CITY ITEMS. leirst Anniversary of the United States Christian Commission. The Academy of Music was last night crowded to overflowing with a highly respectable audience, to witness the proceedings of the first anniversary of the United States Christian Commission, This neful and efficient Christian organization consists of the following members: Rev. Rollin H. Neale, D. D., and Charles Demond, of Boston; Rev. Bishop E. S. Janes, D. D., of New York; Rev. Jas. Eells, D. D., of Brooklyn; Mitchell H. Miller, Esq., of Washington; George H. Stuart, John P. Crozer and Jay Cooke, of Philadelphia; Rev. M. L. R. P. Thompson, D. D., of Cincinnati; Colonel Clinton B. Fisk, of St. Louis; John V. Farwell, of Chicago, and John D. Hill, M. D., of Buffalo. The following are its officers: George H. Stuart, Esq., president (office No. 18 Bank street) ; Joseph Paterson, Esq., treasurer (Western Bank), and Rev. W. E. Boardman, secretary. With regard to the history of the institution, we may state that the Commission was appointed at a convention of Young Men's Christian Associations, held in New York, Nov. 16, 1861. Its object is to promote the spiritual and temporal welfare of The exercises were announced to commence at 714 o'clock, at which time a number of members of the Vommission, the speakers of the evening, and a numher of other dignitaries, entered the on stage and took the seats reserved for them immediately in front. and the chairman, Mr. Stuart, called the meeting to order and announced the first hymn on the programme, a beautiful composition from the graceful pen of the Rev. Dr. Thomas H. Stockton, commenc-"In the name of Jehovah our banner we raise.

With its stars and its stripes pledged anew to His The ensign of trath, 'tis the standard of right, Tis the herald of liberty, union and light." After the hymn was sung by the assembly, under the able leadership of Professor Bower, there was an carnest and eloquent prayer offered by the Rev. Dr. Newton, of this city. The reading of the Scriptures was assigned to Rev. Dr. Kennard, of this city, the 46th Psalm having been selected for the oc-This was followed by another hymn, entitled a "Prayer for Our Native Land." The chairman, at this point, read a letter from Secretary Stanton, commendatory of the objects of their organization. Another from the Rev. Bishop Charles P. McIlvaine, of a similar character; and still another, giving reasons for his non-attendance as a speaker on this occasion, from Commodore A. H. Foote.

Mr. Stuart then perpetrated the following conundrum, which he requested us not to report: What was the smallest and shortest expedition in this war, that had accomplished the greatest results? "Give it up, all ?" "Yes." Answer, "One Foote up the Cumberland river. [Laughter and ap-ADDRESS BY REV. DR. PATTERSON. The first address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Patterson, of Chicago. He opened by paying that, notwithstanding the cloud of gloom which seemed to overhang the people here in the East, he thought he saw now the brightest ray of hope for the speedy crushing out of the rebellion, and that was in the absolute and unmistakable destitution now existing among the rebels themselves. The work in which this Commission was engaged was rendered doubly important by the fact that a large portion of our army were very young men, who, from the gravity of their position, were peculiarly impressible. Too much could not be done for these noble defenders of our liberties and firesides. They were exposed to more vice in the camp than they could be anywhere else, and every safeguard should be cheerfully afforded to them. Our country, the speaker said, was like a young man without a definite idea as yet what was to be its destiny. It was quite plain to his mind that we could not take the place in the future of an isolated nation. When the Congress and the Cumberland went down at Fortress Monroe, the wooden navies of the world had gone down with them [applause], and in that event had also gone down forever the naval supremacy of Great Britain. [Renewed applause.] Our country had, he believed, a vast destiny before it, and it was indispensably necessary that the proper agencies should be employed for the development of the grand future. God would not recognize and sanction any other. He concluded by reading letters approving of the work of the Christian Commission, from President Lincoln, General McClellan, and others, all of which were received by the audience with enthusiastic applause. In his own experience, th that the most popular class of books among the soldiers, in the camps which he had visited, was small hymn and prayer books-books which had nothing in them whatever to amuse or entertain, or to gratify any other than a serious desire to learn the way to the Saviour. His summing up of the benign work in which the delegates of this commission are engaged, on the battle-fields and in the hospitals, was extremely interesting and touching. ADDRESS BY REV. BISHOP SIMPSON. The Rev. Bishop Simpson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was the next speaker. He opened with the remark that, of all the meetings that had ever been held on the face of the earth, there had not been a meeting either in Church or State that equalled this - an estimate which he then proto furnish instruction and physical relief to our army and navy, which now numbered over a million of men, was to his mind a sublime undertaking. One man out of every five grown men in the United State was now in the army. This work presented to him several cheering aspects. He did not know what might be the fate of this nation, but he rejoiced in the consciousness that "the Lord God omnipotent reigneth." There was much apprehension in some quarters about the financial difficulties which threatened us. He had no fears on this question. He was not a financier, but he ventured to say that if we ever succeeded in bringing safely into port our glorious old Ship of State, the mountains of Nevada alone would not only furnish silver enough to pay off every soldier and sailor in the land, but enough besides to furnish them, on their return, with silver arms [Rapturous applause.] The moral effect of this great humane movement, the Bishop said, could not be overestimated. Nothing could so move the soldier as the knowledge that while he fighting our battles, thousands of Chrisfian hearts are earnestly praying for him thome, and sending ministers of mercy to his reanity had adorned herself in all her beauty, and one forth in this field of labor with honor to herelf, putting to utter shame her enemies. It was the blessed mission of Christianity to do good unto all men. He did not know what might be our fate, but he trusted God, and believed that "at evening time it shall be light." His dissertation upon the American flag-its stars, and what their glitter upon the quence that fairly electrified the audience, and when he closed the applause was almost deafening.

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Stuart ex-

"My country, 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty," &c., has then sung with much spirit by the audience The chairman then introduced to the audience id, on rising, that he had never been half so much ghtened in the presence of an enemy as at that Soment. He felt himself out of place, figuring in a Meal. logramme among Bishops, and divines, and Govers, and other dignitaries, such as he saw around in. He would have no objection to being at the head the soldiers crowding the upper tier, [laughter], she thought he might be able to put them through highter]; but he confessed that speech-making was Alof his line. He had been requested, however, give his testimony as to what this Comision had done in the army, and he could ly say that all the material Christian sympathy at his command had received since they had been the service had been afforded to them by the distinct Commission. The Colonel's speech was it the close of his address, Mr. Stuart made an mest appeal to all present to contribute with due trality to the collection, which was then taken up. ience remained patiently, while brief, but tellspeeches were delivered by Mr. Wm. E. Dodge. New York, and ex-Governor Pollock, of this daimed, "God bless Bishop Simpson," to which

here was responded a very general "Amen !"

The beautiful national hymn, and another hymn sung. The immense audiwe was then dismissed with a benediction, proanced by the Rev. Dr. Morrison. GEMS OF ART. Mr. E. P. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. THE MONEY MARKET.

Philadelphia, January 29, 1863.

There was nothing new occurred to-day on the street Gold recovered its decline of yesterday, and closed at 15314 bid. Old demands rose to 148. Government securities are unchanged. Money is easy, the banks loaning liberally at 6 per cent., the brokers at 5@6. Business at the Stock Exchange was not so lively, and prices were rather steady than otherwise. Government sixes fell off 14. 115 was paid for new City sixes, 10814 for the old. State fives fell off 14. Camden and Amboy sixes, 1880, sold up to 10634; 1870s to 110-in both cases a large advance. North Pennsylvania sixes sold at 91, no change; the tens improved 3 per cent. Schnylkill Navigation sixes rose 16. Elmira sevens were steady, the chattel tens selling at 70. Union Canal sixes sold at 23-Reading sixes, 1886, rose 14. Cleveland and Mahoning 2d mortgages sold at 97. Pennsylvania Railroad mort-gages rose 14. Locust Mountain Coal rose 1 dollar per share. Schuylkill Navigation sold at 5½. Morris Canal roso ½; the preferred was steady. Lehligh Navigation sold at 59½, the scrip falling off ½. Reading Railroad shares were weak, opening at 41%: rose to 45, and closed % lower; Philadelphia and Eris, sold at 38%; Camden and Atlantic rose 14; Catawissa sold at 7%, the preferred rising %. The unfavorable rumors I tiely circulated by interested parties respecting a competing road we learn are entirely without founds tion. The present condition of the road, and the business of the last year, speak well of the management and the future prospects of the road, and not a few of the sanguine friends of the road predict a dividend on the preferred stock during the present year. Little Schnyl-kill sold at 44¼; Elmira at 39½, the preferred at 50½; Huntingdon and Broad Top sold at 20; Minchill at 53½; Long Island was study at 27; Pennsylvania rose 12. Passengers were a little more in demand. Girard College sold at 26%; Thirteenth and Fifteenth at the same; Second and Third at 78, and Arch-street at 27; Seventeenth and Nineteenth rose 1/2; West Philadelphia 11/4; Race and Vine 1/2; Frankford and Southwark 11/2. The market kelosed steady, $58,000 in bonds and 3,000 shares changing hands.
