Convicted at Last. - It will be re-membered by the readers of The Press that between four and five, years ago a man, named H. nry Smith, was ar-rested, charged with robbing the Mint. The case created some attention at the time, but, from questions' of juris-diction, it was never brought to trial. District Attorney Mann eucceded, however, in getting the case up on Sa-turday in the Quarter Sessions. Several witnesses were examined, and the oridence elicited was in substance as follows: The refendant, some twenty years since was employed aslaborer in the United States Mint, for good conduct, honesty, and pro-nci-tide, be was promoted. Early in the year 1857 various losses were discovered in the valuation, and it was very evident that somebody was robbing the Mint. On Onlids arranged a blind in the room so that he could watch the coining at d the milling room, as it was evident the robberry was consmitted in one of these places. Mr Ohilds were out of the Mint, and finally re-turned by a private way, when he placed himself in the splace he had made, and there he kept watch. He saw Smith go into the milling room, and whisper something to one of the young ladies who was milling. She turned her hed away as if te look at something, and then Shith put his hand into the box and lifted some pieces of un-stanged coin. He did this three times, whispering to. Col. Childs then called him into a room. Soweth was made in the procence of Mr. Hall and others, and tweaty-tone pieces were found upon his person-some in his pocket some in his drawers, and some in his shoes and atookings. No defence was made, and the defendant was prompily convicted by the jury.

A KIDNAPPER SENTENCED.—In the convicted come months ago on the charge of emissing minors for the regiment of Maryland Home Guards sta-tioned at Obseteriows, was sentenced on Saturday to pay the costs of prosecution, and to undergo an impri-sonawnt of six months. Judge Allison, in passing the sentence, said that there was one fact adduced on the trial which he could not forget, and that was that one of the boys enlisted was almost kidnapped. The mother applied to the recruiting station for her son while he was there. Some of the parties, acting in cougunction with the defendant, induced the mother to go into the back room. While she had her attention thus diverted, the son was burried to a steamboat and faken away. The judge though that such actien on the part of the do-fendant should not go unpunished, and therefore he passed the sentence as hove rocorded. This just pu-nis ment, it is hoped, will have the effect of putting a stop to such injuvicous proceedings. THE EHERIFF'S CONTESTED ELECTION THE EHERIFF'S CONTESTED ELECTION OASE.—This case was continued on Saturday. This point raised the previous day, by the testimony of Mr. Berry, who had removed on the 1st of October and then returned to his former resid uses and voted on the Sh of October, was argued at leagth. Mr. Thayer, re-ferring to the opinion of the Supr-m-Court in the case effecting the military vore, contended that the indiges-declared that no military officers had the power to create election districts outsido the State. The intention of the framers for the Oonstrution was that the votet should vote in the place where he is well known and where his qualifications can be readily accertained. It was for that reason that the gaptermo Oourt heid that the sact of As-sembly allowing soldiers to vote out-side of the State was anconstitutional. The soction of the set of Assembly, now under discussion provides, in pursuance of the election shall have the right to return to his former precised and vote. Gowen contended that the decision of the Snorreme Court was bused on the clause of the Gaustitution which was construed to mean that, to giv the right to vote, a voter must reside in the election district at east the days before stection, and further that the vote must be depo-gited in the district where the voter resides. Mr. Wharton thought it would be arange if the clause. In the Constitution could be construed to exclude the vote of soldiers, and yet include the vote of civil ans. Mr. Hirst now offered to prove by Mr. Wo'laston that Mr. Speakman, who voted in this precinct, had declared that his home was in Delaware coulty. The court reserved its decision on this point until to-conorrow (Monday.) Before the adjournment, Judge Indlow said he had decided what course to pursue in this case in regard to the vaction. THE STAMP CURRENCY .- The stamp THE STAMP: CURRENCY.—The stamp net will furnish rolief for our present wants. Three-cean postage stamps have taken the place of three-cean pieces. Nearly $5,000 worth were sold at the post office on fri-day last. With postage stemes in circulation as a small currency, the motive for hearding silver coln will cease, for there is no demand for its experiation, and there will be no profit in speculating in it when pastage stamps will answer will its purposes of currency, and when they can be procured in unlimited 'quantities at par. Postage stemps are a legal tender for sources than five dolars, and persons to refuse them in payment of debts might find the mealves subject to considerable legal trouble in making good their claims. making good their claims. The postmaster has telegraphed the Post Office De-partment that he wants more stamps, as there is a great rush for them. The Department has, on an average, about five hundred thenyand clairs, worth of stamps in circulation. They can issue one million of stamps in day, the value of which is about one hundred thousand doi-lars. As the stamps are to pass from hand to hand as currency, they will, of course, become disfagured, and, therefore, it is thought necessary that some new instru-ment for cancelling them islall be used, to the and that a strong impression be made upon the tace of the stamps. Puncturing has been recommended, but it not well thought of, for the reason that letters frequently contain drafts and other valuables. The stamp, other than those in common use, are described as follows: The five cent are chocolate color, will the head of Jofferson; the ten-cent given, with the head; the twenty-four illac, with same head; the thirty yellow, with head of Frenklin; the using the stamps now in use differ from the old ones in the fact that the fagures are in the upper corners.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS FROM FORT DELAWARE.—We learn that the number of rebel pri-geners who escaped from Fort Delaware on the 16th, was about twenty in all. Of these nine or ten were recapitured and brought back to the forr.
