THE LIFE OF VICTOR HUGO.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE. A Contrast-Methodism, Then and Now. The editor of a New York cotemporary—the Christian Chronicle—has attended a Methodist church—the elegant edifice of that denomination located on the corner of Fourth avenue and Twenty-second street—and, in the current number of his parer entertains his readers with his impressions. He speaks, professedly from observation, of the marked contrast between Methodism as it is now exemplified in fashionable churches, and as he witnested it in barns, and groves, and private houses, fifty years ago. The picture drawn repreeents this now numerous and influential denomination as having exchanged the simplicity and deep spirituality of its early history for that worldliness of other seets, against which it was originally arrayed; for having exchanged its rude, obscure places of worship for Archepiscopal palaces, with broad galleries, lofty, frescoed cellings, extended aisles, rich carpetings, and pushioned pews; hard floors to kneel upon for footstools soft as down; their plain Quaker like dress for such gorgeousness and extravagance as, in Was-ley's day, would have consigned its wearer to the lake of fire, and for having substituted for their soul-stirring vocal melodies of fifty years ago the fanrequest upon this improved temporal condition of the Methodist body, and quotes the prophetic remark of a plain, hard-working class-leader, nearly half a century ago, to the effect that the "Methodists would fall away like other denominations, and when they did that their peculiar power would pass to other hands, leaving them great in nothing except exterior show."

However applicable these comments may be to the dist church elsewhere, they are too sweeping for the latitude of Philadelphia, where the fervo and zeal of Methodism, under the lead and direction of herefficient, devoted, and self-sacrificing clergy, are, so far as we are enabled to judge, preserved in all the vitality and vigor of youth. It is, moreover manifestly unfair to estimate the tendencies of a religious body, by any symptoms it may exhibit in the eity of New York, where deterioration in every-thing that is spiritual is just as natural as for-"aparks to fly upwards," where the augel Gabrial could scarcely be expected to "keep himself unspotted from the world," were he to condescend to become a resident of that "Metropolis." The following, from the London Standard, would indicate that the same deteriorating tendencies, however, are apparent in the chief city of Eogland:

"Supposing the statistics of the late Conference be correct, the facts of the case are by no means cheering. Methodism, in all that appertains to agency, has of late, years been much improved, and, speaking of the manner after men, we have a right to expect corresponding results. The inference we draw from the whole is this, that the work of God is row rapidly advancing.

"We ought, perhaps, to remark on some of the figures: take, then, for example, the metropolis. London comprises a total increase of three hundred and thirty four; now, dividing this sum by the number of London societies, it will be found that the quotient is very small—little more than nominal. It is further to be remembered that the strength and flower of the Methodist ministry is in the metropolis, so that the utmost justice has been done to the administration of the Word; and yet such are the facts. indicate that the same deteriorating tendencies. faots.

"Mr. Spurgeon alone has added much more to his church, although they have had to pass through the flood to get into it. A number of Independent churches have added a third of the above total, and churches have added a third of the above total, and atme considerably more.

"Look, again, at Bristol, immemorially one of the strongholds of Methodism, and there we find the additions only 654, but nearly double those of the metropolis. Liverpool, Manchester, and Nottingham, we think present a more satisfactory aspect; but, on the whole, there is much reason for humiliation and prayer, and redoubled energy throughout the whole domain of Methodism, as well as every other section of the Church of Christ," The Methodist of this date quotes largely from the "Statistics of Methodism in Great Britain, as given the report to the late Wesleyan Confe from which we perceive that their increase in memhership for the year 1862-3 is 4,448, though eleven districts reported a decrease of 1,626 members in this period. The largest accession was reported for Cornwall, while Leeds, Hull, and Wales showed ome diminution. The entire membership reported of Conference is $29,704, an increase of 48,441 since he year 1862. Still, the fact that the number of nembers in connection with the same Conference was in 1849 upwards of 350,000, shows that even numerically, the Wesleyan body in Great Britain has suffered a decline of over 20,000 in the last fourteen years. The Mthodist, in commenting upon these statistics, says: "The growth of Methodism does not keep pace with the growth of population in the great centres of activity, and the ratio of the present growth of Methodism, both in the Old World and in the New, is a subject which may well occupy its best minds and hearts."

On August 1051, 1052, 1051, 1052, and passed by welliam L. Hirst, Esq., and passed by a vote of 4 to 3.

We may add to all this, without injustice, that the legitimate field in which primitive and unadulterated Methodism always has, and probably always will flourish best, is in its pioneering capacity, in breaking up the fallow ground and leading the way for more ostentatious denominations to follow.

REOPENING OF THE CHURCHES.—Last Sunday, being the first Sunday in September, witnessed quite a resurrection among the churches of our city. The interval of rest, which a large number of our congregations have of late years adopted during July and August, by general consent runs which took place on Sunday last between pastors and people, and between long-separated members of the same churchea, were numerous and pleasing, the indications being that the relaxation of the past wreks will be more than compensated by the increased zeal and energy accumulated by the accuse of the bappy change which the past two months have wrought in the situation and prospects of our country. The cheering success of our armies, by the way, was made a general subject of thanksgiving to God, and in many cases the theme of able and patriotic discourses. The few churches that were not ready to resume their adoustomed routine of fervices on last Sunday, are, with but one or two exceptions, expected to do so to-morrow.

North Pennsylvania R. R. Co.

The following communication, from the Board of Directors of the North Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was presented to select Council at their meeting on Thursday last:

Office North Pennsylvania Railroad Co., Philadelphia, Sept. 7, 1883.

To James Lynd, Esq., President of Select Council on July 30, 1863, together with the copy of the report of the Special Committee of Council, and copy of "An ordinance to increase the value and make productive the investment of the city in the stock of the North Pennsylvania Railroad Company," has been received, and, in compliance with said resolution, the following statement is presented:

The act incorporating the Lehigh and Delaware Water Gap Railroad Company was approved "May 4, 1887. (See P. L., 1858, page 562.)

On December 1st, 1859, the North Pennsylvania Railroad Company leased to that company their Shimersville branch, for a term of twenty years, at a nominal rent of one dollar per annum, conditional on the Lehigh and Delaware Water Gap Railroad Company constructing their road; and building a bridge across the Lehigh river, and making a connection with the branch before the first day of December, 1862. That company having failed to build their road and bridge, as stipulated, the said lease became void.

Under date of December 9th, 1862, A. H. Reeder, Erac president of Lehigh and Delaware Water Gap Railroad Company having failed to build their road and bridge, as stipulated, the said lease became void.

A. H. Reeder, Esq., President Lehigh and Delaware W.
G. Railroad Company.
Dear Sir: I am asked by our directors and others interested in our road what I know of the actual condition of the Lehigh and Delaware Water Cap Railroad Company.

1st. The names of the directors and other officers.
2d. The amount of stock subscribed and the amount paid in.

3d. The amount of debts outstanding and their nature. MUSTERED OUT. — Colonel Small's regiment and Colonel McLean's regiment have been mustered out of service. The men were about in squads yesterday. Several fights occurred between some of them in the vicinity of the State House. Arrests were made, but the parties were let off with a reprimant. ad. The amount of debts outstanding and their nature.

4th. The amount of work done.

5th. The condition of the right-of-way account, whether any settlements made or agreed upon.

5th. As to any existing contrasts.

I would like to be able to give satisfactory answers on the above points, and if there is no objection on your part to furnish the information, I would be glad to have it. Yours, with respect,

Which letter Mr. Reeder orally acknowledged the receipt of, but declined answering the questions.

On June 16th, 1663, the following resolution was passed: Told by a witness (Madame-Hugo.) This magnificent work, which has just appeared in Paris, and a translation of which is now offered to the American public, is one of the most delightful of all Biographies, and one which every reader of "Les Misersbles" will devour with avidity; indeed, the Great Romanes itself is a part of the life of Victor Bugo, and cannot be fully understood without this—its completion. One handsome octavo, cloth bound. Price $1.25. COTTON TO BE SOLD.—Over fifty bales of cotton brought to this port by the bark "Petrie" and steamer "Bermuda," will be sold by auction at the foot of Queen street, about 12 o'clock to-day, LEGAL INTELLIGENCE. United States District Court—Judge Cadwalader.

The court was engaged yesterday with habeas corpus cases of drafted men whose claims for exemption have been disallowed by the board of enrolment in their respective districts. These cases have multiplied greatly lately, and bid fair to occupy much the greater portion of the time of the court. They present the same general features as those already reported, and hardly merit the time spent on them. On June 18th, 1863, the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That the Board will consent to lease the Branch Road from the junction to Shimersville, in the condition it was in at the time the former lease was executed. Provided, that this consent shall have no effect whatever until the road from Shimersville to Easton, with bridge, shall be graded, ironed, and ready for running. And that the whole subject be referred to the Road Committee to prepare a lease, and submit it to the Board, with such modifications as they may deem proper.

The Committee have not yet reported on the subject. A new and intensely interesting novel by the author of "Rutledge" and "The Sutherlands." *** A fiction of enthralling interest, and one that will be eagerly devoured by every modern novel reader. The sale of this superb work is rapidly increasing; nearly 7,000 copies are already swept off. and the demand is unceasing. Cloth bound; price $1.60. Court of Oyer and Terminer and Quarter Sessions—Judge Ludlow. The court was engaged yesterday with the ordi-nary business of the term, and the cases tried are of ject.
On August 18th, 1863, the following resolutions were offered by William L. Hirst, Esq., and passed THE POLICE. (Before Mr. Alderman Beitler. 1 The Alleged Coal Thieves Frederick Buckhalter, Sr., Frederick Buckhalter, Jr. avid Kahler, Peter Everhart, and Adam Greip, wer David Kahler, Peter Everhart, and Adam Greip, were arraigned at the Central Station, yesterday afternoon, on the charge of being implicated in stealing coal, the property of the Reading Railroad Company. These parties were taken into custody by Massrs. Taggert and Levy, of the Detective force. The main points of the evidence are, that the your Bible half of the evidence are, that the your Bible half of the saway at used that in the your blood of the staking away atolon coal. Everhart was the driver of said horse and eart on last Monday morning, when the wolesale streets were made. The evidence sgainst the older Buckhalter sat forth that he has at leest six tons of coal in his cellar, which it officers siliered was stolen. There was no evidence adduced against Greip. The two last named were held to bail to await a hearing, and the other three were bound over to an were at court. ound over to an wer at court.

Disorderly Houses. Disorderly Houses.

Margaret Turner, Strah Ann Melntosh, and Margaret McCloskey were arraigned on the charge of keeping disorderly houses in Bucks court, in the neighborhood of Ninth and Catharine streets. Of the neighbors, Mrs. Eliza Mitchell, Wm Bobents, Mr. McStocker, Wm. Mitchell, and Bernard McGirr were examined as witnesses. The evidence wast that on Friday morning there was continual fighting in and about these houses; much profane language was used, and the moral feelings of the respectable people shocked. The defendants were required to enter bail in the sum of $500 each to answer. were required to enter bail in the sum of $500 each to answer.

A Know-nothing Witness.

A young man was arraigned at the Central Station yesterday afternoon on the charge of larceny. The suit was instituted by Patrick Geary, who certainly proved himself to be as excellent a know-nothing witness as we have he and of for some time past. His testimony, briefly stated, was that the defendant and two other young men stopped at the house of complainant, and took supper and some other refreshmen s and paid two dollars. Defendant was represented as a substitute; he went into the yard and stand there some time, and then came in again and the steal?" sked the alderman.

"What did he steal?" sked the alderman.

"What did he steal?" sked the forman in plated watch and some other things."

"Well sir, the watch was worth from ten to fufteen dollars." when deach the watch among the same transcriptions of the steal o vania, and Central New Jersey Roads, it is questionable whether the city of Philadelphia would be benefited thereby.

But should the object be merely to secure a connection with Philadelphia, via the North Pennsylvania Railroad, the proposed connection via Shimersville does not possess the advantages that a connection at Bethlehem presents. The little difference in distance would be much more than overcome by the many other advantages over the Shimersville route.

The present existing arrangements between the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company and the North Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the North Pennsylvania Railroad Company are, in the main, of a harmonious character, and anything likely to disturb them should be well considered before being entered into. The North Pennsylvania Railroad Company's share of the joint freight business, in the year 1662, amounted to $156,830, being over. 60 per cent. of entire freight earnings of the company. And 20,915 passengers were carried, in connection with that road, of which 8,004 were between Easton and Philadelphia. The opening of the Penn Haven and White Haven Railroad (now nearly completed) will add largely to the joint business of the two companies; the cars of the North Pennsylvania Railroad Company will then be run through from Philadelphia to Wilkeebarre, in Wyoming Valley, over fifty miles shorter distance than either of the other routes.

The earnings of the company for the fiscal year "I don't know, sir; I guess a hundred and faity dollars"
"What do the articles consist of?"
"I can't tell, exactly; there was some money, and there was some jewelry, locked up in the bureau-drayer, that had not been opened for more nor a year before sir."
"Where is the bureau?"
"The second story."
"You was ware he watch westaken?" "Where is the bureau;
'In the second story."
"You are sure the watch was taken?"
"Yes, str."
'Anything else?"
"That is more nor I can tell; two bureaus, two trunks, and a closet, were broken open, and the things were taken."
"What things?"
"Well, that's more nor I can tell."
"Was there any jeweiry taken?"
"Yes, sir." Yes, Str.

'Yes, Str.

'What kind?'

'That is more nor I can tell.'

'Did you see the young man go up stairs?''

'No, Sir.'

Where was he?'' "No, sir."
"Where was he?"
"Down stairs."
"Was there anybody else there?"
"I don't know."
"What makes you think he stole the things?"
"Well, I blame him or his parthy."
Mrs. Geary testified to the fact that her trunks and burseus were broken open and about $15 in money tolen; did not see the young man go up stairs.
The defendant was promptly discharged. The above is a fair specimen of a great deal of evidence which magistrates are often compelled to listen to. ifity miles shorter distance than either of the other routes.

The earnings of the company for the fiscal year ending November 30th, 1862, were $397,186.26, and for the first eight months of the present fiscal year $315,767.26, against $245,184.24 for the same time last year, being an increase of $70,683.02.

The title of the ordinance referred to purports that the object is to increase the value and make productive the investments of the city in the stock of the North Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

If that be the only object in view, while an additional connection with Easton may be desirable, the project does not appear to possess sufficient merit to recommend itself to a favorable consideration, as it is not likely that the road, it built as proposed, would pay working expenses and interest on its cost. [Before Mr. Alderman Comly.]

The Frankford Shooting Case.
Alonzo Doran was arraigned on Thursday night at the rankford station on the charge of committing an asult and battery on Thomas Dickson, with intent to kill.
he defendant was committed to await the result of the juries received by Mr. Dickson. Hopes are entertained or the recovery of the wounded man. [Before Mr. Alderman Gibson.] Attempt to Shoot.

Roger McGowan is the name of a person arraigned at Manayunk yesterday, on the charge of attempting to shoot Patrick Nulty on Monday night last. It is said the defendant fired one shot from a navy revolver at the complainant, but missed his aim. An old feud, it is said, exists between the parties. tion, as it is not likely that the road, it built as proposed, would pay working expenses and interest on its cost.

The North Pennsylvania Railroad Company is now clear of floating debt, and the earnings show a regular yearly increase. So far, the present year, the increase has been near thirty per cent. over the corresponding time last year; and, from present indications, the net earnings of the year will be some $40,000 over all expenses and interest, a sum sufficient to provide the additional rolling-stock necessary for the accommodation of the anticipated increase of business during the coming year.

Respectfully submitted,

By order of the Board of Directors,

F. A. COMLY, President.
