A BMY CLOTHING AND EQUIPAGE mile from the river, and his left resting on the river, To Major General Curtis: This place, on yesterday, was the scene of a hard-fought and bloody field, resulting in a complete vic-tory of the army of the Frontier. The rebel forces, under Generals Hindman, Mar-maduke, Parsons, and Frost, numbered twenty-four thousand. I had been holding the enemy on the Boston Mountains for two days, skirmishing with their advance, holding theirs in check until General Herron'could come up with reinforcements. On the 7th they drove in my outposts and got possession of a road, by which they commenced a fiank movement on my left during the night, while they made a heavy feint in front. Their object was to cut off communication between myself and Gen. Herron, who was to be at Fayetteville at daylight. They attacked Gen. Herron at about ten o'clock A. M., who, by gallant and desperate fighting, held likem in check for three hours, until I came and attacked them in the rear. The fighting was desperate on both sides, and continued until it was terminated by the darkness of the night. To Major General Curtis: DRY GOODS, three miles below. The following is a list of the officers killed and Has now in store an elegant assortment both sides, and continued until it was terminated by the darkness of the night. My command bivouacked on their arms ready to renew the conflict at daylight in the morning. But the enemy had availed themselves of the night to retreat across the Boston Mountain. The loss on both sides has been heavy. My loss in killed is small in proportion to the number of wound-ed. The enemy's loss, compared with ours, was at least four to one. My artillery made terrible de-struction in their ranks. They had greatly the advan-tage in numbers and position. Yet Generals Hind-man and Marmaduke acknowledged to me, in an in-terview under a Jago of truce, that they had been well whip-1st. It is a relief to the hardest part of washing-day. 2d. The official despatch announcing the victory of the Union troops near Fayetteville speaks of the death of the rebel Brigadier General A. E. Steen, in com-mand of a portion of the Missouri State Guard, and summoned into the field by the rebel Q.F. Jackson. Steen was a native of Missouri and chiered the service of the United States as second lieutenant 12th infantry on the 9th April, 1347. His regiment, wards appointed second lieutenant Third infantry, 30th June, 1852. He continued in the service of the United States util May 10, 1861, when he resigned his commission and entered the rebel service. While in the army he married a daughter of Cojonel P. Morrison, of the regular army, now in command at Camp Butler, Illinois. His father, Colonel Enoch Steen, is also in the regular army of the United States, in command near this city. Gen. Steen has been in active service ever since the rebellion com-menced, and was, we believe, at Booneyille, Lexing-ton, Wilson's creck, and Pea Ridge. The engagement near Fayetterille must have been a desperate one, some accounts representing the killed on the rebel side at one thousand, and that of the Unionists at six hundred. This would show a frightful list of wounded. Skirts, in great variety, constantly on hand and order, at prices which cannot fail to give entire tion to both dealers and consumers. THE ELECTION IN NEW ORLEANS.

fFrom the Delta, Dec. 4.]

(From the Delta, Dec. 4.) The election, which took place in the First and Second districts of the State of Louisiana yester-day, Dec. 3, was to fill vacancies in the present Con-gress. There were many candidates in the field, but Mr. Benjamin F. Flanders is chosen in the First district, and Mr. Michael Hahm in the Second dis-trict. These gentlemen are unconditional Union mcn. Mr. Flanders is, we believe, a native of New Hannebire and a graduate of Dartmouth College mcn. Mr. Flanders is, we believe, a native of New Hampshire, and a graduate of Dartmouth College. He was a Douglas Democrat. He has resided among us thirty years. Mr. Hahn is of German descent, but has lived here since his boyhood. He is a lawyer by profession and was a staunch Unionist through the darkest hours of Secession madness. We felicitate the people of the United States upon the election of Messrs. Flanders and Hahn. We congratulate the citizens of New Orleans on the signal overthrow of Mr. Jacob Barker, the negro-worshipper and rebel candidate. Of his popularity we shall hear no more forever, we trust. we shall hear no more forever, we trust.

hanged from 5.502.59, fibugation. The movements in Gold were light, at 37@40 % cent, premium. Silver was dealt in at from 30@35 % cent, premium. The supply of coin is running quite low. Many old stock-ings and hiding-places have disgorged at the high figures of the past two months. Legal-tender notes ranged from 5@8. % cent. premium, though some holders held at higher rates. In time bills on New York and other places there is very little doing ; these bills must be attended with documentary sub-stantials to command purchases by dealers. There were some attempts to do a little jobbing in stocks. Grasight Company can be disposed of to the extent of a score or two of shares. From the circumstance that there is a buyer in the market, holders have enhanced their views to 120. There have been some sales—that is a dozen or two shares—at something less. But the entire Stock, market and movements are nothing more than a market and movements are nothing more than a bagatelle.

I am aware that the unfortunate misnomer." con-valescent? has created an impression that this es-tablished by directions from the Hospital Department. Such is not the case. It was not es-tablished by directions from this office, and its con-nection herewith is as incidental as that of any other military post. It was ordered by the General commanding the Aimy of the Potomac that the soldiers belonging to that army returning to duty from the general hos-pitals in this District should be sent there, to be thence distributed to their regiments; and, in obe-dience to these orders all soldiers returned to duty culated to prepare them for the arduous march they are expected to perform. LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

Supreme Court at Nisi Prins -- Mr. Justice Thompson. THE DOUGLAS-MITCHELL CASE.

Douglas is. Mitchell. Before reported. The case for the plaintiffs in rebuttal was continued on Satur-day, contrary to the usual custom as to jury trials, Saturday being a day usually devoted to motions and rules.

Saturday being a day usually devoted to motions and rules. Dr. Horner was the first witness, and corroborated the testimony of Alexander Wilson as to the sale of Wilson's farm to Douglas in 1853 for $1,200. Tes-timony was also offered as to the purchase of other properties by Douglas about this time. One of the jurymen on the former trial testified that he saw the jurymen on the former trial testified that he saw the notes then, and they were out with the jury. No pencil marks were observed on them. A very strong effort was made here to get in evidence as to the pin holes in the $2,500 note corresponding, to those in the fiy-leaf of a book of forms belonging to Mr. Mitchell, which was produced at the former trial, but Judge. Thompson rejected the evidence. This witness also stated that he recollected that on the former trial the paper in the judgment note and some paper patterns made by Mr. Douglas, and taken by him to a lithographer to have drawings printed, were found to agree with each other, and that pieces of Mr. Mitchell's paper which were pro-duced and compared at the same time did not cor-respond.

duced and compared at the same time did not cor-respond. Isaac Regers was recalled, and testified that early in the fall of 1854 he borrowed $50 from Douglas. To get it, they went to the Saving Fund on Walnut street, and while there Douglas inquired of the cashier how he could endorse a note without making himself liable. The cashier told him to endorse it "without recourse." Douglas then took out the $2.500 note. showed it. the words "with-out recourse." on the back of the note, when Douglas stopped him, and got him to write it on a separate picce of paper. "This was all the testimony heard on Saturday, and the court adjourned at 12 o'clock until Monday, with an intimation that all the testimony must be con-cluded on that day. THE LOCKHAVEN GAS AND WATER COMPANY-DR-NIAL OF THE DEFENDANTS' AFFIDAVITS.

THE LOCKHAVEN GAS AND WATER COMPANY-DR-NIAL OF THE DEFENDANTS' AFFIDAVITS. Mackey vs. The Lockhaven Gas and Water Com-pany.—Application for the appointment of a receiver. This application was reported by us when it came up last Saturday. At that time an affidavit of the secting out, inter alia, that the mortgage executed to secure the payment of the bonds of the company, and the bonds, for default in the payment of principal and interest of which this application is made, were executed by unauthorized parties. An irregularity in the acknowledgment of the mortgage was aver-red. For the purpose of allowing the complainant to produce the original mortgage and answering affi-davits, the case was continued by Justice Read until Saturday last. On Saturday the mortgage was avered in the affi-davit, yet the seal of the company was attached to it and to the bonds. Affidavits were also presented and read by the complainant. The affidavit of D. K. Jackman set out that he was one of the original corporators of the Look Haven Gas and Water Company. and on its organization had suband read by the complainant. The affidavit of D. K. Jackman set out that he was one of the original corporators of the Lock Haven Gas and Water Company, and on its organization had sub-scribed for 125 shares of its stock. That at the first meeting of the stockholders held July 19, 1856, he was elected president of the company, and acted as such until January 1st, 1853. That as president of the company he executed the mortgage to L. A. Mackey as trustee and the bonds secured thereby, and that if any informality exists, in the execution or acknow-ledgment thereof, they were unintentional, and in consequence of instructions given to the officers of the company by the counsel of Birkenbine & Mears, in this city, under whose direction they were pre-pared and executed. That it was the intention of the officers of the company, in pursuance of the au-thority contained in the charter of the company and of a resolution of the board of managers, to execute bonds of the corporation for $10,000, and to secure the same by a valid mortgage of the property of the com-pany which no board of managers, the ause the same by a valid mortgage of the property of the cound only be extinguished by payment. That he has no interest in the company, and his only object in being connected with the same was to secure the erection of gas works in the borough of Lock Haven; but that he is willing to do whatever may be in his power to render effectual such bonds and mortgage, and to obtain payment of the same for the holders of the bonds of the company. The affidavit of Daniel that he is willing to do whatever may be in his power to render effectual such bonds and mortgage, and to obtain payment of the same for the holders of the bonds of the company. The affidavit of Daniel G. Bueh was also read, setting forth a number of in-accuracies in the affidavit of the secretary of the company, read last Saturday. Among the most im-portant allegations in the affidavit are—lst, that no writ of scire facias has issued on the mortgage; 2d, that the mortgage and bonds bear, the corporate scal of the company, were issued in due form, and signed, scaled, and delivered by the proper officers of the company, in pursuance of a resolution of the board of managers thereof, and for the purpose of raising money to pay off a portion of the debt contracted by the company in the erection of gas works; 3d, that on the 18th July, 1856, subscriptions to 1,000 shares of the capital stock of the company were made by D. K. Jackman and others, and -that on, the following day, at a meeting of stockholders, D. K. Jackman was elected president, D. Craskaden, treasurer, and C. A. Mayer, secretary, and a board of managers, and that, at a subsequent meeting, C. A. Mayer was elected treasurer, in place of D. Craskaden re-signed. The affidavit of G. W. Mears corroborative of.

The affidavit of G. W. Mears corroborative of these allegations, and the affidavit of L. A. Mackey to the same effect, were also presented and read, and the case then went over until the 23d inst.

On the average, the children of persons with ordinary education do not use more than two hundred words, until the age of ten. Max Muller says: "A.well-edu-cated person in England, who has been at a public school and at the University, who reads the Bible, his Shakspeare, the Times, and all the books of Mudie's Library (i. e. nineteen-twentieths of all the books published in England), seldon uses more than three thousand or four thousand words in conversa-tion. Accurate thinkers and close reasoners, who avoid vague and general expressions, and wait till they find the word that exactly fits their meaning, employ a larger stock; and eloquent speakers may rise to a command of ten thousand. Shakspeare, who displayed a greater variety of expression than probably any writer in any language, produced all his plays with about fifteen thousand words.
