DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Capt. H. Segebarth, late Colonel of the 3d Peins sylvania Artillery, and now in command of the outter Fashion, arrived at this port on the 6th inst., and gives us the following information in regard to the department above named. The Captain made it his department above nameu. The Captain made it his special duty to see the department thoroughly. He received a proper pass for that purpose, and is there-fore enabled to give us all satisfactory information : The 18th Army Corps is the only corps stationed in that department, and is commanded by Major General J. G. Foster, who has at present his head-quarters at Newbern, N. C. General Foster is a man of about forty-five years of age, and over six feet in height, has a fine military appearance, and governs his department well. Captain Segebarth, who was in service there the last two years, states that it is impossible to find troops in any depart-ment under better discipline than those commanded by Major General Foster. The department has been recently divided into three districts—the District of Neuse, whereof the headquarters is at Newbern; District of Beaufort, headquarters at Beaufort; Distriet of Beaufort, neauquarters at Deaufort, Dis-triet of Pamlico, headquarters at Plymouth. The District of Beaufort is now under the temporary

District of Beaulori is now under the temporary command of Brigadier General Spinola, assisted by Captain Johnson, A. A. General on Brigadier Gene-ral Nagle's staff. Captain John J. Bowen, Post Q. M. on General Foster's staff, has charge of the post as Q. M., at Beanfort Harbor. Lieut. Colonel Robertson, of the 81st New York Regiment, is now acting District Provost Marshal at Beaufort. This department is placed in a complete state of defence, as numbers of fortifications have been erected around

Newbern, Moorchead City, Little Washington, and all other surrounding points. The railroad from Beaufort to Newbern is protected by a number of forts and rifle-pits. The engineering is done in a magnificent manner. As a general rule the inhabitants sympathize with

The Southern cause, making great complaints about the Southern cause, making great complaints about the President's proclamation in regard to freeing glaves. Numbers of them leave their homes yet, cross the lines in boats, etc., and enjoy rebeldom. Slaves have all left their owners, and are scattered about the different towns, where they live on fishing, and receive some rations from the Government. A number of citizens were ordered off from Beau-fort, for non-compliance with General Order No. 1, which reads as follows :

Nork, for non-compliance with General Order No. 1, which reads as follows: HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF BEAUFORT, April 27, 1363.
