BELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Gospel and Civilization. The London Times, which sets itself up as an oracle in the arts, politics, and international law, occasionally favors the world with its sage opinions in controversial theology. Recently it has seized upon the misfortunes of Dr. Livingstone, and made them the pretext of an argument against missions to the heathen. Its chief points are these: First, that the heathen are at our doors; second, that civiliza-tion must go before Obristianity, and prepare the way for it, as it did in the age of the sposifies. As to the first of these assumptions, a contemporary whrewdly and truthfully observes that nothing is more certain than that they who do most for the conversion of foreign heathen are the very persons who do most for heathen athome. We do not know whether this is true in England, where great efforts to con-vert foreign barbarians are usually coupled with some avariatous commercial scheme; but here in America the rule finds few if any exceptions. As to the plea that "civilization must precede Christianity," the Times assumes entirely too much, in asserting that the march of Christianity was facilitated in the apostolic ages by a forerunning civilization. Instead of this being true, as the re-cord proves, the wisdom of the Greeks was one of the greatest hindrances to its progress. The Roman emperous and proconsuls, who stodd at the head of civilized society and directed its acts, were bitterly opposed to Christianity, and persecuted its disciples with unrelenting, cruelty; and the testimony of Sorfptare on this point is that it was the loarned and wise of that day who "mocked" and denounced the new tidings as "foolishness," Nor is this to be wondered at, insamuch as what is popularly comprehended in the term "civilization"-a state of seclety always most highly attained in metropolitan life-and Christianity are exactly antipodal in their origin. The firstborn of the human race was a murderer, and Cain, it will be remembered, was the first who built a city ; so that the boasted civilization of to-day traces its legitimate pedigree back to a fratrioide who killed his brother because the latter saw fit to obey God in offering sacrifice, rather than " worship according to the dictates of his own conscience." The phrase here quoted, though popular now, and no doubt ap-propriate to the liberal civilization of the age, thus also traces its origin to the independent action of Cain-a faot which certainly does not add much attength to the argument of the Times.- The ways of the world-the fashionable, civilized world-and the ways of God have always been as different as the ways of Cain and the ways of Christ. Cain said, God could accept, that he chose to worship accord.

ing to the dictates of his own will. The Bible de-olares that "God is a spirit, and they that worship" Him must worship Him in spirit and truth." INTERESTING STATISTICS ABOUT OLERGYMEN'S CHILDREN.-The Rev. Dr. Brainerd, pastor of Pinestreet church, has a matter of fact way of dealing with plain subjects that is refreshing. It is a common saying—on the principle, we presume, that shoemsker's children wear the worst shoes—that elergymen's sons have the worst morals. On a recent Sunday morning, Dr. Brainerd took up this subject for examination in a sermion, in which he admitted that there was some excuse for the chil-dren of ministers appearing to throw discredit upon their parentage, as, for example, that a clergyman's work was such as to draw his attention from the conduct of his children ; that he was without secular mainess, and had, therefore, no ready occupation for his sons; usually poor, he had no capital to set them up; called to the sick-bed, and the house of mourning often, he was in danger of not meeting the demands of his children for cheerfulness and innocent mirth; besides all of which, he had his own cent mirith; besites all of which, he has the own is imperfections of temper and life, just as other mentative of the sections. It taught one and it is imperfections of temper and life, just as other mentative of the sections. and then, too, a minister's children were endangered. And then, too, a minister's children were in the public sye, and faults were noticed in them which would be forgotten or looked over in others. Yet, in spite of all this, Dr. Brainerd maintained that the sons of elergymen, above all others, were most likely to be plous, Goufearing men. Of some two hundred and iffy theological fellow students with himself, at Andover, Massachusetts, nine-tenths had, he said, been the children of plous parents; and he sumon of the families of clergymen in our own city to disprove the common charge above referred to. Two sons of the Rev. Dr. Smith, of the Western Church, a son of Dr. Duffield, a son of Dr. J. P. Wilson, of the First Church, and many others he ould name, were all to-day excellent clergymen. And where, he saked, would we go to find better laymen than the sons of Dr. Curvel, Rev. Albert Judson, Rev, James Patterson. imperfections of temper and life, just as other men seems to me to be worthy of record, particularly at the present time. At the moment when the Russian alery issued from the grandle entrance of the monastic state of the money issued from the grandle entrance of the monastic state of the money is a strength of the section with crosses, band, preseded by the bishop, went in front of the Greek elergy, blessed them a borts, with the cross, and preceded by the bishop, went in front of the Greek elergy, blessed them a drecrived their benediction in return, and prayed for the Emperor and for Russian is a. PRESSIVE CEREMONY-ADDRESSES BY RT. REV. SISHOPS POTTER AND STEVENS, AND REV. DR. DUGACHET.- Vesterday afternoon the remains of Rev. Jehu O. Clay, D. D., were interred in the old Swede's Burying Ground, Swanson street, with very affecting and appropriate ceremonies. The church where the obsequies were performed was crowded to suffocation, and hundreds of the friends of the deceased were obliged to go away in consequence of inability to get near the doors. The church yard likewise contained a large number of persons, and the services of the occasion were marked by the greatest solemoity and impressiveness.

The edifice was decorated with deep mourning, the clergy of the city attended in large numbers, and the aisles would not afford standing room. During the ceremonies, the sobs of the congregation, attested the veneration in which this venerable shepherd of the flock was held, and evinced the affliction which had been sustained by his death. With the history of Dr. Clay's life, our readers are familiar, for he has labored earnestly, zealously, and faithfully in this community during over half a century, and his name, venerated throughout the State, holds no small place among the most distinguished of the Protestant Episcopal clergy of the United States. Being the oldest clergyman of the Diocese, his demise created a profound feeling wherever heard, and no better evidence of his high standing among the Caging a Bird. David Bird, a resident of Norristown, was ar-raigned yesterday on the charge of aiding la procu-ring the extra assessment of Patrick Mullin, in the recent election. Mullin was arresied on the day of election, charged with voting, or attempting to vote, illegally. It seems that he stated that Bird told him if he got into trouble he (Bird) would see him out of it. Bird flow to Norristown after the elec-tion, but was arrested yesterday. He was bound over in the sum of $1,000 to answer at court.

Trying to Effect a Settlement. We have heard it stated that certain parties, pro-fessing to be Unionists, are slyly endeavoring to ef-fect a settlement of the case of Thomas Moran, charged with ballotbox stuffing. The main witness is Patrick Kerigan; but there is eaough evidence without him to satisfy the law. We understand that the energetic District Attorney of Philadelphia has expressed a desire to give the battalion of ballotbox stuffers a speedy trial. PHILADELPHIA BOARD OF, TRADE. CHARLES. At their con-clusion, Bishop Potter delivered an affecting ad-dress, referring, at the commencement, to the fact that but a short time ago he had assisted in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the steward-atin of Dr. Clay. Then were gathered around him a rejoicing flock, glad that he yet seemed full of life; hope, and vigor, by a happy family to whom he was heartily and eternally devoted, surrounded by his fellow-elergy; all looking forward for a con-tinuance of years of that honor, prosperity, and hap-piness, in which he passed his entire life. [Before United States Commissioner Heazlett.] An Alderman Charged with Passing Counterfeit Note.

An Alderman Charged with Passing a Counterfett Note. Aldermag James T. Harmer was arrested yester-day, by United States Deputy Marshal John Jen-kins, on the charge of passing a counterfeit fitty-dol-lar United States Treasury note. Mr. George Coffey appeared for the Government. Mr. Thomas J. Barger appeared as counsel for the defence. The facts of the case are interesting, and not a little amusing. It seems, according to the warrant of arrest, that James T. Harmer, one of the aldermen of the Second ward, is charged with passing, on the 20th of October, a counterfeit fifty-dollar note, pur-porting to be the issue of the United States Trea-sury. Some time previous to the election the de-fendant made a bet of fifty dollars with William Ulrick, of the Second ward, that Berks county would give a heavier majority for Woodward for Governor than Philadelphia would for Mr. Curtin. The money being two fifty-dollar treasury notes, was placed into the hands of Dr. O. E. Kamerly, member of Council from the Second ward. The election being over, and the official result of both counties having been proclaimed, Mr. Harmer called upon the stake-holder, and had an interview with him on the subject. "Well," said he to the Doctor, "I suppose I have lost fire bet?" "You have lost," replied the stake-holder. Mr. Harmer give a sort of long breathed sigh, and said, "Well, it's all right. Give me one of the $50 notes, and I'll give you twenty-fire twoe." "Catainly," replied the Doctor, who produced the two notes just as he had folded them when they were placed into his keeping. He received the twen-ty-five twos, and handed one of the notes to defend-ant, who, in a short time, took his departure. It was not long before he returned, and charged the Doctor with passing a counterfeit $50 note on him..." I did not," said the Doctor, somewhat warming Рип. Арк. ри. 14, 1863.
