standard of excellence, "the Good Knight BAYARD" may have been the very pink of perfection. But he seems very like a lawless brigand in the light of modern Christian ethics.

However, it is not so much with the "chivalry " of ancient times that we have to do, as with that to which noisy claim is made by those who have been born and bred in the negro-breeding and working States. These people were always sound. ing their own praises, and were exemplary in their attendance upon the great "Mutual Admiration Society" of the oligarchy. "Chivalry," with this numerous class, disdained labor, except as practised by amateurs; had great contempt for plain speaking and dealing; practised the best bow and posturing before the man it proposed to shoot or stab; was profuse of its cash in barrooms and restaurants, and ignored the bills of landlords, landladies, tailors, and shoemakers. Still it was "chivalry," to the manner born, and its patronage was commonly solicited for the honor it conferred rather than for profit.

But the highest prerogative of this ancient and honorable order has been more openly exercised since the rebellion broke out than before. "Chivalry" of the highest order now consists in going down on due's belly and begging Government patronage, accepting the pay, and at the same time extending no sympathy save to the open and declared enemies of the Government. "Chivalry," what there is left of it outside of the rebel lines, is now joined in a great crusade against the goose that lays the golden eggs. In other words, it is engaged in abusing the hand that feeds and the arm that protects. In this respect "chivalry" is sublime. It eclipses the highest manifestations of mediæval ages. It vaunts itself upon its accomplishments ; is jealous of that of which it has most need-honor; is "sudden and quick in quarrel"-when the advantage is very palpably on its side; otherwise it pockets insults as quietly as the newsboy does his peanuts.

"Chivalry" condescends to accept a sa. lary from the Government, because it cannot submit to the degradation of labor, nor subsist on air. It accepts the dollars, but feels a most sovereign contempt for its official associates the while. It tolerates them; sometimes it patronizes them, and occasionally it grows familiar, and essays a witticism as original, that was new and fresh twenty years ago, and laughs and says, "pretty good !"

It has another hallucination : it imagines itself a fixture-indispensable. It has been accustomed to consider itself chiefest, and to say, like the old tyrant-"I am the State." Without its guardianship, order would recede into chaos. Its motto isnoli me tangere ! amid the mutations of rule; and to disregard that injunction is to drive it into open and defiant treason. Pliant and obsequious when there is anything to gain, it generally succeeds in main. taining its precedence. Therefore the State hasty and improvident seizures. In every instance hasty and improvident seizures. In every instance they nust be satisfied that there is probable cause for the natural horn rulers of men_from the the natural-born rulers of men-from the superior race.

But for this war these shining qualities might have lain hid under the dust and rust, of disuse. Under the rule of the great law of compensation, however, they are made to put on an exceeding brightness.

ROBBERY OF A RAILROAD TRAIN.

ROBBERY OF A RAILROAD TRAIN. Over Fifty Thousand Dollars Stoles from Adams' Express Company. Baltricons, March 22, 1883. Early yesterday morning news reached this city that the safe belonging to the Adams' Express Com-pany had been stolen from the night train on the Northern Central Railroad, with a large amount of money and other valuables. At one time it was stated that some two hundred and sixty thousand dollars were in the safe, but that is a very large amount, and the report gained but little credence. It appears that the train left this nity for the North and West at nine o'clock on Monday night, and the baggage car being more comfortable than the car belonging to the express company, the safe contain-ing the valuables was placed in that. The baggage car contains two apartments, the front being oc-cupied by the mail, and the rear for the baggage. The baggage-master, with the messenger of the ex-press company, named Weitzell, were both in the car, and everything was all right when they reached Cockeysville. He knew that it contained a considerable amount of money, but did not telegraph to the agent in this city, nor did he slop until he reached Harrisburg. The New York Legislature seems determined to put a total extinguisher on speculations in gold and bills of exchange. By the provisions of the following bill, already reported, and which seems likely to pass, it will be seen that all gold held by banks, bankers, or other associations, on which money has been loaned, will be forced on the market, and it is no difficult matter to predict a considerable fall in the price. Who will buy it? Dealers will not, for it pays no interest; and the only class likely to invest are those who have no faith in the Government, and hoard gold only as a preventive

HOUSE. The House was called to order at 10% A. M. by Speaker Cesana. Dity Passenger Railways. Mr. COCHRAN, of Philadelphia, asked leave to offer a resolution, which was in effect that, by a joint resolu-tion, this House ask of the Governor that he return, without his signature, the bill recently passed, entitled an act regulating passenger railways in the dity of Phi-ladelphia. (This has been published in full. If relieves the passenger railways in the act of the Governor that he return, without his signature, the bill recently passed, entitled in act regulating passenger railways in the dity of Phi-ladelphia. (This has been published in full. If relieves the passenger railways in the form paving the streets, &c., and tates an amount of money each shall pay in Hen thereof.) "Br. COCHRAN stated that he had first seen this bill when it was called up by a cuspension of the rules, and he thought the bill was not a proper one, bul was deterred from opposing it by the representations of its friends, that it embodied the wishes of the dity anthori-ties, and was ynt in form by the City Solicitor. Not-withetanding this, he voted against it. Since that time, having examined it, he dearned it a gross outrage on the rishes of the situans of Philadelphia, and took the first opportunity to ask the Givernor to withhold. Li. 2faa. fure until information could reach Harrisburg of the history of the bill. Yeslerdy the Councils of Phila-delphia, unanimously disapproving of it, showed that they were no friends of it, and that it did not embody their wiskes. Therefore, he offered this resolutions re-mesting the Governor to withhold his signature. He was telegraphed to that effect last night. He hoped the reolution would he adopted. Mr. LHACHK kaid he concurred in the resolutions re-mesting the Governor to withhold his signature. He bistory of the sill cale cfined his position, in which he di not differ from his collesques.
