THE RUCENT mon seement of the war in the Southwest needs with disfavor among the poonle. The press, leading the current of public opinion, is beginning to discern enormous discrepancies, both in the plang at d the execution of them. The idea for which the Western men have been battling so bravely is being neglected. The opening of the Lower Mississippi to the navigation of unarmed flatboats and steamers will be temporarily abandoned. The grand Army of the West, now scattered over such a vast area of territory, posted in small divisions, unable to support each other, is powerless to make any considerable advance, and must patiently await reinforcements and the preparation of a new military plan of operations. If we might be permitted to direct attention to a cardinal fault in the management of this war, we would bring forward an inceptive one in this fact, that the war has been prosecuted under small, contracted plans, strangely out of gear very often with what seems to have been, if it is not now, the grand governmental scheme to crush the reballion. Identity of action, concordance in all the movements, have been wanting Some of the blame for this may be laid to political dishonesty and uncalled for influence, but the lack of a great directing mind is evident. This is made manifest in a review of the original plan for opening the Mississippi river, which was substantially as follows: A strong column of national troops was to move down the west bank of the river, baving St. Louis for its fortified hase of supplies; another column was to move southeast from Kansas city, through the States of Missouri and Arkansas, to be composed of "jayhawkers, Indians, negroes, and everything that would fight for the Union;" a third column was to move down the east bank of the river, accom. panied by iron-clad gunboats. The advance of these columns was to be slow and sure; no backward step was to be taken, while the mouth of the river was to be blockeded so that the enemy could receive no supplies from abroad. Had this plan been carried out faithfully from the first it would have been eminently successful, and long before this it would have been the evident interest of the people of Kentucky, Tennossee, Missouri, Arkansas. Louisiens, and Texas to stand by the Union and uphold the Constitution and the laws of the land. This plan has been neglected and ignored, and many of our military movements in the Southwest seem to have been made from an immediate necessity to do something here or there, very often to protect conditional Unionists; and now we are told that Gen. Curtis and Commodore Davis have arrived at Cairo to hold an important consultation concerning the future conduct of the war in the Southwest, or rather on the west bank of the Mississippi. As the siege of Vicksburg has been abandoned temporarily, Admiral Farragut's fleet will probably return to New Orleans. Vicksburg would be of little use to hold the disgraceful spectacle of a large army in the West divided up into small divisions, and harassed by itinerant parties of guerillas. Henceforth we must completely subdue the rebels, and possess the land as our armies move on, leaving no spies or robbers in our rear. This would seem like a dull, slow way of advancing, but it is the most effective mode of reducing a really insurgent country to submission, without enacting heart-rending scenes, unworthy of modern times. It was thus that the distinguished Marshal Soult kept quiet pessession of Andalusia, feeding and paying his own army, and raising good troops from the in. habitants, who proved of great service in prevent? ing the Spanish guerillas and other forces from entering and occupying that fertile country. Soult kept peaceable possession of Andalusia in this way, until the blunders of others, and the misfortunes of victorian compile, rendered it necessary for the armies of France to evacuate Spain, and then he left Andalusia in a most perfect state of security from the guerillas, who had rendered all the rest of Spain little better than a desert; for it must be acknowledged that while these bands of robbers and murderers greatly harass an army, the brunt of the harm falls upon the innocent people who inhabit the country infested by them. We must adopt a regular system of occupation henceforth, and a fearless and heavy they labor unceasingly and forever to produce hand in the punishment of guerillas, when caught, | division and defeat, while at the same time will thoroughly clean them out of the land. When | they enjoy the protection of our Government taken, let it be known that they have but one hour | and the blessings they seek to destroy. When | to live. Then perseverance and patriotism will give us sure and valuable victory. THE NEWS.

GEN. ROBERT McCook, one of the bravest of a brave family of soldiers hailing from Ohio, has been murdered in Tennessee by a band of treacherous guerillas. His death calls for vengeance from our Western troops, and they will visit it upon the rebels in all future battles

Another ocean steamer has gone down! The Golden Gate, a favorite steamer of the San Fran. cisco and Panama line, has been burned to the water's edge in the Pacific Ocean, near Manzanilla, a port in Mexico. The Golden Gate had never run on this side of Penama, and her burning is the first accident, causing loss of life, that has nappened to any of the vessels of the company owning her, since their organization. THREE notorious returned rebels were arrested in Baltimore yesterday, known as John O'Laughlin, John Brady, and George Clotworthy, and were securely locked up in the Middle District Station, to await an examination before Marshal Van Nostrand. From the statement made by the police authorities, it appears that the accused some time since left Baltimore for the South, and, proceeding to Richmond, enlisted in the rebel cause. O'Laughlin, who used to be a member of the Baltimore City Guard battalion, and known as an excellent drill officer, enlisted in company C, 1st Maryland (rebel) Regiment; Brady carried a musket in company B. 21st Virginia Volunteers, and Clotworthy enrolled himself in the battery of artillery attached to the rebel Maryland regiment. This battery is, according to the latest accounts, still commanded by Cantain R. Snowden Andrews, architect, late of Baltimore. The accused parties, upon being confronted by Deputy Marshal Lyons, confessed that they were members of the above companies, and that they recently arrived in Baltimore by one of the Weems steamers. Two of the party are charged with having been concerned in the conveyance of more. General Wool has ordered them to be sent to Fort McHenry, under the charge of General

THE City Councils of Baltimore have passed resolutions requesting General Wool to administer the oath of allegiance to the residents of that city at as early a moment as possible. This is urged as the only way to find out who the rabid Secessionists are, and what they are doing.

WE present to-day an interesting budget of rebel news from Southern papers to the 2d instantthe latest received from Richmond. The rebels are evidently much exercised about our movements in Virginia. Gov. BRADFORD is about to take measures to en roll the militia of Maryland into the United States service, under the recent act of Congress.

Ex-Gov. Hioks, of Maryland, has received from brigadier general of volunteers. He was strongly inclined to accept, but yielded to the remonstrances of his friends, who urged his want of military knowledge as an insuperable objection. IT is said that the war must now end within nine months. The law authorizing the President to call out the militia prescribes that term of service. Gen. Halleck has fixed the number of men he needs with a full understanding of the case, and the call now made is tantamount to an engagement on his part to finish up the job and disband the forces in 270 days, and it will be done.

A DRAFTING hoax was successfully palmed off at the Charlestown (Mass.) Navy Yard, on Wednesday, to which certain officials fell victims, leading to the marking of the lists of workmen in certain shops, the joke being that every fifth man was to be drafted at once. Most of them appeared ready to go, as there was no help for it, but a few grumbled extensively, and several were highly elated. THE United States gunboat Paul Jones made an Important reconnoissance up the Ogeechee river, in Georgia, on the 27th and 28th of June last, engaging Fort James, an earthwork on the south bank of that river. This work was found to be a strong one, and after inflicting some damage with shells, the Paul Jones returned, unharmed, to her anchorage off the harbor of Savannah. Our news from Missouri to day is important. The rebels are said to be concentrating in the north of the State under Porter and Poindexter, two noted rebel guerilla leaders. These scoun-have we been so unsucces-ful as in our stone blockades. Even while John Bull was howling over the cruelty which he himself had practised in Savannah river, our sunken ships were shifting their position in Charleston harbor, and the channel gradualty deepening. Now the harbor of Charleston is apparently as free of access as if no stone fleet had een sunk there. The cause of this is the nature of the bottom, it being almost a quicksand. THE Albany Evening Journal says it is requested by the surgeon general to state "that doctors' certificates of disability' will be of no earthly avail except for mere State service. Under the order from the War Department, everybody within certain ages-without reference to his physical condition—will be subject to draft. If, a ter they have been drafted, they are found to be disabled, they will be exempted. People, therefore, who ran

GENERAL CASS and Senator Chandler of Michigan, have each subscribed $1.000 to the War Fund

THE decisive action of the Secretary of War in arresting the editors of the Harrisburg Putriot and Union meets with the universal approval of the community. The offence of McDowell was one of the most fi grant that could be committed, and it only appears more heineus when we take into consideration the fact that the result might not only have been the cessation of all recruiting, but a riot between the colored and white laboring people of Harrisburg similar to the riot that recently took place in Brooklyn. The name of a United States Senator was forged to give color to the outrage, and every method was taken to animite and inflame the public mind. It could not have been intended as a political canard-a mere violation of truth too often permitted in political campaigns to serve a party purpose, or gratify personal spleen. There was every evidence of malignity and crime. The offence was committed secretly—the types were clandestinely sel, and the haudbills printed in a surreptitious manner. An effort was made on the part of the principal offender to throw the odium of the crime on a subordinate employee. Everything exhibited deliberation, hatred, and reason, and the war authorities did well to punish the offence with severity and prompti-

This case is suggestive of many arguments we have had occasion to make in these columns. We have, from time to time, admonished the people of this community that in their midst a secret tressonable organization existed with the purpose to break down the Union feeling in the North, and, by paralyzing the existing loyal and patriotic sentiment, terminate the war, and compel a recognition of the Confederacy. The most effective way to accomplish this would be to stop recruiting, and hence the effort of every traiter in the country has been devoted to this end. Horrible calumnies have been put into circulation in relation to the objects of the war; the motives of men have been subjected to base appeals; the most airocious lies have been published in relation to sickness and death, disaster and defeat, and every prejudice has been animated into hatred tion to the conspiracy against the Union, and shows one of the methods by which that conspiracy proposed to be efficient. There are men in Philadelphia as guilty as McDowell. risburg in front of the Market House at 4 o'clock They sympathize with his punishment and defend his crime, and speak in judignant terms of his incarceration in Fort McHenry. He is an injured Democrat—the victim of tyranny -the object of Presidential persecution; and his wrongs will be the topic of many a pathetic pamphlet and indignant editorial. Already we hear men ready and anxious to defend his outrage, although in doing so they defend forgery, falsehood, and inciting to riot. To men like these what can we say? Nothing the Administration can do; no triumph of our armies; no success of our diplomacy; no exsell-appregation can win their sympathy, or call forth their admiration. When men are traitors they are beyond repentance or admonition. There is but one thing remaining. They must be made to feel that the treason they profess is incompatible with the safety of the Republic, and can no longer be tolerated. We are weary and sick with these men. Lost to every sense of manhood-devoted to a rebellion which is murdering our prothers, wasting our treasure, and attacking our nationality-shall this domestic treachery come to an end?

This is | Herald was not continued within the British jurisall the more strange since the rebels have every | diction. provocation from their own condition, and every inducement from ours, to concentrate all their strength for an immediate and decisive blow. Looking at their side, we see them deluded into the idea that the series of battles on the Chickahominy resulted in their favor; but delusion or not, such a belief, thoroughly infused through shattered columns, is worth reinforcements of ten thousand men; and when the rebels hurl themselves upon us again, every man will be clad in a bullet-proof vest of faith in himself and his fellows. We shall have to hack and hew a long while at this spiritual armor before we can make the body underneath vulnerable. Again, either their force in the late conflict has been greatly overrated or their loss as greatly underrated by us, or their present inaction is due to some other reason than any material deficiency. But we have now got a pretty accurate estimate both of their roll call and their dead list; we know that they considerably outnumbered us in the attack, though not to such extent as was at first supposed; and we are equally certain that their mortality was greater than ours, partly because of the recklessness of life which seemed to be their prime military maxim, and partly because of our superiority in artillery. Yet their excess of loss was probably not more than proportionate to their letters and papers between Richmond and Balti- advantage of numbers, and their army must even now bear the same numerical relation to ours that it bore before the battles of June. Without considering, then, our own absolute position, but only the rebels' advantages, as derived from a comparison of their former with their present relation to us, the curious question recurs, Why do they not follow up the impressions, favorable to their cause. which they suppose they m de by driving us back to the James river? And the foreign incitement-how is it that that does not arouse them to some dashing enterprise, even if the balance of risks is against them? The reward is high. A sympathetic European public received joyfully the bulletins that announced our disasters on the Chickaminv. A jubilant "We told you so" ran through the birth-lands of despotism. The most sanguine British Secessionists had been somewhat depressed as every steamer brought news of our slow but sure countervallation of Richmond. But when, by one terrific rush, the siege had been raised and the besieging party flung far and violently back, hopes, seditionbegotten, ran high again. Expectation soared up to its acme. The bulls of Southern malicestock tossed it high, on the horns of McCLEL-LAN's dilemma. The shilly-shallyers, who evermore delight to dangle their marrowless legs across the fence that is supposed to separate right from wrong, bonor from infamy, loyalty from treachery, were suddenly inspired with a definite purpose, and became violent champions of the persecuted but self-avenging chivalry. Everybody foruntwisted the Southern crown, and steamer after steamer failed to show any advantage which was confidently prophesied would accrue from the claimed victory. In fact, JEFFERSON Davis has lost, or is very rapidly losing, his chance. The great prize of European conciliation is slipping through his fingers. He must know it as well as we do, and must feel it with considerably greater keenness. Why, then, does he not make even a desperate move? Is he waiting for inducements held out by our weakness? He has them now in greater numbers and strength than he will ever have drels have just succeeded in capturing a Union them again. His antagonist's very life de-

He is unable to hold any of the surrounding country, or prevent the foe from hemming him in on three sides. His command is broken and weakened, and seems, if ever army seemed, doomed. Why, then, are not the rebel leaders stirring? The question's answer is to be found by denving its implied supposition. The rebels are stirring, and so are we. No great masses of troops are being hurried from point to point; not many large reconnoissances are made; no half-engagements vary the monotony of camp life; not even picket-skirmishes call out supports at midnight. But there is going on an immense, though silent, activity of idea; vast marshallings of brain force; quick manceuvring of plans; rallyings against attacks of threatened counter-attacks; feints-all the resources which ingenuity can devise to avert destruction and defend a desperate position. The Peninsula is to-day a scene of as great activity as it has ever been; brave hearts and bold heads are silently struggling to stave off an impending fate. They have done nobly, but the end of their exertions is near. This terrible play of mind-force must soon be exhausted. Military genius can do much in its naked strength; but it cannot do everything nor always. It must have practical embodiment-material means. Give it these, men of the North! Reward the fearful struggles that have racked the best energies of your leaders in your behalf! Flock to the banner that floats-still floats, and will forever float—over the Army of the Potomac. Give, by your presence and your work, George B. McClellan an opportunity to work out his carefully matured plans, and you wil march into Richmond in October, and back to rescued homes in spring.

FROM THE ARMY OF VIRGINIA.

CAMP NEAR LITTLE WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.-No. thing can exceed the gratification with which the President's order respecting absentees from the army was received by most of the officers and men of the Army of Virginia. While there are many instances of necessary absence from the ranks, the number is infinitely small compared with those who are absent from motives of pleasure or ease. Besides reducing the force to a dangerous minimum, it causes dissatisfaction among those compelled to remain. Hitherto the reward offered for deserters was too insignificant to induce any attempt to restore absentees, who, consequently, remained at home tearless of punishment. The new order covers all these deficiencies of legislation, and promises to go far toward increasing the rank and file of the army. There is, however, another subject of complaint among military commanders. It is, that but seldom men who are sent to the general hospital ever find their way back to the ranks. Manyinstances have come to the knowledge of your correspondent. It was but yesterday a colonel stated that, after various fruitless endeavors to learn the whereshouts of one of his men, he was at last reported as a "marker" in an Alexandria billiard saloon, patronized by officers of the Federal army. Your correspondent has often been requested to call attention to these facts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The steamer Golden Gate, which left San Francisco July 21, for Panama, with 280 passengers, $1,014,000 for New York, and $270,000 for England, was burned at sea July 27th, and one hundred and eighty lives lost. to-day: SAN FRANCISCO, August 6 .- To William L Halsey: I was saved from the burning ship by lashing myself to the forecastle ladder, and jumping overboard. I passed under the portwheel, while under way, and received a serious injury. I was picked up by the ship's boat, and remained in it twenty hours, before I reached Manzanilla. Poor Flint was lost. I will return overland. Please telegraph to my family about my safety and health.

Benjamin Holladay and Edward Flint, of New York, went out in February, 1861, leaving his wife in this city. He was a middle aged man. San Francisco, Aug 7 -To Allen McLane, resident: The Golden Gate was burned at sea near Manzanilla. 200 of the passengers and crew perished. The ship is a total loss. Full particulars will be sent as soon as possible.

FORBES & BABCOCK. BUFFALO, N. Y., August 7.—The California line s down west of Julesburg, and there is no prospec of getting anything through to night. There is great storm passing West. There is no way of learning who were on the burned steamer, or what persons were lost other than Mr. Flint till the names are telegraphed. which will probably be done some time this noon. The officers of the company decline for the present to state the value of the Golden Gate, or anything about her insurance.

Mr. Flint, who is reported lost, was a man of middle age, and had lived in San Francisco since February, 1861. He leaves a wife, who is now temporarily residing near New York. He was formerly an agent for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. The Golden Gate was a splendid sidewheel steamer, 2.067 tons, and was built by Wm. H Webb, at New York, in 1850. Her dimensions are as follows: Length 265 feet, breadth 40 feet, depth of hold 30 feet. Her draught of water was about 16 feet. She was noted for her police regulations and the rnles in relation to fire were well defined, and made plain to all her crew and passengers. It was customary on this route to exercise the passengers and crew in fire duty, and from the meagre informa-tion we have in relation to the causes of the fire, it must have, in the earliest stages, defied the efforts of the unfortunate passengers and crew, which, on ordinary occasions, would have controlled the fatal The Golden Gate was a fast vessal, and could accommodate about 900 passengers, besides a large quantity of freight. She was rated at the Uaderwriters' A2, and her securities against fire were re-corded "good." She had two independent fire pumps, and sufficient hose, buckets, axes, &c. She carried from eight to twolve boats, sufficient to carry several hundred persons.

The Golden Gato was repaired in 1856, '58, '59, and latterly she has been put in excellent order. There is no doubt that her light upper works, being thoroughly aired by the tropical sun, have, when ignited, burnt furiously, and it was beyond the power of man to stay the flames. Some of the boats, no doubt, which were stowed on deck were con-

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

FORTRESS MONROE, Aug. 6 .- The three thou. sand rebel prisoners, from Fort Warren and Fort Delaware, went up the river from Harrison's Landinghight before last. A flag-of-truce boat accompailed them, which returned last evening, and repois that the exchange is being made satisfactory, and that the same number of Union prisoners from Richmond may be expected down the river to day or to-morrow; and that the requirements of the Federal Government, in regard to the exchange, eve been strictly complied with, which is undershod to mean the release of Col. Corcoran, and oter minor officers. he reconnoissance of Monday night has resulted ver favorably. Our troops drove in the rebel pickts early yesterday morning, and the fight immeditely commenced, which lasted between two and bree hours, and resulted in the Federals taking possesion of Malvern Hill, which they are new occupyig with sufficient force to hold the place, and carry on other plans which are in connection with this vey important move.

The public will no doubt be fully satisfied with the activity of the Army of the Potomac for a few days come. The fighting and capture of Malvern Hill was done by artillery, and our loss was smallonly wenty being killed and wounded. The rebel loss we much greater, beside one hundred cavalrymen, brees and equipage complete, were captured, ånd on small battery. We pay expect this move to be followed up with EASTON, Agust 7.—The three companies called for from Nortampton county, under the first re-quisition of the President, will leave here to-morrow morning, for Harrisburg. The enthusiasm for volunteering was never more ardent than at present. The whole country is moving in the good work. Thredor four more companies are orga-nized, and has been tendered to the Government, with the press that our county be exempted from the disgree of a draft.

THE WAR IN MISSOURI.

Attempted Resistance to the Enrollment CAIRO, August 7 - A skirmish took place yesterday, near Point Pleasant, Mo., between the citizens and State troops, in which it is reported that several were killed on both sides. It seems that the citizens bound themselves together to resist the enrollment act. Troops were sent from New Madrid to enforce the law, and hence the collision. Sr. Louis, Aug. 7 .- Brigadier-General Davidson has assumed command of the Military District of St. Louis. Col. Merrill, formerly commandant of this district, has been commissioned a brigadier general, and will leave for North Missouri this evening, where he will direct operations against the guerillas. At a meeting of the Merchants' Union Exchange, at noon to-day, resolutions were passed agreeing to close the business houses at 4 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of drilling and organizing the loyal citizens for military service; and requesting the proper authorities to cause a suspension of business throughout the city, after that hour, for a like pur-

I Resolved, That the present is the crisis of the rebellion, and that our only deliverance is in prompt and bellion, and that our only deliverance is in prompt and energetic action.

II. That every means that the God of Nature has placed in our hands should be energetically used for the suppression of this most foul and infamous rebellion; that we rely on no qualified Unionist to aid in this chatest; but the most thorough devotion to the cause is now increasing, even to the sacrifice of life and property.

III. That we return to Alonghty God our most sincere and hearty thanks for all past successes, and that we true in film for the inspiration necessary to our brave army and navy for the speedy suppression of this rebeblion. rebellion.

1V. That as the South has manifested a terrible earnestness in a bad couse, so should the North manifest a united overwhelming public sentiment exhibiting itself in convibutions and enlistments for the maintenance of the best Government that God in his providence has given to

[Special Correspondence of The Press.] HARRISBURG, August 6, 1862. You are already aware that Messrs. Barrett & MacDowell, proprietors, Mr. Foster, editor, and Mr. U. J. Jones, the reporter of the Harrisburg Patriot and Union, have been arrested by Gen. Wadsworth, from Washington, and conveyed to the capital of the Control Government, for pressuring or cossonable bill, and posting the same throughout the city, thereby retarding recruiting, &c. Captain Dodge, superintendent of recruiting service, ferreted out these individuals, and telegraphed the facts to the Secretary of War, who immediately ordered their arrest. This same sheet is the one that defamed those who attended the great Union Convention that met here on the 17th inst., and it is high time the paper was suppressed. When the citizens of Harrisburg subscribed money to the bounty fund, they also denounced many of them, and did all in their power to prevent a certain class of citizens from appropriating money towards the fund. They left here in an early train, and before this will reach you, perhaps, they will be placed in Fort McHenry. Troops are constantly arriving, and six regiment will be ready to leave Harrisburg next Monday. Gov. Curtin intends appointing none but experienced officers as field officers of the same. The names of many of the most distinguished sons of Pennsylvania, now in service, have been tendered to the Governor, and we have no doubt but that he Recruiting in Boston. BOSTON, Aug. 7.—The Governor has anthorized the organization of a new Boston regiment, for the war, to be composed of ten companies of infantry two of rifles, and a battery of artillery. Lieut Col. A general desire is expressed that the whole militia of Massachusetts should be organized, armed, and equipped, and held in readiness for the call of The 33d Regiment will leave on Monday, and the 34th on Tuesday next; with full ranks and splendidly equipped, for the seat of war.

The Governor has granted permission to the Independent Cadets and 4th Battalion of Infantry to form the nucleus for two new regiments for the nine-months service.

Boston, Aug. 7.—The merchants of Milk, Frank-Bosron, Aug. 7.—The merchants of Milk, Frank-lin, Kirby, and other leading streets, including nearly all the heavy business houses, have signed an agreement to close their stores and counting-rooms every afternoon during the whole of next week, to assist in filling up the quota of Boston, under the call for 300,000 three-year volunteers. The old South Church proprietors have agreed to throw open the grounds around their edifice, over which will be displayed a starry flag that has a Revolutionary history. Tents and pavilions will be created for headquarters, and recruiting will be the order of the day throughout the city. Arrival of the City of Manchester. NEW YORK, August 7:—The steamer City of Manchester arrived at this port at midnight. Her advices have been anticipated.

The Arabia at Boston. Boston, August 7.-The steamship Arabis, from Liverpool, via Halifax, arrived at this port at day-light this morning. Her mails were despatched by the morning train, and will be due in Philadelphia to-night.
