Official Despatch from Gen. Banks rela. tive to the Retreat from the Shenando-ah Valley. HEADQUARTERS ARMY SHENANDOAH. REPORT of the March of the First division, Fifth corps de armée, from Strasburg, Virginia, to Williaman Maryland, on the 24th and 25th days of May, 1862: Meryland, on the 24th and 25th days of May, 1882:

HON. E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War: Information was received on the evening of alay 22d that the enemy, in very large force, had descended on the guard at Front Royal, Col. Kenly, 1st Maryland Regiment, commanding, burning the bridges, and driving our troops towards Strasburg with great loss. Owing to what was deemed an extravagant statement of the enemy's atreagth, these reports were received with some distrust; but a regiment of infaultry, with a strong detachment of cavalry and a section of artillery, wore immediately sent to reinforce Colonel Kenly'. Later in the evening, despatches from fugitives, who had escaped to Winchester, informed us that Colonel Kenly's force had been destroyed, with but few exceptions, and the *nenry, 15,000 or 20,000 strong, were advancing by rapid marchestapon Winchester. were advancing by rapid marchadopon Winchester.
Orders were immediately given to halt the reinforcements sent to Front Royal, which had moved by differen ments sent to Front Royal, which had noved by different routes, and detachments of troops under experienced officers were sent in every direction to explore the roads loading from Front Royal to Strasburg. Middletown, Newtown, and Whochester, and ascertain the force, position, and purpose of this andden movement of the enemy. It was soon found that his pickets were in possession of every road, and rumors from every quarter represented him in movements in rear of his pickets, in the direction of our cump. him in movements in rear of his pickets, in the direction of our camp.

The extraordinary force of the enemy could no longer be doubted. It was apparent, also, that they had a more extended purpose than the capture of the brave interested the purpose than the capture of the brave in the tendent of the purpose could be nothing less that the detect of my own command, or its possible capture by occupying Winchester, and by this movement intercopting supplies or reinforcements, and coutting off all possibility of retreat.

It was also apparent from the reports of fugitives, prisoners, Union men, and our own reconnotiting parties, that the three divisions of the enemy's troops known to be in the valley, and embracing at least 25,000 men, were united and close upon us in some enterprise not yet developed.

The suggestion that, had their object been a surprise, they would not have given in tice of their approach by an road—our outposts were live miles in advance, and daily reconnoiseances made for a distance of twelve miles towards Woodstock.

Under this interpretation of the enemy's plans, our position demanded instant decision, and action. Three-courses were open to us. Ist. A retreat acress Little North Mountain to the Potoma river on the west. 2d. An attack t pon the enemy's flank, on the Front Royal road. 3d. A rapid movement sirect upon Winchester, with a view to anticipate his occupation of the town by slezizing it ourselves, thus placing my command in communication with its original base of operations, in the line of reinforcements by Harper's Ferry and Martineburg, and securing a safe retreat in case of disaster. To remain at Sirasburg was to be surrounded, to move over the mountains was to absolute our tain at the outset, and to subtains was to abandon our train at the outset, and to subsuccor; and to altack the enemy in such overwhelming force could only result in certain destruction. It was, force could only result in certain construction. As was, otherefore, determined to enter the lists with the enemy, it a race or a battle, as he should choose, for the possession of Winchester, the key of the valley, and for us the

The March.

At 3 o'clock A. M., the 24th instant, the reinforcements, infantry, artillery, and cavalry, sent to Oclonel Keoly, were recalled; the advace quard, Colonel Donnelly's brigade, were ordered to return to Strasburg; several huncred disabled men, left in our charge by Shields' division, were put upon the march, and our wagon-train ordered forward to Winchester, under escort of cavalry and infantry. General Hatch, with nearly our whole force of cavalry and six pieces of artillery, was charged with the protection of the rear column, and the desiruction of any stores for which transportation was not provided, with instructions to remain in front of the town as long as possible, and hold the commy in check, our expectations of attack belsg in that discetton. All these orders were executed with incredible alacrity, and soon after 9 o'clock the column was on the march, Ool, Donnelly in tront, Ool. Gordon in the centre, and Gen. Hatch in the rear.

The column had passed Cedar creek, about three miles fr.m Straeburg, with the exception of the rear guard, still in front-of Streeburg, when information was received from the front that the enemy had attacked the train, and was in full possession of the road at Middletown. This report was confirmed by the return of fagitives, recugees, and wagons, which came tumbling to the rear in fearul confusion. rear in fearul confusion

It being apparent new that our immediate danger was in front, the troops were ordered to the head of the cohum, and the train to the rear, and, in view of a possible necessity of our return to Strasburg, Capt. James M.
Abert, Torographical Corps, who associated with him
#the Zouaves d'Afrique, Capt. Collis, was ordered to prepare Cedar creek bridge for the flames, in order to prevent a pursuit in that direction by the enemy.

This affair occurred under my own observation, and I have great pleasure in vonching for the admirable conduct of officers and men. We lost one men killed and some wounded. This episode with the change of front, oxupied nearly it would have been thrown into such dire confusion as to have made a successful continuation of our march impossible. Pending this contest, C-t. Brodhead, of the 1st Michigan Cavalry, was offered to advance and if possible, to cut his way through and occupy Winchester. It was the report of this energetic officer that gave us the first assurance that our course was yet clear, and he was the first of our column to enter the town.

The Second to hand

The Second Combat.

The Second Combat.

When it was first reported that the enemy had pushed between us as d Winenester. General Hatch was ordered to advance with all his available cavalry from Strasburg, leaving Cl. De Forrest to cover the rear and destroy stores not provided with transportation. Maj. Yought, 5th New York Cavalry, had been previously ordered to reconnoitre the Front Royal road, to ascertain the postition of the enemy, whom he encountered in force near Middletown, and was compelled to fall back, immediately followed by the enemy's loss is n t known.

After repended sitempate to force a passage through the lines of the enemy, now advanced to the pike, Geogral Hatch, satisfied that this result could not be accompished without great loss, and supposing our army to have proceeded but a short distance, turned to the left and moved upor a parallel road, and made several ineffectual attempts to effect a junction with the main column. At Newt way, however, he found Ool. Gordon building the enemy in check, and joined his brigade. Major Collins, with three companies of cavalry, mistaking the point where the main body of the cavalry left the road, darled upon the enemy until stopped by a barricade of wagons, and the tempessuous fire of infantry and artillery. Bis loss mut have been severe.

Six companies of the 5th New York, Col. From this point the protection of the rear of the column devolved upon the forces under Colonel Gordon. The Third Combat

The guard having been separated from the column, and the reur of the train having been attacked by an increased force near the bridge between Newtown and Kernstown, Colonel Gordon was directed to send back the 2d Massachusetts, Lieutenant Colonel Andrews commanding, the 27th Lidians, Colonel Colgrove, and the 22th New York, Lieutenant Colonel Brown, to rescut the rear of the train, and hold the enomy in check. They found him at Newtown, with a strong force of infantry, sattlilery, and cavalry. artillery, and cavairs, was dealoyed in the field, supported by the 28th New York, and the 27th Indians, and ordered to drive the onemy from the town, and the battery was at the same time so placed as to silence the guas of the enemy.

Both these objects were quickly accomplished. They found it impossible to reach M deletown, so as to enable the cavalry under General Hatch to join the column, or cover entirely the rear of the train. Large bodies of cover entirely the rear of the train. Large bodies of the enemy's cavalry passed upon our right and left. and the increased vigor of his novements demonstrated the rapid advance of the man body. A cavalry charge nade upon our troops was received in squares on the right and on the roops and in the line of the left, which repelled his assault, and saired time to re-form the train, to cover its rear, and to burn the disabled wagons. This affair eccupied several hours, the regiments having moved to the rear about six o'clock, and not rea hing the town until after twelve.

A full roport by Col. Gordon, who commanded in person, is enclosed herewith. The principal loss of the 2d Mayachusetts occurred in this action.

The Fight at Winchester. The Fight at Winchester.

The strength and purpose of the enemy was to us un-known when we reached Winchester, except upon sur-nise and vague rumors from Front Royal. These rumors were strengthened by the vigor with which the enemy had presend our main column, and defeated as every point efforts of detachments to effect a junction with the main efforts of detachments to effect a junction with the main column.

At Winchester, however, all suspicion was realized on the subject; all classes—Secessionists, Unionists, refugers, ingitives, and prinoners—argued that the enemy's lorce, at or near Winchester, was overwhelming, razing from 25,000 to 30,000. Rebel officers who came slate our camp with entire unconcern, supposing that their own toops occupied the town as a matter of course, and were captured, confirmed these statements; and added that an attack would be made upon us at day-break. I determined to test the substance and strength of the enemy by actual collision, and measures were promptly taken to prepare our troops to meet them. They had taken up their pealitons on entering the town after dark, without expectations of a battle, and were at disadvastrages compared with the enemy.

The rattling of musketry was heard during the latter part of the night, and before the break of day a sharp engagement occurred at the outposts. Soon after four o'clock the artillery opened its fire, which was continued without casation till the close of the engagement.

The right of our line was occupied by the 3f Brigade, Colonel George H. Gordon commanding. The regiments were strongly posted and near the centre, covered by stone walls from the fire of the enemy. This engagement held the enemy in check for five The forces engaged were greatly unequal. Indis-The forces engaged were greatly unequal. Indisposed to accept the early rumous concerning the enemy's strength, I reported to the department that it was about 15,000. It is now conclusively shown that not test than 25,000 were in position and would have been brought into action. On the right and left their great superiority of numbers was plainly felt and seen. The signal officers from elevated positions were enabled to count the reginental standards, indicating a strength equal to that I have stated. may estated.

My own command consisted of two brigades of less than four thousand men, all told, with nine hundred (cavalry), ten Parrot guns, and one battery of six-pounders smooth-bore cannon. To this should be added the 10th Maine regiment of infantry, and five companies of Maryland cavelry, stationed at Winchester, which were engaged in the section. The loss of the coemy was treble that of our in killed and wounded. In prisoners, ours greatly exceeded theirs.

Officers where word I cannot doubt have stated, as the result of their own observation, that our men were fired upon from private dwellings, in passing through Winchester; but I am credibly informed, and gladly believe, that the atrocities said to have been perpetrated upon our rounded soldiers, by the rebels, are greatly exaggers or entirely unitrue.

Our moreh was turned in the direction of Martinsburg
—hoping there to meet with reinforcements—the troops meving in three parallel columns, each protected by an efficient rost guard. Pursuit by the enemy was prompt and vigorous, but our movements were rapid and without and vigorous, but our movements were rapid and without oss.

A few miles from Winchester the sound of the steam whistle, heard in the direction of Martinsburg, strengthened the hope of reinforcements, and stirred the blood of the men like a trumpet. Soon after two squadrons of the men like a trumpet. Soon after two squadrons of the men like a trumpet. Soon after two squadrons of the men like a trumpet. Soon after two squadrons of the anticipated supports, and were received with desfound recheers. Becary man felt like turning back upon the enemy. It proved to be the 1st Maryland Cavalry, Liout. Col. Wetschky, sent out in the morning as a train-guard. Hearing the gnus, they had returned to participate in the fight. Advantage was taken of this stirring incident to reorganize our columns, and the march was continued with renewed spirit and order. At Martinsburg the column halted two and half hours, the rear guard remaining until seven is the event of the attack on Front Royal. It was a march of fifty-three miles, thirty-five of which were performed in one day. The birty-five of which were performed in one day. The cene at the river, when the rear guard arrived, was of the most ability, when the test general survey, was of the most ability and exciting description. A thousand camp free were burning on the hill-side; a thousand carriages, of every description, were crowded upon the banks, and the broad river between the exhausted troops and their coveted rest.

The ford was too deep for the teams to cross in regular encession; on'y the strongest horses, after a few experiments, were allowed to essay the passage of the river before morning.

The single ferry was occupied by the ammunition trains, the ford by the wagons.

The cavelry was recure in its form of crossing. The troops only had no transportation. Fortunately, the trains we had so seduously guarded served us in turn. Several boats belonging to the ponton train, which we had brought from Strasburg, were launched, and devoted exclusively to their service. It is seldom that a river-crossing of such magnitudes attended with greater success. There never were more grateful hearts in the same number of men than when, at midday on the 26th, we stood on the opposite shore. we stood on the opposite shore.

My command had not suffered an attack and rout, but accomplished a premeditated march of near sixty miles in the face of the enemy, defeating his plans and giving him battle wherever he was found. Our loss is atased in detail, with the names of the killed, wounded, and missing, in the full report of Brig Gen.

A.S. Williams, commanding division; to which reference is made. is made.

The whole number of killed is 38; wounded, 155; missing, 711. Total loss 905.

It is undoubtedly true that many of the missing will yet return, and that the entire loss may be assumed as not exceeding seven hundred. It is also probable that the number of killed and wounded may be larger than that always that hat the arguments loss will not be changed.

All our guns were saved
Our wagon train consisted of nearly 500 wagons. Of this number, 55 were lost. They were Lot, with out few exceptions, abandoned to the enemy, but were burned upon the road. Nearly all of our supplies were thus saved. The stores at Front Royal, of which I had no knowledge until my visit to that post on the 21st instant, and those at Winchester, of which a considerable amount was destroyed by our troops, are not embraced in this was destroyed by our troops, are not embraced in this statement.

The number of sick men in the hospital at Strasburg, belonging to Gen. Williams' division, was one hundred and eighty nine, one hundred and twenty-five of whom were left in the hospital at Winchester, under charge of Surgeon Liscoln R. Stone, 2d Massachusetts; sixty-four were left in the hospital at Strasburg, in linding attendants, under charge of Surgeon Gillespie, 7th Indiana, and Assistant Surgeon Porter, United States army.

Eight of the au geous of this division voluntarily surrendered themselves to the enemy in the hospita's and on the field, for the care of the sick and wounded placed under their charge. They include, in addition to those above named, Brigade Surgeon Peale, at Winchester; Surgeon Mitchell, 1st Maryland, at Front Boyat; Surgeon Ado'phus, Best's Battery, U. S. A.; Surgeon Johason, 16th Indiana, and Surgeon Francis Leland, 2d Massachusetts, on the field. son, 16th Indiana, and Surgeon Francis Leland, 2d Massachusetts, on the field.

It is seldom that men are called upon to make a greater sacrifice of comfort, health and liberty, for the benefit of those entrusted to their charge. Services and sacrifices like these ought to entitle them to some more important recognition of their devotion to public duty than the mere historical record of the fact. The report of the Mcdical Birector, Surgeon W. S. King, exhibits the disposition of nearly 1,000 sick and disabled men left at Strasburg by thields' division, upon its removal to the Rappalannock valley. The First Conflict.

The head of the reorganized column, Colonel Donnelly commanding, ercountered the enemy in ferce at Mi.dle-town, about thirteen miles from Winohester. Three hundred thoops has been seen in town, but it soon appeared that layer force were in the rear. The brigade halted, and the 46th Pennsylvania, Col. Knipe, was ordered to ponetrate the woods on the right, and dislodge the onemy askirmlehers. They were supported by a section of Cothran's New York battery. Five companies of the enemy askirmlehers. They were supported by a section of Cothran's New York battery. Five companies of the woods, and our artillery, masked at first by the infantry, epened fire upon them. Urawford, who had reported for duty, but were jet massigned to -operate commands. They accompanied the column throughout the march, and rendered most valuable assistance.

My hanks are also due to the gentlemen of my staff: Major D. D. Perkins, chief of staff; Captain James W. Abrit, of the topographical segineers; Captain William Shiffler, Captain Frederick Manthur, and Captain Frederick De Hanterille, for their arduous labors.

It gives me pleasure also to commend the conduct of Col. Donnelly and Col. Gordon, commanding the two brigads. I would also respectfully ask the attention of the Department to the reports of the several efficers commanding detachments reparate from the main column, and to the officers named in the report of General The signal corps, Lieutenant W. Mr. Spence had addressed another communication to the Times. The business of tactics in an unequal war is to exhaust the strength of the enemy before grapping him in action. Gen. Halleck's position at Coriath appears unaccountable. Public Amusements. MRS. KEBBLE'S READINGS .- Mrs. Kemble concluded, on Saturday afternoon, her course of readings from Shakapeare. Its success, considering the lateness of the season, and the high price of admission, must have been gratifying to an ambition fostered by even higher claims than hers. The audiences have been drawn from our highest social and intellectual circles, and have steadily increased in numbers, till Saturday's matines presented a brilliant throng—varied in its tastes and judgments, but miform in its cultivation and refinement. The play se ected was " Hamlet." Its rendition well epitomized Mrs-Kemble's excellencies and defects, and an average of our former criticisms upon the other plays would give our pinion upon the presentation of "Hamlet" For-to take he unwelcome part of fault-finding first—there was the ame yelding up of Lonest truth to showy offect, the same legrading of the conscientious artist with a single eye and or the author alone, to the adroit artisan with many eyes. Mrs. Kemble finds that she can start the tender nerves of her lady admirers into a pleasing little flutter by quick alternation of roaring and muttering; and why shall she not take advantage of said nervous organization? If a rapid outburst and as rapid a Suppression of sound pass for power, why should not Mrs. Kemble make the public hallucination save her the outlay of real histrionic force? If the recoie will, for the sake of having their sen sations tickled, accept and pay for William Shakspeare as altered, through insertions, transpositions, inaue re petitions, and vital omissions, by Mrs. Kemble, is within the bounds of ordinary human self-control to despise such a premium on clap-trap? Asking the ques tion seriously, we answer it mournfully in the negative t is not within the bound of ordinary self-control. But the artist who recognizes the divinity of his mission the man or woman legitimately ordained as High-Priest in God's temple of the Beautiful, and fittingly impressed with the sacredness of the responsibility of guiding men's morals through their tastes—ought to be above the ordinary level, and pander to no personal greed of ap-plause, to no popular clamor for mere effect. We thought to see in Mrs. Kemble such an artist, too true to herself to debase her calling by employing the ordinary adventitions means of the stage. In her capabilities, and her occasional expressions of them, we have not been disappointed. No one pays more ess of ever hearing again Rosalind, or Celia, or Adam. or Miranda, or Portia. But it is just because we so highly esteem Mrs. Kemble's powers that we deprecate so vehemently their frequent prostitution. We cannot lint demand that she subordinate her own personality and give us Shakspeare: First, by making no alterations in the text by transposition, transformation, or interjec-tion; secondly, by more definite, accurate, and uniform characterization, instead of sudden and spasmodic characterizing; and, thirdly by net falsifying or insufficiently interpreting the supporting characters of a scene through the desire of presenting the principal personage in too startling a way. We could support these charge by numerous examples from the reading of Hamlet, if mace allowed; but they will stand without further proc being the conclusions of the bulk of that part of Mrs. Kemble's audience that was neither blinded by adulation nor misled by prejudice. It is but justice to add that the accoustic facilities of PHILADELPHIA, June 7, 1882. At no time since the breaking out of the war has money been so plenty and stocks so engerly sought. Capitalists in the manufacturing line finding that business would be dull, and that supplies of goods on hand would far exceed the demand for a long time to come, withdrew their furds, and the state of the country at that time tories were stopped; mills and many warehouses were closed; the only line of business that promised fairly for investment was the military, and a great many people hyestment was the ministry, and a great many people bad dcubts of the ability of the United States to pay her debts; her issues were hawked about the streets; her credit was assailed at home and abroad, and but few were found who had the courage to invest boildly in the notes of the United States while they were depre ciated. But a turning point came. The Union armies took the field; victory followed victory on land, river, Still the Union cause triumphed, and United State securities rose rapidly to par; those of the fattering faith received inspiration and hastily invested. The issue was no longer the doubtful affair it was immediately succeeding the battle of Bull Run. Fort Donelson had more effect on the Northern people than all the promise of Secretary Chase. In his words there was food for doubt; in his calculations there was a liability or a poswas nothing but the dawning of power; in the grasp of the giant eagle was seen already the torn remnants of the Southern serpent; in the booming of the big guns of the Northern soldiers was heard the death warrant of the Southern Confederacy, and all the spirits of the receive attention from those who had long held their money locked up in their cellars or hing idly in bank. The flow of money became enormous; stocks advanced rapidly, and the timid men of last year have become the excited and bold men of the present and we have to nate that the good work still is moving on, and stocks with few exceptions, are still advancing. The great freshet still continues to have a bad effect of Lehigh Navigation and other stocks in the Lehigh Valley. Lehigh scrip fell to 33%, a decline in the last three days of 7; the shares brought 48, a decline of 6 in the ame time. Schus kill Navigation stock brought 6 %, ar advance; the preferred 15, remaining firm. Reading Bailroad was nervous, advancing at the highest figure which was 27 1/4, 1 1/4 over yesterday's price; the closing price had a slight advance of 27 1/2. United States 7-303 sold well at 106 1/2; the 6s, 1881, registered, 103. Philadelphia 6s, new, at 10214, being an advance. Arch and other city railways were more in demand at generally advanced prices. Girard College advanced & Bank shares were dull.

An active trade has been apparent in the first issue demand notes atrates of premium varying from % to 1 per cent. Large sales have been made lately. Gold dvanced & to-day, and closed with an upward tendency advanced & to-day, and closed with an upward tendency.

Philadelphia Markets. June 7-Evening. FLOUR.—The market continues dull and unsettled there is very little inquiry, either for export or home use, and the sales comprise 300 bbls common to good superfine at $4.31 Mm4.75, 1.000 bbls good Northwestern extra family at $4 87 % 05, and 200 bbls Ohio at $5.25 $\text{$\psi}$ bbl. The sales to the trade are limited within the same range of prices for superfine and extras, and from $5.50 to $6 50 for good and choice extra family and fancy brands. in a small way at $3.25 $4" bbl. Gora Meal is steady, with sales of 200 bbls at $2.62 \(\) for Penna meal.

What :—There is not much doing, on account of the high views of holders and the light offerings; some 5,000 bushels found busers at 117 m1182 for good to prime Pennsylvania reds, mostly at the latter rate; affoat, including white at 125 m135c, the latter for good Kentucky. Byo is steady at 66c, with small receipts and sales of Pennsylvania. Corn is less active, but the recaipts are light, and about 2,500 bushels yclow sold at 50 m536 sidnat, the latter for prime Delaware; 2,000 bushels fair white sold at 50c. Oats are firmer, and some holders refuse 49c for Pennsylvania; 1,000 bushels Scathern sold at 33c. in a small way at $3.25 $ bbl. Corn Meal is sleady, fuse 490 for Pennsylvania: 1,000 bushels Southern sold at 380.

BARK.—Quercitron Bark continues steady, with further sales of 25 hhds lst No. 1 at $33.50 $\frac{1}{2}$ ton.

COTTON.—There is very little doing in Cotton, the firmaces of holders limiting operations.

GROCKRISS AND PROVISIONS.—There is little or nothing doing, and no changes to note in either.

WHISKY.—The market is firmer, and barrels more inquired for at 25c for thio, and 242624 $\frac{1}{2}$ for Pennsylvania. Drudge is worth 22c.

s without material change in price.

The sales are 12 600 bbls at $4.20@4 25 for superfine. State; $4.45\(\pi\)4.55 for extra State; $4.20\(\pi\)4.25 for superfine Western; $4.44\(\pi\)4.65 for common to medium extra Western, and $5.055.15 for common to good shipping brands extra round-hoop Ohio. The market closing suifet. quiet.

Canadian Flour is steady: sales of 1,200 bbls at $4.50 at 4.70 for common. and $4.75 a6.25 for good to choice

CITY ITEMS. PHILADELPHIA SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCI-ATION .- A stated meeting of the Philadelphia Sabbath. ning, at the Arch-street Presbyterian Church, above Tenth street. As the various items assigned to the Association by the late Sabbath-School Convention will be brought under review at this meeting, it will be unusufriends of the Sabbath-school cause. THE FRESHET.—The Lehigh, the Schuylkill and the Delaware have all been greatly swollen of la'e, and torrents of angry waters have overflowed their benks. The "fresh" is said to be the greatest for many years, and it is guly equalled in extent by the flood of patronage which is constantly pouring towards the Brown-tione Clothing Hall of Bockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth. SKEDADDLE. The shades of night were falling fast, As through a Southern village passed A youth who bore, not over nice, A banner with the gay device SKEDADDLE!

> His hair was red : his toes beneath Peeped, like an acorn from its sneath, While, with a frightened voice he sung A burden strange to Yankee tongue SKEDADDLE!

His clothes betrayed a want of taste. His air and gait was that of haste, Like those who should to Stokes' store.

SKEDADDLE! Men and Boy's clothing at Charles Stokes', under the LENGTHY DAYS .- At Berlin and London the longest day has 1614 hours. At Stockholm, 1814 and the shortest 5%. At Hamburg, 19; shortest 7. At St. Petersburg, 12; shortest 5. At Finland, 21%; July 22, without any interruption; and in Switzerland the longest day lasts three months and a half. In conclusion, we feel proud to state that neither of these places has an institution similar to the mammeth Ciothing Temple of Granville Stokes, No. 609 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, where at present is on hand the finest soriment of summer garments in the country. SUPERIOR TEAS AND COFFEE AT MODERATE PRICES .- Mr. C. H. Mattson, dealer in fine family groceries, Arch and Tenth streets, has now in store the flacst Oolong and other Teas; also, a pure article of Old Go-vernment Java Coffee, at moderate prices.
