SCHOOL OF DESIGN FOR WOMEN-RE-PORTS OF THE COMMITTEES .- Yesterday afternoon the annual exhibition of the School of Design for Women closed, having been open since Friday last. The exhibition was well attended, and more than ordinary interest was taken in the proceedings of this year. The reports of the various committees on the merits of the pupils were submitted. The committee on designs for calicoes, lawns, delaines, &c., report marked improvement in this particular sc., report marked improvement in this particular branch, and say:

The designs for calicoes, delaines, &c., offered by Miss Emma Willits and Miss Annie L. Colladay, are perfect in every particular, and show conclusively that they are fully competent to assume the important duties of practical designing.

The outline drawings of small designs by Miss E. M. Singer are well done, and for figures so small and neat, are very perfect and regular. Her colored designs for calicoes for two and three colored printings are also very good.

The designs by Miss Ophelia Lane for calico printing of three colors are good, and show great variation of style, and good taste in coloring. Her designs in plaid block figures, for printing in chintz colors, are novel, handsome, and well executed.

The large figured, high colored designs by Miss Mary A. Trenwith, for chintz printing, are beautiful, and well executed, both in drawing and coloring, and show good taste in the combinations of coloring.

The designs in chintz colors for lawns, &c., by Miss Amelia Hory, are good in design, regular in drawing, and handsome in coloring.

The variety of small, neat plaid and figured designs, by Miss Lizzie Shreve, are very good, both in drawing and coloring.

The meeting then adjourned. SALE OF A RAILWAY .- The North Philadelphia Plank Road, as it was formerly called, but at present the North Philadelphia City Railroad, commences at Broad street and Columbia avenue, and extends, with sidings, and by a single track, northward along Broad street to Tioga street, thence slong Tioga street to the North Philadelphia Plank Road, thence along the said plank road to Manheim street, thence along Manheim street to Wayne street, thence along Wayne street to Chelton avenue, and thence along Chelton avenue to the Germantown Turnpike Road, a distance from terminus to termitus of about six miles of railway, including the sidings or turnouts. It was sold at public sale on Saturday, at the Merchants' Exchange, because of the failure of the company to pay the semi-annual interest on the bonds, it having been agreed that the road should be sold if the company should "refuse, neglect, or omit," for any period exceeding six months, to make the payment. The road was knocked down for the sum of $21,000, Mr. Louty being the purchaser. The road has long been considered a useless nuisance, and if the rails were taken up and its site was restored to its original condition, it would be a source of rejoicing to the residents along its route and to those who have occasion to drive along the roads upon which it is laid. Road, thence along the said plank road to Manheim render such assistance as they may deem proper. MAJOR THOMAS J. TOWN.-Major Thomas J. Town, of the 95th Pennsylvania Volunteers. has been in the city for some time past, on recruiting duty. He has succeeded, however, in being relieved from this duty, and has returned to his regi-Heved from this duty, and has returned to his regiment for active service. By a unanimous vote of the regiment, he was a few weeks since elected a staff officer, having formerly held the position of captain. As his brother, the Colonel, is at present acting as brigadier general, the charge of the 95th will temporarily devolve upon the Major, who is a young but gallant and experienced officer. The confidence universally reposed in him, flattering as it might seem in other cases, is but just and natural in this. Such youth and such talent are not often united in this capacity.

THE POLICE. - [Before Mr. Alderman Ogle.]

Alleged Horse Thief.

F. M. Ely was arraigned before Alderman Ogle yesterday afternoon on the charge of the larceny of a horse, valued at $175, the property of Mr. Martin Fisher.

Mr. Fisher testified to the value of the horse, and that the animal was stales on the 17th of December. a horse, valued at $175, the property of Mr. Martin Fisher.

Mr. Fisher testified to the value of the horse, and that the animal was stolen on the 17th of December, and recovered at Athensville on the 23d inst. by Officer Hamilton, of the Reserve Corps.

Officer Hamilton, on being sworn, stated that, from information received, he at once proceeded to Athensville, Montgomery county, seven and a half miles from Market-street bridge, in company with Mr. Fisher; the horse was restored; then went to Lancaster, and arrested the defendant and brought him to Philadelphia.

J. L. Stadelman sworn.—I am an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad and stationed at Athensville; the defendant came there just as the afternoon train was about starting, and seemed to act in rather a queer manner; he said he wanted to go up on the train, but had a horse at the corner of a road a short distance off; the defendant asked witness to take charge of the horse until he came back; witness got a boy to lead the horse to the hotel stable, at Athensville; the witness, when he came to reflect that the horse had only a blind halter on, and that the man had acted in a singular manner, thought the animal must have been stolen; subsequent developments proved this to, be so.

Question. Are you sure the defendant is the man who had the interview with you about the horse? Answer. Yes, sir, he is the man; am certain he is. Charles Rouse sworn.—I was at the stable of Mr. Fisher, back of Walnut, below Second street; the defendant came to the stable from Mr. Fisher's, and said he wanted to look at it; I put the horse in the stable, and we all went away together; the horse was in the stable when we left; the stable-door had the lock merely stuck into the hasp, but was not fastened; when I came back to the stable, at half past 2 o'clock, the horse was gone.

The defendant was asked if he had anything to say. He replied that he would like to make an expianation. He speaks English, with the German accent. He said: I cooms to town mit butter and eggs, and I s me to go. Vell, I vent, and I look at the sthable, and I goes avay and gits on der cars for to go home, because the train vas most too late for me, and I hurrys, and I gits up to Lancasther, as I can prove by my vife; and dese ish all I knows apout it.

Question by the Alderman. Don't you remember asking the man at the Athensville Station to take care of a horse?

Answer. No, sir; I neffer said a vord like that.
Question. Then you didn't take a horse there!

A. No, sir; I guess der man ish mistaken.
Q. Did you see Mr. Fisher's horse in the stable?

A. Oh, yes! he was there ven I paid a visit.
Q. How did the horse get to Athensville?

A. Dat ish just vat I knows nothing about.
By the Alderman to Mr. Stadelman. Are you sure in your identity of the defendant? in your identity of the defendant?

A. Yes, sir; he is the man; I know I am certain. By the Alderman. Mr. Ely, you must enter bail, in the sum of $1,000, to answer at court. In a case like this the bail must be entered before one of the judges of the Court of Quarter Sessions.

The defendant went down stairs, and at 5 P. M. took passage in the van, and was soon after lodged in the County Prison. in your identity of the defendant?

in the County Prison.

Sounding.

The next case was introduced by Detective Levy; that of a young man, who might be called handsome, well-dressed, and easy in manner. He gave the name of William Johnson. Officer Levy, on being sworn, said that he saw the defendant in a crowd of people, at the southwest corner of Third and Chestnut streets, putting his hands in the folds of a lady's dress, as though feeling for her pocket. The young dress, as though feeling for her pocket. The young man, in reply to a question propounded by the Alderman, said he was in the crowd, standing near a lady, and merely adjusting the front of his coat; it might have appeared to the officer that I was feeling the folds of the lady's dress.
"Oh, no," responded Mr. Levy, "Lstooped down, "On, no," responded Mr. Levy, "Listooped down, and closely observed you."
"Well, sir, allow me to insist that you must be mistaken," blandly responded the defendant.
"I am not mistaken," retorted the detective, with firmness. He evidently gave a fictitious name, and it is quite probable that he is not known in this city. The oldest detectives failed to identify him—hence his

The Revised Penal Code at Fault.

A new question of misdemeanor; or perhaps crime, has arisen, to which no allusion is made in the revised penal code. It is enough to baffle the skill of a Philadelphia lawyer. It seems that quite a number of men have enlisted, many of them in the regular army, and, after receiving their clothing, have deserted. They go to a convenient shop, store, or place where they sell the uniforms, and even shoes and stockings, and then desert. It is estimated by several military officers, who have paid much attention to this subject, that at least three hundred thousand dollars' worth of property has been disposed of in this manner, in the city of Philadelphia alone. The question arises, how can the Government regain possession of such property? When a man enlists, he receives so much in money, and so many rations and uniforms per year. The uniforms belong to him, when once in his possession, under this law. He certainly has no legal right to sell them. But how is the Government to get possession of them, when once sold, as stated above? The affair has reached such gigantic proportions as to require an exercise of the wisdom of learned men. It is one of importance. Latterly, quite a number of men, on enlisting, have solicited dark-blue clothing. This kind sells much easier than the sky-blue fabric. It is believed by military gentlemen, there are persons in different parts of the city who are systematically engaged in this kind of swindling—pdrhaps induce men to enlist, get the clothing, then desert. Yesterday morning about one hundred dollars' worth of U. S. clothing was recovered at a miserable-looking shop on South street, where it had been sold by men who enlisted on Saturday, and deserted on the first opportunity that offered. The whole subject is one that demands attention.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE. United States Circuit Court-Judge Cad-walader. THE REVENUE ACT—TAX ON MANUFACTURES.

Barton H. Jenks and Joseph G. Mitchell, trading as Alfred Jenks & Son, vs. John W. Cowell and Theodore S. Williams. A bill in equity, under the above title, was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday, by William L. Hirst, Esq., praying for an injunction to restrain the defendants, who are the collector and deputy collector of the fifth collection district of this State, from proceeding to collect a tax of $597.07, which had been assessed by the assessor of that district on complainants on the manufacture and delivery of muskets to the United States, during the month of October last, under a contract complainants had with the Government, dated July 13th, 1861. A tax had also been assessed against them on the manufacture of machinery for that month, which they have already paid. The bill in this case, however, charges that the assessors, in laying the tax complained of, have exceeded their duty, because of a provision of the act of Congress that "the taxes on all articles manufactured and sold in pursuance of contracts bonofide made before the passage of this act shall be paid by the purchasers thereof, under regulations to be established by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue." It is further averred that the complainants have represented the matter to the War Department, but that department refuses to reimburse them in case said tax is paid by them, because no appropriation has been made by Congress for that purpose. The application for the injunction will be heard to-morrow (Wednesday), at 11 o'clock. THE REVENUE ACT—TAX ON MANUFACTURES.

Armstrong vs. The Philadelphia and Erie Railroad Company. This case came up for argument yesterday morning, on exceptions to the answer of plaintiff to defendants' bill of discovery in a suit at law now pending. The case was argued by Charles Gibbons, Esq., for the defendants, in support of the exceptions, and by John C. Knox, Esq., contra.

Eistrict Court, No. 2—Judge Sharswood.
The first period of jury trials for the December Term of the court commenced yesterday morning, but none of the cases on the day's list being ready for trial, the court adjourned at an early hour. THE TWENTY-FOURTH-WARD COUNCILMAN CASE—AN INJUNCTION AWARDED.

Yesterday the amended affidavit of Mr. Lowry was presented and read to the court. It sets out the grounds of his belief that he was elected member of Select Council from the Twenty-fourth ward, as follows: Select Council from the Twenty-fourth ward, as follows:

First. That by the hourly returns of the several divisions of the ward, which were brought to a central point, it appeared that he was elected.

Second. That on the morning after the election all but four of the return judges met, and, by the returns then and there made, deponent was elected.

Third. That in the Sixth division he received 206 votes, and Mr. Miller 191; whereas the judges that morning stated the vote at vol for defendant, and 196 for Mr. Miller, and that the mistake occurred by counting five votes for Mr. Miller that had been polled for deponent; but deponent's election not being, as was then believed, affected by it, the mistake was not corrected.

Fourth. That he believes the true vote of the third division was 67 for deponent and 93 for Mr. Miller, as read by Mr. Simpson from a paper in his possession at the afternoon session of the board; and,

Fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth, (substantially.) That he has not seen this paper read by Mr. Simpson, and he was refused permission at the Prothonotary's office to examine the package of returns from that division, although the seal was broken.

Eighth. That he did not interfere with, or control the judges, in any way.

Ninlh. That he believes they acted in good faith: the judges, in any way.

Ninth. That he believes they acted in good faith;

Eighth. That he did not interfere with, or control the judges, in any way.

Ninth. That he believes they acted in good faith; and,

Lastly. That he has no desire or intention to hold this office unless entitled to it, and he submits these statements in order that he mi "ully discharge his duty to himself and his constituents, and that the court may see that the proper tribunal to try this controversy is the Select Council, before whom all the facts may be fully disclosed.

The court held that all his reasons were insufficient; and did not meet the allegations in the bill, and ordered an injunction to issue. A decree was then drawn up and entered in the following words:

"This cause came on to be heard this 29th day of December, 1862, and was argued by counsel, and thereupon the court order and decree that an injunction issue enjoining and restraining said defendant, Philip Lowry, Jr., from using said certificate certifying to his election as member of Select Council, being the certificate signed by five of said nine judges in said bill mentioned, and from asking, demanding, or taking his seat in Select Council at its organization, by virtue thereof, or in anywise availing himself of the same for the purpose of obtaining a seat in said Council; and that said defendants, Rey and Martin, their agents and servants, and all persons acting for them, or in their place or stead, as clerks of said Councils, be enjoined and restrained from using, or in anywise regarding said certificate at the organization, by virtue thereof, or in anywise aiding or enabling him to take a seat in said Council, at its organization, by virtue thereof, or in anywise aiding or enabling him to take a seat in said Council, at its organization, by virtue thereof, or in anywise aiding or enabling him to take a seat in said Council, at its organization, by virtue thereof, or in anywise aiding or enabling him to take a seat in said Council, at its organization, by virtue thereof, or in anywise aiding or that, by a true count of the votes in the Se
