Old demands are also firm at 108 m 108% bid. One-year certificates of indebtness remain at 93% 099 with not much demand. Governments on the street are rather dull, as few are disposed to sell at present prices, and many afraid to buy while the threatening aspect of the rebellion continues. The rumor of the esignation of Secretary Stanton caused a feeling of relief, and predictions were rife that we would soon have a better state of war matters. The fact of his resignation coming from unofficial sources, caused no change in quotations, although a more lively tone was given to the Black Armures and Venetiennes.

beloved friend, BENJAMIN P. ADAMS, we deem it HEADQUARTERS HOME CITY OF PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5, 1862. GENERAL ORDER, No. 11. our duty to make some public testimonial of his manly worth: therefore,

Resolved, That in the loss of our dear Brother we feel that Leath has robbed us of our ablest member, our country of a brave soldier, and humanity of a steadfast friend. The Governor of the Commonwealth having issued his Proclamation, of the 4th instant, in which, among other things, he says "that it is expedient that measures should be taken to arm and prepare our people for de-Resolved, That we cherish his memory for all that is wise, noble, and good; his friendship was sincere and firm; his character without reproach, and his patriotism fence." it is hereby ordered: First. That commanding officers of regiments, batns, squadrons, or batteries of the Home Guard take naments, squarrons, or Datteries of the Home Grard take prompt and decisive measures to put their respective commands in a condition of efficiency. For this pur-pose, all members thereof are required to obey the orders Resolved. That we tender to his bereaved family our heartfelt. symps hies, and would bid them be comforted by the thought that he has not died in vain; his country called him, and he gave his life in defending her flag; such a death all men delight to honor.

Resolved, That, the above resolutions be published, and a copy enrolled and presented to the family of the pose, all members thereof are required to obey the orders of their respective commanding officers, in reporting for any duty to which they may be assigned.

Second. The men of Philadelphia are urged, in the most emphatic manner, to enroll themselves in the companies of the Home Guard most convenient to their respective residences, and to form additional regiments thereof. Third. It is essential to the security of the city that a force of 45,000 men should be promptly organized, instructed, and disciplined. To do this, the women of the city should be substituted in all employments suitable to their tender sex now filled by able-bodied men. ALBERT J. YERKES, Committee.
JAMES G. KEYS, TWENTY-FOURTH WARD IN Mo-of Twerty-fourth Ward, West Ead, favorable to carrying out the suggestions contained in the Proclamations of Gov. Currin and the Mayor of the city, held on Saturday Fourth Men of Philadelphia, a mighty danger is impending over you; continue your inactivity and supplents a few days longer, and total and irretrievable ruin will overwhelm you. A powerful army, finshed with victory, and enriched with your military spoils, now hovers over your Southern border; another holds in check, in frent of Washington, the remnants of your armies of the Potomac, of Virginia, and of North Carolina. The invasion of your soil may occur at any moment, and such a prize as Philadelphia is too tempting to the barslooted soldiers, who strip your dead and wounded on the battle fields of their clothing to cover their nakedness, not to call forth their every effort to secure it. Once captured, it will be plundered, and its safety from destruction will be the condition on which dishonorable terms of peace will be offered. Arouse yourselves! the 100,000 able bodied men who inhabit this city, with the resources which it contains, if united, and ably led, can defy the efforts of any Southern army which could be precipitated upon it. Fourth Men of Philadelphia, a mighty danger is im syening 6th inst., at the Precinct Home, corner of Forty-irst street and Haverford road, the following resolution, ffered by Mr. John A. Brown, was unanimously adopted offered by Mr. John A. Brown, was unanimously adopted and ordered to be published:
