THE HOSPITALS ON THANKSGIVING -In addition to the hospital celebrations on Thanksgiving day, mentioned in The Press of yesterday, we give the following: In reference to the Thankegiving Iestival at the George-street Hospital we unintentionally did frinstice to the majority of the ladies interested in the dinner by awarding the credit of the whole to those of the Rev. Mr. Chandler's (now Mr. Eva's) church. These committees represent the following churches and associations, viz: The Front street M. E. Church, St. John's M. E. Church, Second Baptist Church, First Presbyterian Church, Ladies' Ald Society of Sixteenth ward, Deborah Franklin Council No. 2, D. of America, and an independent association of benevolent ladies from different churches. Each committee has its day, and makes such provision for that day as it pleases, being entirely independent of all the others. In the Thanksgiving dinner referred to these committees contributed an equal share, and are therefore entitled to equal praise. The after-dinner exercises were presided over by the pastor of the Front-street M. E. Church, and consisted of a speech in English by the Rev. A. W. Milby, and one in German by Rev. Geo. THE COLORED STATISTICAL ASSO-CIATION.—The Secial, Civil, and Statistical Association of the colored people of Pennsylvania holds its public and private meetings in this city. It has been established for three years, embiaces seventy-five members, and has for its objects mutual protection, the general recognition of the civil and social rights of the colored people, and the improvement of "the condition of the colored race by every means calculated to exalt their common humanity, and to raise them to the God ordained level of the great brotherhood of man." The last private meeting took place at the Philadelphia Institute, Lombard street, above Seventh, last Monday evening, and the last public one at Benizer's Hall, Seventh below Lombard. ROBERTS' ARTILLERY .- A portion of the battation of heavy artillery, raised for the purpose of garrisoning Fortress Monroe, has reached its destination. The company that arrived was mostly raised from the drafted men's camp at Harrisburg. George K. Bowen, the captain, was a member of the Washington Grays in the three-months service, and the Grays will thus have the honor of giving two captains to this battalion, as Captain Hezard, who is raising company A in this city, was also a member, though in active service with Bush's Lancers. Notwithstanding the slowness with which recruits are coming in for other organizations, this bettalion is filling up rapidly, all the companies being very nearly full. Captain H. has now upon his muster-roil, here and at Harrisburg, 101 men, and he only needsforty six men to be full.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE. Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at Pittsburg. THE SHERIFF'S CASE. OPINION OF CHIEF JUSTICE LOWRIS ON THE MOTION TO QUASH THE WRIT OF CERTIORARI. The telegraphic despatch of Menday last, announcing the decision of the Supreme Court on the motion to quash the writ of certiorari, gave none of the particulars of the opinion in the case, but simply announced the conclusion that had been strived at. A certified copy of that opinion was received yesterday afternoon, and we present it this morning to our readers. I wing Certiorari to Quarter Sessions Twing Certiorari to Quarter Sessions of Thompson et al. Philadelphia County.

The opinion of the court was delivered at Pittsburg, November 25th, '62, by Lowrie, C. J.

This is a case of contested election of Sheriff of Philadelphia. It was tried in the Quarter Sessions, pursuant to the act of 2d July, 1839, directing such a proceeding, and after a very full hearing on the merits if was decided that John Thompson, and not Bobert Ewing, was duly elected. The case is now brought here by a writ of certioteri, and on behalf of Mr. Thompson, it is objected that there is no sufficient cause for the writ, and cted that there is no sufficient cause for the writ, and ne moves to quash it unless sufficient cause be now shown.

This is the motion which we are now to decide, and it This is the motion which we are now to decide, and it has been argued before us at great length and with great ability. Being a question involving a political and partisan contest, it is, of course, a disagreeable one. But law rises above all parties and shares in no partisan excitements, and this indicates the trame of mind required by those who are appointed to administer the law. It respects the earnestness, and even the excitements, of all social efforts on proper social matters; but, when these excitements run into actual collisions, it is ever ready to separate the combatants by the application of its own established measure of right. In this, as in all cases, it demands that those who administer it shall do so in the very spirit of the law, and without any taint of the spirit that is peculiar to either party in the contest. It is generally inevitable that one or other of the parties will be dissatisfied with the result, and, therefore, it is probable that it will be so in this case.

Our duty in this case is a very restricted one; for, as is admitted, we cannot retry the case on the evidence but can only consiler whether it was tried before a competent authority and in proper form, and only such questions have been winder that the result of the parties that they have nearly the case on the original probable that they are the proper form, and only such questions have been winder they have been winder they are the proper form, and only such questions have been winder to the parties of the parties where they have been winder that they are the parties of the parties tent authority and in proper form, and only such ques-tions have been raised before us. Let us consider, in detail, the answers given to the motion to quash the writ; and, first, those that relate to the action of this court One of them is that the writ was duly issued, and, therefore, ought not to be quashed.

We need not stop to discuss this allegation of fact; for, even if it be true, it does not follow that the writ may not be atterwards quashed, if, on a motion made for the purpose, the court should think there is no sufficient cause to justify it. The instances in which this has been done are so numerous, and so generally sanctioned, that it is quite nuncessary to refer to any of them.

Another is that the party issuing the writ out of the Esstein District ought not to be required to go to the Western District to answer the motion. Of course, nothing could be gained for this case, but delay, by this objection; and the prevention of this is one of the very supposed of the very course of the very purposes of the motion to quash. It is very common for us, in urgert and important causes, especially public ones, to app int the hearing of the cause or of some preliminary question in it in whatever district we may happen to be question in it in whatever district we may happen to be sitting when the exigency arises, and there is nothing in the law to prevent this We did so in the equity branch of this case, in favor of Mr. Ewing's bill for an injunction, and it seems strange that he should object now when the same rule is applied in favor of the other party. We have many times done the same thing in cases of urgency, and when delay would itself have done manifest injustice.

Besides this, it was one of the conditions on which a majority of this court agreed to grant the injunction in favor of Mr. Ewing in this matter, that this motion to quash might be made here; and he cannot, with any justice, accept the benefit of that, and reject the conditions imposed, and understood by him to be imposed, ingranting it. And it is no proper answer for him to say that Mr. Thompson and the public so far respected our opinion accompanying the order, as to make the order itself unrecessary, and that therefore he may reject its conditions. The counsel seemed to think that it was a fair objection to the motion, that it was suggested by us, and not by the counsel. Why so? It is generally the case that a pre-liminary injunction is granted on such terms as the court tion with the transaction in dispute, and usually it dic-tates the terms itself, according to what it may think the exigencies of the case may require; and very often one of the terms is some provision for a speedy hearing of the matter on its merits, either in the equity case or in the matter on its ments, either in the equity case or in some action at law.

In many cases this is a plain and obvious duty, and we thought it was so in a case of so much importance to the public interests as this one. We thought it our duty to say to Mr. Ewing, we will stay the intrusion of Mr. Thompson on condition that you speed the hearing; when we were saying to Mr. Thompson you ought to have nempson on condition that you speed the hearing; when we were asying to Mr. Thompson you ought to have moved to quash the certiorari rather than act in disregard of it. Nothing is more usual an i proper than such suggestions by the court, and it requires very little reading or observation to be assured of the fact. We refer to some cases, where Lord Mausfield and other judges have made the same suggestion in relation [to the writ of certiorari, 2 Burr, 1042; Cowp., 283; 2 Term R, 234; 13 Wend., 671. We often suggest to come at the merits of their case, and allow them to amend. We should think ourselves much to blame if we should allow a party to suffer wrong by a mistake of the remedy, when we could save him from it by suggesting the proper one.

Having thus disposed of these preliminary objections, let us now consider those that relate to the merits of the case, so far as they may be reviewed by us on a certiorari. rari.

One objection is, that Mr. Ewing was not allowed to aver and show that, in several election divisions, no taily papers, and in several others, no return papers were filed in the Prothonotary's office, as the law requires. No doubt this was a very grave neglect of plain duty on the part of the election officers; but what merit does this fact furnish to Mr. Ewing's claim? Mr. Thompson claims that office because the general return; striking out.

were stricken out, Mr. Thompson would still have a maiority.

Another objection is, that the court, in the course of the proceeding, refused to allow Mr Ewing to amond his answer by adding an averment that in one division illegal votes to the number of "three and upward," or, as his witness says. "at least three," were received for Mr. Thompson. We do not need to say whether the refusal was a proper or improper exaction of dispersion by the court on the rubject of amendments, because, even if the averment had been allowed and proved, and these votes had been added to the twenty-two before named, it would not have disproved Mr. Thompson's right to the effice.

These three objections are all that refer to the merits of the election itself. There are others that relate merely to the form of the proceeding in the Quarter Sessions for contesting the election return, and we shall now consider

One of them is, that the court erred in not quashing the whole petition of Mr. Ewing's opponents, because teveral of its specifications contained contradictory aver-ments. If this had been done Mr. Ewing would have the whole petition of Mr. Ewing's opponents, because leveral of its specifications contained contradictory averments. If this had been done Mr. Ewing would have gained his cause, not on the merits and not by discrediting the general return, but merely because of some irregularity in his adverances' pleading. We cannot favor such an objection, even if the alleged contradiction were apparent, which is not the case. The true way to correct such a fault would be to strike out the contradictory parts, and not those which were not affected by the incompatibility, and which of thems lives furnished independent ground of attacking Mr. Ewing's title. Besides this, there is no sort of merit in this objection; because all the supposed objectionable specifications were afterwards withdrawn by the petitioners, and the case of Mr. Thompson was gained without them.

Another objection is, that only one judge of the Quarter Sessions was on the bench when the petition for contesting the election was presented, and the time fixed for the hearing of the parties, whereas the Constitution requires two judges for a quorum. There are two sufficent answers to this; the allegation is not sustained by the record; and there is no merit in the objection was made in proper time on this account, and it is not pretended that, at any other part of the hearing or proceeding, there were not two judges present.

Another objection is, that Mr. Ewing's commission.

that, at any other part of the hearing or proceeding, there were not two judges present.

Another objection is, that Mr. Ewing's commission cannot be imprached by means of this form of proceeding. But it might rather be said that this proceeding, instituted according to law, to contest Mr. Ewing's election, cannot be frustrated by a commission issued afterwards. Such a commission can be regarded only as provisional, or as a commission pendente life, if the proceeding should be successful, just as a commission in similar cases is declared to be in military elections by the act of 2d April, 1872, sec. 20.

Lexity, it is objected that the act of 1839, instituting this form of proceeding is unconstitutional, in so far as it deprives a party claiming a right to a public office by a popular election, of a trial by jury of all disputed facts. If this objection is well, founded, then every step in the efficial organization of the State, or is the perpetuation of its organization, might stand in need of the sanction of a jury, and is potentially subject to the delays and expense of a jury trial, except in the election of Governor and a numbers of the Legislature, in relation to which the Constitution makes special provision. Then all the laws providing for contested elections of Councilmen in every city and borough of the State are unconstitutional. Then all the numerous laws regulating the men in every city and borough of the State are unconstitutional. Then all the numerous laws regulating the manner of contesting election returns of the judges, protonotatics, registers, district attorneys, justices of the peace, constables, military officers, and all State, county, town, and township officers, except Governor and members of the Ligislature, are unconstitutional and void; and, contrary to the practice of the peaple and their officers in all departments, the State cannot organizes itself without the sid of juries. Then, size, the act of 1769, that made the Governor the judge of contested elections of sheriffs and coroners, was unconstitutional. elections of sheriffs and coroners, was unconstitutional. This objection therefore, has a fearful sweep, if it has any force, and we should stand appailed before it, if we should feel its force to be equal to its pretensions. We lo not feel it so. It is not in the act of organization of the State, nor in It is not in the act of organization of the State, nor in the perpetuation of its organic succession, but in the edministration of rights under the organization, that the Constitution secures the right of trial by jury: The jury is the popular element in the de-ermination of rights which need enforcement by means of the S are organization; but there is a much larger popular element in our elections, the votes of all the people, and a jury an elections, the votes of all the people, and a jury an elemental means of deciding contested elections of public officers. We see nothing but inexpediency to prevent the Legis-We see nothing but inexactions to prevent the Legislature from declaring that the process of election should end with the general return, and that that should be conclusive evidence of title to office or commission. But they have wisely chosen not to do so; and have appointed the court to finish the process if the general return be contisted, by a proper review of the work of the election efficers. And as they have not required that the court should have the aid of a jury for this part of the process, any more than for any previous part, no such aid can be demended of right by either party, nor is it allowable.

We all agree, therefore, in thinking that no sufficient cause is shown in support of this writ.

cause is shown in support of this writ.

It is considered and ordered that the writ of certiorari be quashed, and the record is remitted. PHILADELPHIA BOARD OF TRADE. ISBAEL MORRIS, JOSEPH O. GRUBB, EDMUND A. SOUDER, COMMITTEE OF THE MORTE.
