THE WAR. The terrible conflict of arms in Virginia has ceased temporarily. At any moment we may look for renewed hostilities, however. Unfortunately, our reisforcements did not arrive in time to enable Gen. Pope to prevent Jackson from getting to Manassas, which is the only point from which Lee, who is as Richmond, can reinforce him. He has been prevented from retreating through Thoroughfare Gap, but, it is said, succeeded in cutting his way through our army, on Sunday last, and gaining the Junction, sustaining great loss. We are of opinion that, ins ead of "outting his way through." Jackson simply beat back our left wing, and succeeded in turning it, and then retreated to Manasias. This movement would indicate a weakness on the part of the rebels-it evinces a lack of supplies and a need of reinforcements, both of which he can now receive by two railroads from Richmond and the valley of the Shenandoah, unless it be true, as reported, that our forces hold some portion of the Manassas Gap Railroad. That we have succeeded in thwarting Jackson's two well-laid plans of entering Maryland with a large force is certain, and that we have caused him immense loss canno: be doubted, but we have not done with him yet for a moment; we must move on him before he is in condition to advance again at all, if possible. We must be up and doing immediately. We think it probable that Jackson's forces have been entirely out up and demoralized, and that he will retreat for the purpose of reorganizing his army, or obtaining a fresh one, which can be obtained, it is thought, at Gordonsville. To sum up the results of the late battles, it would appear that we have done the enemy great damage, and that our victorious retreats and repulses all tend to show the great advantages we have gained, and perhaps the battles of the past week will prove of a more decisive character than we at present anticipate. It is gratifying to announce that the Commander-in-Chief is confident, and that he is perfectly satisfied Centreville yesterday, between Generals Pope, McDowell, Sigel, Banks, Heintzelman, Kearney. Hooker, Porter, Reno, Cox, Sumner, and Sturgis. The prospect before us is promising, and we believe Pope will advance upon the enemy soon again.

THE NEWS. Our additional accounts of the battles of Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, in the vicinity of Centre. ville, will be read with much interest. These struggles eclipse in magnitude the seven-days battle before Richmond, and all eyes are now turned to the grounds which they have made historic. A LETTER from the Mississippi ram fleet informs us of the capture of a rebel steamer and the destruction of rebal batteries up the Yazoo. Any evidence of vitality in the Western flotilla will be hailed with pleasure by the community. THE friends of Orestes A. Brownson are talking of sending that distinguished gentleman to represent them in Congress. THERE was not a particle of truth in the rumor.

Vork Past of last ever story was cut from the whole cloth." FLETCHER WHESTER, mortally wounded in the late battle, and now dead, was the oldest son of Daniel Webster. His younger son was in the army in Mexico, and died in service there. Hisdaughter. Mrs. Appleton, died some years ago-so that now there is none left of the blood of "Webster." Colonel Webster was at one time Assistant Secretary of State, during Gen. Harrison's Administration, serving in the State Department under his illustrious father. He was also appointed secretary to Caleb Cushing, when the latter was minister to China. Some late and interesting news from the South appears on our outside to day. The tone of the rebel press is just as insolent, and its statements just as regardless of truth, as ever. Saying this, we have said a'l that is necessary, by way of com-.IT is stated that a Government agent, applying to a Germanic State for sailors for the United States navy, has received a reply offering to furnish from 1,000 to 10,000 men for a bounty of $45, which sum is to include the passage money. esked for. A GENTLEMAN who left General W. Morgan's camp at Cumberland Gap says that a few weeks ago eight hundred Tennesseans made their appearance in a body, and nearly all volunteered. The Recent Battles. . We published yesterday the only account of the recent battles, beyond that of the Associated Press, that has been furnished to any Northern newspaper. It was not the statement of an eye-witness, for the order of Gen. Pore probibited our correspondents from going beyond Washington, but a plain narrative of what had transpired, as it came from the lips of a distinguished general in command, together with facts, incidents, and observations as they occurred to intelligent and sagacious correspondents. We have addefinite enough to enable us to form anything more than a general and unsatisfactory opinion. The fighting has ceased; JACKson, it is said, has forced the Federal lines and formed a junction with the main body of as this attack on Washington is concerned. We have demoralized and defeated the rebels by preventing its leaders from accomplishing their designs, and the future movements of the army must be on a new plan and under new auspices. A special despatch which came at midnight from one of our most reliable Washington correspondents, will show that in the capital itself there is no longer that feeling of dread which has existed for the past few days. "Little excitement prevails to-day," says our correspondent, "and there is a greater feeling of confidence and security than has existed for some days past." As we anticipated in our news of yesterday, and the reflections we saw proper to submit, this recent battle has been the severest blow that ever fell upon the Confederacy. If Jackson could not take Washington before the reinforcing legions of the North came to the assistance of their brethren, there was no hope of his being able to do it subsequently. The new campaign is to be just such a war as the North should wage against the South-a war of force, energy, and extermination-of eighteen millions of men against ten millions. With our volunteer armies decimated by other battles, and dragged through mud, and snow, and swamps for months, we have met and resisted the combined conscript armies of the tory. Washington is safe. This is the best army of the rebels has been resisted and damtribute the valor of our soldiers, and the extent of their triumph.

Cooper Shop Refreshment Saloon.

Among the noble institutions of this City, surely none has done so much good, in its particular sphere, than the above. The Commit. tee's first Annual statement, a model of terseness, has just been in cd, and records active benevolence and patriotism upon a large scale. At the commencement of the war, before the National Government had been able to make requisite provision for supplying refreshments to the thousands of volunteers who were daily arriving from the East, the kind-hearted women who lived near Washington Avenue Landing, on the Delaware, prepared and supplied refreshments to the men as they stood upon the sidewalks or in the street, previous to going to the railroad station. This action of a few soon became enlarged by the organization of the Cooper Shop Volunteer Refreshment Committee, who opened their Saloon, on Otsego Street, below Washington Avenue. on the 26th May, 1861. The accommodation has since been so far extended that an entire regiment can now be provided with a wholesome meal at all hours with little or no delay. The Committee report that, in the first year, ending May, 1862, "there have been fed at the United States regular soldiers from all parts of the Eastern or New England States, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Calitween that date and last May 159 men were under treatment, besides a larger number who were temporarily cared for. The funds of the Cooper-shop Saloon have been wholly provided by the free gifts of the people; "the contributions have been received from all classes of society, from associations-religious, social, political, banking institutions, railroad. insurance, manufacturing, fire, and other be nevolent and patriotic companies, citizens of large and small means, the several market companies, of which the Western deserves especial notice, having generously stepped forward in time of emergency and need in sustaining the institution." Within the first year the subscriptions have amounted to $13.163. The Committee say, "In addition to this, we have received contributions of provisions, materials for fitting up Saloon and Hospital, gas-fixtures, crockery, and pictures, delicacies for the sick, medicines, clothing, mechanical labor, &c. The outlay for fitting up Saloon and Hospital, furniture, mechanical labor, maintenance of soldiers, and other expenses absolutely necessary, amounts to $12,860.33." Surely, never has so much good been done at so little expense. Surely, the public will continue to supply the means for continuing this work of humanity and hospitality. While troops are being sent on to the defence of the Union, the necessity of giving them entertainment, en route, will exist, and, at no distant day, when treason is put down and the Union restored, there will be occasion for administering to the comfort of those brave soldiers who will return home, crowned with victory. Our City Politics. It is to be hoped that the National Union Convention, which meets again to-day, will adopt the good policy of rescinding the resolution, hastily passed on Thursday, referring to the removal of "any Federal appointee" who shall not pledge himself in writing to support the nominees of the Convention. which has already given considerable offence. with the plans suggested in a council of war held at . Its repeal by the Convention may go far towards securing that harmony among all the friends of the Administration which all true men now are anxious to preserve. We are bound to suppose that every employee in the service of the Administration will support the loyal candidates for all offices. The Republican Convention has no idea of embarrassing the good work, and it will be an act of kindness and courtesy on the part of the Union Convention now in session not to do anything which might seem to impugn the devotion of the Republicans to the cause of our coun-

The Price of Gas Not to be Increased. As we stated yesterday, consumers of gas in New York are in a terrible ferment over the increase in the price of the article fifteen per cent., after the first of this month, by vir ue of the tax bill. It will be a matter of congratulation to Philadelphia consumers to learn that the price of gas in this city will not be increased, the trustees of the Philadelphia Ges Werks having so provided. At a stated meeting, held on the 28th of March last, resolution, offered by Mr. Hinst, was, upon motion of Mr. GRAEFF, so amended as to read as follows, and thereupon adopted:

That upon the present price of gas to consumers—viz: $2 25—there shall be, in lieu of the present allowance of five per cent, an allowance of oneninth for prompt payment, so that the cost to prompt paying consumers will be $2 per thousand ouble feet, to take effect on the first day of July cubic feet, to take encounter and and next, unless the tax proposed in Congress shall sconer take effect, in which contingency this reduction shall take effect at the same time. This action of the trustees must commen itself to the community as being in every way proper and commendable, besides being clearly legal under existing ordinances.

LETTER FROM "OCCASIONAL." WASSINGTON, Sept. 1, 1862. We have passed through one more dark Sabbath. Yesterday morning the heart of every loyal man throbbed with an anxiety far more terrible than that which oppressed him on the is a greater feeling of confidence and londay after the first battle of Bull Run, thirteen months ago, and the sly sympathizers with treason gloated with almost public joy over the prospect of the overthrow of the Federal Capital. The President heard the news of the fearful attack upon the advance of Pope, and the wise and opportune retirement of that chief upon his stronghold of Centreville, with an emotion that was only relieved when the fact of the arrival of the corps d'armée of Porter, Franklin, and Sumner, was well known. The painful suspense at this point, however intense, could not, I know, have been less keenly felt in the loyal households of the land. In these sad times, the grief or the joy that stirs the heart of the nation is at once conveyed to all its extremities. We think and talk with telegraphic rapidity. Alike those who support and those who opcose this great struggle for the preservation of the priceless jewel of human freedom, are made instantaneously susceptible to the influences of the hour. The only exception is that our public servants must first know and feel what ditional intelligence to-day, but it is not transpires in the various columns of the army. But when the truth is proclaimed, the good men and the bad men—the true and the false -the patriot and the traitor-respond accordingly as they love or hate their country. There is something compensating in all this. We rethe Southern army, and the combatants are alize our fate immediately; and whether the resting upon their arms. We are disposed to | tidings are those of victory or of defeat, we regard this as the end of the campaign, so far know how to improve the one or to repair the other without delay. Unhappily, however, that which puts us on our guard gives to the enemies of the good cause, in the loyal States; almost equal facilities. As we sorrow they exult, and as we exult they sorrow. They are dangerous in either mood. When they rejoice they sow the seeds of dissension with greater efficiency. When they sorrow they are busiest in their communications with the more public foe. Never trust a sympathizer! He is, if possible, more to be avoided and watched when he seems to be patriotic and

Although Washington has never been in any great danger, the rebels have not yet given up the hope of making a detour into Maryland. This has always been their plan of seizing upon the capital. All their recent advantages have been improved to accomplish this object; and nothing but the bravery of our troops under Banks, and Pope, and Sigel, and Heintzelman, has prevented them from carrying it into success. If they can raise Maryland, they may invade Pennsylvania. They know that to attack Washington on the side she is fortified is their certain destruction. Their next hope is to place her under contribution by sweeping Maryland into their hell of treason, and by terrifying the people of the great border counties of southern Pennsylvania. These salient points are now so well gnarded, alike by the manner in which the great | Confederates opened fire upon them from batteries and tions to defend the line of railroad between Baltimore and Washington, and between the Relay House and Cumberland, and also by the large resistance of the cavalry was safely brought off. The body of troops thrown into Baltimore city to troops fell back upon Franklin's division, which had just co-operate with the patriotic people there. In this dilemna, the rebels must fight it out corps arrived two hours earlier upon the field, the result where they are. Every day adds to of the day's fighting would have been different. our strength and to their desperation; but the force that we have springs from a coneciousness of our inexhaustible advantages, while theirs, to be effective, must risk all sudden movements. We can afford to be wersted, for we gather new confidence from every evidence that we are newly endang red; but every defeat, or reverse, or loss to the traitor, s adds to their sense of the determina-

FROM THE ARMY OF VIRGINIA. Our Left Wing Turned and Badly Cut Up.

The Right, under Sigel. Maintains Itself Gallantiy. DEATH OF GENERAL TAYLOR.

GALLANT CONDUCT OF THE SECOND NEW YORK. 150 RAILROAD CARS BURNED. A RAID ON FAIRFAX BY STUART'S CAVALRY

Special Correspondence of The Press 1 ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept 1, 1862. A vivid or detailed account of the battles of the last few ave cannot be given at this distance from the scene of ction. The general result, however, is well known. On Saturday the army corps under Jackson made soveral desperate onslaughts on our right, but they were as determinedly and gallantly resisted, and the rebels each time driven back with heavy loss, ours on this wing being comparatively trifling. On the left, however, where McDowell commanded, our wing was turned and suffered terribly. I saw this morning between seven and eight hundred of those slightly wounded who belonged for the most part to McDowell's corps, and was informed that that number was but a slight fraction of those yet to come in. Both men and officers with whom I conversed denounced McDowell in the harshest terms, and it was vesterday reported that he was sent to Washington under arrest. I am disposed to think, however, that

Two or three hundred persons, physicians and volunteer nurses, came here yesterday, some from as far north as New York, to assist the wounded, but they were comselled to return, as no means of transportation to the field was furnished to them. The report that we were driven from the field, and our wounded left in the hands of the enemy, obtained some credence in consequence; ut the fact was, as I ascertained, that sufficient assistance had been obtained at an early hour in the morning. by the way of the Long Bridge. On Sanday, the 31st ultimo, the battle was but feebly renewed on either side wing to the exhaustion arising from the three preceding days of continual conflict, and of the necessity of time wherein to bury the dead. We have sent forward reinforcements amounting to very little short of forty thousand men, and if we should fail to wipe out the rebel power within a few days it will not be for want of a sufficlent force. We are certainly not outnumbered this time, and, I trust, we shall not be outgeneraled. For my own part. I entertain the belief that this vile incalled-for rebellion is now in its last thross, and that in a few days we shall grapple the monster by the throat and give him such a squeeze that his future efforts shall be very short-winded. I strove to obtain a list of the killed and wounded this morning, but the pressure o business was such that it was not yet made out. Gen Taylor, of the 1st New Jersey brigade, died at four o'clock A. M. to-day. About six hundred of the rebel risoners taken by us passed through here last night. From a careful estimate of the force engaged, and from the flerce and deadly character of the encounters during Friday and Saturday, I should judge the less in killed and wounded during those two days will amount to abou eventeen thousand. The 2d New York Excelsior, Sickles livision, behaved very gallantly on Thursday last s Bristow Station, on the left of the railroad, where they ncountered the Louisiana Brigade on their front, and two batteries, one on the high ground to the left of the ction with a little more than two hundred men, and of these, cighty fell at the first fire. They still pressed for ward on the enemy, and were opened on by the two patteries above mentioned. Thus assailed, the gallan little band were in danger of annihilation; but one de perate hope was left—to charge on the brigade in front and drive them from the shelter of the grove which they occupied. This was done with a gallantry never surpassed or any field. A little more than one hundred men charg on a whole brigade, and drive them from their position. I have just learned from those gentlemen who went direct from Washington to the field to render aid to th wounded, that we were compelled to abandon our killed and wounded; the enemy now occupies the field, and would not receive a flag of truce, asking permission to bury our dead and bring off the wounded At least four thousand of our wounded, who were unable to leave the field, have fallen into the enemy's station were burned by order of General Pone, to prevent their falling into the hands of the enemy. Last evening a body of Stuart's cavalry and a ligh battery of howitzers made an attack on our rear s Fairiax, but they were driven off without having effected anything of consequence.

GOOD NEWS FROM POPE'S ARMY THE FEELING IN WASHINGTON Jackson said to be Falling Back.

[Special Despatch to The Press.] WASHINGTON, September 1-11 P. M. It is understood here that the War Department is now in receipt of despatches from Gens. THE FIGHT ON SATURDAY. JACKSON FORCES HIS WAY THROUGH OUR TROOPS FEARFUL LOSS ON BOTH SIDES.

WASHINGTON, August 31, 1862. According to all accounts, General Jackson yesterday succeeded in forcing his way through the Federal troops surrounding him, and effected a junction with the reairder of the Confederate forces. This result was not attained without fearful loss on both sides, and the mos lesperate fighting occurred. From all that can be learned, in the absence of any regular report, the corps of McDowell, Porter, Heintzleoun, and Sigel were engaged, the former having the left, the latter the right, and the others operating about the centre. The principal fighting seems to have been from Manassas Junction towards Thoroughfare Gap, the right at and about Centreville, and the centre on the old Bull hun battle-field out from Manageas. The action was commenced by the enemy opening hi batteries upon our left, between one and two o'clock, Their guns were strongly and advantageously posted open plain. Morell's division supported the batteries : this point. After some severe cannonading, Gen. Buford's brigade of cavalry, comprising the 1st Michigan, let Virginia, and let Vermont, were ordered to our extreme left, to reconnoitre and guard against any attemp to turn the left flank, which movement was threatene by the enemy. Riding beyond our left, where the infantry where formed close behind our batteries which were playing with great precision upon the enemy, while our troops were cheering vociferously, the cavalry reached a sight eminence and were about to send out a detachment t explore, when the enemy were seen coming up in force served to wheel into position and then came shell, throw nto their midst, followed by canister and grape. Thus was discovered the intention of the enemy to at tempt a flank movement. Long ines of infantry could plainly be seen hurrying up to take position, and soon other batteries were brought up and opened upon our left. The cavalry, forced to retire retreated benind ; low ridge, but, the clouds of dust re realing their place of retreat, the rebels continued shelling them, and another change of position was made. Here a body of cavalry were observed riding towards them, and sabres were drawn to meet the coming foe.

The advancing squadron proved to be friends, the 4t New York Cavalry, attached to Sigel's corns. Whire they had come from, as Sigel was on the right, was and is a mystery. They reported Stuart's cavalry as abou making a charge. The New York tavalry fell in behind Buford's brigade, the bugles sounded, and over the hill salloped our horsemen to meet the advancing foe. As our men approached, the robel cavalry discharge cuble barreled shot guns, and then met in fu'l charge Our men broke the enemy's line, and pursued them. The foe rallied in splexdid style, and dashed forward again to meet the charge. Again their line was broken, and a our cavalry was preparing to charge again, when the

A battery, which had run short of ammunition, was or the point of being captured, but under the determined come up, and were formed in line to prevent straggling The fact of Stuart's cavalry being armed with double barred shot guns is proved by a number of the guns being captured, and several of the cavalry having buckshot woulds. Col. Erodhead, commanding the 1st Mi. chigan Cavalry, was captured. Lieut. Merriam was wounded and taken prisoner. Lieut. Morse was killed Franklin's Division retired to Centreville, after preventing confusion, and giving the retreating troops time

During the fight a body of the enemy, concealed in a bedy of woods annoyed our forces much by their rise practice. Martindale's Brigade charged them and drove them from the woods, amidst the cheers of our line. Hartsuff's brigade made a similar charge, but with s different result. They penetrated the woods, when a deadly fire of grape and canister was opened upon theu from a masked battery. At the same time a murderous volley, of rifle balls came from one side, and a descorate charge of the enemy from the other. Our men fought bravely, but we e forced to retire. The enemy remained upon the battle field over night. To day there has been some skirmishing. Reinforce ments are going up to-day, and a battle is anticipated on The road from Alexandria, extending to Centreville was densely crowded all day with wagon trains, ambuisnoes, hacks, and private conveyances, on their way to and from the latter place. The number of wounded sent to Washinton was comparatively small. Pickets had been thrown out all along the road to pre vent stragglers from deserting the front. Four Government employees, who had started from General Mc-Clellan's headquarters last night, in company with a mail noble institution, a Hospital was established, it to the public. Of course, it will find a place in Ball's Cross Roads, on suspicion of being spies; but, cn carrier (intending to act as nurses), were arrested, at last October, with twenty-eight beds, and be every lawyer's collection of indispensable books. | returning to McClellan's headquarters, were discharged.

IMPORTANT FROM THE CAPITAL.

Special Correspondence of The Press WASHINGTON, September 1, 1862. The censorship of the telegraph being exceedingly strict, nothing was allowed to be forwarded last night, except the few killed and wounded that could be gleaned. Arrivals from the fleid, who left at 12 M., yesterday, re. peried that the rain prevented the movement of artillery, and both armies tacitly had coased fighting since the previous evening, and were recuperating, the enemy re-maining in possession of the field and of two-thirds of our wounded, and our army having retired back upon Centreville, with the advance about two miles in front of that place. It seems that on Saturday the left flank of McDowell, which was on the left of our army, was Colonel, watching the progress of the fight during the day, which was vigorously carried on by Fitz John Porter's corps, including Srkes' regulars, until six in the evening, when they were overpowered by numbers, and retired half a mile. Here they made a stand, until darkness closed the battle.

Yesterday afternoon considerable cannonading took piece on the wings, but no general engagement, nor do the lutest arrivals to day, who left at 8 o'clock this morning, report any fighting up to that I our. No apprehension of ill success seemed then to be felt, and the men wer taking their breakfast with great composure. McDowell displayed great galiantry on Saturday, exposing himself constantly. General Kearney not Wounded. There is no truth in the report that Gen. KEARNEY has been wounded. Official Orders. [General Order No. 119]

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, WARINGTON, August 29th, 1861. The following orders are published for the information and government of all concerned: OBDER RESPECTING TRADE REGULATIONS. WAR DEFARTMENT, August 28, 1862.

The attention of all officers, and others, connected with the army of the United States, is called to the regu lations of the Secretary of the Treasury, concerning commercial intercourse in the insurrectionary States, or sections, dated August 28th, 1862. First. Commandants of departments, districts, and posts, will render all such military aid as may become necessary in carrying out the provisions of the said regulations, and enforcing the observance thereof to the extent directed by the Secretary of the Treasury, so far as can possibly be done without danger to the operations or safety of their respective commands. Second. Special Despatches to "The Press."

Latest from the Battle-Field.

A gentleman who returned to day from the battlefield reports that, in Caturday's fight, the left wing was commanded by General McDowall, but, owing to the nurderous enfliading fire, he was compelled to fall back.

It appears that our forces attacked the enemy in the woods, from which the latter opened murderous batteries, causing great slaughter. The rebels suffered countly as much as our own troops. Our men, fearless and determined, fell back about a mile, leaving our dead and wounded on the field. Our informant says our main forces were five miles from Centerville on Sunday, in battleferray, and prepared for any emergencies, having

LOUISVILLE, September 1 .- A large and enthusiasti meeting was beld here this morning, at the Court House Hon, James Guthrie presided. Several spirited and patriotic speeches were made, and resolutions passed. Among the resolutions was one requesting the Mayor to issue a proclamation calling on all male citizens to arm themselves, and be ready to meet the rebels in case they attack us. The meeting adjourned, to meet again as soon as the Mayor issues his proclamation. The Legislature adjourned at Frankfort to-day, and removed to this city. Governor Robinson and many members are here now It is said that the Legislature will convene at the Court House to-morrow. The citizens are very much excited at the near ap-wroach of the rebels. PROCLAMATION OF THE MAYOR. The Mayor of the city has issued the following PROGLAMATION:

In conformity with the resolution passed this morning.

In conformity with the resolution passes this murans, I call upon the citizens for the purpose of completing their enrollment.

Citizens are requested to report the number and character of the arms in their possession.

Captains of Home Guard companies, now organized, will likewise report the number of their men, and the arms in their possession.
All citizens who are able to bear arms, who fall or refuse to report themselves for enrollment for the protection of their homes and firesides, will be looked upon as a common enemy.

All reports will be made to Colonel Thomas W. Gibson at 12 o'clock on the 2d inst, or as soon thereafter as practicable, he having been empowered by the Governor to take charge of the home forces of the city.

J. M. DELPH, Mayor.

PROULAMATION OF THE GOVERNOB. I, James F. Robinson, Governor of the Common wealth of Kentucky, do hereby authorize Thomas W Gibsen, of Louisville, to organize and bring into the field all the able-bodied men in the county of Jefferso and city of Louisville.

Gen. John W. Finnell, Adjutant General of Kentucky has established his headquarters in Kentucky.

The city is in a blaze of excitement to night. Oithzens are enrolling themselves and making great preparations.

A correspondent of the Journal writes that the robel Morgan and his band left Glasgow at 4 o'clock on Saturday. Whilst there, he destroyed all the indictments for treason returned by the grand jury at the last term of the court, over a hundred in number, and mulliated the records of the court so that no traces of the indictments are left. FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

FORTRESS MONROR, August 31 .- The Ironsides left fortress Monroe to-day noon for Philadelphia. Her trip has been successful. A flag of truce was sent up the James river to Alken's Landing to-day, and carried up Colonel Forney, of Alabama, who was wounded, taken prisoner, and pareled some time ago. They also took up some women and children. The Baitic steamship is being loaded with troops to-day. A young lad, by the name of Eesger, applied vesterday to the provest marshal for a pass to go over the lines to rebeldom, but refused to take the oath of allegiance. The provest, after allowing him to wait till he had given passes to all loyalists present requiring them, sent his guard with young feeger to General Dix to inquire what should be done with him; but when he arrived at headquarters, his sentiments were so far changed that he took the oath. City Point is entirely demolished by the Federal gunboats. For some time past the revels have been firing into the transports passing up and down the James river. Com. Wilkes sent the rebels word that, if it was not discontinued, he should destroy their rendezvous at City Point. On Thursday last, the rebels brought down to City Point eight cannon and about two hundred riflemen, and opened fire on the Union flotills, which, at the time, was near and abreast of that point, whereupon our gunboats opened fire upon them, and debuilding in the place, and dispersed the rebil force. The Fight at Bolivar, Tennessee. REPORTED VICTORY BY GENERAL BUELL. CAIRO, September 1.—The fight at Bollvar Tennessee n Saturday, lasted all the afternoon, resulting in the repulse of the enemy. They encamped within a few miles of the town, and on Sunday morning broke up into small squads, forded the Hatchie river, and attacked Meadow Station, where they met a determined resistance, and were finally repulsed with a loss of fifty killed and wounded. Our loss is said to have been only four. Telegraph and railway communication between Bolivar and Jackson is interrupted, but will soon be restored. A report reached here to-day that General Buell had had a fight with the rebels at Chattanooga on Wednesday and Thursday. On the first day no advantage was gained on either side. On the second day the enemy were repulsed. Buell is reported to have captured seven thousand prisoners. This news is said to have been telegraphed to Truching bis, and was brought from there to Jackson, Tenn., by Later intelligence says that the rebels have destroyed all the railroad between Bolivar and Jackson. The War in Kentucky-Proclamation of

General Robinson. CINCINNATI, August 31. General Nelson, wounded in the late battle near Richmond, Ky., arrived here to night. A special despatch to the Commercial, dated to-day, contains a proclamation issued by General Robinson. He says: 44 The State has been invaded by an insolent foe, her

"The State has been invaded by an insolent foe, her honor insulted, her peace disturbed, and her integrity imperilled. The small but gallant army, raised upon the emergency of the occasion for her defence, under the brave and chivslrous Nelson, has met with a temporary disaster, and the enemy is advancing to accomplish his purpose, the subjugation of the State. He must be met and driven from the border, and it is in your power to do so." He calls on every loyal citizen of Kentucky to raily in defence of the State, to raise up as one man, to strike a blow in defence of their native land, their property, their homes.

Rebel Emissary Caught-Unsuccessful Attempt to Cross the Frontier. RIAGANA FALLS, August 30 .- A robel omissary attempted to cross the Euspension Bridge to Canada this morning, but was arrested. He was dressed as a female and carried a baby, which he pretended to be nursing. He was rather handsomely dressed and wore a thick veil. It is rumored that the arrested man is a robel of no mall importance. His trunks and papers are in possession of the provost marshal. Death of Col. Fletcher Webster.

BOSTON, September 1.- 1 despatch to Gov. Andrew states that Col. Fletcher Webster, of the 12th Massachusetts Regiment, was mortally wounded in battle on Saturday, and has since died. WABHINGTON, September 1.—There is concurrent testi-mody as to the fact that Colonel Fletcher Webster, of hisasachusetts, was severely, if not mertally, wounded. He was taken from the field by four of his men by order of Osptain Harmon, who was himself wounded in the abouter. The whereabouts of the former is not known. The latter is in this city.

Despatch from General Birney. The following despatch was received this morning from General Birney. It will give pleasure to his many friends in the city. His brigade is in Kearney's division, a part of the corps of General Heintuleman.

§The London Times, in an editorial on the latest phase of the civil war in America, says:

"We infer from the undisguised sneers of the Northern journals and the bold insolence of members of the bar, as exemplified in the Gordon case at Boston, that an under current of popular disgust with the management of the war is beginning to find expression.

The Times, referring to the conscription and the attendant measures, says that the land of self-government and unlimited free dom is now ruled by a force that is creating terror. It adds that "involuntary servitude is now the lot of the white race."

The Herald urges that if a decisive disaster should befall General DioClellan, General Pope, or General Buell, the North may carry on a border warfare and maintain the blockade, but will have nothing to say against the Power that proffers to the South "recognition and the right hand of fellowship".

The Daily News says that the symptoms of bitterness and desperation of the South are such that the extraordinary exertions on the part of the North are called for. It adds: "It is sufficiently clear that the war can only be speedily closed by bringing an overwhelming force into the field, and every friend not only of America, but of humanity and peace, will therefore desira to see nay levies resired and equipped without further delay."

The Star denies that there are any signs as yet that the genuine American population are disposed to reside or evade the requirements of the Federal Government. The Nur denies that there are any signs as yet has the gentine American population are disposed to resist or erade the requirements of the Federal Government. It says: "If the summons to arms be but generally obeyed, the Fouth will have to encounter such an arms force as the most powerful European monarchy would be unable to resist."
