volumes, which appeared in 1860, is here retained and not one of the racy anecdotes or traits is omit-ble memoir, giving a faithful account of one who,

with some glaring errors of character and conduct, was a true patriot, a brave soldier, an honest man, and a thorough Unionist, whose courage and tact,

stifled that Nullification which, thirty years later,

under a feeble and treacherous ruler, sprang up

"The Book of Days," published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., has repeatedly obtained our favorable notice. It improves as it advances. The last number in our hands is the ninth, which brings the re-ord down to the beginning of May. In biographical notices it is especially excellent. In the new number are notices of William Oldys, the antiqua-

David Hume: Charles Cotton: Chevalier Bayard:

besides a variety of other articles, copiously illustrated with sketches, views, portraits, autographs, and music. The Book of Days is published simultaneously by Messrs. Chambers, of Edinburgh and London, and J. B. Lippincott, of this city, and its price is only 20 cents a part, of 64 pages, royal oc-

A new volume (the seventh) of the Rev. Mr. Spur-eulogistic notice, apparently from materials supplied by Mr. Spurgeon, in which its effect upon the hearers is carefully recorded! These sermons are so common-place in treatment and bald in style, that their success must be mainly owing to the preacher's manner and to his voice, which, we understand, is magnificent in its compass and under the most com-

as showing how lucid ethical speculation can be made, when treated by a writer who is fully master of his subject. Dr. Hopkins places Moral Philoso-skip the first 46 pages, treating of elocution—for we think that rules cannot teach a man how to read well. To understand and appreciate the author; to modulate the voice according to the subject and its treatment; to avoid rapidity on one hand and over-

On With the Fight. Tis true that our army has suffered While meeting a fiend in his deu;
Tis true that the tears of a nation
Are flowing for bravest of men;
But we have seen beautiful mornings
Emerge from the blackest of night;
Our cause is the glory of heaven,
So let us go on with the fight.
They fought, but the infamous traitors
Were hid by the mud and the stone,
Our lads, with an unequalled valor.
Still rullied while columns were mown;
But soon as the soldiers are rested,
As sure as the sun giveth light,
We'll whip them and hang all the leaders,
So let us go on with the fight.

So let us go on with the fight.
We pray we may have no more widows
Or orphans because of the war;
We hope that the family circle
Will never have sorrow in store;
We pray for our army and navy,
To roll on the Union ball,
That brother may stop killing brother,
And buy at the famous OAK HALL.

ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND.

NASHVILLE, December 14-Evening. In order to more successfully aid the rebellion, a large number of the leading Secessionists induced the belief that the families of all those who should enlist against the Union would be supported at their expense. But, after husbands, fathers, and sons had been seduced from their homes, these conspiring nabobs left the wretched families to take care of Parton's "Life of Andrew Jackson," which, with themselves. For the last few months the sufferings some obvious but not very important defects, is of these poor have been intense: therefore, the folamong the best of American biographies, has been lowing proclamation from Governor Johnson has judiciously condensed, by its author, into one octavo been drawn up for publication, which will be the only official notice those interested will receive:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, NASHVILLE, December 13, 1862. Whereas, there are many helpless widows, wives and children in the city of Nashville and county of Davidson who have been reduced to poverty and wretchedness in consequence of their husbands, sons, and fathers having been forced into the armies of this unholy and nefarious rebellion, and their necessities having become great and manifest, and their wants for the necessaries of life so urgent, that their wants for the necessaries of life so urgent, that all the laws of justice and humanity would be grossly violated unless something was done to relieve their destitute and suffering feondition, the following assessment is, therefore, ordered, in behalf of these suffering families, from those who have conthese supering families, from those who have contributed directly or indirectly in bringing about this unfortunate state of affairs.

The amount annexed to each name may be paid in five months by instalments, the first payment to be made on or before the 20th December, 1862. All persons called upon in this potice will pay the amount required to the Comptroller of the State, and it will be applied in such manner as may be prescribed to the purposes for which it was collected:

By the Governor: ANDREW JOHNSON. EDWARD H. EAST, Secretary of State.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 15, 1862. THE STATUS OF AFFAIRS. I am inclined to believe that the complications of matters and things in this department decrease. General Mitchell has got fairly at work, and thus far gives general satisf The fact is he is military man, and understands his business. He seems disinclined to meddle at all with the duties o the Governor, and by so doing contributes vastly to the harmony which has set in, and adds lustre to all his military business. Generally, the military commanders at this post are too important. They desire to do too much, and by such aiming miss the mark. Nashville was in imminent danger when Colonel Miller had command. But he and one lieutenant did more business, and did it better, than any officer who has ever been here. He knew that Andrew Johnson had accepted of the unpleasant position of Military Governor of Tennessee for the express purpose of advancing the interests of the loyal residents, and performed his part accordingly. All General Mitchell has to do is to mind his own business, and all will go well. Gen. Rosecrans, too. is all right. He has got his eyes on the enemy, and will attend to him in due time. He has a high opinion of cavalry, but not of toys upon horses. A large portion of the cavalry of this army are under Gen. Stanley, who is a fine lofficer. He has already made several fine regiments out of a mob. The flanking companies of Stanley's regiments, by order of Gen. Rosecrans, will be armed with revolving ower. His Diary is as contemptible in manner as | rifles, and well equipped throughout, and then many an excursion will be made where the enemy least expect a demonstration. I telegraphed to you about all of interest connected with the dash into Franklin of Stanley's cavalry. REINFORCEMENTS NEEDED.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—It is generally believed that the Cahawba carries North from this department important despatches, calling once more for reinforcements. The ground already occupied by the Federal forces embraces the territory from Donaldsonville, Thibodeaux, and Brashier city (Berwick's Bay) on the north and west, and the passes of the Mississippi. The line of the Opelousas Railroad is guarded by the new negro regiments. The guerillas are now concentrated at Franklin, and will there probably make a stand. With sufficient reinforcements General Butler could easily extend his lines to Plaquemine, on the Mississippi, and to reinforcements General Butler could easily extend his lines to Tlaquemine, on the Mississippi, and to St. Martinville, on the Bayou Teche. Forts and a moderate force at these two points would suffice to hold the interior, which comprises some of the richest sugar plantations in the State. To penefrate this interior the guerillas must follow the roads along the bayous, where they could easily be cut off. Much of the country back of the bayous is swampy, and in times of high water can be traversed only in boats. If this department is specific reinforced boats. If this department is speedily reinforced Gen. Butler will occupy every desirable point with but little resistance. REPRESENTATIVES FROM LOUISIANA. Among the passengers by the Cahawba are Messrs. F. Flanders and Michael Hahn, the recentlyelected "Union" representatives in Congress from the First and Second districts of this State. The whole number of votes in both districts was 7,417. The returns from the Second district are not com-The returns from the Second district are not complete, but both gentlemen are elected by small majorities. The Delta endorses the representatives as "Unionists, without a why or wherefore," and says that they will sustain the Administration in every measure it proposes "which has for its end the salvation of the Union."

Apropos of voters, the first jury summoned in this city for many months was literally "raised" last Saturday. The law requires that the jurymen shall be selected from the registered voters, and as there are very few of ithat sort, the new jury was taken be selected from the registered voters, and as there are very few of ithat sort, the new jury was taken from City Surveyor Thorpe's effective but somewhat ragged, force of street cleaners. There will be lively times at both these points, and the rebels will contest the passage of the river with all the artillery they can bring to bear upon our gunboats. This city is fairly flooded with provisions of all sorts, sent here in anticipation of the demand from the interior. But, as yet, only small quantities are sent into the country, and the stock on hand is sufficient to feed the city till next May. The high freights and the rate of exchange make all the necessaries of life expensive, but if the country is not soon opened, and we continue to receive supplies as we have done; it will not be long before provisions are as cheap here as they are in New York.

Another of their juvenile books, articularly adapted to this season, is entitled "Stdes from the Lips of the Teacher," and contains he leading parables of the New Testament related a familiar and explanatory manner for young peeds, who might not precisely appreciate the Oriesal tone of the original. It must have been difficulted to this well, but the author, whose name is of given, has fully succeeded.

SLIGHT SKIRMISH.

There is no military intelligence of special importance to communicate from the Department of the Gulf. General Weitzel is in quict occupation at Thibodeaux. The Delta, of December 6, reports a sharp skirmish on the 21st of November at Bayou Bonfouca, near Fort Pike, between two companies of the 31st Massachusetts Regiment, under Captains Darling and Bridgeman, with sixteen men of the 41st Massachusetts battery, under Lieutenant Taylor, and a guerilla force of one hundred and fifty men, commanded by Captain Evans. The skirmish continued half an hour with a loss to the guerillas of four killed and several wounded, and to the Federal force of but one wounded. REGISTERED ENEMIES OF THE UNITED STATES. Provost Marshal Prench, by direction of General Butler, has issued the following order:

OFFICE OF PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL,

OFFICE OF PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL,

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.

By direction of the commanding general, "All the registered enemies of the United States, both men and women, with their families, who desire to go within the rebel lines and not return, will report themselves by letter to the provost marshal general, on or before the 10th day of December, when conveyance will be found them. They will be allowed to take personal clothing only, not exceeding $50 in value for each adult.

"All persons desiring to go within the rebel lines and not to return, because they prefer to live there, will report in the same manner for the same purposes."

JONAS H. FRENCH,

Provost Marshal General Louisiana. Provost Marshal General Louisiana.

Provost Marshal General Louisiana.

There are several persons left in the city who have not taken the oath of allegiance, and who, for a long time, have been anxious to go to the "Confederacy," and stay there. This order not only gives the desired permission, but promises transportation. But it is asking much to invite any American to come forward and deliberately declare himself "an enemy of the United States:" Yet on the day after the issue of the order twenty-seven persons applied for leave to depart to Dixie, and since then there have been more applications. The provost marshal requests persons communicating with him in regard to leaving the city to be particular in giving their residences, from which it may be surmised that the houses of these voluntary exiles will be "for rent" at a low rate.

ANOTHER ORDER. ANOTHER ORDER Yesterday the provost marshal issued, by command of General Butler, the following order:
OFFICE PROVOST MARSHAL GEN. OF LOUISIANA,
NEW ORLEANS, December 8, 1862.
By direction of the commanding general, notice is hereby given that all persons arriving at New Orleans, from any place whatsoever, will be required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States. The captain of the port is ordered to allow no person to land from any vessel arriving at this port, until it shall have been boarded by an officer empowered to administer the oath of allegiance to all on board. Officers in command of outposts will see that the above instructions are strictly enforced.

JONAS H. FILENCH,

Provost Marshal General Louisiana.

This order may possibly deter a few conscientious Confederates from visiting the city, by sea or river, at present; but as a compensation for this loss there are many who will be glad and wilning to come here for the express purpose of taking the oath, and there would be more if some of the loyal planters from the interior could leave home with safety and declare

A NEW RACE OF PLANTERS. A NEW RACE OF PLANTERS.

I was down the river seventy miles a few days since, and from the steamer saw the plantations on both sides of the river above the forts. The crops, as yet, are generally untouched by frost. The orange groves were golden with the now-ripened fruit. At intervals were wast fields of cane, ready or nearly ready for the knife, some of which will be uncut this year for want of hands. Here and there puffs of steam from the sugar houses indicate that the grinding season, had begun. But this year's sugar crop in Louisiana will not be large. Some of the plantations are deserted; others are confiscated, and are in the hands of agents, while some are hired for the the hands of agents, while some are hired for the season, or the crop has been purchased standing. In the latter cases the pro tem, proprietors will, of course, make the most of their bargain if they kill course, make the most of their bargain if they kin all the mules on the place, and cut every cane, leaving not an inch of seed cane for "ratooning." Where plantations have been hired or "taken," it is necessary to have hands to secure the crops, and the negroes (generally those already on the estate) have negroes (generally those already on the estate) have been hired at the rate of $10 per month.

A loyal planter near by one of these "hired" plantations was visited by a deputation of his slaves not long ago, and was notified that they had been offered $10 a month if they would leave their master and go over to the next plantation. The gentleman was naturally desirous of securing his own crop, and so agreed to pay his own negroes, during the sugar season. When the negroes are paid it is in provisions, clothing, and other necessaries, and they get less, perhaps, than they have heretofore received, but they are very proud of being "hired," and it is difficult to get one of them into the hospital. Masters and negroes alike look upon the present system as only temporary, and it is certain that some of the plantations will be "skinned to death" this year. The new planters are generally Northern men, who know the value of the almighty dollar, and who have in mind that ancient prover with regard to the expe-diency of making hay while the sun shines.

THE BRINSMADE CASE, The case of Mrs. Brinsmade and the trial of Super-intendent Kennedy (a partial report of which has reached us) are noticed in the city papers. The New York correspondent of the Picayune, writing under date of Nov. 22, says: "The trial of Superintendent Kennedy, for the un-warrantable arrest and incarceration of Mrs. Brins-made, of your city, was commenced before the Board made, of your city, was commenced before the Board of Police Commissioners on Thursday. Everything, thus far, is against 'her accuser,' and there is no doubt but that, with the close of the present trial, the days of his official duties will be numbered. Pre-vious to the commencement of this trial, Kennedy, anticipating the rod that hung over him, endeavored, in a public explanation, to whitewash over some of the blackest aspects of the arrest, but it was no use. the blackest aspects of the arrest, but it was no use. His subterfuges only served to make his acts more damning still, and the trial now in progress will exhibit them in colors that will consign him forever to the contempt and scorn he so justly merits."

The Delta says that "Mrs. Brinsmade is pretty well known in New Orleans, but she is not well known in good 'society,' and thinks that the unwarranted arrest is made a 'pretext to attack the marshal, and bring about his political ruin.' The following is from the Delta's article on the subject:

"That Marshal Kennedy is notoriously unfit for the position has long been made apparent, and was the position has long been made apparent, and was no secret either to his friends or enemies among the press of New York; and a thousand incidents have occurred, on any of which he could have been impeached as successfully as upon this charge; but, then, they were not sufficiently sensational, and did not serve the purpose." did not serve the purpose."

We are waiting, however, a further report of the trial, and are curious to know whether the arrest and incarceration of Mrs. Brinsmade will be

LOCAL ITEMS. The Delta this morning is published in a reduced orm, "owing to the searcity of paper of the regular limensions?" Two hundred persons have applied for trans-portation to the "Confederacy" under the order of the provost marshal respecting "registered enemies of the United States." the provost marshal respecting "registered enemies of the United States."

A few negroes are reported as returning to the plantations from which they skedaddled, and are hiring themselves out for a small compensation during the sugar season.

Dr. Wilkinson, of this city, was yesterday sentenced in Provost Court to one year's imprisonment at Ship Island, for furnishing arms to the Confederates, forcing the lines, and having weapons concealed in his house. The witness against him was one of his negroes. The doctor went with four of his slaves to see his son, an officer in the rebel army, and on his return gave the gun he took with him to a rebel colonel before re-entering the Federal lines. He says he knew nothing about the weapons he found concealed in his house, and that he had been out of the house, when the weapons were found, for at least five months.

The St. Charles Hotel, which was closed last summer, reopened on Thursday, under the charge of Messrs. Hall and Hildreth, and the arrivals since then have been from ten to fifteen persons daily. Think of that for one of the largest and finest hotels in the world! At this season, in former years, the house has been crowded with the families of planters, "living at the rate of a bale a day," and with visitors from the North. The house reopens on the European plan, but, with beef and mutton at from thirty-five to forty cents per pound, living everywhere in the city is somewhat expensive. The St. Louis Hotel is still closed; "also, one I noticed near the Pontchartrain Railroad station yesterday." It was called the "Gonfederate States Hotel," but the brush of the painter had passed to humans, controlled and the province of the brush of the painter had passed to return the very sood. rush of the painter had passed over the "Confede In amusements there is next to nothing, compare with the gayety usual here in winter. Exchange on New York to-day is from two to three per cent.; gold is from 32½ to 35 premium, and "green-backs" (nominal) from three to six and a half per cent. premium. The new change currency issued by the city, and beautifully engraved by the American Bank Note Company, is getting into circulation, and is taking the place of cut bills and picayune car-tickets. Post-office gummed stamps have not been used here for change, and the new postal currency is very scarce.—New York World. COLORED WEDDING.

By the arrival of the Tennessee this morning we-

The gunboat Clifton was sent to look into the matter, but returned without discovering anything of the enemy. MRS. BEAUREGARD.

Mrs. General Beauregard, I understand, is now at her house in this city, seriously indisposed; and her husband has had, I understand, all facilities offered him by the military authorities here to visit his family, and many persons are anxiously expecting the presence of this ever-honored soldier of the Unithe presence of this ever-honored soldier of the United States, but now unfortunate victim of a miserable rebellion.

The fortifications at Port Hudson daily increase in size and importance. I understand that one hundred guns are now in position, and that the different roads leading from the country to the rear of these fortifications are lined with defences for miles. From the peculiarity of the hills at Port Hudson, they being in some respects a series of spurs or mounds coming up close to the river, there are a series of independent forts, one rising above the other, and the whole commanded by the main works on the crest of the hill. The Southern people in the vicinity of Port Hudson call this point their Sebastopol, and profess to believe it to be impregnable. No doubt the military forces which used to occupy the country between New Orleans and Donaldsonville are now in and about Port Hudson.

A SHARP REPLY TO MR. GLADSTONE.

Professor Newman replies to Mr. Gladstone; lamenting that the policy of the English Government appears to be the encouragement of rebellion, and to foster a party of insurgents without moral claims, and arguing that England has been actuated by an intense desire to see the destruction of the Union, and that every other pretext is hypocrisy. The following extracts from this letter are interesting:

"It is a terrible fact, that that conduct of English statesmen for which you have been represented as claiming high moral credit is at this moment goading both North and South into hatred against us. I see no chance of allaying the malignant elements which the upper class of England have stirred up, without much plain speaking, with little care whom we offend. The seeds of an unnatural and dreadful war have been sown. The plague is not yet stayed. Pivate this will be seen sown. The plague is not yet stayed. Pivate this will be seen sown, and most damaging to the fair fame of England, is to be sent to that slave power in comparison with which the late tyranny of Naples was respectable and endurable. You first earned honor with me by your denunciations of that tyranny when no other public man spoke. "I read your Newcastle speech with great pain— "I read your Newcastle speech with great pain—I will not say with surprise; for in a previous speech the papers had represented you, as reiterating, after six months, Earl Russell's monstrously untrue epigram that 'the North is fighting for dominion, the South for independence.' This I supposed to be meant as an encouragement to the South, and a gratuitous display of sympathy with it. Your Newcastle speech was, I believe, universally understood as intended to feel the way towards the recognition of the South by England." of the South by England."

* * * "No one will believe that it is the policy * * * "No one will believe that it is the policy of an English ministry to encourage insurrection, as such. They must have some urgent reason for it. The party now fostered by them, (not, I thankfully add, at all to the extent which the elite of London would have desired, but still, as no insurrectionists in the very best cause were ever before fostered), this party of insurgents has no moral claims, even if there were no North.

All the world, therefore, inevitably believes that England, has been actuated by an intense desire to see the destruction of the Union, and that every other pretext is hypocrisy. We have to clear ourselves of the dreadfully plausible imputation of having desired an opportunity of war at the time of the outrage on the Irent. In the letter with which you now honor me you say that you count yourself a better friend to the North than I am, in that you do not 'encourage it to a hopeless yourself a better friend to the North than I am, in that you do not 'encourage it to a hopeless, and destructive enterprise.' To pronounce it hopeless and destructive is to encourage and almost to justify the rebels. On no previous occasion have English statesmen taken on themselves to prejudge the ability of a friendly government to put down insurrection. I am in high hope that the righteous cause will be blessed by a righteous God, since its upholders are at length in earnest.

Thave the honor to be sincerely, yours. Thave the honor to be, sincerely, yours, FRANCIS W. NEWMAN. December 4, 1862. THE LATEST BY TELEGRAPH TO QUEENS-TOWN. The Daily News replies to the Times' editorial on the horrors of President Lincoln's emancipation schemes, and quotes evidence to show that its pre-dicted horrors are purely imaginary, and that the slaves will make a better use of their freedom. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19, 1862.

Money and stock operations are rather quiet, and there is not much change in prices to note. Money continues comparatively easy at 6 per cent. on call. Good commercial paper is scarce at 5@6. Certificates of indebtedness and quartermasters' vouchers are absorbing a large amount of capital, the former being a very good short investment. Stocks were more active than yesterday, Government sixes, 1881, sold at 103%, the seven-thirties falling off 1/2 per cent. It is a little singular that United States bonds, paying 7.30 interest in gold. are weak at 103, while corporation six-per-cents are firm at 108@111. Surely this looks like a want of confidence in the Government. Let the friends of the Union glance at the debt of England and other European countries, and if they are believers in the greatness of this country they need have no fear of a disability on the part of these United States to pay their interest. Drexel & Company quote : Quartermasters' Vouchers...... Orders for Certificates of Indebtedness.
