THE BASHFUL MAN .- "We seldom see a genuine bashful man who is not the soul of honor Though such may blush and stammer, and appear awk vard, and unable to throw out with ease the thou which they would give expression, yet commend us to bashful men for real friends. It is a wonder that such men are not more appreciated ; that young women with really good hearts and cultivated intellects will reward the gallant Sir Musiachio Brainless with smiles and at tentions, while they will scarce condescend to look upo the worthier man, whose very mute glance is a worship. The complainings of the above writer will soon cease, as the bashful man, wi h others, is now clothing himsel at the first-class Clothing-store of Mr. Charles Stokes, under the Continestal, and hereafter will not appea such a disadvantage.

NUMERICAL RATIO OF COMMON NAMES. English statistics are more complete than ours, in regard to common names, and give the following facts: Of the entire population, they have one Smith in 73; one Jones Brown in 174; one Tayler in 148. Our tailors are also very numerous, but we have not one in a thousand equal to Greuville Stokes, the fathioner and clothier at No. 609 Chestnut street, who produces the finest and Lest garments and sells them at prices 25 per cenf. below those of any other establishment.

ABOUT PINS .- Pins were worth a dollar a paper in 1812, and poor at that. Then it took fourteen ceases to make a pin; now only one, by a machine which finishes them and sticks them into the paper. Saving pins, a half a century ago, was as important as saving cents, and hince the habit thus formed sticks to many elderly gentlemen, whose coat sleeves are ornamented with rows of them, rescued from loss. At the present time pins are cold for three cents a paper, and coasts are worn as couts, and not as pin-cushions. The garments themselves are procured by gentlemen of tasts at the Brown Stone Ulothing Hall of Bockhill & Wilson. Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.
