The Suffering Poor of England--Liberality of the Philadelphia Corn Exchange. Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, a meeting of the members of the Corn Exchange Association was held at their hall, southwest corner of Second and Gold streets, to adopt measures to raise funds for the relief of the destitute and suffering poor of Lancashire and other English manufacturing districts. The meeting was well attended, although gotten up at almost a moment's notice. During the progress of the meeting, the sum of fourteen thousand dollars was subscribed towards this worthy object, and, judging from the spirit manifested yesterday, the sum will reach an enormous figure. The New York merchants have made a similar move, but it is con-fidently believed that the Philadelphians will have a vessel well stor cd with grain, provisions, &c., and on its way to England, before that of the former city is ready to sail. The meeting yesterday was organized by calling to the chair C. J. Hoffman, Esq., president of the association, who stated the object for which they had convened.

Mr. A. G. Cattell then took the floor, and spoke as follows:

as follows: GENTLEMEN: I have been induced to appear here to-day in accordance with the wishes of some friends, whose wishes to me are always law, to present to you a preamble and resolutions in which we are all deeply interested. It is well known to all of you that there is a large class of operatives in the Eng-lish isle who are at present in the greatest destitu-tion and want. The mere knowledge of this fact is enough to induce any benevolent man or set of men to come to their rescue. In the disposition of our clarities it matters not to us to inquire of what na-tion, of what color, or of what elime. The fact of their destitution and want is enough. We all know the cause of this distress—the absence of that great staple which is the chief supply of England's extensive manufacturing interests—a distress which has been heightened by the deficiency of the harvest. I know that, in my appeals for this suffering people, I will be met by the objection, that we have enough to do at home—that our people and our purses are taxed to the utmost to support the Government. I will not ignore these facts; neither will I gnore the fact that we have to support 100,060 sick and wounded soldiers of an army of unprotected women and children. But amidst all these dark and blackened clouds which overhang our horizon, there is great cause for thankfulness. GENTLEMEN : I have been induced to appear here these dark and blackened clouds which overhang our horizon, there is great cause for thankfulness. I know that we have ability and disposition to assist the needy. To my mind there is something grand, nay sublime, in the idea, that, although we are en-the energies or our propie and fuenden times, and taxed to the utmost in the defence of our Grovern-ment and its institutions, while the continent shakes beneath the trend of an army of a million of citizen soldiers, and the ceho of canoon reverberates along all our valleys and upon our mountain tops; above all this the wail of woe, that comes to us across the Atlantic, finds a welcome lodgment in our ears and a generous response from our hearts.

Atlantic, finds a welcome lodgment in our ears and a generous response from our hearts. I am aware that in presenting the preamble and resolution I shall be met by another objection; that the Government of England is against us, that she is not what she should be. I am not here either to denounce or to defend her. The people, the laboring classes of Great Britain, understand us and suffer quietly, because they know that we labor for free institutions. I am astisfied that whatever may have been the disposition of the Government of Great been the disposition of the Government of Great Britain towards us in this hour of our National peril, it has been held back from any decided acts of hostility towards us by the disposition of the class to whom we desire to extend this relief. Aside from all collateral issues, Mr. President, benevolence alone demands from us liberal action. When we made our bitfarest energy or even one little objid in an confactral issues, Mr. President, benevolence alone demands from us liberal action. When we meet our bitterest enemy, or even any little child in the street downcast, oppressed, and pleading for re-lief, a single question of humanity arises in our heart to feed the hungry and clothe the naked : "If thine enemy hunger, give him food; if he thirst, give him drink, for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head." The following preamble and resolutions were then offered, and unanimously agreed to : Whereas, Information has reached this community that great destitution and suffering exists among the operators in the large manufacturing districts of Great Britain, especially in the great cotton manu-facturing district of Lancarshine; and Whereas, It is manifest that their sufferings are the result, in part, at least, of the wicked and cause-less rebellion that aims to overthrow our Govern-ment, and pursues its work of destruction, regardless of who are the sufferers; and Whereas, Amidst all the manifold evils which this wide-spread rebellion has entailed uponour country, we recognize with grateful heart the codesory wide-spread rebellion has entailed upon our country, we recognize with grateful hearts the goodness of Almighty God in blessing us with abundant harvests, so that our broad prairies and fertile valleys have yielded us "food enough and to spare;" and Whereas, It is no less a dictate of humanity than a weightye Obrigition chains the procession of the sector.

-The launching of the United States steam sloopof-war Shenandoah (propeller) took place, at the navy yard, yesterday afternoon, at three o'clock The occasion was jubilant in the extreme, for though the celebration of the event was kept rather private from outsiders generally, yet quite a respectable crowd, in quality as well as quantity, congregated itself upon the decks of the Shenandoah and along the gangway. The Monongahela was crowded with gazers, and the Princeton was a jam, filled every moment, as she was, with boat-fulls from the south wharf. The winds which have prevailed for the last day or so have blown the water from the river, and a very low tide has been the result. At one o'clock yesterday morning, consequently, it was uncertain whether the launch would take place. The launch, however, did take place. At ten minutes to three the influx of visitors diminished. At three, all was comparative quietude and expectation, and the labor of launching commenced. The keel-blocking was removed from under the keel, and the sawing-off of the ways completed. Though slower in the commencement of her sloping slide than she would probably have been in milder weather, yet the Shenandoah glided most gracefully, and was christened amid the huzzas and the waving of hats and handkerchiefs of the multitudinous groups. The baptism was performed by Miss Selina Pascoe. As the ship touched the water, the bottle, tastefully tied in silk ribbons of the national hue, was broken over the bow, and the ceremony of baptism performed by the pronunciation of the name Shenandoah. This was very pleasingly performed by Miss Pascoe, amid the cheers of the spectators. The view from the Prince-ton was very fine, inasmuch as the whole scope of Inclus told me alterwards that the other was shot and wanted to see me at the Pennsylvania Hospi-tal; I came from Chester about a week ago; I live on James street, at Chester, when I'm at home; the defendant is the man who had the pistol. Cross-examined by Mr. Brewster, --The defendant was standing at the door with the pistol to keep any-body from going out; saw a man backing from defen-back to the store saw a man backing from defenthe scene was swept overlat a glance. Among the spectators of the launch, on the platform directly under the bow of the Shenandoah, we noticed Captain Williams, the whaleman-lecturer, who appeared delighted with the process. The slope of the track was about seven-eighths of an inch to when the pistol was fired; after the firing I went back to the stove; saw a man backing from defen-dant; do not know who he was; saw nobody fall;-did not know anybody was shot until my partner got home; I think the shooting occurred on Friday night; can't tell the place; it was somewhere near the wharf, in a street, perhaps between Callowhill and Arch street; I am a stranger here, and not ac-quainted with localities; there were, perhaps, half a dozen men in the room; I was fifteen feet off from the place where there was a spree groing on : I heard the foot. The soapy excrescences it displayed immediately after the launching were objects of admiration to novitiates in launching lookings-on. The launch occurred at precisely three minutes past three, and went off as smoothly and beautifully as could have been desired. The length of the Shenandoah between the perpendiculars is two hundred and dozen men in the room; I was fifteen fect off from the place where there was a spree going on; I heard the explosion or report of a pistol; it was not mere-ly the report of a percussion cap; don't know how long the parties had been there; when the soldiers went in, there was a man in citizen's dress; one of the soldiers had a talk with him; another soldier said "what are you blowing about;" it was some-thing about a pass, I believe; heard some one say "take hold of him;" he was then collared; at this time I heard the report of a pistol; I dil not see any men rush towards the door, at the time the pistol was fired, for my back was towards it. THE POLICE. THE RECENT SHOOTING CASE.

The following evidence was elicited :

Richard O'Neil, convicted 'of keeping a disorderly house, to three months' imprisonment. William Jones, convicted of larceny, to five months' imprisonment. Mary Grawford, convicted of obtaining goods under false pretences, to three months' imprison-ment. THE RECENT SHOOTING CASE. James Devine, a soldier, charged with shooting James McOaulley, as mentioned yesterday, was in-vestigated before Alderman Beitler yesterday after-noon, at the Central Station. The prisoner belonged to Company P, Capt. R. O. Hicks, list California Re-giment, Col. Baker. He was taken prisoner at Ball's Bluff, and remained captive for a period of four months. He resided in the western part of the city; is a young man, and naturally calm, though deter-mined. After his release he came to Philadelphia, and not having been exchanged was not ordered to active duty. It is said that he acted with courage in the affair at Ball's Bluff. ment.

ment. Hannah Mitchell was placed on trial on the charge of the larceny of $260 in treasury notes, and a silver watch valued at $25, the property of Samuel Mot. The evidence adduced developed the fact that Mr. M. was about to start house-keeping, and Hannah was simply to act as his housekeeper. Availing herself of an opportunity, it was alleged that she purloined the money and watch. The jury failed to agree upon a verdict. Hannah was dis-charged. charged. At the hearing he was represented by F. Carroll

Supreme Court at Nist Prius -- Justice Thompson. Jury trials for the November sessions of this court The following evidence was elicited: Joseph H. Harper sworn.—I reside in Olive street; am a ship-carpenter; I was in company with James McCaulley on Friday evening; with him and another man went out to take a walk, and got down to the house where the shooting occurred; there was a stove in the room; I went up to it to warm myself; I heard the report of a pistol, and looked around; the two men who were with me went out, and I thought they went home; I heard afterwards that one of them was shot; I saw this man (here witness pointed to defendant) have a pistol in his hand: he Jury trials for the November sessions of this court commenced yesterday, but the list of cases for the day was disposed of without a jury being empanhelled in a single case. Two cases were non-prossed, and others were marked under settlement and continued. In the case of Chew's Executors vs. Benjamin Chew, Judge Thompson read an opinion sustaining plain-tiffs' demurrer to defendant's pleas. The action was trespass for mesne profits, and the pleas denied plain-tiffs' title to sue, because of a provision in the first codicil of the will of testator to the effect that any legatee or devisee in the will or, codicil who should contest or litigate any of the provisions of the same, then, as to him or them, the devises therein contain-ed should become null and void, and the portion of such litigant should go to and be distributed amongst the other devisees and legatees. District Court. In the District Court the argument list was under consideration. The court granted a new trial in the case of Sloat vs. Harris, in which, a short time ago, a verdict, was rendered in favor of defendant, and damages certified in his favor in the sum of $3,000. The plaintiff is in Richmond, manufacturing arms, as is alleged, for the rebel Government.

By Alderman Beitler.—Just state exactly what took place on that evening. Witness. McCaully and myself were sitting to-gether at our boarding-house; we agreed to take a walk; went down to the yard, stopped at a saloon, and then went further down the street, and entered the saloon where the shooting occurred; he pro-posed taking something to drink, and I said we had better wait awhile, as there were several already at the bar; at the next moment several soldiers came in, and I took a seat on a bench; as the soldiers came in a man walked up to them and asked them if he did not "look like a sol-dier;" they replied that he "looked likk any other man;" he replied he was a soldier-a sergeant--and then walked away; the soldiers now whispered together, and the man who had accosted them went up to the bar; the soldiers also went up. I saw a sabre moved about or drawn, and heard some one say, "Grab him." At this time I went to go'out; there was a soldier man at the door; I dodged or stooped down, and got out; my partner, McCaully, was following me closely. As I got by the side of the man standing there, I saw the flash and heard as the very man who had the pistol. As I ran into the street, I got behind a cart standing in front of the door; McCaully came out and said. "My God, I an 'shot !-don't run away from me." Resolved, That this association have learned with deep regret of the suffering and want which exist among the operatives in the manufacturing districts of Great Britain, and that we will, as individual members, join with the citizens of Philadelphia and others in contributing to the necessities of our brethren across the Atlantic. Resolved, That a committee of members of this body be appointed by the chair, to unite with a like number of citizens, to be appointed in such manner as shall seem best, who shall proceed at once to ob-tain subscriptions in money or food, the former to be invested in breadstuffs, and forwarded promptly, for distribution among needy operatives in Lancashire. Mr. Cattell also said :

In connection with this subject I will state that a prominent icon merchant called upon me this morn-ing and said that he understood that the Corn Ex-change Association, which he thought a live mer-cantile organization, was to have a meeting on this cantile organization, was to have a meeting on this subject, he would give him a text to talk from. The speaker then read the following: We, the undersigned, hereby agree to contribute the sums set opposite to our respective names for the purpose of sending a ship load of provisions to the suffering operatives in England—the shipment and distribution to be made in such manner as may be agreed upon by the contributors to this FREE FOOD FUND:

Asa Whitney & Son	.$1.000
M. W. Baldwin & Co	1.000
Wm. Sellers & Co	. 1.000
Morris, Wheeler, & Co	. 1.000
Morris, Tasker, & Co	1,000
Merrick & Sons	. 1.000
Mr. Cattell also stated that the members	of the Corn Exchange had come manfully up to the	work

as would be manifest from the following list of subscriptions made during the first half of the meet-

Mr. Geo. L. Buzhy took the floor to see resolutions, but he was exceedingly pleased to find that this was unnecessary, since the members of the Corn Exchange had already shown how they met their approbation. It may be said by some that charity begins at home, and he was extremely proud and happy to say that the Corn Exchange had already verified this maxim, and that they now pro-posed that charity should not end at home. It is the nature of a liberal man that his mind shall go over the whole world. It is a question of want and supply with the merchant the world over. It is further said that the English have been our enemies, and that by their acts they have assisted to protract the war, and that it is not our business to assist our enemies. But the speaker had yet to learn that we should not do good to our enemies. When the war is over it will be well that some pleasant recollection should be left behind. Certainly it is becoming that at this time we should do a deed which will shine over the whole civilized world. Besides, these people of Lancashire are not our enemics-they have shown from the start they are our friends. These poor people, upon whom the whole burden of this war has fallen, are our friends, and this act of charity will benefit our country greatly. Nothing can better develop emigration than an act of bencheence of this kind—that in the very hour of our trial and struggles we are able to assist others. These people will come to our land and supply the vacuum by so many of our people who have fallen in the war. In conclusion, the speaker said that it was not expected that the Corn Exchange should bear the whole of this matter themselves, but they should be the first to take the initiatory steps. Let us open the ball, and our patriotic and charitable citizens will keep it rolling on. Mr. Thomas Kimber, Jr., said that he did not pro-pose to add anything to what had been already so well said in recommendation of this movement; but well said in recommendation of this movement; but begged leave to submit the following statement of the actual condition of things at this moment in Great Britain, which he had carefully prepared from the latest statistics published in the English papers: Total population dependent on the cotton manu-facture in Great Britain is about 4,000,000. There are about 200,000 operatives thrown out of employment, and 150,000 now on short time, and soon to be turned adrift.

turned adrift. These, with their families, and all dependent upon them-artisans, mechanics, tradespeople, and store-keepers-are now suffering the actual horrors of des-titution and famine. Ashton and Staleybridge districts, about 40,000 operatives now idle; 25,000 soon to be so, and now on short time.

on short time. Operatives now entirely idle: Blackburn, about 17,500; Manchester, 11,000; Oldham, 11,000; Preston, 20,000; Rochdale, 20,000; Stockport, 20,000; Wegan, 10,000; Borty, 15,000, and a proportionate number on short time and daily expecting, in many cases, a complete discharge. In conclusion, he expressed the conviction that the transmission of our charting in the form that the transmission of our charities, in the form that had been suggested, (a cargo of flour and bread-stuffls) was by far the wisest and most acceptable course that could have been decided on. There was a fitness in sending the very articles most needed there and most abundant here, as well as most easily distributed among those for whom the relief was in-

Archibald Getty, Esq., was the last speaker. He had just arrived from New York, and was asked by some of the merchants there what our Corn Exchange sale, Mr. Cook announced that the cotton, when in was doing in this matter, but was not able to give a the hands of the purchaser, was liable to the Go-well as the nation. The Sabbath-school teacher is one of God's officers in the grandest army of the world. He must be active and vigilant, always on the look-out for the attacks of the enemy, and careful of the welfare of those committed to his charge. There were four hundred schools in this city, and it was a part of the duty of this Convention to adopt such measures as will promote their usefulness and efficiency.

The Committee on Business reported for the consideration of the Convention the following questions, after which the body adjourned : 1. What are the best means to procure accurate information in regard to the Sabbath-schools of the city ? 2. What are the most efficient means to impart increased vigor to our Sunday-schools? 3. How are the thou sands of destitute children in our midst to be brought inder the influence of the Sabbath-schools?

The cross-examination of the witness, Mr. Henry,

"You wish to know if I like the life. Certainly not. I never expected to, but am much better pleased than I even anticipated. I did not enter the army because I thought I would like it, but enlisted simply out of a sense of duty. I am a Northerner by birth; all my interests in this world are there, and I was reared and educated under the American flag, the glorious "old stars and stripes," and I could not stand as a casual witness of the downfall of that fag without, raising my arm in its defonce. could not stand as a casual witness of the downfall of hat flag without raising my arm in its defence; I could not see our glorious Union totter and fall without rushing to its rescue. You had four sons, and out of those four I was the only one able to obey my country's call, the only one capable of de-fending the rights of our Constitution—and this is the reason I entered the army; so do not again ask me if I like it, or if I want to be taken out, at your commands. We have received our horses and are kept busy drilling all day; it makes one very tired. I have had one or two kicks, although I have a very gentile horse and am careful. J. Were given to fire it. Cross-examination.—It was after the firing of the pistol that he said he would shoot anybody who attempted to go out. The man was about six feet from me when he was shot. The soldier who shot bim fired from the hip; did not have his arm extend-ed, but held it close to his body. There was no re-sistance, only with the man in the saloon. The one who was shot was entirely away from the crowd. Patrick Callahan sworn.—I live in Callowhill. Street; was at the saloon on Friday night. The guard came in, and the sergeant had a talk with Mr. Henry, the proprietor. A soldier came up to another, and wanted to see his pass; did not take much notice, but heard some one say. "You must go along with me." Presently heard the pistol go off; cannot identify the man who fired it. Heard the man at the door say he'd shoot the first man who attempted to go out; this was after he had fired. Cross-examined.—I do not belong to the army; I did drive team in the army for two months. Patrick O'Mara sworn.—I am bartender at Mr. Henry's; the guard came into the room and walked round a little; how the men got together I don't know; the man who was accested about his pass seemed to take his time to show it; they drew their swords and he showed it; ot this time a pixtol word. destitute condition of the contrabands who are daily arriving within our lines at Fortress Monroe and Alexandria appeals strongly to the sympathy of those who are desirous to do what they can to aid these poor people in their present difficult position. MISSION TO THE INSANE .- This interesting and truly useful mission at Blockley hospital clamation about shooting somebody else by a man at the door. Cross-examined.—The exclamation was made some time after the pistol was fired; heard the ser-geant of the guad tell him to put his pistol away, as no order was given to fire. Daniel Henry sworn.—I am a brother to the keeper of the saloon; I was at his place on Water street, below Callowhill street, on Friday night; it was between 7 and 8 o'clock; the soldiers were there when I went in; I was in there ten minutes; I sup-pose, when two men went towards the door to go out; they were fired at; the man threatened to shoot me; when the man was shot he placed his nands on his stomach and went out; I asked the soldier what he shot the man for, and he replied "Stand back, or 1'll shoot you." Cross-examined.—Most all in the room were at the bar when the shoot go ceurred; the men who went out were strangers; after the pistol was fired I advanced toward the man who had it; he pointed it at me and said "stand back," I did stand back. Capt. J. Orr Finnie sworn.—I am provost mar-shal; the defendant was not detailed to do guard duty; it is against the order of the. War Department to carry small arms; this order was made sixteen or eighteen months account still prospers beneath the effective management of its original founder, the Rev. Edward C. Jones, who is about completing the fourteenth year of his pastoral labors. This unabated interest in a self-de nying work is truly worthy of general commendation. The cause is one which appeals to the discriminating sympathy of the public, and we hope it will be sustained by our philanthropic citizens. The address of Chaplain Jones is West Philadelphia Sub-Post Office, through which all communications can be made.

CORONER'S INVESTIGATION.-Yesterday morning Coroner Conrad commenced an investigaion in the case of James Burke, who was killed by the falling of a wall at the new Presbyterian Church, at Broad and Green streets, on Friday afternoon last. "The evidence showed that the disaster was caused by the arch not being of sufficient strength to support the walls built upon it, but whether this was the result of bad workmanship, or because their plan was not well laid, was not fully developed. The nquest was therefore adjourned until to-day. SALE OF PRIZE COTTON .--- Yesterday, by order of the United States Marshal, the cargo of the schooner Emma was sold at auction, at No. 142 North Front street, by Samuel C. Cook, consisting of 120 bales of cotton, slightly damaged, at 40 cents cash. It was first started at 10 cents, and gradually rose until it reached the above price. Before the served. The evidence here closed, and the defendant was committed to await the result of the injury received by Mr. McCawley: sale, Mr. Cook announced that the cotton, when in HELPEN HERSEL W TO A COAM

Dr. Norris, the attending hospital physician, on being qualified, said that James McCaully was brought to the hospital on Friday evening : he had wound in the right side brought to the hospital on Friday evening; he had a wound in the right side of the abdomen, to all ap-pearances it was a gunshot wound; the patient is certainly in danger; wounds of that sort are always dangerous; so far, the patient has done as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Cross-examined.—The wound is downwards; in the right side; it is oblique; I consider the life of the patient in peril.  About twelve months ago 4 had a severe attack of Dinbetes, attended with other difficulties too numerons to mention. My desire for drink was constant, and although 1 drank gallons per day, my thirst was never allayed; I was only able to sleep at short intervals, which scemed like a trance. The nucous surface of my mouth and throat had become so parched and feverish, that I was in constant misery. I was also suffering from all the horrors of Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, Nausea, and frequent and severe attacks of vomiting; and so prostrated was my general system, that I was secredy able to move about. I had availed myself of the science and skill of distinguished medical men, both of the Allopathic and Homeopathic school, and exhausted their catalogue of remedies, but found only temporary relief. In this condition, when every ray of hope seemed paralyzed, I heard of the discovery of Professor Bolles in the use of Electricity, and the wonders he was performing in curing disease, and placed myself and friends, in two operations my Diabetes was controlled, and other difficulties soon disappeared; my appetite has returned, sleep andisturbed, and, in fact, I feel like one made anew. I would further state that I have seen other remarkable cures performed by Prof. Bolles, and would advise the discovery at Hulas HARKOP.

In attempting a definition of my disease, I can only give some of the many symptoms which, taken altogether, were the most horrid; and even medical ane ndid not know my disease from pathological symptoms. How ever, Professor C. H. Bolles, by whom I was cured, located my disease in the pelvic viscera, in five minutes after I entered his office, and offered to warrant a perfect cure in eight applications. And I frankly admit that in eight applications of Electricity, administered by Professor BOLLES, 1220 Walnut street, Philadelphia, I am perfectly cured; and to me this is most astonishing; for I had exhausted the catalogue of old-ecflool remedies, and grew worse all the time.
I had use a speedy cure, although no shocks were given. All was pleasant, and acynpication culd be made; and nost for my symptoms, for the benefit of suffering humanity. I had dyspensi, bad marasmus, or wasting of the tisness of the whole body; at times a difficulty of breathing, some palpitation of the heart; muck bronchitis, trembling of the limbs after exercise, aversion to business and company; at times a difficulty of breathing, some palpitation of the heart; muck bronchitis, trembling of the server on any subject; a loss of memory, pain in various parts of the system, constant dragent for diversion during the server of server of the server of the server is in the lumbar region, and severe nervous, diziness.
