Everything continues quiet up the river; nothing hostile but the sand flies and mosquitoes. Flags of truce have been rather frequent of late. We have picked up some deserters and made some prisoners. From these "pumping," scanty details of the capture of New Orcans, affairs around Savannah, &c. Numbers of loyal families are being removed to Fernandina and St. Augustine, both of which places are occupied by our troops. The weather is very warm, though much modified by the land and sca breezes and the southwest tradewinds, which are very perceptible. Both vessels piial. are very healthy, rather anxious to be ordered to North since the 11th ult., and no communication with our own forces since the 17th. Rather isolated P. Such is the common report. About eleven o'clock the party that had torn down the dag came up St. Charles street in triamph, and very soon the Federal bontine, torn into shords, was dis-ritianted among the exclude multitude assembled in the vicinity of the City Holl. The holishing of the dag, if done as represented, was an unauthorized and unjustifi-able act, pending the decision of the city authorities in regard to the donard for surreader, and our citizens were perfectly justified in terring it down.

THE AFFAIR AT THE MINT.

THE AFFAIR AT THE MINT. In our extra, published yesterday afternoon, we had a fried rotice of the tearing down of the Federal flag which had been hashed on the mint by a party of the enemy early in the morning. We have since heard further par-ticulars of the affair. It appears that the holisting of the lag was the act of a boat's crew from one of the enemy's vessels. We can only conclude that this was done to test the endurance and patience of our people, for it is difficult to imagine sing, the act-anginetilable and in-sulting as it was made, the circumstances—could have been committed without the knowledge, comivance, or autharity of the maxa officers of the energy. It also appears that the report that the party who tore
