Bead what the editor of the Evening Bulletin says of Bead what the editor of the Evening Bulletin says of it editorially in that paper:

"I The Mystery," by Mrs. Henry Wood, author of The Earl's Heirs, is just published by Messrs Peterson & Brothers, from the manuscript purchased in advance of its appearance in England R is the best written and most intensely interesting of all its writer's works, scarcely falling short of 'The Woman in White,' in its power of absorbing the attention of the reader. The plot is singularly original and ingenious, and 'the Mystery' is well kept up to the close The characters are well suttained, and those of Edwin Bradley, Charlotte Delves, Emily, Chandos, and Anne Hereford, who tells the story in the autobiographical form, are well tells the story in the autobiographical form, are well drawn and individualized. 'The Mystery' is destined to have an immense number of readers, and to add greatly to its author's reputation."
