street, above Shippen; Young, in the Twenty-third ward; Neabit, at Twenty-first and Callowhill; Peterson, at Twenty-first and Wine, and Siddons, at Pennypack creek. The remainder, it is alleged, lived in the Ninth and Fifteenth wards. The evidence did not show any conspiracy on the part of these defendants, some of them being strangers to each other. The alderman said he thought it was a case that ought to go to a higher tribunal, and would therefore hold the parties to bail, in the sum of $1,000 each, to answer at court. order revoking all military edicts that in any wise direct the enliatment into the army of slaves in Maryland. It was found to be working incalculable mischief, and alienating most of the people from the Government and the State, for it was an entering wedge to the destruction of other rights and privileges dependent more or less on the tenure of the slave. If those who still clamor for radical measures for immediately destroying slavery in these border States, would only go into the heart of Maryland, and see how utterly dead that institution has become, as compared with two chort years ago, it would seem to be reasonable to te well enough alone. We, the undersigned, ministers of the churches in Scotland, in reply to the appeal made to us in the "Address to Christians throughout the World," recently put forth "by the Clergy of the Confederate States of America," feel bound to give public expression to our views, lest our continued silence whould be misconstrued, as implying either acquisescence in the principles of the document, or indifference to the crime which it seeks to defend. We referr, of course, to a single tople, that of slavery, as it is handled in the address. We desire to say nothing inconsistent with our country's attitude of strict neutrality as regards the war raging across the Atlantic. We do not discuss any of the political questions connected with its origin, progress, and probable issues. We offer no opinion on the measures adopted on either side. Nor are we to be regarded as shutting our eyes to the past and present sins and shortcomings of the North in relation to the African race. The one object we have in view is to express the deep grief, alarm, and indignation with which we have perused the pleading on behalf of slavery in general, and American slavery in particular, to which so many servants of the Lord Jesus Christ have not scrupied to append their names.

Passing a Counterfeit Mote.

A young man named John C. Rose, of Lockwood, New York, was arraigned yesterday afternoon, before the alderman, on the charge of passing a counterfeit five-dollar note on the Oswegatchie Bank, State of New York. The charge was made by one Conrad Coffin, a tavern keeper, residing at No. 22 south Fourth street, who said that Rose offered the note in payment of drinks and segars, which he had purchased there. He examined the note, and finding it a counterfeit, immediately procured a policeman and had him arrested. Rose, on being questioned as to how he obtained the note, said that it was given to him in part change of a tendollar bill, by a person whom he had a slight acquaintance with, and who was going to New York. In reply to the business he carried on, he said that he was a Government detective officer, and was empowered to arrest persons passing counterfeit money, deserters, and all who opposed the laws of the Government. The alderman then asked him how it was, if he had the power to arrest those passing to himself. He replied that he could only detect counterfeit money, that he was arrested for passing it himself. He replied that he could only detect counterfeit treasury notes, and he was unacquainted with those issued by the banks. On being saked to show his authority for presuming to be a Government detective, he produced the following written document, which he said he received in New York about a month ago:

"To all whom it may concern: The bearer of this, John C. Rose, is hereby authorized to perform the duties of addrective officer as assistant detective within the Federal lines, all partles engaged in any business contrary to the laws of the Government.

"Special Agent of the War Department."

The excuse he gave for the commission being in writing, was that tol. Sherman had no blanks to fill on hand at the time, but said that the letter would answer the purpose just as well.

They hold it to be their peculiar function to defend and perpatuate it. And they evidently contemplate the formation of the Southern Confederacy upon the basis of slavery as one of its fundamental and permanent principles or elements, not only without regret, but with entire satisfaction and approval.

Against all this—in the name of that holy faith and that thrice holy name which they vehture to invoke on the side of a system which treats immortal and redeemed men as goods and chattels, denice them the rights of marriage and of home, consigns them to ignorance of the first rudiments of education, and exposes them to the outrages of lust and pasation—we most expressity and emphatically protest. We do not think it needful to argue. The time for argument has, for many a year, been regarded by the whole of enlightened Ohristendom as passed and gone. Apologists for slavery, attempting to shelter themselves and it under the authority of God's Word and the Gospel of Jesus Christ, are to be denounced as really, whatever may be their intention, the worst enemies of both.

Alk reasonable allowance, no doubt, should be made for the circumstances of Christian ministers called in Providence to labor where slavery exists. Some corenes, even, on their part, under what they regard as unjustifiable and dangerous movements on the other sice, might be excused as not unnatural, And if we saw them manfully fitting their volces on behalf of universal liberty, and setting themselves to aim at the instant redress of the more flagrant of the world, in the shadon the lope that, upon reconsideration, and in the view of the s and thirty cents for each one hundred dollars of pre-sent liabilities, which is much more than any of the YOUNG BEN AND BOYS, corner of EIGHTH and BUTTONWOOIStreets. This excited suspicion, and so he had him arrested on suspicion of stealing the amount named. Jacob Funk, an employee in a flour mill in that town, testified that Finnegan had purchased flour at the place, and gave him a $10 treasury note in payment, which was one of the notes alleged to belong to Carmany. Bixlly, a clerk in a snoe store in Boston, was arrested at the Continental, on Thursday night, as a fugitive from justice, from Boston, Massachusetts. He stands charged with conveying to his own use $65,000 worth of various stocks, the property of one or two brokers in Boston. This transaction was a very sharp one. Briefly told, it may be related as follows: Sharper number one has for his confederate Sharper number two. They both begin to speculate in stocks; have sundry conversations with each other within the hearing of some broker, whom they desire to victimize. Sharper number one has a talk with a broker about stocks, and finally, purchases $6,000 worth, this amount being furnished, per check, by the confederate. In a little while the same game is practised to the extent of $10,000, and even more. The dabbler in stocks, of course, excites general attention. Inquiry is made of him. Confederate number two gives him a first-rate character; he is going into business on the first of January, cash capital $100,000; good may, splendid fellow, &c., &c. Confidence is, of course, reposed in him; this gained, his way is clear. [Before Mr. Alderman Welding.]

The Biter Bitten.

A young man giving the name of William Quandrell, Jr., and claiming to be a Government detective, was arraigned yesterday on the charge of committing an assault and battery on John Supplee, an officer of the Sixth ward. It seems that on Thursday evening, after Mr. Supplee had been relieved from active official duty, he started to go home. On his way he stopped in at Davis Saloon, on Race street. He saw Quandrell taking liberties with a female attendant there. Mr. Supplee laughed. Quandrell springing at him, seized him by the collar, and said, Wno are you laughing at? I'll arrest you. He made the arrest and took Mr. Supplee to the station house of the Sixth ward. At this place he found out that his prisoner was one of the regular police. He said he had no charge to make against him. Quandrell was arrested yesterday, on the cath of Officer Supplee, charging him with having committed an assault and battery. The defendant was required to enter bail in the sum of $800 to answer at court. CENTRAL INSTITUTE, N. W. WOOJ, and merine Endurantis and unavers, traversass shirts, &c.

The present week has been no exception to the general rule, that the week before election has but one element of court business; that is, the naturalization of foreigners. The Supreme Court at Nisi Prius was occupied in this manner yesterday morning. The United States Circuit Court was engaged with the patent case, before reported, without concluding it. In the Court of Quarter Sessions nothing special occurred. A conviction was had in the case of a man, who was charged, with his wife, with the lardeny of $68 from a soldier. It appeared from the evidence, that the soldier had been invited into the defendants' house, and while there the money was taken from him. The defendant and his wife were seen by some of the neighbors in the act of rifling the soldier's pocket while he slept. Judge Thompson instructed the jury, that if they believed from the evidence that the robbery was committed by the husband and wife jointly, the wife must be presumed to be acting under the coercion of her husband, and should be acquitted. The jury so rendered their verdict, convicting the husband and acquitting the wife. Resolved. That the development of events during the progress of this rebellion has confirmed all our previous convictions, that it has its mainspring and origin in the necessities and demands of the slave power that has, for so many years, controlled the affairs of the nation.

Resolved, That we are still further convinced that the providence of God is teaching us that the institution of slavery, in this nation, is an ulcer in the andy politic, and that since the great object of the Government, in its resort loarns, is the perpetuity and glory of our national being, it is a necessity forced upon the Government to conduct the war with a view to the eradication of this evil from every form of the national life.

Resolved, That in our judgment the recent successes of the national arms and the present waning proportions of the rebellion are practical endorsements of God upon those neasures which the Government has already adopted for the suppression of the rebellion.

AMERICAN WATCHES, South, and who is suspected by the violent Seces-bionists of Union proclivities: sionists of Union proclivities:

"Since my resignation of my seat as a member of the Ocigress of the United States, which occurred immediately upon the withdrawal of my colleagues, I have taken no active part in politics. I had often expressed my honest convictions, that the destruction of the Union would be followed by a long and bloody war, disastrous beyond precedent in its results to every section; and that the idea of dissolving the Union with the hope of reconstructing it on a basis more permanent and protective of the rights of the slave States, was faliacious and absurd. I compared the effort to accomplish such an impossibility, to the folly of taking the most delicate glass and crushing it to atoms in the vain hope of collecting the scattered fragments, and, by reuniting them, making the shattered vessel more comely and dufable than it was before. If was a strange delusion, without which the Union could not have been broken. I believed what I said of the impossibility of reconstruction. Time and events have deepened these convictions.

"I felt little comfort in the flippant assurances of sanguine orators, 'that the Yankees could not fight if they would, and would not if they could,' I knew the time was when they had fought, and I believed that, by collision with our brave troops, they would learn to do it again. In war, as in politics, it is unwise to underrate your adversary.

"The war, with all its assictive train of suffering, privation, and death, has served to eradicate all ides of reconstruction, even with those who made it the basis of their arguments in favor of disunion. There is no alternative left us. We are bound to take up this question now in all its bearings; and, after turning it over and over in our minds, and viewing it in every conceivable light, the conclusion is inevitable, that Maryland must be a free State. Men, who had examined the subject, came to the conclusion more than two years ago. They saw it coming. There is now a crist in our affairs, and if we are wise we will avail ourselves of it. We will assert our right as freemen to decide our destiny for ourselves. We will determine, now and forever, that free white men are not degraded, by manly toil, to a level with the slave, and that hereafter free labor shall consecrate our efforts, and bring down the blessings of God upon our people.

Fellowcitizens, a new era has dawned on Maryland. From the smoke and blood of a mighty war, waged to perpetuate human bondage, new principles have leaped into existence, fully armed a gereasive, have leaped before the power of a direful superfiction, now clearly see fast coming an act of God, & decree of liberty and progress for Maryland. The idea that slavery must be perpetual, or that millions of human beings should have no hope or re, age but in the grave, was one abhorent to him; and he held that in the confiscation act, and other measures, the Tebels got nothing more than their due. [Applatise.] I believe in fighting the devil with fire.

He had always held that slavery was an evil in Maryland, and to be got rid of when possible. There has been much said about a convention in Maryland upon the emancipation question, and one gentleman—Mr. Maffit—had argued against the slave exception. It was an "idle question," he said. Not also a tree was nothing peculiar about slave property that entitles it to exemption from discussion. Other species of property charged with having a demoralizing effect has heretofore been roughly handled in debate. The question of slavery in Maryland was, however, in his opinion, a dead one, and the law-makers of Maryland ought now to step over this dead carcass and come to live issues; see what disposition shall be made of fugitive slaves, and adapt our household to the new condition of things.
