

THE PRESS, PUBLISHED DAILY (SUNDAYS EXCEPTED), BY JOHN W. FORNEY, OFFICE, No. 111 SOUTH SECOND STREET.

THE DAILY PRESS, BROWN'S CORNER, Pa., available to the Carrier. Sold by Retailers in all the principal cities of the Union. For Terms, apply to the Office, No. 111 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY JOHN W. FORNEY, No. 111 SOUTH SECOND STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

ADVERTISING RATES: One insertion, 25 cents per line. One month, $7.50. Three months, $21.00. Six months, $37.50. One year, $65.00. Longer terms on application.

TRADE MARKS: The Press, Philadelphia, is a registered trademark of the Philadelphia Press Company.

THE PRESS.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1863.

PHILADELPHIA, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1863.

THE WAR PRESS.

The money must always accompany the order, and for the smallest amount of postage on the order, or for the smallest amount of postage on the order, or for the smallest amount of postage on the order.

THE CELEBRATION.

At the invitation of the Executive Committee of the Philadelphia Union League, a grand and imposing celebration was held at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, in commemoration of the death of General Jackson.

The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set. A grand orchestra, consisting of the Philadelphia Harmonic Society and the Philadelphia Musical Association, furnished the music. The evening was characterized by the most brilliant and interesting features, and the attendance was the largest ever witnessed at any similar occasion in this city.

The celebration was opened by the reading of a special message from the President of the United States, in which he expressed his deep sympathy for the fallen hero and his confidence in the ultimate success of the Union cause.

The program included the singing of patriotic songs, the reading of addresses, and the presentation of resolutions. The most noteworthy feature of the evening was the address delivered by the Honorable William L. Gresham, Secretary of the Treasury, who spoke of the heroic deeds of General Jackson and the lessons to be learned from his life and death.

The celebration terminated at midnight, and the guests departed in high spirits, vowing to do all in their power to support the Union and to honor the memory of the brave soldiers who have sacrificed their lives for their country.

TO THE UNION LEAGUE.

At the request of the Executive Committee, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That we hereby express our deep sympathy for the fallen hero and our confidence in the ultimate success of the Union cause.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to do all in our power to support the Union and to honor the memory of the brave soldiers who have sacrificed their lives for their country.

Resolved, That we hereby request the Government to grant a pension to the family of the fallen hero.

THE BANGUET AT THE GRAND HOTEL.

The banquet at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, was a most brilliant and imposing affair. The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set.

The banquet was attended by a large number of guests, including members of the Executive Committee, the Philadelphia Union League, and the Philadelphia Harmonic Society. The evening was characterized by the most brilliant and interesting features, and the attendance was the largest ever witnessed at any similar occasion in this city.

THE BANQUET AT THE GRAND HOTEL.

The banquet at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, was a most brilliant and imposing affair. The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set.

THE BANQUET AT THE GRAND HOTEL.

The banquet at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, was a most brilliant and imposing affair. The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set.

THE BANQUET AT THE GRAND HOTEL.

The banquet at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, was a most brilliant and imposing affair. The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set.

THE BANQUET AT THE GRAND HOTEL.

The banquet at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, was a most brilliant and imposing affair. The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set.

THE BANQUET AT THE GRAND HOTEL.

The banquet at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, was a most brilliant and imposing affair. The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set.

THE BANQUET AT THE GRAND HOTEL.

The banquet at the Grand Hotel, Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1863, was a most brilliant and imposing affair. The hall was brilliantly illuminated, and the tables were elegantly and richly set.

THE WAR PRESS.
(PUBLISHED WEEKLY.)
This paper is published weekly, and contains the most interesting and valuable news from all parts of the world. It is a most valuable addition to any household.

Subscription Rates: One year, $6.00. Six months, $3.50. Three months, $2.00. Single copies, 10 cents.

Advertisements: One line, 25 cents per week. Longer terms on application.

For more information, apply to the Office, No. 111 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

THE WAR PRESS.
No. 111 SOUTH SECOND STREET, PHILADELPHIA.