Kimmey was at the deak and Barolay Harding was standing against the counter, sifes, this I had some conversation about the publication with Mr. Kimmey and Mr. Winslow.

Q. Will you state the conversation with Mr. Winslow? That with Mr. Kimmey is not important.

A. I met Mr. Winslow about fifteen minutes past twelve. o'clock, at the Corn Exchange coom; asked him if he was one of, the ciliors of the Inquirer; he replied that. he was 1 Tasked thim where the information came from about A. J. Bucknor; he ruplied in alletter that had been handed him on the wharf, near the store; it was a ship letter from the blockading squadron; he said he had given it to a reporter of the Inquirer, whose name I understood him to say was West or Weest; I asked him if the letter could had, and he said no, as it had been destroyed: It asked him the author of the letter, and the names of the parties who received it; he said that the recipients were well known, and he would see them, and if they had no objections he would reveal their names; he remarked that the paragraph complained of was not defamatory of Mr. Bucknor.

Cross examined.—I had no conversation as to the truth of the publication; I said it was defamatory; I mean by defamatory that it was untrue; Mr. Bucknor owned the yacht La Oriolla; he bought it about midsummer, 1862, and sold it in December, 1863; sold it to a gentleman whom I had the pleasure of meeting in New York; his name was Schwartz, or Yon Schwartz; the sale of the yacht to him was absolute; no reservation; I had no conversation with Mr. Bucknor about the sale; she was sold for no specific purpose; I believe Schwartz is a Dane; the yacht was put under Danish papers; I knew nothing of her from the time she was sold up to the publication in the Inquirer; I do not know John R. James; have no business with him; heard the yacht was cleared from Philadelphia, under Danish colors, about the 2d of January; 1863, for Havana; I saw some nalls go aboard of her; saw two dray loads; the yacht is only their might have been a ni of the Legislature of this Commonwealth relating to passenger-grailway companies, which deprives the city of Philadelphia of all control over those companies within its limits, which is calculated materially to affect the revenue of the city, and which, by making the said companies independent of all police and other regulations, allows them to drive their cars at any extraordinary and dangerous rate of speed, thereby perilling the lives of the people and the rights of property, and which, by preventing all control over the number of cars used by them, may injuriously interfere with the trade and travel of the city; and whereas, the said bill is subversive of the principles and doctrines of municipal government, and in violation of the chartered rights of the city, and as the said bill has not yet received the sanction of the Governor: therefore, be it Resolved, by the Select and Common Council of the City of Philadelphia, That we carnestly request the Governor to withhold his signature from the said bill, and in that event the members of the Legislature from the city be requested to prevent its passage. The European Steamship Project.

The order of the day (it being 4 o'clock), was now taken up, the ordinance making an appropriation for the Philadelphia European Steamship Company.

Mr. Barger urged the passage of the ordinance. He could not see what reasonable objection could be made to the-bill. He thought Councils should not hesitate in the matter, because it would assist the trade and commerce of the city of Philadelphia. As to the law upon the subject, he had carefully studied it, and found that there was nothing illegal in the ordinance. The City Solicitor was of the opinion that there was no illegality whatever about it, and the Assistant City Solicitor was of the same opinion. National Tax on the Chestnut-street Bridge.

A communication was received from the Ohief Engineer stating that the contractors for the superstructure of the Chestnut-street bridge had been called upon by the United States assessors for a tax upon the work of the bridge, assessing the same as "bridge castings," and requiring a monthly payment upon the work done at the rate of one dollar per ton. There is now due about $700, and as the contract was executed April 8, 1862, the city becomes liable for the payment of said tax.

Letters from these gentlemen were handed to the clerk to be read.

Mr. Barrer continued. If the city has no right to pass this ordinance, let the matter be contested in the courts of law. For the present, Councils should, in a legal sense, be governed by the opinion of the City Solicitor. Outside of the consideration of the Eity Solicitor. Outside of the consideration of the Eity Solicitor. Outside of the consideration of the Eity Solicitor, considerably, as it would lessen the receipts of the treasury about $100,000 per annum.

Mr. Harrer was free to say that, in reference to the argument of the previous speaker, "he did not see it in that light." The surplus above 6 per cent. On the stock owned by the city of Philadelphia in the Pennsylvania Raliroad did not equal $100,000 per annum. Next year it might not amount to one-half or one-third that amount. He argued that the steamship project should be endorsed, even though five cent. would be added to the present tax-rate. The benefits of the measure would show themselves in the increase of mercantile and manufacturing prosperity.

Mr. Hododow was as ready and as willing as any other gentleman to advance in every possible way the business interests of the city, if it could be done in a legal manner. He quoted from former ordinances of Councils to show that the Council had no right to dispose of the interest on the railroad stock, as is contemplated in this ordinance. He thought that the interest on all stock of the city and solicity of the constitution.

Mr. Moors opposed the bill. He characterized the scheme as an experiment, and one whose cost and risk were too great to justify the City Councils in passing the bill. He asked whose handwriting the manuscript was in.

Mr. Brooke objected on the ground that the examination should be confined to Mr. Winslow. The witness has already stated that Mr. Winslow in the witness has already stated that Mr. Winslow did not write it. This he considered sufficient. The alderman overruled the objection, and the question was renewed, to which the witness replied: I do not know; I do know that it was not Mr. Winslow's handwriting; I know Mr. Winslow's writing like a book; the original paper may be found or it may not; it was placed among the waste paper; I saw it last evening after supper; it was in the waste-paper box; I put it back there again; it may or may not be there now; I do not know Mr. West or Weest as a reporter.

Mr. Vandyke said he would close the case here, and ask a binding over of the defendant.

Mr. Brooke was somewhat surprised that the counsel for the prosecution should close the case without examining the gentleman who complains of the publication.

Mr. Van Dyke replied that he desired to keep nothing back; but as the learned gentleman on the other side desires to hear Mr. Bucknor that gentleman shall be called to the stand.

Cross-examined.—I know nothing about the La Criolla; this article contains all I know about her; I know nothing of the manifest as filed in the custom-house. I have known Mr. Winslow by reputation for many years; don't know thathe entertains any other feelings than those of friendship for me; the article in the paper speaks for itself.

The evidence here closed. Mr. Brooke briefly summed up, and said that he never heard of, nor did he ever dream of so extraordinary an allegation as this, that the article complained of is a libel. It simply says this, in reference to the yacht. "She was formerly a popular boat, and owned by A. J. Bucknor." He contended briefly that the evidence of Mr. Bucknor is positive on this point; for he swears that he was formerly the owner of the boat, and that he sold it to another party. The article simply states the fact. It does not say that he is or was the owner at the time she was captured, but that he was formerly the owner. Besides this, there is nothing but friendship existing between him and Mr. Winslow, so far as he knows, and therefore even if Mr. W. did furnish the article, there could be no malice on his part. After a few more remarks, in a similar strain to the above, Mr. Brooke asked for the dismissal of the charge.

Mr. Vandyke said that he considered the publication a gross, malignant libel on the character of an upright citizen, in business in Philadelphia, and it was calculated to impair his usefulness and destroy his business. Mr. Vandyke further said: "If there is anything calculated to blacken a man's character, it is merely the allegation that he is doing that which is giving aid to the public enemy. I say this in reference to the State, as well as the nation." Now, let us see what the libel is? Mr. Vandyke read as follows: "She was formerly a popular boat, (comma.) and owned by A. J. Bucknor."

Mr. Vandyke further said: "The adjective formerly does not qualify the verb owned, and, therefore, the construction of the sentence may be considered that formerly alludes to the boat exclusively as being popular, and that she is owned by Mr. Bucknor at the present time, and is unpopular. This he considered a fair and liberal construction of the sentence."

The counsel finally concluded, and the alderman RAILROAD.—This road, being fully REPAIRED and effectually GUARDED, is now open for the transportation of Pessengers and freight to all points in the GREAT WEST. Mr. Quin desired that the discussion might now cease, for the minds of the members had already been made up, and nothing was wanting after the convincing speeches of the members from the Third, Seventh, Second, and other wards, and after, also, the profound opinion of "Democratic Kensington, true to her faith." He regretted that the member first, the Sixteenth (Mr. Painter) and the City Sopplicity of Mr. Quin. That the sixt state of the City Solicitor, and so he did, in accordance with that advice privately given. Now Mr. Quin defends the City Solicitor. He says one thing in private, and the opposite in public.

Mr. Quin acknowledged that the point of order was well taken. But he (Quin) gave his advice to Mr. Painter for fun. He wanted the Chamber to know how much his friend would swallow, and believe it all true [laughter.] Mr. Painter was very eloquent against the City Solicitor, but the ideas were not his own, though he looked well in borrowed clothes [renewed laughter.]

The debate was further continued between various members.

Mr. Bairn offered an amendment, so that the city shall subscribe the care. They succeeded in knocking down an old colored man, and for a time had everything their own way. Two of the malignant gang were arrested, and taken to the Central Station. They gave their names as John Driscol and Wm. Crownin. One of the parties was so repulsive in appearance, that even hardhearted police officers shuddered when looking at them. They had beaten three colored men, named John Barton, George Roney, and Henry Kain, out of a pure spirit of malicious feeling towards the colored race. Barton was most shamefully abused. He was one of the crew of a Delaware, packet, lying near Pine-street wharf. He lives at Milford, Delaware, and has a wife and children at home. He just came ashore, having, in his bead purse, five dollars in silver that he intended to expend in the purchase of some things for his wife. A rowdy threw something in his face, without any provocation whatever. He ran to get back to the vessel, but was knocked down, and brutally kicked in the mouth and head. He bled freely. In kissing the Bible at the police office, when about to testify, he left the blood print of his greatly swollen lips upon the cover of that sacred book. Besides being heaten, the gang got his purse and the five dollars. Roney escaped with a couple of kicks, one in the stomach, the other in his face. Kain, while leaning against a post, received a severe blow upon the back of the head, from some sneaking, murderous assassin who approached him from behind. The prisoners were fully identified as two of the party who committed these outrages upon unoffending colored men. The prisoners were committed in default of $4,000 bail. able and effectual known remedy for LEGAL. Railroad (the total value of the city subscription is $5,000,000.)

Mr. Wetherill said this matter had been referred to a committee whom he did not think had thoroughly considered the matter. We have nothing to prove that this experiment will prove successful. This matter has been before capitalists and the Board of Trade, but they have as yet failed to give any satisfaction of its success. The city of Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company should pause before they embark in any such undertaking as this. The New York Board of Trade and men of experience in that city have not entered into this enterprise. Why/s it that they have not seized on this patent of Captain Randall's! Street, Philadelphia, and Long Wharf, Boston. The steamship SAXON, Capt. Matthews, will sail from Philadelphia. for Boston, on SATURDAY, March 21, at 10 o'clock A. Mr.; and steamer, NOEMAN, Capt. Baker, from Boston, on the SAME DAY, at 4P. M. PURIFY THE BLOOD.—NOT A FEW of the worst disorders that afflict mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the blood. Of all the disoveries that have been made to purge it out, none have been found which could equal in effect AYRR'S (OMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It cleanses and renovates the blood, instils the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood, its extraordinary virtues are not yet widely known, but when they are, it will no longer be a question what remedy to employ in the great variety of afflicting diseases that require an alterative remedy. Such a remedy, that could be relied on, has long been sought for, and now, for the first time, the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that it has virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken. Sufferers from Scrofula, Scromlous Swellings and Sores, try it and see the rapidity with which it cures. Skin Diseases, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Erruptions, &c., are soon cleaned out of the system.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erusipeles, Tester or Soil Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, &c., should not be borne while they can be so speedily cured by AYRE'S SARSAPARILA.

Syphilis or Venereal Disease is expelled from the system by the prolonged use of this Sarsaparilla, and the patient is left as healthy as if he had never had the disease.
