THE NEWS.

A PROPOSITION is now before the Legislature of West Virginia to amend the charter of the city of Wheeling, so as to exclude the Island (or Seventh ward) from the limits of the city. A petition, signed by nearly all the property holders of that ward, was presented to the House of Delegates on Wednesday. The petitioners claim that they have to submit to burdensome taxation on account of the corporation, while they cannot enjoy the benefit of any of the city improvements, (such as water, gas, &c.,) owing to the fact that they are separated from the balance of the town by the channel of the Ohio. The City Council, on Thursday night, passed a resolution requesting the Legislature not to grant the prayer of

THE Democrats of Illinois have a project to raise fourteen regiments of militia, one for each Congressignal District. A board of fourteen commissioners is to be elected by joint ballot to form an army board. The scheme is entirely unconstitutional and revoludeavor to get the military power of the State into the hands of the fire-in-the-rear men. THE first company for the Mississippi Marine Brigade was organized at Benton barracks, St. Louis, on Monday, and sworn into the service. A CORRESPONDENT at New Orleans writes, under date of January 3, that the advance of Gen. Banks from Baton Rouge would not probably take place before the 20th of January, as the preparations necessary for the reduction of the formidable rebel entrenchments could not possibly be completed before

A TERRIBLE epidemic has broken out in Plymouth, Indiana, completely baffling all the efforts of some physicians, and carrying off every patient in a few hours. It has at length been recognized as a disease which first appeared in New York and New England during the war of 1812-14, carrying off many most fearful form, in 1822. This disease appeared in Michigan dusing the winter of 1848-49, and was known as the spotted fever, or spotted death. An order has been just issued from the Comptroller's office in Nashville, Tenn., stating that while the levy made by Governor Andrew Johnson on certain parties, for the relief of the destitute, has been promptly paid by some, others have withheld from discharging a duty now imperatively demand-

These delinquents are notified that, unless they now respond to the demand within four days, they will be officially nace which will no doubt bring the recreants to terms forthwith. that the Constitution does not require that railroads be taxed as other property. WE have information of the proposed attempt of the rebels to run the Nashville out to sea from Sa- nah. As yet, they have not developed a vannah. Our informant says that probably next week the Nashville, fitted up as a cruiser, and to act capacity for speed, unless we may regard in concert with the Alabama and Oreto, will attempt | the Alabama as an illustration, although to run the blockade. The Atalanta or Fingal, a they possess it sufficiently for harbor den, is to come down and engage our fleet, while the Nashville, using her guns and speed, will proceed to sea. The ram will then return, or demolish our fleet previous to doing so, and then reach Savannah, where her victories will be recounted, bonfires lit, and a vast quantity of bad whisky drunk. EIGHTY-FOUR members of the Missouri Legislature have adopted a memorial to President Lincoln, setting forth that there is still underlying the surface of the State a very large substratum of treasonable sentiment, which may break out on the first favorable opportunity, expressing thankfulness to the Goverment for assistance rendered, and stating the belief that, by all truly loyal men in Missouri, their lives, property, and constitutional liberty are now enjoyed: representing that utter ruin would result from another struggle with domestic traitors and their aiders and abettors in their midst; urging the President to use his utmost caution in rescinding or modifying orders that have imperious or coercive influences only on their and the country's enemies. DURING Saturday and Sunday nights the rebels were actively engaged in massing their artillery and infantry opposite the fords on the Rappahannock, above Falmouth; and they are also engaged in constructing and extending new lines of rifle pits and redoubts for artillery up the river. THE State of Salvador was visited, on the evening of the 18th of December, by the most severe shock of earthquake it has experienced since that which occurred in 1854, and levelled its capital city to the earth. ONE of the most important of the movements in

The purpose, of course, will be to render these defences strong enough for any emergency-a work which should have been accomplished long ago. "From Fort Columbus and Governor's Island," says the General, "to the most interior place of defence, I shall give them my strict attention, so that if European intervention takes place we shall be secured

How stand our armies in opposition to those of the Confederate States, as they are called? We find, in a view of the various theatres of war, that our relative positions are nearly the same as those maintained a year since, and the war is still carried on as an assumption of new lines, and receding from the same. The rebels maintain a main defensive line, stretching from Vicksburg, on the Mississippi, to Richmond, on the James river, and thence along the coast to Wilmington, Charleston, and Mobile. This line describes the arc of a circle at nearly every point, with the rebel forces posted in well-selected positions. To effectually break the line the capture of Vicksburg was projected, but the stronghold has not fallen into our hands. With its fall vast advantages would have accrued to the Federal armies. The rebels would have been forced to abandon the line of the Misnessee and Georgia. Bragg's army would have been destroyed, and the entire Southwest would have been indisputably in the possession of the Federal Government, after the final disposal of the fragmentary corps of rebels in Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas. The work of the armies under Gens. Burn-SIDE and FOSTER would have been evident to the simplest mind. No one can doubt that this plan, in its main features, must still be carried out, and it will be interesting to observe what efforts are now being made to accomplish the grand design of crushing the rebellion.

We look to the Southwest even now, as before, for the first blow. The Army of | cent. on them," and to consult with Messrs. Kentucky is holding a position of defence and support to that of the Department of the Cumberland. General Rosecrans has been considerably reinforced, and his army is one of great strength, and is being gradually augmented. The rebels, aware of the results of a defeat of the army now under General Longstreet, have, it is said, reinforced it with thirteen brigades of vetcran troops from LEE's army. This should be construed as an advantage by Generals BURNSIDE and FOSTER. General ROSE-CRANS, we have little doubt, can overcome this army in Tennessee, and Vicksburg will fall by the combined efforts of Generals BANKS, MCCLERNAND, and GRANT.

But to insure success in any of these movements, there must be a general assault and advance ordered upon every vulnerable point. If all our armies strike, the rebellion must stagger and fall. This general and concentrated effort may now be expected. General FOSTER is preparing to move into North Carolina with a force of over 60,000 men, if rebel reports can be relied upon. This army is believed to be almost equal, and, perhaps, superior, materially and numerically, to that commanded by Gen. LEE. That it will make a great history for itself, none who know the men and their leaders will deny. The Army of the Potomac is also preparing to move, and it is even rumored that it has moved. When it does, let us hope that it will be handled in such a manner as to fight down the prejudices with which it is continually assailed. and retrieve its lost prestige. General Rose-CRANS, General GRANT, and General Mc-CLERNAND are all moving or ready to move. The latter is weakening the rebels in every way possible prior to making another assault upon Vicksburg in conjunction with General Banks, who is supposed to be co-operating from New Orleans and Baton Rouge. Getty, Alfred Sully capture of such important harbors, depots of supplies and manufacture, as Wilmington, Charleston, and Mobile. No one will disagree with us, we think, in the assertion that the great effort on our part will be to launch against a weakened foe our resuscitated and powerful armies, either at once or in a rapid succession of overwhelming blows. This will secure to us the success we so much need, and bring with it the blessings of Our Iron-clad Navy. The late loss of the Monitor and the accident to the Passaic have excited considerable discussion as to the future success of this the causes which led to the above results will show that they by no means establish the unseaworthiness of iron-clads, but, in fact, that other and differently-constructed vessels are liable to the same accidents. It was not because of her revolving turret, her concentration of heavy armor over a small area, her small height above the water, her massive weight, or a want of longitudinal strength, that the Monitor went under the waves. She simply foundered from a leak, in a severe gale, as many vessels have done before, and as any vessel is liable to do. The leak was caused by a loosening of the plates at the junction of the overhang, which so completely protects the rudder and screw, and, although a defect, it is precisely what every wooden vessel possesses. This tendency to such accidents, as it existed in the Monitor, has been entirely remedied in the construction of the new iron-clads. In these new vessels not only is this overhang very much less, but it is also secured in a stronger manner. Even if a leak should occur in this part strong water-tight bulkheads will prevent the water from entering the vessel proper. In addition to this improvement over the original model, the new iron-clads have hulls combining strength and speed, their towers are supported by five heavy transverse bulkheads, (previously there was but one,) besides strong fore and aft keelsons. Instead of having their decks pierced with large holes, always liable to leakage, they receive fresh air through the top of the turrets, and discharge all gases by a shot-proof pipe, of a proper height to prevent the sea from entering. The late accident to the Passaic—namely, the breakforms is to be rigidly enforced in Chicago. A file ing of several of her boiler-rivets—is, of course, no argument against the principles involved in her construction, being a defect right direction, and we hope to see it followed up in no way connected with the vessel proper. Besides these numerous improvements in the building of iron-clads, others have already been suggested and ordered in the > deeper draught. In view of these facts, no one can doubt the success of this new class of vessels. Their superiority in defence and offence over wooden vessels has been established to our surprise, and at times to our sorrow, and their capability to cope with and reduce fortifications of great strength will soon, we hope, be demonstrated in the reduction of Charleston, Mobile, and Savanfence, as well as coast operations—the objects for which they have been especially constructed. But when we consider how rapidly improvements have been made in the construction of iron vessels-of-war, we feel convinced that to their present wonderful qualities will soon be added speed sufficient for successful operations upon the ocean and against any distant enemy.

British Neutrality. Two members of the British House of Commons have especially made themselves notorious by their open violation of Queen VICTORIA'S Proclamation, issued early during our Civil War, strongly inculcating upon the minds of her subjects the paramount principle of strict neutrality. Mr. LAIRD, a great ship-builder in Birkenheadwhich bears much the same relation to Liverpool that Camden does to Philadelphia has not long been in Parliament. In fact he was elected for the newly-created borough of Birkenhead, and his voice has not yet been heard in Parliament. He built "No. 290" (the Alabama) for the so-called Southern Confederation, well knowing, all along, for what purpose she was to be employed, and it appears, by the intercepted correspondence, which we published yesterday, that he was willing to construct "six iron-clad steamers, combining the capacities of the freighting and the fighting ships in a manner which will enable them to force the blockade of our (the Southern) ports." Mr. W. 8.

LINDSAY does not build ships, but owns a great many. His house, the intercepted correspondence tells us. was to negotiate the Confederate naval bond stores in England. He is a gentleman of vast wealth, great pretence, and more than average ability. He has written a book on the British Navigation and Mercantile Marine Laws. He represents the borough of Sunderland in the House of Commons, where he has had-nine years' experience. Lastly, while pretending, as an independent member of Parliament, to discuss the question of recognizing the South, Mr. LINDSAY has been acting, as head of the great shipping house of W. S. LINDSAY & Co., Austin Friars, London, as the agent of the Rebel Government, and-as who have any knowledge of the man must know-certainly not without making pecuniary profit out of the transaction. Besides negotiating the Rebel naval store bonds, he also was busy, in conjunction with GALBREATH & Co., of Scotland, in bargaining for the construction and building of war-steamers, to be piratically employed, as the Alabama is. How Lord Russell can whitewash Laird and LINDSAY, after all that has transpired, may be a political puzzle during the approaching session of Parliament. Mr. James Spence, of Liverpool, whose letters abusing the American Unionists and extolling the rebels have occupied The Times pretty largely during the last eighteen months, turns out to be a Confederate officer, duly appointed "financial agent," to negotiate for the sale of five millions of Confederate bonds, "if he can realize fifty per FRASER, TRENHOLM, & Co., who had formerly been Confederate agents (Mr. Secretary MEMMINGER calls them "depositories") at Liverpool. Besides LAIRD, at Birkenhead, it comes out that "GEORGE THOMPson & Co., Glasgow, will make proposals for the construction of at least one [Confederate steamer," and that "they have the drawing and estimates ready." There is also a Mr. WM. K. SMITH, London, who was treating, so lately as November, for the supply of a thousand tons of nitre, "within

No doubt the names and dealings of all these parties will be duly stated to the British Government. The communication, at all events, will show Lords PALMERSTON and RUSSELL what a hollow humbug the boasted and proclaimed neutrality of England is. This morning, about three o'clock, the detectives of Col. Baker succeeded in capturing Captain John H. BOYD, of the rebel Gen. STUART'S staff. He was at Upper Marlboro, Virginia, stopping at the house of his mother. A considerable amount of important correspondence for the rebel authorities was found concealed about his person. He has been twice seen and recognized in Washington, on previous visits to the capital. Under the circumstance according to the laws of war, he is a spy, and will no doubt be executed as such. Yesterday Capt . CHARLES POWELL, also an officer of STUART's command, was caught in citizen's dress within our lines, disguised as a farmer. The proof of his being a spy is complete and undeniable. and he will probably be hung. A Gallant Reconnoissance in North Carolina. Rear Admiral LEE has forwarded to the Navy Department a report from Lieutenant W. B. Cush-

While proceeding up the river they were fired upon by the rebels from a bluff on the left bank. Landing and forming his men, without firing a gun, they moved forward until they saw a fort and the light of a camp fire, whereupon they made a bayonet charge, Lieutenant Cushing judging that the rebels were ignorant of the weakness of his force. The charge was successful. They captured the enemy's works, our men going over one side as the rebels escaped over the other. The fort was found to be an earthwork, surrounded by a ditch. Inside was a block-house,

STOPPAGE OF MAILS.—The storm, which aged in all its fury last evening, served as an effecual barrier to railroad travel. The freshet in the Susquehannah caused a delay in the mail train from Baltimore, and we are without our usual quota of Washington news. Improvement in Railway Car Heaters. Too much importance cannot be given to the mater of heating and ventilating railway cars. We have already urged this subject mon the attention of inventors, and are glad to know that the palm of victory in this department has been justly awarded to a Philadelphian—our respected townsman, Mr. Tames Spear. In a casual visit to Mr. Spear's warerooms, No., 1116 Market street, yesterday, we railway car heater, which is now being successfully introduced upon many of the principal railroads in the Union. The improvement, in our judgment, is a Common-sense one, and accomplishes a great deal. In all wood-stoves heretofore used in railway cars, the wood was simply thrown in upon the bottom plate, and during the process of combustion the live coals and accumulated ashes so characters. vere shown a decided improvement upon his great coals and accumulated ashes so choked the bottom of the stove as to render it comparatively cold, or at least to prevent its heating from the bottom, which was not only a clear loss of that much radiating sur face, but a considerable loss in fuel, to say nothing about the periodic inconvenience of having to let the fires go out in order to remove the unconsume coal and ashes. By the introduction into the stove of Mr. Spear's improvement, the ashes, instead of accumulating, are allowed to fall through the bottom plate, which is supplied with longitudinal openings for that purpose. The ashes thus falling through are received into a drawer under the stove, so that hey can be removed without the inconvenience o putting out the fire, whilst at the same time the ombustion is rendered much more perfect. We have already described the ingenious mechani cal principles of this celebrated Car Stove of Mr. Spear's invention, and we stated at the time that by its use the inventor claimed for it a saving in fuel of twenty-five per cent. This claim has since been established upon the authority of well-known Railroad men. With the additional improvement above described, a still greater saving is claimed, and from Increase... the manifest advantages of it, we believe that an additional saving of from twenty to twenty-five per cent. will be realized by its adoption, over the ordinary car-stoyes in use. Resides all these advantages, that of securing a uniform temperature throughout the car, (which this heater accomplishes,) is another distinguishing merit of Mr. Spear's invention, and one to which we take the liberty of invit-

and car-builders, who may be furnishing new cars for Railroad Companies, and are desirous of supplying them with all the latest improvements. We believe that for durability, safety, convenience, and economy, this Railroad Heater is unequalled by any other in the world. May we not ask in conclusion, (now that the great majority of our iron highways are reaning time for those entrusted with the management of these roads to give the additional convenience and comfort to the travelling public which the Heater here referred to has been found to afford wherever it has been introduced?

ing the favorable notice of Railroad Superintendents.

By the way, speaking of Mr. Spear's establishment, we must not omit to state that we have examined his popular new patent Anti-dust Cook Stove. vantages of this admirable stove, as a baker, over all others that we have seen, is in the size of the oven, the No. 8 in this having the same width of oven as the No. 10 of the old pattern, so that persons purchasing this stove actually get the same sized oven, in a No. 8, as they do by purchasing an ordinary No. 10. Here is a clear saving of several dollars to the purchaser to begin with, to say nothing about the other decided advantages—economical and others—which these stoves obviously present to the common sense of all practical housekeepers. The new improvement made by Mr. Spear in this stove renders it much more perfect than it has heretofore been. By the addition of this the ashes are sifted perfectly, thus saving every particle of unconsumed fuel, the sifting being done without opening any part of the stove. This advantage alone, at the present prices of coal, is an important consideration. This improvement also prevents the burning out of the grates, which are kept perfectly free and clear underneath, whereas in the old styles the very act of removing the ashes had a tendency to clog the under part of the grate, and bury it in hot ashes and cinders. These stoves are arranged for either wood or coal, and certainly present advantages worthy the attention of the public.

RELIGIOUS.—A meeting of the male members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this city who are friendly to a representation of the-laity in the General Conference of that large and influential denomination of Christians is announced to take place this (Thursday) evening, at Trinity M. E. Church. Eighth street, above Race, the object of it being to consult upon the measures proper to be adopted for the furtherance of the lay movement. The call is signed by a number of prominent members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and as some important facts and suggestions are to be laid before the meeting, it will no doubt be an occasion of unusual interest. The meeting will be opened at 7¼ o'clock. At the Arch-street M. E. Church, northeast corner of Broad and Arch streets, there will be preaching services on this and to-morrow evenings, by the Rev. Geo. W. Smilev. An adjourned meeting of the Philadelphia City and County Sabbath-School Convention is to be held on Monday evening, February 9th, at the First Baptist Church, northwest corner of Broad and Arch streets, at which important facts affecting the interests of the Sabbath-school cause are to be pre-

A TALKING AUTOMATON.—They have an automaton figure of a man on exhibition in Paris, which talks. It was constructed by M. Faber, late professor of mathematics in a German University. The inventor thinks about bringing the vocal curiosity to this country; but he designs to first adjust the talking apparatus in such a manner that the figure can plainly say, "Buy your wearing apparel at the Brown-Stone Clothing Half of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 685 Chestnut street, above Sixth!" If he succeeds in this, his automatonship will be enabled to give better advice than some bodies we wet of, that claim to possess reasoning faculties. An Italian Queen.—The yellow Italian Alp bee is a mountain insect; it is found between two mountain chains to the right and left of Lom bardy and Rhatian Alps, and comprises the whole territory of Tessir, Velthin, and South Graubunden. It thrives up to the beight of 4,500 feet above the level of the sea, and appears to prefer the Northern climate to the warmer, for in the south of Italy it is not found. We do not know whether the autho of "How doth the little busy bee" (Watts-his-name? made personal observations of this species. It is certain, however, that the personal appearance of the poet would have been infinitely improved, had he been able always to procure his attire at the One-Prise Clothing Establishment of Granville Stokes, No. 609 Chastnut street, Philadelphia. Everything in the way of business was rather dull to-day. Gold was steady at 147, closing weak; old demands frectuated somewhat, selling up to 145% and back to 141%; Quartermasters' vouchers and one-year certificates were the same as resterday; Government sixes and seventhirties being firmly held. Stocks were fluctuating but hetive, some of the fancies being very heavy, and note a falling off early in the day, recovering mostly at the second board. United States sixes and seven-thirties rose 16: State fives were firm; new City sixes rose to 113, an idvance of I; the old rose 1. Philadelphia and Erie sixes sold at 107, an advance of 3; Elmira sevens rose 11/2; the chattel tens sold at 55%, no change. Pittsburg, a cargo of new-grop cube morasses are usual time.

The great ease in money, together with quieter market for gold, encourages speculation for he rise.

the rise,
The excitement is greatest on Erie, Michigan Southern, and the two Harlems. These show an advance of 2 to 4 E cent. on yesterday's prices. The Western railroad stocks are less active, and barely maintain the quotations of last avoning. stocks are less active, and barely maintain the quotations of last evening.

Harlem jumped 5 per cent., the preferred 6 per cent.
The old stock sold at 45%, the preferred at 85. There are vague rumors afloat to the effect that some valuable discovery has been made in its charter privileges in this city. Whether true or not, the large increase in the business of the line certainty has not been without its influence upon the securities of the company.

Erie touched 80; Hudson 96%; New York Central 119% (2019); Michigan Central 98; Michigan Southern 61% (2019); Gleveland and Pittsburg 71; Fort Wayne stock 72.

Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy rose 3 per cent. on account of the satisfactory net result of the business of the last half year, amounting to 8 per cent. on the capital stock.

Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy rose 3 per cent. on aecount of the satisfactory net result of the business of the last half year, amounting to Sper cent. on the capital stock.

Cleveland, Columbus, and Cincinnati touched 175; Panama also rose rose 2 peent.; Norwich and Worcester 2x; Chicago, Alton, and St. Louis 14.

The low priced stocks were higher. Canton rose 3 peent.; Cumberland, 3.

Milwaukee and Prairie Du Chien dropped 32 peent.; selling at 47. It is stated that no dividend will be declared at the meeting to be held to morrow at Milwaukee. Many of the Eastern stockholders have supposed that a sufficient surplus would remain, after paying 8 peent, on the first preferred, and 7 peent counterbalancing the increase of the previous nine months, also has a depressing effect upon the stock.

The railroad bonds are strong, and 2@3 per cent. higher. Michigan Southern Sinking Funds rose 1 per cent. Terre Haute Incomes 4; Chicago and Northwestern 1; Fort Wayne bonds 14; Pittsburg fourths 2; Buffalo, New York, and Erie firsts 1.

Bank shares are a triffe better, particularly "Park," which is sought after at about 120. This is in consequence of the decision of the directors to gradually put the institution on a footing similar to that of the "Chemical." The regular dividend day we understand that a semi-annual one of 3 per cent. will be declared. The deposits are now over $\frac{1}{2}$, 400,000 on a capital of only $\frac{2}{2}$, 200,000.

The State stocks are firm, especially Missouri sixes, which have been steadly growing in favor since the publication of, President Lincoin's emancipation message. Wall street already looks upon Missouri as a free State. The closing sales of Missouri bonds were at 63%, against 63 yesterday.

Governments are steady and without material change in prices. It is remarked among the brokers that the Coupons and Registered sixes of 1831 are quite scarce in Wall street, the bulk of the issue being sirongly held by investors. Seven-hirties are in fair demand at 1014.

COVERNMENT STREET OF THE SCHUYLKILL, HAVEN AND LEHIGH RIVER RAILROAD COMPANY, PRILADELPHIA (Ist month), Jenuary 19, 1863. A special meeting of the stockholders of the Shuylkill, Haven and Lehigh River Railroad Company will be held at their office, No 16 South Seventh street, on the third day of (2d month) February, 1863, at 12 o'clock, for the purpose of considering the propriety of increasing the Capital Stock of the Company, 1863.

A simple recital of the intellectual worth, purity of character, honesty of purpose, sterling integrity, kindness of heart, and high social qualities of the lamented dead, can be but a meagre tribute to the memory of one whose whole life was an unswerving devotion to the conscientious discharge of every duty. Words convey but an inadequate coencylion of the true man, who, in all the relations of life, as husband, father, Christian and friend, was ever kind and affectionate, steadast, and devoted.

Genial, cordial, and sincere, he so infused his spirit into all, that no one could withstand the magical influence of his greeting. You felt that you were in the presence of a superior nature, and paid homage to that true nobility of character which ever seeks its greatest happiness in the happiness of others.

Forgetfulness of self pervaded his every act, and his only thought was to promote the well-being of those he loved. But not alone to the family circle; all who came within the influence of that enhanged benevolence felt its benign power. loved. But not alone to the family circle; all who came within the influence of that enlarged benevolence felt its benign power.

In all the social amenities of life he was most thoughtful and considerate for the feelings of others, never, by word or deed, saying or doing aught that could wound the tenderest sensibility.

His generous heart overflowed with kindness to all, and his every-day life exemplified the innate purity of his character. Slow to credit evil report, tolerant and charitable to the faults of all, willing to find an excuse-where others condemned, and a justification where others adjudged. To the young and striving he extended the warm hand of encouragement; to those bowed with affiction and stricken with adversity he gave the open hand of succor.

No man was so well qualified by nature to discharge the manifold duties of the profession to which he was devoted, and none so well as the sick and suffering can appreciate those eminent qualities of head and heart that so adorned him.

With all his urbantty, and that was pre-evainent, he yet possessed great energy and decision of character.

Gitted with rare conversational powers, and a remarkable memory, his reminiscences were as vivia as the events of yesterday.

Possessed of a clear and vigorous intellect, and great powers of concentration, he sifted every question to the bottom, and was only satisfied when he had perfectly elucidated everylatent meaning.

Well versed insmedical literature, a constant reader, a hard student, and a close observer, his discourse was instructive and argumentative.

From rigid examination and careful analysis his conclusions were drawn. Methodical in his reading, clear in his diagnosis, and accurate in his judgment, he was eminently successful in practice.

He commenced the study of medicine at an early age, and graduated with honor at the University of Pennsylvania before he was twenty-one.

In his early practice he enjoyed the confidence of the late Dr, Physick, whom he assisted in many of his operation; among the WAR. By Newman Hall, LL. His habits of attention, and careful observation of the symptoms of disease, rendered his opinion at all times valuable, and especially to the young in the profession, to whom he was particularly kind and instructive.
