CAMP INDEPENDENCE.—The veteran Philadelphia regiments have pitched their tents in Indendence Equare, within the shadow of old Independence Hell, and its sacred precincts, by the magic touch of war, have been transformed into a military cump. The old stamping-ground of aspiring politicians and extremely third-rate orators, (although the silver tones of eloquence have, at intervals, rijolced its echoes,) becomes ennobled in its aspect, and in perfect keeping with the spirit of the time. No longer the arens for that mere selfish partisanship which has done so much to bring about the present crisis, it has been regenerated and disenthralled. The associations of Revolutionary days, that had been well nigh buried up in the rubbish of party organizations, and well nigh smothered in the dust from the wheels of the Juggernaut Progress, are being reclaimed from their oblivion, and burnished up to their original brightness. By the light of '62 we are beginning to restore the picture that was limned in '76. Adversity has softened our hard-heartedness, and made ontline dim; but hope whispers that our skill may yet us bitterly conscious of our neglect and unfaithfulness to the lessons laid down for our guidance through all time. We go to the lumber room of history, and there, amid the relics of autiquity, the dust of effets idols, and the crumbling of obsoletisms embalmed in vain, we search with eager eye and panting heart for the canvas, which, in a thoughtless moment, we had cast aside. We find it shrivelled, cracked, and faded, the colors faithless and the restore the fading glory, and recall the vanished tints; and so we have set vigorously about our task of duty and of love. We may be "a degenerate people," as a few of our English brethren call us, but we cannot be iconoclasts; and, by the help of God, the old images sha be set up, one by one, in their original niches, and the beauty of the temple redeemed unto perfection. Then the weary and oppressed of all nations, turning their entranced vision to its glory, shall turn their footsteps hither once again, in pilgrimage to the Mecca of mankind. Yestorday we visited Independence Square to see, and hear, and meditate. Stretching along the main avenue on either side, from the rear of the State House building, almost to the gate on Walnut street, we found a line of Sibley tents, whose symmetry was half concealed by the maple feliage, and by the moving animated throng, attracted to the spot by curiosity or nobler motives. The white, sugar-losf looking cones of canvas, within and without, wore an indescribable air of neatness and comfort irreconcilable with conventional notions of camp life. Their sides were not adorsed by any amateur attempts at drawing, nor labelled with charcoaled epigrams. For a wonder you are not interrogated as to the identity of the individual who cut your hair, nor informed that a certain "Bless" of volunteers didn t " see it '-in fact, it might be reasonably supposed that that they were all Paul Prys, for they seemed to have seen everything that ever greeted mortal vision. For a wonder no savory odor of salt pork arose in incense to your nostrils; no camp kettles bubbled upon cosy tripods: no frightful bayonet confronted you at every step, and called to mind unpleasant thoughts of man's mortality. Each tent was prettily inscribed with the name of some Philadelphia regiment, whose fame has rung throughout the land, whose valor has been mourefully upborne by every list of casualties, and whose standard, pierced by scores of bullets, will be preserved among the achives of our Commonwealth, when the war is over, a brighter mement, of a soldiers' worth than the brightest

No guard stood by the door with loaded musket to prevent any man from going in an ordinary mortal and coming out a hero, immortalized through all the coming ages. There was no selected list of favored citizens, whose names might be emblazoued on the scroll by dint of private influence. There lay the appendix to the Declaration, and in cheerful groups around the door stood a noble batch of signers. They had done something for their country's sake that swelled their hearts with honest pride, and made them better men-men to be honnored and esteemed-men, and not cravens, in the There were other memorable sights, scarcely less inspiring and auggestive. There were sights, that, transferred to canvas, would have made fame and fortune for the artist; but unfortunately they were "not transfers. ble," in box-office parlance. There was all of the pon The smoke, the desiening cannon's roar, the wild bayonet charge, the shock of armies, and the cheer of victoio panorama before the vision of the thoughts, dimmed only by the veil of romance. And in their stead the plainer aspects of the soldier's life were present—the small table, lay the rell of honor, and by it pen and ink.

camping out in pleasant groves and shady places, where the very air is instinct with elation, and the shreds of supshine, that stray between the lattice, work of leafer boughs, dance not away the ripples of the stream, timid at war's visage, but stay to fill their heavenly missionto brighten and cheer the soldier's peaceful momentaand turn his thoughts to friends, to home, to God. chants the senses with a weird charm, and holds captive the imagination. Brilliant lauterns of many hues stretch from tent to tent, and from tree to tree, nestle like fireflies smong the bright green leaves, and sparkle with the lustre of the Uhinese feast. Over the gravelled avenues of the square the tall trees stretch their arms in friendly greeting, and in their hands shaking become bowers, and It is hard to realize that we are not the frequenters of some Parisian saturnalia, or that we are not celebrating safety. It is hard to realize that such a brilliant spectacle, such crowds of ladies and gentlemen, such a perspring of a terrible necessity, and of a danger that threatens our city with invasion, and our homes and ency or gloom, no careworn, anxious face, in all this assemblage. Confidence is here, hope is here, conviction of and drill-grounds. The night is very beautiful, the pale moonlight shines upon the tree-tops, but casts not their reflected lengths down the lighted groves. Except to make the background, no shadows fill the picture, nor is there any shadow's trace on all the hearts of this great The band is playing a sweetly mournful air a tender, touching, yet inspiring air, that stirs up unsuspected founts of feeling in the breast, and opens memory's flood gates. Perhaps it was the same that marshalled a dear brother, son, or father on his last battle-field, and filled his dying moments with a hely calm. Perhaps its moving tenderness perpetuates the memories of hunthe soul their virtues and self sacrificing natures. At any rate, it speaks to every heart in a language that stirs up fond emotions, and prompts unutterable reformed, that thrills and yet deludes us. We fancy we are on the field of conflict; an imaginary musket cuts net!' and we hold ourselves in readiness, with lips compressed and flashing eye, to dash forward against the apple stand on Walnut street, with a deadly onset, that shall overturn resistance, and crown us with the victor's laurel! But now the syren music has come to an end. the lights are all extinguished, and the crowds are going home. The drums are still imitating the peals of distant cannon, as though Stonewall Jackson had reached Gray's Ferry, or the New Merrimac, slipping by Fort Delaware had begun to shell the navy pard; so here are themes Have you visited Camp Independence? If not, you have yet to see the grandest recruiting station in the country—a recruiting station which Nature's hands have reared, the hands of art adorned, and the pen of history reared, the hands of art adorned, and the pen of history hallowed through the past century, and for cruturies to come. A solemn duty tests upon you, if you be a patriot, to spend some portion of the day upon these sacred grounds, within sight of the venerable editice from whose now faded portists the voice of liberty proclaimed itself throughout the land. If you have not the heart to add your name to the number of your country's defenders, you have still weighty duties devolving unny non in this cries.

bave still weights duties devolving upon you in this crisis. You can lend your presence and sympatry and influence, and such efforts as you can exert to the forwarding of the and such chief so your brether have taken in hand, and determined to accomplish. You can join the throngs whose steps are turned to Camp Independence, and whose hearts shall here renew the pledge their fathers gave, upon this very ground, to devote their liver, their fortunes, and their sacred honors to the cause of human independence. AN AVAILABLE WILITARY HOSPITAL.

At a meeting of the "Radnor & Tredyfirin Ladies" Aid Society," of Chester county, held a few days since, the hope was expressed by many that the Villa Nova College might be converted into a hospital for the use of our wounded and convalescent soldiers, so that the patriotic citizens of Radnor, Tredyfirin, and vicinity might have the opportunity of administering, with their own hands, to the wants of the soldier. The college is peculiarly and particularly adapted to the purpose, being directly on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad, and within twelve miles of Philadelphia. We have no hospital wifthin twelve miles, so that all the interest of the neighborhood would be centred in this, and, being situtal 'within twelve miles, so that all the interest of the neighborhood would be centred in this, and, being situated in a land flowing with "milk and honey," every wish of the soldier would be anticipated and gratified by the reciberts. During the past winter the faculty of the college offered it to Government, upon the condition that no invalids having contagious diseases should be admitted. This conditional offer was refused, on the ground that the latter were a very strong preponderance. But not the conditions of the conditio ted: This conditional offer was refused, on the ground that the latter were a very strong preponderance. But move, that our city hospitals are filled to overflowing, would it not be wise to send away all the convalescent, leaving the attention they require to be transferred wholls to the sick and wounded! Such a place as Villa Nova College must be needed—urgently: needed; then why do not the proper authorities examine into its merits, and, if found adapted to the purpose, allow the patriotic inmates to open its doors to our gallant sufferers?

CONVEYANCE OF LICK SOLDIERS .-It is said that parties who have a contract with the Government for conveying sick and wounded soldiers from the hospifal boats to the hospitals in and about the city, have erected and received from the Government a specihave erected and received from the Government a speci-fied compensation for carrying invalids. It is well known that our generous-hearted firemen and other citizens have voluntarily performed this work, and pa-trictically tender their services to continue their occupa-tion. A Convention of delegates from fire companies employing ambulances will be held at the halt of the Northern Liberty Hose Company, New Market street, above Coates, this evening, for the purpose of ferreting put the aviant of this business.

THE DRAFT-OFFICIAL RETURNS OF THE ENROLLMENT—ONLY 4,320 MEN TO BE DRAFTED.—On Saturday the official returns of those DRAFTED.—On Saturday the official returns of those liable to the performance of military duty were made to Marshal Millward. The table given below is after all corrections have been made and differe elightly from the returns published in The Press week or two since. The terms provided as liable to military duty is somewhat more, while these serving in Pennsylvania regiments has been made less. It was a matter of impossibility for the enrollers to obtain the correct number of those, who have eplisted, and, in view of this fact, a special committee of the draft commissioners visited Harrishburg, and laid the mater before the Governor. The result was that Philadelphia is to receive the credit of having furnished 29,000 men, of which there cannot be the elightest doubt. In order, therefore, to complete our quota of 33 414, we have yet to furnish about 4,500 volunteers. These should be furnished withouth a draft, if possible, and the citizens have jet to it mish should also volunteers. These words be furnished withouth draft, if possible, and the citizens in the different wards and precincts should, after accertaining their correct quota, at once adopt such measures as will bring forth the number. To facilitate trade and guard against improper transportation, "sids to the revenue" will be appointed from time to time on cars, vessels, and boats, when desired by owners, agents, or masters thereof, which aids will have free carriage on the respective cars, vessels, and boats, on which they are placed, and will allow proper way freights to be taken on board without permit, keeping a statement thereof, and report the same to the collector or surveyor of the first port to be passed on the trip where there is such as officer, from whom a permit therefor must be obtained, or the goods returned under his direction. No permit will be granted for transportation into any insurrectionary State or district, except on cars, vessels, and boats, carrying such aids.

XV All vessels, boats, and other vehicles used for transportation, violating any of the above regulations, and all goods, wares, and merchandies shipped and transported in violation thereof, will be forfeited to the United and all goods, wares, and merchandise shipped and trans-ported in violation thereof, will be forfeited to the United States. If any false statement be made or deception practised in obtaining a permit, such permit, and all others connected therewith or affected thereby, will be bsolutely void, and all merchandise shipped thereunds hall be forfeited to the United States. In all cases forfeiture as aforesaid, immediate seizure will be made and proceedings instituted promptly for condemnation. The attention of all officers of the Government, comm n carriers and shippers, consigness, owners, masters agents, drivers, and other persons connected with the transportation of merchandise, or trading therein, is particularly directed to the acts of July 13, 1861, and May 20, 1862, above referred te.

XVI. All army supplies transported under military orders are excepted from the above regulations. But this exception does not extend to autiers' goods or others AVII. When any officer of the customs shall find in his district any goods, wares, or merchandise, which, in his opinion, are in danger of being transported to insurgents, he may, if he thinks it expedient, require the owners or holders thereof to give reasonable security that they shall not be sent to any place under insurrecti control, and shell not in any way be used to give aid or encouragement to the insurgents. If the required secu-rity be not given, such officer shall promptly state the facts to the United States marshal for the district within Inty be not given, such officer shall promptly state the facts to the United States marshal for the district within which such goods are situated, or, if beyond the jurisdiction of a United States marshal, then to the commandant of the nearest military post, whose duty it shall be to take possessien thereof, and hold them for safe keeping, reporting the facts promptly to the Secretary of the Treasury, and awaiting instructions.

XVIII. Where ports heretofore blockaded are opened by the proclamation of the President, licenses will be granted by United States consuls, on application by the proper parties, to vessels clearing from foreign ports to the ports so opened, upon satisfactory evidence that the vessel so licensed will convey no person, property or information contraband of war, either to or from said ports, which license shall be shown to the collector of the port to which the vessel is bound, and, if required, to any port so opened, the vessel must have a clearance from the collector, according to law, showing no violation of the conditions will involve the forfeiture and condemnation of the vessel and cargo, and the exclusion of all parties concerned from entering the United States for any purpose during the war.

XIX. United States vessels clearing from domestic luring the war.

XIX. United States vessels clearing from domestic ports to any of the ports so opened, will apply to the custom house officers of the proper ports, in the usual manner, for licenses or clearances under the regulations heretofore established.

WAR DEPARTMENT WASHINGTON UITY, August 23, 1862.
The affention of all officers and others connected with the army of the United States is called to the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury concerning commercial intercourse with insurrectionary States or sections, dated intercourse with insurrectionary States or sections, dated August 23, 1862.

I. Commandants of departments, districts, and posts will render all such military aid as may become necessary in carrying out the provisions of said regulations, and enforcing observance thereof to the extent directed by the Secretary of the Treasury, as far as can possibly be done without danger to the operations or safety of their respective commands.

II There will be no inverference with trade with the contractions of safety of their respective commands.

II. There will be no interference with trade or shipments of cotton or other merchandise conducted in pursuance of said regulations within any territory occupied and controlled by the forces of the United States, unless absolutely necessary to the successful execution of military plans or movements therein. But in cases of the violation of the conditions of any clearance or permit granted under said regulations, and in cases of unlawful traffic, the guilty party or parties will be arrested, and the facts promitily reported to the commandant of the the facts promptly reported to the commandant of the lepartment for orders. III. No officer of the army, or other person connected luals unless exposed to destruction by the enemy, or duals unless exposed to destruction by the enemy, or needed for military purposes, or conflictation under the act of Cougress, and in all such cases of seizure the same shall be promptly reported to the commandant of the department wherein they are made, for his orders therein. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

THE FIFTH WARD ASSESSMENT -The THE FIFTH WARD ASSESSMENT.—The case of Charles Dougherty, charged with misdemeanor in office as an assessor, in adding names to the list of taxables, was called up in the Quarter Sessions on Saturday. The fact of the election and appointment of the assessors, Charles Dougherty and E. B. McDowell, of the Fifth ward, having been proved, Mr. T. Maguire testified that the 107 names before referred to had been added at his house. When the assessors first came he gave but two names, his own and Chapman's; Dougherty did not come back after he and McDowell were there; Dougherty took all the names in the month of May; told him there was no use in taking the names of seamen, as they would be here one day and away the next; he said he had received legal advice on the subject, and he thought it right to take them in view of drafting. McDewell objected to taking the names for drafting purposes.

William H. Pierce, who took the enrollment for the United States mershal testified that he visited Mr Maguire's house on the 26th of August, and get three names

The argument in this case will close either to-day or to-morrow. Mr. Russell Thayer, for Mr. Thompson, will conclude, and a decision may be expected during the present week. The argument in this case was opened, on Monday last, by F.
