SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1863.

THE NEWS. Our special correspondence from Acquia Creek will relieve, in some measure, the earnest curiosity which has attached to the many vague rumors of the advance of Hooker's army. The crossing of the Rappahannock is now a full and potent fact, con-tirmed and historic. We have now an account of the advance and its success, and speculations of its cause and plan worthy of respect. In addition to previous reports, we now know that or Tuesday last the river was crossed in two columns; one, under Stoneman, at Falmouth, and the other, consisting of the main body of the army, under command of its general. The 119th Pennsylvania Regiment had the pioneer honor, and were first to get across. The enemy had withdrawn his main column from the line of the Rappahannock, and, according to contraband statement, there were no troops in great force in our front, anywhere for twenty miles south. The enemy, so far as is known, have feebly disputed our advance. It is reported that Fredericksburg is now occupied with a strong force under provost marshal General Patrick, and that Port Royal, also occupied, is now a landing for stores. Some fifteen hundred repels, it is said, were captured in the rifle pits beyond Fredericksburg. Throughout the advance, there had been a continual skirmishing but with no important action, and this will not probably occur for some days at least, when the movement will be developed, and its results revealed. The advance appears to be a clear gain in the attitude of our campaign, and we may look forward WE have little or no news from the army of the Cumberland, The Herald numbers Bragg's cavalry at 20,000, and regards it as a very important feature of superiority over Rosecrans. "Bragg," says the Herald, "is but little stronger in infantry th crans, but his cavalry is much superior in numbers, mustering fully twenty thousand strong, and presenting a front and assuming a position much more to be feared us than Bragg's entire infantry force. The position of the rebel cavalry on our flanks is the greatest difficulty in the way of an advance : and before Rosecrans can move he will have to do something to destroy or disperse Van Dorn and Wheeler."

rebel General Wheeler is extraordinary, and doubt-less exaggerated, although the Herald endeavors to by a muster-roll of cavalry generals, brigades, and regiments. WE HAVE a semi-official summary of the brilliant achievements of Gen. Banks' expedition in the Reche country. Its record is as follows: Marched over three hundred miles, heating the enemy in three battles, two on land and one on Grand Lake; dispersing his army utterly, destroying his navy, apturing his foundries at Franklin and New Iberia. and demolishing the salt works (ten miles southwest of the latter place); capturing his camp equipage, several guns, and between one and two thousand prisoners. Our losses in the two battles do not exceed seven hundred. The bravery of our soldiers receives the warmest praise. The army and navy of the enemy are perhaps destroyed, and many of

THE Tribune has the following in its correspondence, on Hooker's advance, which certainly shows that the initiatory movement has not lacked activity, care and command in the general: "From Kelly's to United States, and thence to Bank's Ford. the commander rode through every portion and department of the army, gave his orders, and saw that no scapegoat, in the shape of tardy pontoons, lukewarm officers, or defective ammunition, stood ready caparisoned to flee to the mountains of public opinion with excuses for anticipating failure. Before night came General Hooker knew thoroughly what was transpiring on both sides of the Rappa-hannock. Though no proclamation has been issued to that effect, it is quite certain that the headquarters of the army is in the saddle. The Army of the Potomac, which has been long accustomed to have its headquarters follow afar off, was yesterday elec-trified with the change. How a movement thus auspiciously began will end we soon shall see." oint, and confirmation of the report that the rebels troops in Gen Schenck's department; certainly enough to manage the raid. There seems to be no reason why the guerillas should not be promptly driven from Western Virginia. THE force which Governor Johnson has received

These troops are to be enlisted for three years or the war, and it is expected they will be ready for service by the close of the summer. FURTHER NEWS from Mexico reverses the story of the French, received by way of Havana. The French had entered the city, it was true, but they were subsequently driven out with great slaughter at the point of the bayonet. The Mexicans have proved great bravery, and though this intelligence does not bear the stamp of certain authority, it is WE HAVE interesting correspondence from the Mississippi squadron, by Cairo. The Gathering Tempest. The insurrection in Poland, which was not ended by LANGIEWICZ having abdicated his Dictatorship, proceeds with unabated fury, and has so far baffled all the efforts of Russia to put it down. The amnesty proclaimed by the Czar, pardoning all political offences, and promising indefinite reforms at a period left wholly to the imagination, has been rejected by the patriots of Poland. The time in which vague promises could amuse them has passed. Four of the leading Powers of Europe-namely, England, France, Austria, and Italy-have severally remonstrated with Russia, giving significant hints that, very possibly, their interference will not be confined to words. Sweden is also opposed to the Russian policy towards Poland. As the Poles are chiefly towards Poland. ANNUAL EXHIBITION AT THE ACADEMY OF FINE ARTS.—This exhibition of sculpture, painting, drawing, and photography, will be opened to the public on Monday. According to custom, there will be a private view this evening—a pleasant reunion, at which artists, purchasers, exhibitors, critics, and a select number of the public have a pleasant meeting. As was the case last year, New York artists will be n full force at this exhibition, as well as our own leading artists.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is invited to the very fine private collection of oil paintings now on exhibition at the auction store of Gillette & Scott, No. 619 Chestnut street, to be sold this morning, at eleven o'clock. The collection includes many fine pieces of real merit, by eminent artists, among which we notice a fine oil painting of "St. Peter viewing th Cross," by the celebrated Sir Joshua Reynolds, The store will be open early, to give such as desire it an opportunity of examining the collection before the LETTER FROM "OCCASIONAL." WASHINGTON, May 1, 1863. The sermon of the Rev. Byron Sunderland, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in this city, last evening attracted an immense crowd. Hundreds were forced to leave for want even of standing room. Mr. Sunderland is the chaplain of the United States Senate, and one of the most fervent and fearless friends of the Government. Long resident in Washington, where he has always been a great favorite, he is, probably, better qualified to speak of the designs of the enemies who still remain in the Federal Capital, than any other clergyman here. His attractive and fervid eloquence, his industry and charity in fulfilling all his clerical duties, and his intimate association with many of the families who have attended his church for a number of years, have given great importance to his opinions. And when, at the commencement of the war, it was ascertained that he felt an intense solicitude in favor of the Government, and against the traitors, hundreds of the sympathizers with Secession in Washington did not hesitate to speak of his bold expressions with equal disappointment and anger. This class had so long controlled society in all its ramifications, had held the Government so steadily and firmly at their direction and disposal, that they finally conceived themselves (instead of being, as in fact they were, the recipients of the bounty and favor of consecutive Administrations) the benefactors and patrons of the Church as well as of the State. Former immunities in office and in every avenue of social and business life sanctified, in their eyes, the shameless conspiracy of the slave tyrants to break up the Government, and clothed them with a sort of impunity as well to sympathize with and to assist these conspirators as to proscribe and punish every independent man who regarded it as his conscientious duty to expose and oppose the enemies of the Republic. Dr. Sunderland's prayers at the opening of the sessions of the Senate were the significant signs of the patriotic feelings which had become a part of his own religious convictions. Inspired by the fact that his country was engaged in a war for the preservation of the liberties of the people, he never hesitated to speak and to pray precisely as he felt, and more than once his terrible maledictions against the Secessionists, and particularly against the families who continued to receive the protection of the public authorities they were constantly endeavoring to weaken and bring into contempt, made him at last such a terror to evil-doers that they would not listen to his pravers. Last night, in accordance with a previous notice, he delivered an elaborate and fearless sermon, in which he laid bare the vices of the times, showing that not simply the politicians and demagogues of the South, but many of the public men of the North, had been guilty of crimes and offences against God which nothing but sincere and severe repentance could expiate. It was when, however, he came to discuss the crimes of Secession, and of sympathy with Secession, that he touched the chord of the The latest news from Western Virginia gives the popular heart, creating such a feeling that satisfaction. Mr. Sunderland's impassioned denunciation of the whole heresy of the rebellion, and of the unchristian and cruel conduct of many who remain here only to embarrass the Government, was just and opportune. He said, with much force, that when the historian, in the light that will hereafter be shed upon present events, proceeds to examine into the causes of this mighty revolt, he will be astonished at the arrogance, barbarity, and insolence of the traitors, and astounded at the leniency and forbearance of the Government. When a man like Mr. Sunderland, who has seen and experienced the shameless ingratitude and treason of the traitors, and the extraordinary moderation and toleration with which they have been treated, is constrained to speak out, as he did last evening, we may well look forward to a period, and that not far distant, when

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC. Further News of the Advance. CROSSING AND FIGHT AT KELLY'S FORD.

The Rebel Colonel Hammond Captured. Between Five and Six Hundred Prisoners Captured. WASHINGTON, May 1.

From the best attainable information from persons arriving from the Rappahannock it appears that some important movements of the army took place on Wednesday, although there was no fighting of The United States forces crossed the Rappahan nock at Kelly's Ford.

Pontoon bridges were laid two or three miles below Fredericksburg, and we took possession of those points on Wednesday night. The enemy formed lines of battle, and planted batteries on the heights of their rear, and also fired a few shots in order to get the range.

In crossing we lost one or two officers killed, and from thirty to forty men wounded.

Our men crossed first in boats, drove the rebel pickets out of their rifle-pits, killed and wounded many, and took one hundred and six prisoners, including several officers, one of whom was Lieutenant Colonel Hammond, of the 6th Louisiana Regiment. These prisoners arrived here yesterday and were sent to the Old Capitol Prison. Another informant says the left wing, 35,000 strong, crossed four miles below Fredericksburg, a

NEW CHESTNUT-STREET THEATRE.—The final performance of "Leah," and the last appearance of Miss Bateman, occurs to-night. The fact is mentioned because it is somewhat unusual for one play, in which one chara ter alone is principal, to be successfully performed for successive weeks. We have seen no reason to alter the opinions which we have heretofore expressed. Those opinions were matured and reconsidered. Their expression was worded with deep respect for the lady, and with no trivial degree of admiration for the artists. Early in June Miss Bateman will leave America—abroad from which she will not probably find a greater number of sincere well-wishers—and will strive to widen in ther lands the reputation she has earned in these. The honest critic, the true friend of the artiste, will be as glad and quick to applaud truth and beauty in acting as ie will feel constrained to point out deformity and erro he will feel constrained to point out deformity and error. It will be pleasure for him to praise, and pain to censure. Few people pay or think of paying, to the atrical advertisements more attention than they deserve. The advertisements of the "New Chestnut" announce Miss Bateman as being a "Great Tragic Artiste," It is not necessary for Miss Bateman to be so in order to perform the character of Leah. But she performs it, as a whole, better than any stock or star actress could whom we can recall. Her coldness, in some of the principal scenes, has been adverted to and dwelt upon She may have it in her power to do away with this great defect. With the "year which bring," not "the philosophic mind," but the loving heart, she may ac-quire the power of passionately depicturing, those scenes whose very life is that of love as love. She, indeed, holds the mirror toward nature, but she too often encumbers the reflection with the cold formalism of life less artificiality. It would be untrue to say she is without talent, and unjust to deny the occasional sweetness and strength of her passion and her pathos. But either her power of conceiving them is limited, or else her ability "Lah," however, she is always good, and sometime, great. In almost every interview she seems, to those who first observe her, as near to Nature as Art can be. looking into Nature's face. The effect she produce on her audience is one of the best commentaries o the effect she must previously have produced upon herself. Her conception and her rendition keep pace with each other, and proceed together. These have been with each other, and proceed together. These have been almost sufficient to draw tears from the eyes of men and women, unused to weeping at a theatrical denouement. In the last, seene where Leah, pursued by the rabble, seeks the protection of Madelina, both the action and the inaction are fine. When Leah refuses the offer of money and food, but a cup of cold water bring proffered, gasps, "Thirsty, yes, thirsty," the pathos of tone, the exquisite and hidden meaning of the author, are very touching. When Leah learns from Madelina the temporary absence of the latter's husband, and exclaims. were captured.

The syrpessions of the picture of malignant love. This is a point of which Miss Bateman makes much. She might make more though here occurs the difficulty of over-acting. When, repulsed by Madelina, in a moment of excitement, Lean exclaims, "She casts me forth, Well! well!" the desolation of a wounded and forsaken spirit, heart-broken and dejected, is admirably ers in the American Hotel, adjoining, episode of the whole play. Leah's benediction upon the child, upon the harpy wedded couple, Rudolf and Madelina, and "all, all." is rendered with a tenderness which com-pensates one in some measure for the coldness of pravi-ous acts. The portraitures of Miss Bateman in this act, compared with the others, are like apples of gold in pictures of silver. In parting from Miss Bateman, we hardly know which most to express—our admiration, or our regret. Her long experience of stage duties, and consequently that know-ledge of stage requirements which must have been to her a second nature, should qualify her to do ample justice a second nature, should quality her to do ample justice to mere dramatic effect. The difference between talent and genius is easily discernible by the least practiced; difficult to be described by the most habituated. Miss Bateman has proved that she possesses the one; will she that she possesses the other? If her experiences on distant shores profit her as much as her experiences have one; this. we do not doubt that the prestige of her name will grow both solid and enduring. NAVAL—A naval general court martial, composed of the following distinguished members, has been in session at the navy yard: Oom. F. Engle, president; Com. Charles Lowndes, Com. James L. Lardner, Capt. F. B. Ellison, and Com. E. C. Carpeader. A number of important cases were before them for investigation, the most prominent of which was relative to the surrender of the United States steamer Mercedita to the rebel ram, off Charleston, in the latter part of last January. The fact that England and France are surpassing us The fact that England and France are surpassing us in the number of sea going armored vessels has induced Secretary Welles to expedite the completion of the fleet as soon as possible. The plans, however, will not be ready for months to come, and some three years will have to elapse before the vessels can be fit for service, thus rendering it certain that 1866 will come before the formidable craft san be ready for service. Although the bids were to close on the 18th of April, they are still open, and will be so for some days. The parties who are willing to build are Messrs. Merrick & Sons, Philadelphia, one vessel; Archibald & Reany, Chester, one vessel; Romeo Underhill, New York, one vessel; the Atlantic Works, Boston, one or two vessels; H. M. Figaro, Philadelphia, one vessel. A Mr. Tuffs offered to build one on his own plan. The price put in for these vessels ranges from four millions one hundred thousand to four millions four hundred thousand. Remeo Underhill, of New York, and others, being the highest. If the of these vessels were built, at two and a quarter millions each, they would cost nearly a year's navy estimate—over sixty millions—before their armament and general wants could be supplied. The dimensions of this fleet proposed for will be greater than those of any iron-clad yet conceived.

Cellebration at the Northern Home

CELEBRATION AT THE NORTHERN HOME CELEBRATION AT THE NORTHERN HOME FOR FRIENDLESS CHILDREN.—The tenth anniversary of the Northern Home for Friendless Children was celebrated yesterday afternoon, at half past three o'clock. The occasion was the completion and occupation of their buildings, and the place of celebration was the Northern Home itself, at the northwest corner of Twenty-third and Brown streets.
The general arrangements of the buildings, and the appearance and condition of the children, awoke the interest and elicited the praise of the many guests who were present. The ages of the children range from three to twelve. The age of the oldest, at present, is ten years, and that of the youngest two years and a half. Two hundred children are in the Home at this time. Three nurses are regularly employed, under whose care the children are placed during the hours of non-confinement.
The average amount of time of instruction is five hours daily. Two teachers are in charge of the elementary branches. The scholars, in obedience; in truthfulness, and in application to their tasks, are unusually praiseworthy. On the Sabbath day they receive religious instruction from the lips of teachers and pastors. Family worship is conducted by Mr. L. Hopkins every morning, and this likewise the children are required to attend. The board, at a recent meeting, resolved to erect an infirmary for the accommodation of those children who may be taken ill. This will be in the rear of the ground on which the present buildings stand.

The area of the Infirmary will be forty-five by fifty feet, and the suilding will be three stories high.
Voluntary contributions will, it is hoped, be sufficient in furnishing the requisite funds, which will probably be in the neighborhood of $10,000. A portion of this is already promised, and the citizens are expected to contribute the balance.

The eating and sleeping apartments, the wardrobe, and other necessary onveniences, seem calculated to meet the ends designed.

The board of trustees is composed of the following off FOR FRIENDLESS CHILDREN.—The tenth anniversary of the Northern Home for Friendless Children

At the close of the exercises, a contation was served up to the children, and was partaken of by them with evident satisfaction. The affair, yesterday, was one of those interesting occasions which are attended with pleasure at every repetition. IMPROVEMENTS AT LAUREL HILL.—A large number of interments are constantly making in this extensive and picturesque cemetery ground. During the past year a number of beautiful monuments have been erected there, and the ground in various ways improved. The many charming evergreens, in which the robin and thrush rear their young undisturbed by the rapacious boys, lend to the place a vernal appearance, even in the most inclement season. How much more preferable it is to deposit the dead in a cemetery like this, where they will always remain unmolested, than in the confined graveyards of the built-up portions of the city, which, probably sooner or later, will be made the sites of buildings, and the bones of the "poor inhabitants below" hustled elsewhere.

ST. THOMAS EPISCOPAL COLORED ST. THOMAS EPISCOPAL COLORED CHURCH.—The services at this church on the Fast Day were of the most interesting character. The regular morning service was read, and prayers for the soldiers and the President of the United States; also the prayer set apart for Ash Wednesday, with the collect, epistle, and gospel for that day, were recited. After which an appropriate sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. Wm. J. Alston, from the following text: 5th chapter of Jeremiah, the 30th and 31st verses—"A wonderful and horrible thing is committed in the land. The prophets prophesy falsely, and the priests bear rule by their means, and my people love to have it so: and what will ye do in the end thereof?" ACCIDENTS.—A lad, named Charles Morrow, aged two years, was badly burned, on Thursday afternoon, by his clothes taking fire, while playing with matches, at the residence of his parents, in Carpenter street, below Ninth.

Patrick Devlin, aged sixty years, while walking upon the ends of the "sleepers" upon the Reading railroad, on Thursday afternoon, was struck in the back by a passing locomotive and was so held! in FIRE.—Yesterday afternoon an alarm of fire was caused by the burning of the contents of a second-story back room in the building No. 515 Chestnut street. The room was occupied by a domestic in the employ of Mrs. Margaret Ellis. Owing to the difficulty of gaining access to the fire, the surrounding properties and the front part of the building were somewhat damaged by water. The loss amounted to about $500, which is covered by insurance. The building belongs to the Ridgway estate. Considerable alarm was occasioned among the boarders in the American Hotel, adjoining. DROWNED. — The body of a drowned man was found yesterday morning at Poplar-street wharf. He appeared to be about sixty years old, and had been in the river several weeks. JUDGE SHANNON, of Pittsburg, will address the National Union League of Germantown this evening, (Saturday,) May 2, 1863, at 8 o'clock, at their hall, Longstreth's Building. TO BE PAID IN GOLD AND SILVER. TO BE TAID IN GOLD AND SHYER.

From and after resterday, all postages due on unpaid letters received from foreign countries in the mails, despatched to this country from Great Britain, Ireland, France, Prussia, Hamburg, Bremen, and Belgium, will be collected in gold or silver coin. PRIZE SALF .- Another portion of the

That contributed through the Corn Exchange Association was in all respects worthy of the universally esteemed liberality of that organization. Besides that, a collection was taken up last Sunday week, by request of Right Rev. Bishop Wood, in all the churches of his diocese. The total amount exhibits the magnificent sum of $30,021,62. Ohurch, 1; Engine Houses, 2.... Warehouses, 2; Dye Houses, 2.... COAL-OIL DEPOTS.—We learn that the Pennsylvania Railroad is preparing its property on the west side of the Schuylkill, in the Twenty-fourth ward, for the storage of coal oil. It is also proposed to use for the same purpose the flats on the Delaware, below the city, which can be easily connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad by a very short road, so as to receive the barrels as they are sent down from the West. Both these localities are so isolated that no possible danger can arise to other property from storing it there. These flats extend for miles, and sufficient space is to be found for the accommodation of any amount of the trade which can arise in the next quarter of a century. The islands opposite the city have also been proposed, and they have the advantage of offering great security from the danger of fire; but they could carely be better suited for the trade than the flats below the city, where property is cheap and where refining manufactories could be established if necessary. The inflammable character of coal oil requires that it should not be stored in the built-up portions of the city, and that an ordinance prohibiting such storage will be passed by Councils there is but little doubt. COAL-OIL DEPOTS.—We learn that the ROBBERY.—A few nights since the dwelling house of Mr. John Harkinson on Main street, below Rittenhouse, Germantown, was entered and robbed of two gold watches, several articles of jewelry, and about $300 in money. The entrance was effected through a back third story window, which was reached by getting upon the roof of the back building. The stolen property was taken from a desk, which was forced open.

OBITUARY.—The funeral of Dr. Gustav OBITUARY.—The funeral of Dr. Gustay Schwarz, who died on the 28th ult., at his residence, in West Philadelphia, will take place this afternoon, and will, no doubt, be largely attended. Dr. S. was a highly esteemed physician of the Homcopathic school, and had attained much popularity in the district where he lived. GOVERNMENT CONTRACT FOR FURNISHing Kerser.—Yesterday proposals were opened at the office of army clothing and equipage in this city. A contract was awarded to Magers. B. Bullock & Sons, Philadelphia, to furnish five hundred thou-sand yards & yard-wide sky-blue kersey, at $1.05 BASE BALL-ATHLETIC YS. MINERVA.-A match will be played this afternoon between the above-named clubs, on the ground at Fairmount Park. As this is the first match of the season, it is expected that it will be a good one. The game will commence at 3 o'clock. Front seats will be reserved for ladies. INCOME TAX.—Yesterday was the time fixed by the Chief Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the various assessors to commence the assessment of the income tax. Owing to some delay in not receiving the blanks, the work was not commenced in this city yesterday.

SALE OF WINES, -Yesterday M. Thomas & Sons sold at auction the stock of Madeira wines of the late Major Butler. The wine was of a choice quality, and it brought good prices, ranging as high as $200 for five-gallon demijohn. FOREIGN FRUIT - Yesterday the brig Waverley, from Messina, arrived in port. Among the articles of the cargo were 3,500 boxes of oranges and 900 boxes of lemons.

In Port.—There were eighty-two vessels Housen.—The Reliance Fire Company located on New street, near Second, have housed new hose carriage, and will hereafter use steam forcing hose, instead of their hand engine.

CITY ITEMS. A POPULAR SHOPPING EMPORIUM.-There are few things more attractive to the ladies at this season of the year than an A No. 1 stock of Dress Goods, such, for example, as is now offered by the old and respectable house of Messrs. James R. Campbell & Co., No. 727 Chestnut street This house, it will be remembered, has long occupied a front rank position as importers and jobbers of every description of Dress fabrics, White Goods, Embroideries, et cetera; and since opening their large retail department on Chestnut street, in conamong the fair wearers of silks and laces has be ome as well established as it has long been among merchants throughout the country. In getting up been singularly successful in anticipating the want and proverbial good taste of the ladies of our city. Among the most popular lines of goods in this de partment are their beautiful French Organdies, Striped Poplin Fantasias, real Mohair Alpacas French Foulards, rich Poult de Soie, and taffeta solid colored Silks, and real Camel's Hair Poplins. besides a superb line of White Goods, embracing a full assortment of Irish Linens, napkins, doilies table linens, and general furnishing goods. Their made some time since, at much below present price easonable rates. To advert again for a moment to their dress goods, we may state, for the information of the ladles, that their French organdies present a number of exquisite shades and patterns entirely unique in their designs. The celebrated cuer, or leather color, as also the now popular "dead-leaves hue, are prominently represented in various fabrics. In real Camel's Hair poplins—which they offer in richest variety, wide, and of magnificent quality, ranging as high as five dollars per yard—their stock is incomparably better than any other in the city, and the same is true of their fine dress fabrics in other departments. In addition to their choice array in these, they also now offer for ladies' and children's cloaking purposes, a rich line of zephyr cloths; also French Poil d'Chevres of all shades, at moderate rices; a very large choice, and desirable assortment of spring shawls; besides an endless variety of every thing else comprehended in a first-class stock of silk and fancy dry goods. RELIGIOUS. -On last Sunday morning the Rev. Dr. Carden, rector of the Church of the Inter-cessor, Broad and Spring Garden streets, preached the annual Easter sermon, to a very large congrega-tion. The discourse was characteristic, practical and eloquent, and in it he gave a resumé of his communicants, with a large Sunday-school. The rector stated that more money had been raised in his parish during the past year that at any previous than ever in relieving the poor. VALUABLE IRON PROPERTY FOR SALE.in another column of our paper to day the reader will find advertised, over the name of "Washingto Righter, Columbia, Lancaster county, Pennsylva-nia," what are known as the "Matilda Furnaces and Ore Banks," situated on the Juniata river, in Miffiin and Huntingdon counties, Pennsylvanis within one mile of Mount Union Station, on th Pennsylvania Railroad. It represents, from what we can learn, one of the most valuable and produc tive iron properties in the State, embracing twentyseven hundred acres of land, of which about thr hundred acres is good farm land in a high state of cultivation, the balance being good timber land, adapted to supply charcoal for the furnaces. For particulars, however, the reader is referred to the ment. The property is announced to be sold "a bargain, and on easy terms." A SANITARY SUGGESTION.—Now that an important change in the temperature of the weather may be expected which, for the promotion of health and comfort, necessarily involves corresponding changes in diet and apparel, a word respecting the best meat to be eaten in warm weather may not be unseasonable. According to the best medical authority good ham is the most wholesome of meats during the warm weather, and without necessarily excluding all others, it is regarded as a fixed fact that a due proportion of properly-cured ham is abso-futely essential to continuous good health during the summer months. It is probably the more general acquaintance of the public with this fact that has created such an unprecedented demand for the celebrated "Excelsior Hams," (which, by the way, are by far the most delicious and finest-flavored hams in the country,) making it almost impossible for the proprietors, Messrs. J. H. Michener & Co., No. 142 North Front street, to supply the popular demand stood by any person who will give the subject a of no private enterprise in our city in which we fee a more honert pride than in the princely gallery of art which has been achieved by Messrs. Broadbent & Co., the eminent Photographers, Nos. 912, 914, and 916 Chestaut street. In all the finer and more artistic branches of Photography, this firm has long stood at the very head in this country, and the specimens of their various styles of pictures that decorate their exhibition gallery are well worthy a visit from all lovers of art. They are literally thronged from morning till night, week in and week out, with applicants for pictures. The reputation of this house has become world-wide. A ELEGANT STOCK OF DRESS GOODS .- Attantion is this morning invited to the extensive dress goods advertisement, in another column, of Mersrs. Edwin Hall & Co., No. 26 South Second Gold-bordered Shades made to order, any style or street. From it our lady readers will perceive that this well-known firm offers a superb line of fashiona-Curtains and Curtain Materials, of every descripble dress fabrics, of the most desirable styles and qualities, at a very great reduction from early tion, at the lowest price for a good article.

A RISING YOUNG ARTIST.—The practice of Photography as a merely mechanical business, has not been particularly fruitful in developin much genuine genius in those who follow it as profession; and yet, it is as essential for a first-rat Photographer to be a first rate artists, as it is for a skilful painter to be a judge of colors. There are some few brilliant exceptions to this general rule, however, and one of them is Mr. F. A. O. Knipe, of the Photograph Gallery, No. 906 Arch street, above Ninth. He is one of the rising young artists of the day. Every picture emanating from his establish ment, that we have examined, bears the imprint o artistic merit and judgment upon its face. The atti-tude of the sitter is admirably managed in order to obtain the most favorable effect; the lights and shadows are regulated with discriminati there is a charpness and intensity about his pictures which, in the larger sizes especially, we have neve seen surpassed and seldom equalled. He is making for himself a great reputation A GOOD IMPROVEMENT IN POCKET-BOOKS.—Our attention was, yesterday, called to a finely-improved Pocket-book recently invented and patented by Mr. Mason, No. 44 North Sixth street.

It is one of the neatest and most convenient article in the pocket-book and porte-monnaic line ever invented, and is certain to become a great favorite with the public, being at once compact, admirably arranged for holding the largest quantity of notes in the smallest bulk, and so perfectly divided into convenient pockets for the various denominations of our currency, that the advantage of adopting it will be seen at a glance. SUMMER BOARDING.—It will be seen, by reference to an advertisement under our "Railroad Lines," that a large number of private boardinghouses along the line of the West Chester and Phila delphia Railroad, via Media, have made arrangements with this road, whereby gentlemen wishing to locate their families in this delightful section of country during the aummer months can have the convenience of riding back and forth at low rates. Seve ral of the parties named in the advertisement are among the most respectable families in the State and well known to many of our citizens. The officers of this road deserve much credit for their efforts o accommodate our people in a matter of such real importance to their health and happiness, and we have no doubt their liberality will be largely responded to. GENERAL HOOKER FIGHTS A BATTLE AND GAINS A VICTORY.-It is stated that General Hooker has crossed the Rannahannock with fifty thousand men, met the rebels, and thrashed them. Good for Hooker! We hope he has, and that he will "hit'em again." In the meantime, let it not be forgotten that our own enterprising and patriotic fellow-citizen, Mr. W. W. Alter, the leading coal merchant of Philadelphia, if every man to whom he has sold good coal were to become his soldier, would have an army of more than fifty thousand; and it is a well-known and undisputed fact that, in the way of furnishing the best coal at the least price, he has long since gained a stunning victory over all competitors. Send your orders to his yard, Ninth street, above Poplar. "A FOOL AND HIS MONEY, &c."-The Pacha of Egypt has just had made for himself, in Paris, a dessert service consisting of twelve gold plates, richly inlaid with diamonds, costing 50,000 francs each; six champagne glasses, costing 30,000 francs each; six small wine glasses at 18,000 francs each. The plates and champagne glasses each contain more than a thousand diamonds. The money wasted on this flummery would have been sufficient to have kept the Pacha in decent clothes all his life and to have supplied elegant uniforms and iron-clad vests to a regiment of his soldiers, had it been judi ciously expended at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut street, above Sixth, Philadelphia.

THE COMMON BELIEF THAT THE HAIR cannot be reproduced on bald heads is erroneous, and at variance with the known principles which govern its growth. Each hair is a hollow tube, through which there is a constant circulation maintained by the blood, which circulates in minute veins to th glands or vesicles which secrete the hair. By this circulation the hair is nourished and held fast, to glossy color given and prepared, and each hair covered with the finest oil. Anything which diverts or takes away the blood from the scalp, or impedes its free circulation to the glands or the roots of the hair, will stop its growth, cause it to turn gray, fall off, and leave the head baid. Continuous mental exertion, trouble, and various kinds of disease, thus produce baldness. or loss of hair. Knowing the cause, we can rationally attempt to counteract the evil by restoring the circulation of the blood through the scalp. This can be done by the application of a proper stimulant when the hair will spring forth and grow luxuriantly only one which has gained and maintained its repu tation through a long series of years, is Jayne's Hair Tonic. This article does stimulate the scalp, causes a free circulation of the blood through it, and does not injure the young hair as it springs through the scalp. Acting upon principles which can be under-thought, it recommends itself to every one requiring an article of the kind. By a faithful application it will stop the hair from falling out, or becoming gray, and in nearly every case reproduce new hair upon heads that have been bald for years. Prepared only by Dr. D.
