Millinery Opening Day.

her is ludispensable : a military review, making hay, Millinery "Opening." But as it is the special ogative of the weather to be fickle, its frown on these sions is generally borns by the wiser sort as one of unavoidable circumstances in life which can be endured than cored. For the grand Fall Openings w principal militury establishments yesterday, the was not aunticious. If, however, we are not enabled onicle as great a turnout of beauty and fashion on not be less grailf; leg to our fair readers, who realld at home, to know that the preparations for their unent were never more attractive, especially as isw fall stocks displayed yesterday can be examined any other day as well Nor were the "Openings," cally, a failure. The various millinery establishon Second, Wainut, Eighth, and Chestnut streets all comfortably filled with lookers, and the exhibiwere, in the main, highly creditable. he celebrated olu bause of Wood & Cary (formerly Molh, Wood, & Michole), No. 725 Chestnut street, as most altention, both from the extent of display and the number of genuine novelties it sined. For our own part, we have never seen an totally large assortment of fashionable head-gear in thich there was so little repetition and so much to adto. The variations in colors, materials, forms, atyle finning, modes of arrangement, and general design, thed literally endiess. Of course, in a collection of general merit, it is difficult seatisfactorily to parwise. There are a few points, however, upon which, be information of our lasy readers, we may "make Tematks," as the New England deacon did before encing his spuch. the matter of colors there are two novelties which be much worn by ledies of taste: the La Valleire, autiful lightish brown, which, trimmed with velvet, Inter of the same shade, and fine lace, is a model of itility and olegance; and the Humboldt, a peculiar shade of purple, the effect of which is very rich and th, These, with a leadon drab, richly trimmed in "s, may be called the prevailing colors of the season, lgh pretty shades of other colors suitable for fall Winter are being largely used. The Capiceyne, or divide, recently so popular, is in a fair way of being *ceded by the new shades here designated. hthapes, we have a change to note which will hardly ustally adopted by American ladies this seasonily, that the Paris styles are much smaller than idore. By general consent, the larger, i. e. loftier, are much proferred, and they will scarcely yield aridan whim this season. "High and narrow" ha to be the popular out; and a very chaste, elegant bonnet it is. Phrenologically, it is one of enorbenevolence" and small "acquisitiveness," a extravagant combination we will admit, but as social group" is so gracefully provided for, under Catrich plumes, chaste folds of velvet, and delilace work, the Mr. MoFlimseys, who are supposed the bills, will no doubt maintain their proverbial without any serious scruples. if the handsomest bonnets in Messra. s, with a rich lace trimming, inwrought with jets, jet. Another beautiful hat, got up in the peculiar taste taste of this house, that elicited the plaudits of hundreds of ladles yesterday, was one of their Humboldi velvets rated with real estrich feathers, in natural colors secured by jets (which, by the way, are much in vogue the entire edge of the bonnet being trimmed with a poculiar new velvety cloth, the effect of which is uncom monly rich, and artificial flowers to match. The sales made by Messrs. Wood & Cary, yesterday. were probably little short of their most crowded " Openings," the diminution in numbers having been confined nainly to those who attend from mere curiosity. Their wholesale rooms, which we may state were nev so splendidly stocked as now, were also thronged throughout the day, with persons in the trade, both from the city and country, and the freedom with weich they purchased was no mean evidence that wet weather, although dampening, is not necessarily an extinguisher even of Millinery "Openings." A LARGE STOCK OF FURS .- We invite attention this morning to the card of Mr. John Fareira, No. 718 Arch street, whose stock of Ludies' Fancy Furs will be found well worthy the attention of purchasers Mr. F. has long been known as among our most thorough and reliable furriers, and from his superior preparation to meet the demands of his patrons and the public i general this season, we bespeak for him an immense fal and winter trade. His motto, we believe, has long been to sell good goods at moderate prices, and represent his

Fars to be what they really are. FINE CHOCOLATES AND MUSTARDS.—Mr. C. H. Muttson, dealer in fine family groceries, Arch and Tenth streets, has now in store a fresh supply of French and Eranish chocoletes; also, English and French mustaids in all the finest varieties, to which we invite the a tention of our readers. THE OSDORNE, the ne plus ultra of waterproof garments, introduced by J. W. Proctor & Co., continues to be the favorite Fall garment of the ladies. It is sufficiently dressy for the promenade, except for full costume; and from its shape is a perfect protection from the pluvial sterms incidental to the Equinox. Qolors, Blacks, Grays, and Browns. The genuine can be obtained only of J. W. Procter & Co., No. 920 Chestnut st. mwf3t MAGNIFICENT $600 Rosewood 7-Oct. Piano. carved legs, extra carved mouldings, round corners Grand Action Overstrong Bass, sweet and powerful tone, made to order by the best maker, only used five mouths, will be sold for $250, as the owner leaves the city in a few days. This is the greatest bargain in the city. Call and see it at 717 Arch street. ocl-3t*

STATUES AND MONUMENTS.—In London there are six public statues to kings, but one to a man of science, (Dr. Jenner), and none to single author, artist, poet, in ventor, or engineer. In this country we "go in" for utility, and we have statues and monume its illustrating this idea. One of the proudest business monuments that Philadelphia can boast of is the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestaut street, above Sixth. Here art, capital, and industry combine to furnish the nation with faultless suits for civilians, and uniforms for its soldiers. THE MISSILES AT ANTIETAM .- "I have been credibly informed that broken railroad iron and blacksmith's tools, hammers, chisels, &c., were fired at ns from robel cannon. These missiles made a peculiar noise, by which our men came to distinguish them from regular shot, and as they heard them approaching would cry 'turkey! turkey! coming!' and fall flat on their ace to avoid them. One artillerist said he expected the blacksmith shop next. From the looks of the repels

when they left the field one would have thought they used their clothes for wadding. They expected, however, to replexish their tools from the machine shops of Puiladelphia, and their clothes from Stokes' ene-price, unde the Continental." WONDERS OF THE TELEGRAPH .- A wonderful feat of telegraphing was executed at a telegraphic sonés given by Mr. Gurney, in London. The wires of the different telegraph companies were brought into Mr. Gurney's house. An unbroken circuit of wire, 5,000 miles in length, was then formed, and through this great distance the electric message was flashed in the space of two seconds. The following message was also transmitted in the short space of one minute: "Buy your tail and winter garments at the one-price fashionable Clothing Emperium of Granville Stokes, No. 609 Chestnut street, Philadelphia." We can only add that by so doing you will save at least 25 per cent.

To no person could the above line be more appropriate than to the subject of the present obliviary.
Many deaths are daily recorded, but it is very seldem that we are called upon to notice the death of one to whom the above line so appropriately apply. MARTHA T. LANDELL was one of the few brilliant ornaments hat the Ohristian world is called hoon to mourn the A kind, affectionate, and loving wife, a cherished

A kind, affectionate, and loving wife, a choriahed daughter, a beloved sieter, and a true friend, she was one whose loss will always be felt. Ehe was the true type of a Christian—meek, lowly, and willing. Seeking not the vanities and pleasures of this world, she lived only with the hope of enjoying the pleasures of Hasven. Her loss is one that cannot be replaced. But she is now in that glorious haven for which she expressed a desire. Her life was an example for all, and

"None knew her but love her."

Her only regret was in leaving her husband, but sha Her only regret was in leaving her husband, but she died in the full expectation and hope of meeting him iven, never more to be separated.

On the 17th of September, in the battle of Antietam, Sergeant JOSEPH WABREN fell while gallantly serving: his country. The deceased entered the army in his eighteenth year, and served throughout the Mexican camber Country. teenth year, and served throughout the Mexican campaign, nuder General Quitman's command, and was wounded at the gates of the City of Mexico. He reserved the army on the breaking out of the rebollion, joining the 17th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers, Colonel Frank Patterson, and on the expiration of histerm was honorably discharged. He again joined the army, and served under the command of Colonel Baxter, of the Fire Zonaves, and was killed. Thus closed the career of a feithful soldier and a good citizen. His fidelity to his country's cause, and the many excellent traits that adorned his character, endeared him to a large circle of friends who sincerely mourn his loss.
