RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE. Dr. Branth's Lecture at Musical Fund Hall on Thursday Evening. The second lecture of the popular course, now being delivered under the auspices of the Lutheran Roard of Publication, was given at Musical Fund Hall, on Thursday evening, by the Rev. Charles P. Krauth, chitor of the Lutheran and Missionary. The audience was flattering in quality, and more numerous than attended the preceding lecture of the course. The subject of Dr. Krauth's lecture was "The Grand Need; or, What is to Redeem our Land and our Race?"
At 8 o'clock, Dr. Krauth, accompanied by several Lutheran clergymen of this city, appeared upon the platform, and, after a few brief introductory remarks by the Rev. Dr. Seiss, commenced his lecture. He opened with the remark that there had been many definitions given of man, and perhaps the best definition that could be given of him was, that he is a being that needs panaceas, that makes panaceas, and that takes nanaceas. The great need of the race had not been so much the want of proper means to work out its happiest destiny as the inadequate manner in which these means had been employed. In the lecturer's judgment the "Great Need" of the race was trus courage. He did not, of course, mean to ignore God in this assertion—the existence of God was, in fact, presupposed in assuming this position; but it would be found that nothing was so much needed as true moral heroism. Our race worshipped heroes. There was no religion so universal or constant as this. So true was this that the renown of the hero was looked upon as one of the greatest perils to human freedom. And true courage deserved all that the world could give it. True heroism in the service of the truth was worthy of the world's highest praise. And there was much courage in the world. Even the greatest cowards sometimes broke out in a flush of heroism; and gentle woman, who was frightened at a mouse could be aroused to dare fire and death in defence of her loved ones. There was, however, much physical courage in the world for which men deserved no more credit than they do for the color of their eyes.

The greatest battles of this world were fought quietly under heaven's eyes. They were fought by heroes for the truth. Such a battle was now being fought in the heart of this nation, and if a victory was there conquered, then the great battles of our armies would lead to a glorious and a lasting peace. The first great essential in fighting such a battle was, that the truth was possessed. At this point the lecturer drew a fine-spun distinction between sincerity and honesty. Men, he said, might be perfectly sincere in their fervor in a cause without being honest. Saul, of Tarsus, for example, had been just as sincere while breathing out threat-enings against Christians on his way to Damascus, as was Paul, the apostle, after his conversion, but he had been dishonest. He then proceeded with a metaphysical disquisition upon the characteristics of Truth, and the relations which the smallest truths tain to larger ones, and their uniform and undy-Heroism in the service of truth had a charm about it which the speciousness of error could never impart, and even if it were possible for Truth to be dead, then, said he, give us the truth dead, rather than the living Lie. In a very important sense, however, the Truth could not take care of itself. It needed defending. In the very morning of the world's history it had been met by a lie in the mouth of Satan, had been rottled by him, and overcome. Truth, indeed had met with every kind of error in the world, and had encountered the most heartless treachery. Bu it had also had brave defenders. The patriarchs had fought its battles; so had Moses, and the prophets, and the Apostles, and the martyrs in later days. The Reformation had been a great battle for the truth, and the battle then begun was still raging, and would rage until the millions of Heathens, Mahomedans, and Jews, were converted to the truth. Yet it was true that even in the great body of Christendom the mass of men were utterly careless and sluggish in the promulestion of the truth they profess to cherish and revere; and this same species of infidelity was now no less visible in the political world, and especially in our own land, in which the false maxim of Sec had been allowed to rear its horrid, lying head in miscal defiance. The lecture was listened to with marked attention and occasionally applause.

The next lecture of this course will be delivered by the Rev. E. W. Hutter, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, in this city, on Thursday evening, INTERESTING COURSE OF SERMONS .- The Rev Thomas H. Stockton, D. D., is now delivering a course of serrions on "The Religion of the New Testament," in the chapel at Eleventh and Wood streets. The next of the series will be given in that edifice to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 10% o'clock. In the evening at 7% o'clock a Tinion prayer meet ing will be held in the same place, to which Chrishians of all denominations are invited. The leadership of the excellent chair of the Fourth Baptist Church, (Rev. Mr. Jeffrey's,) corner of Fifth and Buttonwood streets, by Mr. John M. Evans, to whose able hands this responsible duty has been entrusted during the last nine years, will cipation of which we are authorized to state that a of Mr. Evans, will take place in that edifice this (Saturday) evening. The rehearsal will commence at 8 o'clock, and will no doubt prove to be an interesting occasion. A large attendance may be anti- Lighthill, of No. 34 St. Mark's Place, who in a short eipated.

Ex-Governon Wright on "Lay Representation."—At a late meeting of laymen of the Methodist Episcopal Church, held in New York to consider the subject of lay representation, ex-Governor Wright, of Indiana, remarked that he looked upon a church as a miniature Government, and he would have the people represented in the law-making power. He believed that before five years the lay delegation principle would be adopted, and he also anticipated an entire change in the system regarding the short term of ministers. He also expressed it as his opinion that, had it not been for the division of the Methodist Church, the present rebellion would not have occurred. sion of the methodist cauten, the present would not have occurred.

Righerous Observances.—Last Wednesday was generally observed by our Catholic citizens as the Feast of Annunciation. The services in the churches Feast of Annunciation. The services in the officers were the same as on Sundays.

This being Passion week, all the pictures and statuary in the Catholic churches are covered with purple, and will remain so during Lent. The trusters of Rutgers College, an institution of the Reformed Dutch Church, at their meeting of Feb. 24, unanimously resolved to begin the work of endowing the college, and general and local commit-tees have been already appointed. They hope to raise $100,000, if possible, by the next commence-ment. ON LAST SUNDAY WEEK eight persons were added to the West Spruces-street Church (Rev. Mr. Breed's,) upon profession of faith, and several by certificate; and on the same day thirteen were added to the Tenth Presbyterian Church (Rev. Dr. Boardman's,) upon profession of faith, and more than twenty by certificate. A GRANT of 7,000 Bibles and Testaments was re-cently made by the American Bible Society, for circulation in the rebel States, and these have already been forwarded to Richmond by permission of the Federal Government. of the reural government.

CATARRH OURED.

[FROM REV. P. R. RUSSELL, LYNN, MASS.]

I have been much troubled with catarrh of the worst type for some twenty years. It gradually grew worse, producing cough and hoarseness, destroying the sense of smell, and breaking down my general health to such a degree as to compel me to esign my pastorate and suspend public speaking.

I made diligent use of the usual remedies, such as snuffs of various kinds, nitrate of silver, tar-water, olive-tar, and inhalations, but without any vory salutary effects. Last summer I heard of Dr.

Lighthill's successful mode of treating catarrh.
