

LETTER FROM "OCCASIONAL."

WASHINGTON, May 5, 1863. You will perceive from the title of these lines, that I am a correspondent in reference to our relations with the foreign powers...

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1863. Special Despatches to "The Press."

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1863. Secretary Stanton, this morning, was heard to express his belief that all went well with our forces and that they would all be victorious.

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1863. Further Intelligence.

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1863. The battle on Monday. The storming and capture of Fredericksburg. The "Hero" of Ball's Bluff Prisoner.

NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK, May 6, 1863. The arrest of Vallandigham. A private fight in Maryland. The rain in 1863.

THE RAIN IN 1863.

At the Smithsonian Institute, in Washington, an accurate measurement of the rain that fell in this city during the four last months of 1862 and 1863.

Semi-weekly Review of the Philadelphia Markets.

There is a proclivity to business dullness in Philadelphia. The market is generally quiet. The wheat market is particularly dull.

In the month of last December we were compelled, along with our contemporaries to advance our rates of subscription...

The Army of the Potomac.

What we have to say in reference to the position of affairs on the Rappahannock is more particularly told in other columns of this journal. General Hooker has persuaded the rebels to leave their entrenchments, and is now engaged in giving them battle.

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1863. The number of prisoners taken yesterday was considerable. It would be difficult to find any one who was not surprised at the result.

The Disappointment of Fredericksburg.

The general opinion is that the result of the battle of Fredericksburg is a disappointment. The rebels have shown more than ordinary caution in their retreat.

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1863. The result was that the rebels were driven back to the Rappahannock. The army followed them for several miles.

The Capture of Fredericksburg.

The capture of Fredericksburg was a significant event. The city was taken after a three-day battle. The rebels were driven into the river.

Case of the Alexandria.

Among the items of European news which we published yesterday the following was noted: "The gambler Alexander was seized at Liverpool on suspicion of being interested for the rebels."

Department of Virginia.

A RECONSTRUCTION FROM SULLY—CHARGE ON THE REBELS. The rebels have been charged with various crimes against the Union.
