A MILITARY CALOULATION .- A French sta. detician has calculated that the civilized world spends mery twenty four hours in royal and military salutes nd polite exchanges of volleys, in wharf and citade formalities, in the daily morning and evening guns in all forfresses and men. of war, all over the globe, a hundred and fifty thousand useless shots. Estimating the cost of Do not fail to call and examine it before purchasing elsethe charge at six francs, this would produce a daily sum of his e hundred thousand francs, or three millions of (rance ($600,000) annually, which thus go off in smoke. By the same calculation one might easily ascertain how anch it would cost to equip a certain number of military officers, provided the uniforms were purchased at the oneprice clothing establishment of Granville Stoker, No. 609 Chestout street, where the cheapest garments in the country are manufactured.

GENERAL MCCLELLAN-HIS SERENADE AND mafesson .- The General, at an ovation in Trenton, recently made a speech in which he said he had a bit of survice to give --- it was this : " While the army is fighting, you, as citizens, see that the war is prosecuted for the "" and the Union and the Constitution " A the General has preserved his own constitution during the war, he knows how to value a good constitution, and everybody knows that for a thing to be perfect as a whole it must be perfect in its parts; therefore, if we as a nation would preserve our Constitution, we must do it as individuals, and that is best done by wearing warm winter clothing, such as is sold at Charles Stokes' Men and Boys' Ready-made Clothing Store, under the Uontinental.

STRICT DISCIPLINE.- A sub-lieutenant, on b wid of her Majesty's ship Resistance, has been courtmartialled and reprimanded for disrespect to his captain, in speaking to him with his left hand in his pocket. In Sectasin. (fficers are occasionally court-martialled for appraising before their superiors without either pants Cons or pookets into which to thrust their hands. In Mis fatitude, military men are deemed worthy of a reprimand when they shew so little good taste and regard for the interests of the service as not to procure their uni forma at the Brown Stone Olothing Hall of Bockhill & Wilson, Nor. 608 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth.
