IMPLEMENTS OF WAR. TO FARNEST PATBIOTS. A NEW CANNON. An invention of remarkably destructive power, and, at the same time, self-protective advantage in warfar awaits in this city the pecuniary means of being proven by actual work, in its valuable capacity of throwing forty pound shot a distance of over eight miles, with precision, and retaining at that enormous range great force and destructive power, varied according to the nature or material of the shot. More than this: Guns of heavier calibre will throw proportionably farther. It is easy, pethape, to smile at claims like these, ye after careful examination of the model, there are but few persons conversant with the true laws of gunnery who would care to deny or even to contest them. Striking advantages can at once be seen to have been gained in construction of both the cannon and the shet; and the more closely an investigation is pursued, the more thoroughly may be perceived the application of means used to optain effects desired :

The matter is now at a stage where a moderate sum money would complete every requisite for actual work. Among the hosts of people carnestly interested in our national struggles and speedy triumph, with as little loss of life to ourselves as possible, surely there are many, who can spare, either as a business investment or otherwise, their proportion of the little cost requisite to test this most important claim.

The Inventor is in very limited circumstances, having denced attendance upon the War and Navy Departments at Washington, and other high authorities, until oblige to bresk up a costly model, and sell it for the price of old metal to meet expenses. Are there any persons in this city or vicinity who will do any thing material to now, advance the development of this invention, and bring int action its latent power of victory, and of saving life in the Union Brmics? It is useless for each individual to seek to throw the duty of action in this matter upon others, or upon authorities, whether City, State, or National. If each and all were to do so, nothing but continuou delay would result. Are any persons willing to act as the case demands ? Investments of any amount will be received, entitling the persons investing to their proportions of the proceed from manufacturing and furnishing the cannon to Government; or any sums will be received and interest paid therefor until returned. Will the public allow this matter to lie dormant f want of means to cast the requisite guns for proof before the world that we can defy all asseilants and, while our elves out of their range, CUT AN ENEMY TO PIECES BY OUR SUPERIOR DANNON?

Ard, without regard to foreign foes, we have now those to defeat auflicient to make the value of this long. rarge capacity in this new cannon a thousand times repay its cost.

Hence, as an investment, it will be a judicious act to furnish money for this purpose, and, as an act of patriotism, it would be the cuty of each person to do something even if the investment were not to be returned with profit. -3223-0.9%
