The stable was a one story brick building, with a firme loft, and belonged to the Regio Ico Company, Mesers, Cornell & Hendrys proprietors. The upper part of the building and the contents of the loft were destroyed. At the time of the fire all the borses were out of this stable except one, and that was rescued with much difficulty. About half a ton of hay and a lot of gears were burned. A large frame shad connecting with the stable was demolished. The shed and roof of the ice-house took fire, and was partially destroyed. Portions of two cargoes of Boston ice, valued at 8500, were baily injured by water. The damage to the buildings is estimated to be $1,000, which is partially toward by insurance,
