A SCENE IN THE VICTORIA LEGISLATURE, AUSTRALIA—A strange scenc recently occurred in the Victoria Legislature. A member, Mr. L. L. Smith, a surgeon, moved that the Government should supplement the funds of local bodies for the purpose of the rejoicings in honor of the Prince of Wales' majority. The Government opposed the motion, and Mr. Wood, the Minister of Justice, said he believed that any motion of the kind coming from the honorable member would be degraded to the level of a quack advertisement. Mr. Smith got up to propose that the words used by the Minister of Justice be taken down, and asked what he meant by calling him "a quack and a courtesan." The laughter provoked from all sides of the House by this version of the minister's words realled the excited member to a better recollection of the case, and he "withdrew the word courtesan." The nember for South Bourke then went on at great length to defend his position as an advertising surgeon, and to declaim against the tricks of the other members of his profession to obtain trade. The secne and the discussion terminated for the time in the rejection of the motion. Immediately after the division, the House adjourned, the usual hour of refreshment having arrived. It seems that Mr. Smith, about an hour afterwards, went into the refreshment room, and, after some remarks, struck the Minister of Justice from behind. He then ran round the table. Mr. Wood sprang up to follow him, but was caught by the Ohlef Secretary, who afterwards summarily ejected Mr. Smith from the room, while the Attorney General called for a constable, intending to give the honorable member into custody for assault. Before the arrival of the officer, however, Mr. Smith entered the legislative chamber to shelter himself from arrest under "privilege." After some litie interval, and the Speaker not having resumed the chair, the officer entered the chamber, tasted to the honorable member to concein and give him in oustody. The first delivery to be made about the 15th of Septemer, 1868, or as soon thereafter as Government may diect. gold-fields of Victoria no cause list would now look complete without a few Chinces names in it. Their powers of giving evidence are as amazing as is their fastidiousness as to the fashion in which they are sworn. Some of them in the witness box blow out a lucifer match; some burn a strip of yellow paper with Chincese characters inscribed thereon; and one once, in my hearing, at Ballarat, refused to be sworn at all but upon the ceremony of chopping off the head of a cock at one blow. In vain was the witness tempted with lucifer, wax candle, china saucer, and every other article at once handy and deemed likely to bear on the Chinese conscience. He was inexorable, and as his evidence was important, and poultry was at that time scarce in the township, the court, jury, and practitioners were kept waiting while messengers sooured right and left in search of the necessary victim. On the cock being brought into court, emitting a cluck of terror whenever he could disengage his beak from the hand of the roguish or nervous Irish policeman, even judicial gravity was sorely tried, and yet this was not all. A second commission became necessary to go in quest of a chopper, common pocketknives being of no use, as "the one blow" was carefully explained by the interpreter as being so indispensable that cock after cock must be offered up if there were any failure in this particular. The chopper was at last procured, the cock satisfactorily beheaded, and the Chinaman's conscience satisfied, whereupon, so exhausted was the witness's virtue by its preliminary effort, that he burst at once into a paroxyem of perjury, which satisfied all that he was not nearly so particular in the substanse of his evidence as he had been in the form of his oath.—

M. from Walnut-street SCOUTING AMONG THE INDIANS.-From the In-109,008 68 dian expedition, Shayenne river, Dacotah, the correspondent of the Springfield Journal writes, at date of July 11:

There are many, doubtless, who imagine that the thrilling tales of the experiences and adventures of scouts, as related in books of romance and in newspaper columns, have no counterpart in actual life at the present time. But such an idea is far from the truth. From the narratives almost daily of the scouts connected with this expedition, I could weave many a story of reality that would be quite as exciting as some of the fictitious monstrosities that are sponized into the weekly literary journals. Probably no scout organization for Indian warfare was ever more complete than that now employed in the Sioux war by General Sibley. The force numbers seventy, one half of whom are whites, and the other half Indians and half-breeds. If an Eastern man wanted to see a motley company of the oldest traders, most experienced hunters, and most cunning and daring Indians in the Northwest, he could find them nowhere so well as in this very camp of scouts. They are men who never speak of danger, and who look upon a horseback ride of one hundred miles on the prairies as a mere commonplace trip. Major Joseph Brown, the most noted Indian trader in all this region of country, and a well-known politician, editor, and adventurer in the Northwest, is in command of the force, and most skilfully he conducts the operations. There are two companies of scouts, which are on duty on alternate days and nights. One of them is commanded by a man whose entire family was massacred by the Sioux Indians last iall, and the man who begged the privilege, which was granted, of outling the rope at the execution of the thirty-eight Indian territory. Some of them have been captured at Officerent times by our troops, and some are of the friendly or farmer Indians. Scouting is no child's play with them, as they are sure of a terrible death if captured by the hostile Sioux. Two of them are men who helped Mr. Riggs and the families of the Midan dian expedition, Shayenne river, Dacotah, the cor-respondent of the Springfield Journal writes, at date For Holmesburg, Tacony, Wissonoming, Bridesburg, and Frankfort, at 9 A.M., 2, 5, 5, 45, and E P. POLITICAL ASSASSIMATION IN POLAND.—A letter from Lemberg states that on the night of the 5th of July the police of Warsaw arreated three persons, named Heline, Stefanowski, and Zawistowski, armed with daggers. On Heine was likewise found a decree of the chief of the Polish gendarmerie commanding the assassination of the police agent Fryez. It appeared on investigation that these men belonged to the Polish corps of gendarmerie charged with political executions. In consequence of the declaration of the prisoners, the police arrested an operative coppersmith named Nowicki. The four confessed that they accepted the charge of political executions, and that Heine and Zawistowski had been sworn in the church of the Holy Trinity, and Stefanowski and Nowicki at the house of the chief of the Polish gendarmerie. Heine and Zawistowski each received daggers from the hands of Nowicki at the house of Stefanowski. Nowicki had at the same time read for them the decree condemning Fryez to death. The following day the four assembled in the Walewka-street, whore they were watching their victim until ten at night, when they were arrested. Nowicki declared that he had received his orders and the three daggers from the chief of the Polish gendarmerie. In consequence of the declarations of the four prisoners, it was discovered that the chief of the Polish gendarmerie is a student of the Warsaw University, named Theodore Stefingreber, who has field. The four prisoners were tried by court martial for having belonged to a revolutionery society charged with political executions, and for having accepted the mission of assassinating the police agent Fryez, a mission which they did not accomplish, in consequence of circumstances independent of their will. They were hanged on the glacies on the 25th ult.

Poultner Basilicata, we hear of a band attacking the village of Lanciano, burning, assassinating, and violating the women. Near Marsico, in the same province, the body of a woman was discovered in a state of corruption, supposed to be that of a poor girl carried off a month since; but before the judicial authorities, under a strong escort, had arrived, the brigands had burnt it. In the province of Beneventum the band of Caruso, consisting of seventy or eighty armed men, seems to be master of everything. In three successive days they seized seven persons, and, not receiving the ransom demanded, murdered them all. It is consolatory, however, to state that Colonel Funel has been responded to his command in Calabria, and that General Franzini has been sent to Beneventum. As a consequence of this, the band of Caruso, after having been attacked nine times, has been defeated, with the loss of thirty killed and wounded. The remainder took refuge in a wood, from which they will reappear probably in a short time reinforced with the recruits of the Santa Fede. The bands which infeat the provinces are not by any means all political, but are made up of the scum of the country people and poorly-paid and hard-worked laborers, who, finding plunder and assassination better speculation than work, start on their own account. readiness, and awaited the approach. But instead of one direction, their pursuers seemed to be coming in from every side, and to be constantly increasing. Fearing lest they should be overpowered by numbers, four took to flight again, and then there was a long and sharp chase of miles through the darkness. But the pursuers gained, and the four dismounted again and waited for the worst. The party soon came up, and fortunately there was a recognition before shots were exchanged. The men of both companies were scouts, and had thus been mancuring for Indian warfare. Such meetings are not infrequent. s a spacious lee Gream and assessment to the house. Terms moderate.

The duties of this Academy will be resumed on THURS-DAY. September 3d. The following gentlemen compose the Board of Trutees: ARMY CLOTHING AND EQUIPAGE vring for Indian warfare. Such meetings are not infrequent.

The scouts have found quite a number of bodies of persons who were massacred last fall. A few days since they found a body with a purse of gold upon it. They have all sorts of experiences, doding about in Indian style, leaving fictitious and decitful signs, meeting herds of buffalo and elk, and hunting for forage and water. They bring in all sorts of trophics. One night they discovered an old Indian pack ox, that looks some as I imagine the infernal bovines ought to, and yesterday a nest of young eagles, a pemican and wolf were brought in. Their life is a hard one, but they enjoy it. It is a rich treat to hear their stories of experience and adventure while engaged as fur traders and hunters on the prairies. One of the Indian socuts, Arboine by name, has offered to carry the mail to and from the expedition throughout the campaign, whether it be one hundred or three hundred miles, and however dangerous the venture. He wants the privilege of killing one horse to every trip, and good pay for his labor, which he will be sure to get. He cannot be induced to speak of any danger. It is to his pluck that I am indebted for this opportunity to send a letter. He is an old Red-river Indian, and came into camp in a genuine Pembina cart a few days since.

A STORY ADOUT THE CZAR.—A Berlin paper relates another one of those curious incidents which occurred to a personage of much higher importance than even the Ambassador of a great Queen. The present Emperor of Russia, during the last year, was traveling in the interior of his Empire, when he arrived at a little village almost exclusively inhabited by Jews, who received him with great respect. An old man, with a white beard reaching nearly to his waist, and wearing a military decoration, struck the Emperor's attention. The Czar inquired the name of the man, and found that he was an old soldier named Elblatt, who was considered among I his people as almost a saint. He never touched animal food, and for fifty years had eaten nothing but the man and found that he was an old soldier named Elblatt, who was considered among I his people as almost a saint. How Gen. Grant Cares for His Soldiers.

Gen. Grant, says the Cleveland Herald, has issued a special order forbidding steamboat men to charge more than five dollars to enlisted men, and seven dollars to officers, as fare between Vickaburg and Cairo. Immediately after Vickaburg had fallen s large number of steamboats cleared from Northern ports for that place, and were in the habit of charging soldiers going home on furlough from fifteen to thirty dollars fare to Cairo. A friend relates to us that the steamer Hope was compelled by General Grant to disgorge its Ill gotten gains the other day, under the following circumatances: This boat had about one thousand enlisted soldiers, and nearly two hundred and fifty officers aboard, en route for home on short leave of absence, after the fatigues of their protracted but glorious campaign. The captain of the Hope had charged these men and officers from ten to twenty-five dollars apiece, as fare to Cairo. Just as the boat was about to push off from the wharf at Vicksburg, an order came from Gen. Grant requiring the captain to pay back to his passengers all money received by him as fare in excess of five dollars to enlisted men, and seven dollars to officers, or submit to imprisonment for disobedience and have his boat confiscated. The order was an astonisher to the captain, but the presence of a guard rendered it useless to refuse, and so, amid the shouts of the soldiers over Cen. Grant's care of their interests, he complied with as good grace as possible, and paid back the money. Our informant, himself a passenger on the Hope, was present when Gen. C. issued the order above referred to. The General, upon being informed of the impositions being practiced upon furloughed men and officers, by steamboat men, was very indignant. "I will teach them, if they need the lesson," said the gallant General, "that the men who have perilled their lives to open the Mississippi river for and Girls, SPRING GARDEN INSTITUTE, reopens 9th month (September), 1.

"The Spirit of Evil has no power over me," said the old man. "I have been often at the very points of the battle-field on which the bullets rained, and no hair of my head has ever been touched."

The Emperor smiled, and said, "They tell me that you can look into futurity. Shall I reign a long time? Will I be fortunate?"

"You will not reign as long as your father; but you will die happier than he did. Your father was always happy until a great blow broke his heart. You will have much trouble in your life, but your end will not be so full of sorrow."

The Emperor grew serious, and said, "Explain yourself more clearly."

"Before the end of one year," continued the soothasyes, "your Empire will be as a sea of fire, and you will struggle in vain to extinguish it. Three Powers will make war against you,"

After remaining for some time absorbed in reflection, the Emperor added, "If you speak truly, give me a proof of the reality of your predictions."

"Man has no right to put God to a test; but that you may know the truth of my words, listen. In one hour a messenger will come to you in haste to announce that an attempt has been made to assassinate one of the most zealous of your servants, but that the fatal blow has been happ ly turned aside. Do not put any laith in this tale; it is only invented to excite you against your subjects."

The Czar dirmissed the old man. It was then II o'clock in the morning. At 12 precisely a measenger arrived, bringing the news of the attempt against the life of the Marquis Welopolski.

"How am I to know the truth of this?" cried the Emperor. "Let the old Jew be brought to me again."

He commanded in vain. During the hour which had just passed the man had been struck with apoplexy, and the messenger of the Czar found only his dead body. plexy, and the messenger of the Czar found only his dead body.

THE FRENCH PAINTER MARCEL has been working at his great picture, "The Passage of the Red Sea," for six or seven years; but the Committee on Exhibition regularly refused it. So often had it visited the Louvre that it could almost be trusted to find its way alone: "One year, Pharaoh being metamorphosed into Cæsar, it appeared as "The Passage of the Rubicon." Another, turning his Egyptians into grenadiers of the Imperial Guard, the artist called it 'The Passage of the Beresina.' But the authorities refused it still, jealous, doubtless, of the rising painter; and the desperate Marcel declared he would alter it again and call it 'The Passage of the Panoramas,' one of the gay streets of Napoleonic Paris; but at last 'The Passage of the Red Sea' was purchased by a Jew for 150 francs, and, a few days after, Marcel recognized his great pleture surrounded by an admiring crowd. A steamboat had been painted in; it was called 'The Port of Marseilles,' and was officiating as a sign! 'But what of that!' says Marcel; the public are delighted with it; and he goes home triumphantly ejaculating, 'Vox Populi vox Det!''

Gross Ionorance.—In a trivial case tried a few days ago, at the Clonmel (Ireland) Quarter Sessions, a lad named Brien, about eleven years old, was called as a witness. In reply to the magistrate he admitted that he did not know the nature of an oath or the consequences of taking a false one. The following dialogue then took place between him and the chairman: Mr. Cox: If you take a false oath, where would you go if you died? Boy: To the grave, sir. [Laughter.] Mr. Cox: Do you know any place of punishment for people after death? Boy: Heaven, sir. [Great laughter.] Mr. Cox: Any other place? Boy: Purgatory, sir. Mr. Cox: Mere do bad people go when they die! Boy: To purgatory, sir. [Renewed laughter.] The chairman said it was anything but a laughing matter to see a boy of his years professing such ignorance. The bench could not examine him as a witness in the case.

A Dog Case.—A touching story all about a dog is related in the English papers. A lady named Hicks was recently summoned to appear before a London magistrate to answer a complaint preferred by one Bishop, on a charge of causing his dog to be "crucily destroyed." A Doc Case.—A touching story all about a dog is related in the English papers. A lady named Hicks was recently summoned to appear before a London megistrate to answer a complaint preferred by one Bishop, on a charge of causing his dog to be "crucily destroyed." It appeared that Bishop had left the dog in a cab, with special directions to the cabman to watch it; but "Cabby" being thirsty, went into a neighboring pothouse to "moisten his colary," and during his absence the destroy it; but the dog lived through a hanging, and could only be despatched at last by a knock on the head. Mr. Bishop dediared that this was "the most terrible blow ever inflicted upon him and his family." In the court the following lunny scene occurred:

Mr. Corrie (the megistrate.) Possibly the lady may have been mistaken; but you cannot show any incentional "crucity."

Mr. Bishop (greatly excited.) Was it not crucity to me—to my niesce—to my family! Love me, love my dog. It has broken up our peace and happiness at home. We would not have parted with the dog for half a million of money. Is a woman to go unpunished for such a crime sa this—for deliberate ly killing an innocent, beautiful, harmless dog, mercily because he was "panting" a little?

Mr. Corrie. I am very sorry it has happened; but crucity to the animal must be shown; not to the owner. The act does not deal with the lacerated feelings of individuals.

Mr. Bishop, Feelings! This dog was my life—my wife's life, and my niece's life. I would sooner have lost every gun in my shop.
