NNE....SSE SW....SSW....SSW THE FUEL SAVING SOCIETY .- This association, formed for the purpose of devising some plan to diminish the increasing demand on public beneficence, and also to afford encouragement to habits of industry and economy, has commenced its distributions of coal to those who have been so fortunate as to deposit a small portion of their weekly income during the warm season. This association is supported by subscriptions and donations from private citizens, and is meant only to benefit the industrious poor and not paupers. No deposits raised by charitable contributions are received, and none from persons whose circumstances enable them to purchase a supply of fuel in the season when it is plenty in the market, or who keep coal for sale. No one is allowed to deposit with more than one of the depositor for coal is liable to forfeit at the discretion of the Fuel Committee. No person is allowed to deposit more than fifty cents at any one time, nor more than two dollars in any one month, nor more than the price of three tons of coal in any one season. A family who makes these deposits obtains coal at the rate of $3 per ton. The coal is delivered only from the 1st of December until the 1st of March, the balance of the year being the period for those receivers. If any such case occurs, the claim of the who wish to reap the benefits of the Society to make their deposits. None of the officers connected with the institution receive one cent of pay, neither are they allowed to be interested in the coal business in any manner whatever. The sole object of the managers is to spread before the working classes the importance of lying by, during employ ment, such portions of their wages as they can spare, so as not to be obliged to depend upon the public when out of work; also, to discourage pauperism and to encourage those principles of frugality and economy by which the poor are enabled to help them-. selves. .

During the present year over 600 families have made deposits with the association; and the expense of furnishing them with coal, owing to the high price of the article, will be over $3,500-which will be the largest sum ever yet expended by the society. The deposits for the year 1859 were $1,055.73; those for 1860 $1,561.44; while those for 1861 were largely in excess of those of 1860, and double those of 1859. The present year, 1862, is still greater. The number of depositors in 1859 was only 203, which number has been on the increase each year. The occupations of the depositors of 1861 were as follows: Shoemakers, 23; washerwomen, 142; laborers, 21; sewing women and seamstresses, 58; hucksters, 12; tailors and tailoresses, 23; cooks, 6; waiters, 7; weavers, 4; plasterers, 4; carters, 4; o'clock P. (when the price was generally much higher,) at the original cost to the society. As that kind of fuel is now but little used, they have for several years past been delivering to depositors coal only, at about thirty per cent. below its actual cost. The officers of the association are as follows: President, Townsend Sharpless; Vice Presidents, Israel H. Johnson and John Horton; Treasurer, Samuel J. Sharpless; Secretary, George M. Conarroe; Managers, George Thomas H. Speakman, Charles P. Perot, Edward H. Williamson, William P. Jones, John J. vond is Egglesfield. Solitude. West Philadelphia Lytle, Thomas P. Its production of gold, in quantity and purity previously unequalled, threw all else into a the soil, the remarkable salubrity and evenness of the climate, and the bold enterprise and industry of a few gentlemen there, have so ameliorated the culture and improved the quality of the grape harvest that the fruit of the vine, from that golden soil, is now capable of being converted into the finest wine and brandy. Eight years ago, Messrs. Kohler & Frohling, whom we take to be Teutonic from their names, commenced the California wine business in San Francisco and Los Angeles-in a small way, at first, grateful for an order of half a dozen bottles, and now so extended that they occupy ten cellars of the Montgomery Block in San Francisco, the entire basement of the City Hall buildings in Los Angeles, and storing vaults attached to their vineyards near Los Angeles, containing 500,000 gallons of wine and

The California wines which they produce are Champagne and Hock; the sweet wines, Angelica and Muscatel; and Port. The brandy is a distillation, on their own premises, from the pure juice of the grape. These products of the vine invariably benefit by the agitation which Horn, crossing the line twice. The complaint of the Cincinnati wines has been that they are as high priced as the foreign wines. SUDDEN DEATHS .- A soldier died suddenly on Tuesday afternoon, at a house, No. 624 North Third street. From papers found on his person it was ascertained that his name was Michael Russell. He resided at Red Falls, New Hampshire, and belonged to the 9th Massachusetts Regi-ment. He had been a patient at the West Philadelphia Hospital for some time past. Frederick Kimel, while engaged in selling coke from a wagon, on Willow street, above Sixth, on Tuesday aftermoon, fell dead. The deceased was about 47 years of age, and resided on Front street, above York. His death is attributed to disease of the heart.

LADIES' FAIR FOR SICK AND WOUNDED : SOLDIERS .- A fair of this nature will be held at the southeast corner of Franklin and Spring Garden streets. It will commence on Tuesday evening, December 11th, season tickets being 25 cents. Among the numerous attractions is that of a piano, which Will be disposed of for a dollar a chance. The ladies will doubtless reap the full reward of their labor. TAXING PRIZE COTTON .- District Attorney Coffey has agreed that the tax on all cotton sold by order of the Prize Court shall be paid out of the proceeds of the sales. The cotton will therefore go to the purchaser free of the Government tax. As one-half of the proceeds of all prize goods sold goes to the Government, the effect of the arrangement will be to give to it the tax out of the half that be-

SKATING. - The cold "snap" has frozen over the Schuylkill above the dam, and there has been quite a number of skaters on the ice since Sunday. Yesterday, the ice was not so compact, and there were fewer on the spot. The Philadelphia Skating Club and Humane Society held a stated details for the proper enjoyment of the approaching skating season. They have succeeded, after many efforts, in having skates made up to the highest standard of model and workmanship, some of which cost as high as twenty-five to fifty dollars. The club was organized January, 1850, and now umbers two hundred members, among whom are some of Philadelphia's most estimable citizens; and a visit to the Schuylkill, during a skating carnival, would convince any one that the same number of persons could not be attracted for the enjoyment of any pleasure where correct deportment can excel that of the Philadelphia skaters. During the fall and winter of 1860 the club erected commodious building, on a site dedicated to them by the city at the point below Turtle Rock, in Fairmount Park, at a cost of $5,300. The structure is of brown falls stone, and of the Italian style of architecture, forty feet front by eighty deep. The interior arrangements are well adapted for the objects for which they were intended. The front saloon overlooking the Schuylkill, is for the special use of ladies. From this point, an unobstructed view for miles is obtained: Girard-avenue bridge, and be Water Works, Mantua, Fairmount, the Wire Bridge, and the southern portion of Philadelphia is

FLEECED BY THE FORTUNE-TELLERS.lowever expert this class of persons may be in telling other people's fortunes, they are seldom expert in making their own, their mean residences and low style of living furnishing sufficient evidence of this. An individual was yesterday, swindled by one of these gifted beings, residing in the upper section of the city. He wished to see the picture of the lady he was to marry. The one invoked by the sorceress to satisfy his connubial curiosity not suiting his fancy, he expressed his intention of marrying two or three, or at least of having two or three in view, in case of the death of either. He, therefore, intimated a desire for a further revelation from the lady's gallery of beauties. This desire could only be gratified by a further installment of specie, which he was green enough thus to invest. Before money was extracted, without the very highest or der of gratification having been given. He decided finitely preferable to the portraits drawn by the wise lady. The practice of the fortune-tellers is a refined kind of swindling. The Legislature of 1861 passed a special act for the suppression of the vicious prac tice, as follows: Sections first and second provide that if any per son who shall pretend for gain or lucre to predict future events by cards, tokens, the inspection of the head or hands of any person, or by any one's age, or by consulting the movements of the heavenly bodies, or who shall for gain or lucre pretend to effect any purpose by spells, charms, necromancy, incantation or other means, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable with fine and imprisonment, or both or either, at the discretion of the Section third provides that if any person shall publish by card, circular, sign, newspaper, or any other means whatsoever, that he or she will predict future events, the said publication may be given in evidence to sustain an indictment, under the foregoing sections.

Despite this act, the profession seems to be doing as good a business as ever, and to practise it with as much impunity. In the case of the individual yesterday, he applied to an alderman for the purpose of ascertaining if there was no way of getting back his money. When told that a warrant must be issued, and that it was then doubtful whether he would succeed or not, he concluded to let the matter drop, at the same time adding that he was done with fortune-tellers, as he "had no faith in their powers."

SLIGHT FIRES.—About seven o'clock yes terday morning a fired occurred on Thirteenth street, below Fitzwater. Some children went into a closet with a lighted lamp and set fire to some ombustibles. The flames were extinguished before they had made much progress. The alarm of fire, about a quarter past eleven o'clock yesterday morning, was caused by the burning of the roof of a dwelling adjoining the Green Hill Presbyterian church on the east, on Girard avenue, above Sixteenth street. OverFlowed.—The main water pipe on Market street, above Second burst on Tuesday evening. The street was soon overflowed, and it was with great difficulty that the water could be prevented from running into the basements of the stores in the vicinity. A force of men were kept at work all night, and yesterday morning the damage

ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF COAL.—The Lehigh Navigation Company has advanced the price of coal, at Mauch Chunk, to $4.25, from $2.25 last spring, and it is said another month of navigation on the canal will have cleared enough to pay all the damage by the freshet of last June. It is the coalconsumers, then, and not the stockholders, who are

THE POLICE. THE CRIMINAL CAREER OF A BOHEMIAN. Some time since a Bohemian, who gave the name of Francis Dietzel, was arrested on the charge of burgiary. He was committed to prison. It was supposed that he had given a fictitious name, and this is probably correct. He was visited some time after his commitment, and recognized as a native of Bohemia, by a gentleman who knew his father well. We have learned the following particulars of him:

Dietzel was the son of a musician of some celebrity, one of the performers at the opera, and, from his e-lebrity, had a large acquaintance among the wealthy motion of Mr. A. G. Cattell, the Hon. Alexander ebrity, had a large acquaintance among the wealthy families of Bohemia, especially the Jews, of whom he was one. When young, Dictzel showed remark-able fondness for music, and was often taken by his father into the families of the aristocracy and nobility." He began to pifer, when scarcely wald nobility. He began to pifer, when scarcely twelve years old, the houses to which he accompanied his lather, and did it for a long time without being suspected. He would carry off such fancy articles as he could readily conecal about his person, and could easily dispose of to the dealers in the Jews' quarter. ne could readily conceal about his person, and could readily dispose of to the dealers in the Jews' quarter. His thefts at length became so frequent that, not he, but his father, began to be suspected. Many a servant girl had lost her place from being suspected of stealing the articles carried off by young Dietzel. The suspicions against the father led to his exclusion from many houses, and the consequent loss of his best pupils. He could not divine the reason, and it was not until it was too late to remedy the evil that the discovery was made. How it was made will be explained. August, the father, was one day at the house of a friend, when Francis rushed in, followed by one of the police of Prague. He attempted to conceal himself, saying that he had beaten a boy, and the police wanted to arrest him. The father, supposing this to be true, made no objection to his creeping behind a door, but he had not fully concealed himself before the policeman-entered. He drew Francis out from his hiding-place, and at once proceeded to search him. In his pockets were found several valuable trinkets, which he had stolen from several valuable trinkets, which he had stolen from the residence of one of his father's old pupils. He was carried before a magistrate, and sent to prison for the theft. There he confessed to many of the thefts he had committed, and through the disclosures thus made the property to a great extent was re-

Francis was kept in prison for a time, and upon his liberation, having made the acquaintaxee of several noted criminals while in duress, he commenced with them a career of crime which has few parallels. Robbery after robbery was committed. The gang had its headquarters in the old city of Prague, and its operations were confined mainly to the new city, where the nobility and the wealthy reside. They had no difficulty in finding Jews to hide the plunder obtained by them, nor policemen in sharing with them. The houses of the rich and the shops of the large traders suffered alike. Each member of the gang had sworn not to reveal the names of his accomplices in the event of his arrest, and this served to increase their daring, for they felt secure from arrest, by the capture of one or two of the number. Francis was kept in prison for a time, and upon The frequency of the depredations and the boldness of the gang at last aroused the authorities to a determined effort to break it up. The robbery of a large silk manufactory, near the Cathedral, and the muten robbery and murder of the professor of the University of Prague, who was supposed to be a Jew diamond dealer, led to the adoption of mea-sures for the capture of the desperadoes. A watch was set upon some of the members who were suspected, and it was not long before they were in cus-tody. The first intimation Francis had of it was while going toward the chief haunt of, the gang, at an early hour in the evening. He saw an excited crowd in a by-street, and, upon approaching it, met woman who told him that the robbers had been arrested. The next moment he saw two of his companions in crime dragged by a street lamp, and in the direction he was going. He started off for the robbers' retreat, informed the gaug of what he had seen, and the next moment the place was empty. Francis and his companion hid themselves till morning, and then made for the White Mountain, a few miles from the city. There they concealed themselves until an opportunity offered to leave the place. They made for Dresden, and from there to Hamburg, from which they sailed to England. Not feeling safe there, they crossed the ocean to the New World, and Deitzel lost his companion in New York. He was arrested for a street robbery, and sent to Blackwell's Island. Soon after his arrival here he committed several burglaries, and fled to Baltimore, rrested. The next moment he saw two of his com Blackwell's Island. Soon after his arrival here he committed several burglaries, and fled to Baltimore, where he remained for a couple of years.

Dietzel is a smart, good-looking young man, is well educated, and might make an honest living, but must be a thief. The leopard could as soon change his spots as he shake off the propensity to steal.

The Bohemians are said to be a nation of thieves, to the Chinese are said to be a nation of thieves. as the Chinese are said to be a nation of liars, but it is a libel on the former. Every country has its thieves. London, probably, has a larger number of thieves than all Bohemia, which takes in a good

David Sullivan was charged before Alderman Beitler, yesterday afternoon, by Hannah Smith, aged nearly sixty years, with keeping a vicious dog. police can tell you that I hollowed out, 'Oh laws, I'm bit.'"

Mr. Sullivan explained. He said the dog was a valuable one—certainly not vicious—he is more playful than otherwise. He requested the alderman to return the case to court. The magistrate complied, and required $600 bail; which was entered by Mr. Brady, clerk in the Water Department. Mrs. Smith is a feeble old woman, and very poor. OBSTRUCTING A RAILROAD TRACK. Alexander Smith, a drayman, was taken before Alexander Smith, a drayman, was taken before Alderman Beitler, yesterday morning, on the charge of violating a city ordinance in obstructing a passenger railway car. The evidence set forth that he was on the Chestnut-street track near Ninth street, and would not get off or drive faster, so as to let the car go ahead. The car was pretty well filled with merchants and other business men, who were travelling on time, and they became very impatient. At Ninth street the drayman was taken into custody. He was introduced to Alderman Beitler, who, after a hearing, rendered judgment for the penalty, as prescribed by the municipal law.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE. Supreme Court at Nisl Prius -- Justice Thompson.

THE DOUGLASS-MITCHELL CASE—THE DEFENCE. THE DOUGLASS-MITCHELL CASE—THE DEFENCE.

Douglass vs. Mitchell. The case for the defence was fairly got under way yesterday morning, the objection on the part of the plaintiff to the testimony, that the judgment in the original action was conclusive on the heirs in the present suit, having been disposed of by Judge Thompson's overruling it, and admitting the evidence, without allowing the objection to be argued at any length. The case cited by the plaintiff in support of the objection, Stewart vs. Montgomery, 11 Harris, 410, it was held was not applicable to the peculiar features of the present case.

applicable to the peculiar features of the present case.

In our report yesterday we omitted mentioning the fact, that since the former trial the notes sued on, with other valuable papers, have been lost or stolen. They were kept, together with depositions and other documentary evidence, by Mr. Rawle, one of the counsel for the plaintiff, at his office, in a large tin box. During the summer of 1880, while Mr. R. was absent from the city, certain repairs were done to his house, and it was unavoidably open to any one who chose to go in. The office was not left exposed or alone, however, but in the confusion that necessarily attended the progress of repairing, it is believed that an opportunity for removing the box was presented and availed of. It was labelled with the title of the case, and contained almost every paper connected with it. The fact of the loss was proven on Tuesday, in response to defendant's call for the notes, and additional testimony to the same point, and also as to the nature and character of the rest of the contents of the box, was offered yesterday morning. Fortunately, however, counsel for the defendants are in possession of contest of all the appears and they have been appeared. copies of all the papers, and they have been substituted and used in place of the originals.

J. Eastburn Mitchell, the former executor, was called, and testified to the death of his brother, called, and restined to the death of his brother, Thomas S. Mitchell, at Damascus, Syria, Jan. 1856, and to an interview of witness with plaintiff in the latter part of Aprit of that year, in front of his counting room in Fourth street, above Vinc. Douglass inquired if he was executor of Thomas S. Mitchell, and on being answered in the affirmative, stated that he had a claim on the estate, and produced a note of hand for $2,600, dated January 2,1853. A copy of this note was here read in evidence by the coursel for the

The witness then stated that he read the note, and

The witness then stated that he read the note, and expressed his surprise to him that a note for so large an amount should be so written. Douglass stated that he had written the note himself, and that the amount of it he had loaned to Thomas S. Mitchell. The witness then told him that he should require proof of his claim, and Douglass gave him his address and left. This interview took place on the sidewalk. The next interview with Douglass was in the wit-The next interview with Douglass was in the witness' counting-room, when he was accompanied as before by a friend; he stated that as the witness had expressed doubts of the justice of his claim he had brought letters to prove it; accordingly letters, or rather a letter and a fragment of one, were produced and read; the letter was dated and postmarked New York, Aug. 26, 1853, signed by the plaintiff, and directed to Thomas S. Mitchell, and requesting payment of $3,000 on account; the fragment was dated June 3, 1853, and was in the hand-writing of Thomas S. Mitchell; it simply had on it, "No. 48 South Fourth street, June 3, 1852—Mr. Mitchell, 48 South Fourth street, June 3, 1852—Mr. Mitchell, 48 South Fourth street, is ready to settle;" the rest was torn off; supposing that this was produced as an answer to the New York letter, the witness called Douglass' attention to the discrepancy witness called Douglass' attention to the discrepancy in the dates, the one being dated in June while the other was August, and he endeavored to explain it by saying that he had received several such letters from Mr. Mitchell, but this was the only one he could find; he refused to allow witness to copy it. The first intimation of the existence of any other The first intimation of the existence of any other claim than that on the $2,500 note, was given by this August letter, in which the indebtedness was fixed at $6,000. When asked why he had not presented the whole claim at once, and at the first interveiw, Douglass replied that the note for $3,500 was a judgment note, and had already been filed in court. Witness then expressed his conviction that the claim was not a just one, and called his clerk's attention to the fact. Mr. Douglass also called the clerk's attention to the post-mark on the New York letter. This occurred about 11 o'clock in the morning, and as soon as Douglass and his companion left, the wit-

This occurred about 11 o'clock in the morning, and as soon as Douglass and his companion left, the witness went to his brother's office, and opening his letter-book, found a fac-simile of the fragment, addressed to Mrs. Ann McCann, in which the deficiency was supplied by the words, "ready to settle for the ground rents." This fragment has also been lost, but in response to a call from defendant's counsel for it on the former trial, a fragment was produced, but an anticely different, one containing the words. but an entirely different one, containing the words, "Thos. S. Mitchell, 48 south Fourth street."
As to the $3,500 note, the witness first saw that in the Supreme Court office, where it was on file. the Supreme Court office, where it was on file. There were lead-pencil marks on it, as if it had been first written with a pencil and afterwards written over with pen and ink. The body of it was in Mr. Douglass' handwriting, but the signature was Thos. S. Mitchell; and in one of the creases he'observed the ink had run, giving him the impression that it had been written after the paper was creased, and the sizing on the paper broken. Both the notes were written on small pieces of paper, and the $2,500 one was on dirty, soiled paper, the edges being clipped neatly, as though with a pair of seissors.

The witness also stated that he remembered the acceptance of a draft for $5,000 produced by Mr. The Witness also stated that he remainded the acceptance of a draft for $5,000 produced by Mr. Douglass. This is as follows.

"PHILADELPHIA, May 23, 1853.

"Bir. Thomas S. Mitchell will please pay to Mary M. Douglass or order, on demand, five thousand dolars on account of money yet due me, and charge the same to my account.

"ROBERT J. DOUGLASS."

The acceptance endorsed on it was as follows:

"The within order for five thousand dollars is accepted by me this 25th day of May, A. D., 1853.

"THOMAS S. MITCHELL." "THOMAS S. MITCHELL."
This was also on a small piece of paper, and the body of both draft and acceptance was in the handwriting of Mr. Douglass, the signature of "Thomas S. Mitchell" being admitted to be genuine. S. Mitchell? being admitted to be genuine.

Some further testimony was given by the witness as to the nature and quality of the real estate of which Mr. Mitchell died seized, and with the reading of these papers in evidence his examination in chief closed. The cross-examination was directed simply to obtaining from him an acknowledgment that the facts of all the testimony he had given were proven on the former trial, except that particular portion relating to what transpired at his interviews with Mr. Douglass, and this it appeared had also partly been adduced then. Other witnesses were called to prove that Mr. Mitchell was an extremely careful and particular man as to business transactions; that every letter that went out of his office, no matter how trifling, was first copied in the letter no matter how trifling, was first copied in the letter book; that it was the rule of the office to deposit the money received every day long before three o'clock; that his yearly income from his business was quite $5,000; and that he had a bad habit of scribbling his name on slips of paper, and scattering into the waste-paper backet, and carried into the cellar by the colored man who cleaned out his office, and samples of these scraps were produced and shown to the court. The court adjourned shortly after three o'clock without concluding the case for the defence. The trial will, doubtiess, occupy the whole week. Supreme Court of the United States, Washington, D. C.

READ THE FOLLOWING CAREFULLY.

About twelve months ago I had a severe attack of Diabetes, attended with other difficulties too numerous to mention. My desire for drink was constant, and although I drank gallons per day, my thirst was never allayed; I was only able to sleep at short intervals, which scenned like a trance. The mucous surface of my mouth and throat had become so parched and feverish, that I was in constant misery. I was also suffering from all the horrors of Dyspensia, loss of appetite, Nansea, and frequent and severe attacks of vomiting; and so prostrated was my general system, that I was scarcely able to move about. I had availed myself of the science and skill of distinguished medical men, both of the Allopathic and Homeopathic school, and exhausted their catalogue of remedics, but found only temporary relief. In this condition, when every ray of hope scemed paralyzed, I heard of the discovery of Professor Bolies in the use of Electricity, and the wonders he was performing in curing disease, and placed myself under his treatment; and, to the astonishment of myself and friends, in two operations my Diabetes was controlled, and other difficulties soon disappeared; my appetite has returned, sleep undisturbed, and, in fact, I toel like one made anew.

I would further state that I have seen other remarkable curse performed by Prof. Bolies; and would advise the disensed to call at 1220 Walnut street, and he restored to health. I shall be glad to give any one information calling on me.

Rose Mill, West Philadelphia.

Read the following from a prescher of the Methodist Priseared Church. No. 1823 Helmwith street.

Episcopal Church, No. 1833 Helmuth street, Philadelphia:

In attempting a definition of my disease, I can only give some of the many symptoms which, taken altogether, were the most horrid; and even medical men did not know my disease from pathiological symptoms. How ever, Professor C. H. Bolles, by whom I was cured, located my disease in the polyic viscera, in five minutes after I cutered his office, and offered to warrant a perfect cure in eight applications. And I frankly admit that in eight applications of Electricity, administered by Professor Bolles, 1220 Walnut street, Philadelphia, I am perfectly cured; and to me this is most astonishing, for I had exhausted the catalogue of old-school remedies, and grew worse all the time.

I had long believed that in Electricity resided a potent agent for the cure of disease, if a right application could be made; and now I can comprehend, from its powerful effects on me, for a speedy cure, although no shocks were given. All was pleasant, and accomplished as if by magic.

I will give most of my symptoms, for the benefit of suffering humanity. I had dyspepsia, had marasmus, or wasting of the tissues of the whole body; at times a difficulty of breathing, some pulpitation of the heart, much bronchitis, trembling of the limbs after exercise, aversion to business and company; at times gloomy, inability to collect my thoughts vigorously on any subject, a loss of memory, pain in various parts of the body; suffered much from lumbago, deranged secretions of the kidneys and other glands of the system, constant dragging pains in the lumbar region, and severe nervous dizziness.

kidneys and other glands of the system, constant dragging pains in the lumber region, and severe nervous dizziness.

I believe it is my duty, as a lover of humanity, to recommend this discovery of Professor BOLLES to the afflicted of all classes. There seems to be no guesswork, no confusion, no matter of doubt in his treatment. He proceeds on fixed principles, and according to fixed laws, which seem to me infallible and harmonious. He warrants, by special contract, the most obstinate, chronic and acute cases, and charges nothing, if he fails. I advise all of the diseased to try his treatment.

ANOTHER CURE OF PARALYSIS OF THE LOWER

LIMBS (Paraplegia) AND APOPLEXY COMBINED.

Read the following:

PHILADELPHIA, March 31, 1862.

PROPESSOR BOLLES, 1220 Walnut street: The remarkable cure which I have derived from your method of applying Electricity compels me to thus acknowledge the great obligations I am under to you for snatching me, as it were, from immediate death. About two years ago, while a resident of Cincinant, Ohio, I was visited with an attack of paralysis of the lower extremities, which rendered me almost entirely unable to stand upon my limbs. I employed some of the most celebrated physicians to be found in that section, but received no apparent benefit, and after a lapse of about eighteen mouths was taken with a spasm, which one of my physicians by found transpired, nor could I concentrate my mind or converse upon any subject without becoming very visionary and excited, until I placed myself under your valuable treatment. After my arrival in Philadelphia my attention was called to your treatment by a pamphlet handed me by my father, which contained the names of some gentlemen whom I had been formerly acquainted with, and whose statements I could rely upon. I immediately made up my mind to place myself under your treatment. I have now been the recipient of four treatments, and I now feel perfectly satisfied that I an prestore
