SHERIFF'S SALE—BY VIRTUE OF clavered, of bible port, 196 bostes classes, 1st do easy, 196 boste of the principle of the princ GIRARD COLLEGE PUPILS.—It has been GIRARD COLLEGE PUPILS.—It has been found, from careful investigation by the officials of the Girard College, that a number of pupils admitted yearly, as they advance in age, show a lack of that mental ability necessary for acquiring instruction in the highest branches of the college course. To detain them in a class, the average acquirements of which they cannot attain or hold, is impeding the progress of the capable, without improving the incapable. The incompetent clog the competent, and occupy places for which there are creditable competitors. The college has exhausted its power of improving the mind by efforts at instruction in subjects or sciences which they are unable further to receive. Some of these scholars are too young to apprentice to trades. For others it is not easy to find places where they can be taught mechanical or other business.

To remedy this evil it is proposed by the heard of THE POLICE. oil cake, 355 tos beef, 3,000 white oak staves, 338 bags of cloverseed, 85 bbls pork, 195 boxes cheese, 122 do soap, 10 bales fur. SHERIFF'S SALES. MUNICIPAL NOTICES. AUCTION SALES. [Before Mr. Alderman Dougherty.]

Interesting to Cabmen.

A case of some interest to cabmen and hotel-keepers came up before Mr. Alderman Dougherty, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Dennis Toner, William Shay, and others, brought suit in the name of the city of Philadelphia against Mr. E. K. Concklin, to test the right of Mr. C. to claim the exclusive use of Ninth street, in front of the Continental Hotel, as a stand for his carriages. The main points are two in number, and may be stated as follows: Mr. Wildman, one of the proprietors of the Continental, testified that he has great use for carriages for the benefit of his boarders and lodgers, and that orders are sent to Mr. Concklin for such a number of carriages as may, from to time, be wanted. These carriages remain standing on Ninth street, along the western front of the hotel, until the boarders or lodgers desire to use them, as the means of reaching a steamboat landing or railroad depot. The price of fare for riding is charged in the bills of the boarders by the proprietors of the hotel, and thus the party using the carriage has nothing to pay the drivers for the use of the vehicle.

This is the main point number one. The point raised by the prosecutors is, that carriages sent to the hotel front as above stated have been used for transient business by the drivers, and in consequence of this arrangement, other cabmen not in the interest of Mr. Concklin are precluded the chance of obtaining a little transient oustom. The prosecutors contend that the cabs being sent to the hotel for a certain purpose, should be confined to that business; to depart from it turns that part of Ninth street ocupied by Mr. Concklin's carriages into a public stand. This being the case, the prosecutors desired the question settled, whether they had not a right equal with Mr. Concklin to use the said stand, by introducing their own carriages. AUCTION SALES. E..., NE by E THE OCEAN STEAMSHIP PROJECT.—Yesterday morning at a meeting of the members of the Corn Exchange, held at their rooms, Second and Gold streets, Mr. Thos. Allman, vice president, being in the chair, Mr. George L. Buzby remarked that most of those present were aware that our merchants had subscribed about $200,000 to the stock of the California, Philadelphia, and European line of steamships; that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had subscribed for as much more upon the condition that the remainder of the stock should be taken by other parties. At this point, the enterprise had come to a stand, until recently, when that company, with a view to its successful completion, had made an offer to our city, through Councils, concerning which he was about to offer some resolutions for their consideration.

He said he would not occupy the time of the meeting in talking to such an audience of the absolute necessity of steamships to our port. We want them this day, and feel that want most severely. As the proposition made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had already received the emphatic approval of one Chamber of Councils, he now asked his hearers to endorse these resolutions, that Select Council, before whom this matter is now pending, might understand how our merchants regard it. He offered the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, The most crying want of the commerce of this port is the ownership and control of lines of steamships worked entirely in the interests of Philadelphia, and THE OCEAN STEAMSHIP PROJECT,-Yes-LARGE SALE STOCKS AND REAL ESTATE.

To remedy this evil, it is proposed by the board of managers that these pupils be kept up to the average they acquire in education, and place them under suitable instructors to obtain a familiarity with handicraft manipulations. The knowledge of the use of tools is thus secured, which gives them great advantages when they begin their apprentice life. A boy with such knowledge is more readily apprenticed than one educated in "words and signs" and not "facts and things." The demand for places is greater than the demand for apprentices.

To retain in the college, boys who are ready to be taught mechanical or other business, who have finished the college course, whose age is quite or nearly up to the maximum time mentioned in the will of Mr. Girard—scholars out of school, and, it may be, idle, is thought to be of very doubtful propriety. They who have received all the benefits of the institution thus occupy the places of candidates who cannot be admitted. For these reasons it was deemed advisable to give both these classes of inmates an opportunity to learn useful knowledge in handicraft labor. So soon as the system can be fairly put into operation, and its effects ascertained, a report on the subject will be made to Councils. oredit.

[Docket 4, page 315.] pantes were arrangued, has evening, before Mr. Alderman Beitler, when the following proceedings took place:

Chief Franklin testified that he and Mr. Jenkins, deputy United States marshal, with Detective Somers and Sergeant Thackara, visited the drinking saloon, made the two arrests, and recovered a number of notes; some were found on Bowd, six in number, and about twenty-five or thirty on the floor where Walker had thrown them; they are $2 notes, Bank of Catasauqua, Lehigh county, Pa.;
these notes are entirely new, none of them having been "jushed," (circulated); early this afternoon
I telegraphed to all the station-houses to put storekeepers on their guard, as the notes were to be circulated this evening.

Sergeant Thackara testified as to, the arrest of Walker sitting near the screen; these notes were picked up under the screen, where they had just been thrown; (bunch of notes shown;) there were three or four other-persons sitting around the stove.

Walker said that he did not know what he was EXPERIENCE OF A MEMBER OF THE ANDERSON TROOP WHILE A PRISONER.—Among the "noble band of three hundred" of the Anderson Troop who gallantly went into the fight near Murfreesboro was a son of Mr. J. B. Garber, of Lancaster county. He was attached to Company I, and after the battle was reported among the wounded and missing. We have since been informed that he was shot through the arm, and was placed in the hospital on the field, and two days after the fight was captured, with many others, by the rebels. Their experience in "Dixle" was anything but a pleasure trip. They were to be sent to Vicksburg to be exchanged, but when they were taken about forty miles out from Mobile, a despatch ordered the train back. They were accordingly carried bick on the same route to Montgomery, to Atlanta, Dalton, Knoxville, Jonesboro', where the bridges were burnt and the railroad form up for some thirty miles by the Union troops. Here they were forced to walk, and to wade rivers, till they reached Bristol. There they again took the cars to Lynchburg, and "on to Richmond;" were placed in prison, and, after suffering many hardships, were paroled and sent to Annapolis, Md. After some five or six weeks at Camp Parole, Annapolis, an order came transferring them to Camp Chase, Columbus, Ohio, where they now are, ready and anxious, as soon as exchanged, to have another "trial at arms" with the enemies of the Union. They were some two weeks on the railroad and afoot journey, and about the same time in prison at Richmond.

They confirm all the reports of suffering in the rebel States, the high price and extreme scarcity of provisions, and the strong Union sentiment everywhere exhibited. The Union people say they are three to one, but that the rebels have all the arms. Young Garber writes that he believes some of the Union people along the route. At every stopping place men, women, and children would crowd into or around the ears, bringing food for the poor, half-staved prisoners. One man, in Montgomery, Alabama, came to a squad of the boys EXPERIENCE OF A MEMBER OF THE AN-PANCOAST & WARNOCK, AUG-DERSON TROOP WHILE A PRISONER.—Among the "noble band of three hundred" of the Anderson POSITIVE SALE OF 750 LOTS AMERICAN AND IMPORTED DRY GOODS, CLOTHS, CASSIMARRES, WHITE GOODS, MILLINERY GOODS, &c., &c., by catalogue.

Walker said that he did not know what he was arrested for—he had done nothing; the officers had searched him, but found nothing.

Bowd had not a word to say.

Mr. Walker commenced getting rather indignant, and said that he had done nothing.

Chief Franklin produced an official document, being a warrant of arrest, or requisition paper from the Governor of the State of Illinois, properly endorsed by Governor Curtin. It seems that Walker was arrested a year since on Girard avenue, for being in the counterfeit-note business. During the delay in obtaining the requisition papers from Illinois, Walker being wanted in that State, he entered bail, which was forfeited.

"What are you going to do with the requisition paper?" asked the defendant.

"That is for future consideration," briefly replied the Chief.

"Welk sir." said Walker. "I have been in busi-The Board then adjourned.

SMALL-FOX.—The prevalence of smallpox in the late district of Richmond is becoming a matter of serious moment, and the Board of Health, we understand, have taken measures to prevent, if possible, its further spread. Last week eleven persons died of the disease. During the week previous fifteen died from the same cause. The Board, it will be remembered, requested that Councils would grant them the temporary use of Richmond Hall for the treatment of small-pox cases. The request was not granted, on the ground that the conversion of the hall to such uses would greatly deteriorate the value of adjoining property. It is to be hoped that the question will not arise whether the lives of the sufferers or the properties of the citizens are the most to be regarded. Under the excellent precautions already used, there is no doubt that the disease will soon be entirely cradicated.

"What have you to say?" said the alderman to the other individual. The prisoner attempted to palliate the affair; he said the old colored man had owed him twenty-five cents for two years, and when asked for it this afternoon pulled out a knife to stick him. The old colored preacher was discharged. The other fellow was pretty severely reprimanded, and, on promising to let the old preacher alone, and molest him no more, was set at liberty. Three cheers were then given for the Governor.

Governor Cannon came forward and thauked the assemblage for the warm greeting which he had received, and introduced to the body Samuel M. Harrington, Jr., Esq., Adjutant General of Delaware, who made a most felicitous address. He explained at length the antagonism manifested towards the General Government by the Legislature of Delaware, and read extracts from the proclamation of Governor Cannon which was published a few days ago. The Scud is a fast sailer, and can skip along the shores, or through bayous, like a thing of life. What has become of other popular yachts whose white sails used to stud the bosom of the Delaware! He said that the Governor has determined that the State of Delaware shall not be the retreat of either foreign or domestic traitors, and has issued his proclamation that the people of that State shall hold their allegiance to the United States, notwithstanding the acts of the Legislature of that State. The people of Delaware have publicly commended the Governor for his loyalty, and denounced the Legislature as disloyal and traitorous. The State of Delaware has furnished to the General Government, since the breaking out of the rebellion, five regiments of infantry, one battery, one guadron of cavelry, and two regiments of home guards, besides which her people have supported the families of the volunteers. The people of that State are prepared to make any sacrifice for their country's sake, and are making an effort to rid themselves of that incubus that has been leading them to destruction.

PROPOSALS FOR WOOD. he a cause of complaint—a subject for sneer at the Government? Where are the barrels of this insignificant coin that were the daily accumulation of passenger-railroad-car conductors, the grand injury of storekeepers, banks, and ladies? They are all gone. They have fled away before the deluge of paper currency as mists before the sun. It seems but yesterday that we heard the pathetic cry of the city-passenger car authorities that they were losing five and six per cent. because people would pay their fare in pennies, and pennies would not be taken in quantities for their nominal value. Gold fled first before the paper currency, and was securely hidden from the light of day; then silver followed, but yet we had pennies in profusion; now, even these clumsy substitutes have failed us, and the pennies have followed the gold and silver. Not longer than December, the United States Mint coined five millions four hundred and thirty-five thousand cents, and this exceeded but little the monthly coinage of the last half year. Before the present system of hoarding coin was practised, the coinage of cent pieces was less than half its present amount; yet the superabundance of this coin was so great that the Government was accused of keeping it up as a source of profit, the price being represented at less value in reality than a hundredth part of a dollar.

The strong preference for coin instead of paper money is illustrated in this gradual disappearance, and proves that cheap currency will always easily supplant the more valuable. It is not long since our banks refused to take silver, and depositors were obliged to have their funds turned into a more compact form, while now the silver would bring a handsome premium of 26 to 27 per cent. in paper money, and already even the much-abused penny commands a premium.

Certainly in currency, now, change would be acceptable, mall chance especially. While some FOR SALE OR TO LET—HANDSOME
